

Sec. Thomas Studies Navy Ban on Youth

Hundreds Protest
Refusal to Award
Landy Commission

WASHINGTON (UP) — Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas said Saturday he personally will make a "full and impartial" investigation of the Navy's refusal to give a reserve commission to a U. S. Merchant Marine Academy honor graduate whose mother once was a "kaffee klatsch" Communist.

Thomas disclosed he had taken charge of the case as midshipman Eugene W. Landy, 21, sent a telegram to the Navy Bureau of Personnel "respectfully" requesting that it reconsider its refusal.

Landy, preparing at his Bradley Beach, N. J., home to sail as a seaman aboard a tanker today, said he still had not been notified formally by the Navy that a commission had been denied him. All he had to act upon, he said, was a verbal report by one of his instructors at the Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy that "your commission will not be forthcoming."

THE YOUTH GRADUATED second in a class of 95 midshipmen, Friday.

Senators, Congressmen and the mayor of Bradley Beach interceded in Landy's behalf and telegrams and telephone calls poured into his widowed mother's home.

All the messages supported him "100 per cent," he said.

Upon sending off his wire to the Navy Department, Landy said, "As it stands now, I might receive notification of my commission before I receive notification of the refusal."

Thomas, in undertaking a review of the case, said he had no advance opinions and that he would wait until he had heard "both sides" before reaching any decision. He said Landy's decision to appeal had no bearing on the review, that he would have studied the case anyway. Officials have said the Navy did not question Landy's own personal loyalty.

Storm Delays Mrs. Nesbitt's Arrival Here

Wayne Nesbitt and his German immigrant wife, Antonie Helen, who was almost deported by the Canadian government last week, failed to get together on their first wedding anniversary Saturday, but were scheduled to meet early this morning at International Airport in Los Angeles.

American and Canadian governmental red tape was cut in several directions last week to prevent Mrs. Nesbitt from being deported to her native Germany and she was allowed to cross over the Peace Bridge at Buffalo, N. Y., to get a plane to Los Angeles.

Her plane was to arrive at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, which would have had the couple re-united on their first wedding anniversary. However, the plane was forced down at Phoenix by storms in the area and was unable to take off until after midnight.

Her husband, who works as a technician at Veterans' Hospital here, went to meet 28-year-old Antonie at the airport.

Income Tax Quiz of Red 'Secret Angels' Called

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities has been armed with authority to examine income tax returns in a drive to uncover "secret angels" of the U. S. Communist Party.

An executive order issued by President Eisenhower Friday granted the authority which was requested by chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) two months ago. The committee has not had such powers since the days of the old Dies committee.

L.A.C. SAYS:

The Beautiful Boom

Two significant actions have been taken by the government during the past week. The Veterans Administration and FHA have increased down payment requirements on homes. They have also shortened the period for repayment of loans. The Federal Reserve Board has tightened up on credit for member banks. In the current Business Week magazine an editorial warns that we may be in a dangerous period of a "too beautiful boom."

It is a thought-provoking article. When business is booming it is a good time to be cautious. When business is in the doldrums it is safe to talk of great growth to come. It is then we need confidence and enthusiasm.

Uranium Prospector Slain in Claim Row

MOAB, Utah (UP) — Organization of vigilantes to "preserve law and order" was contemplated in Utah's uranium capital of Moab Saturday night after a bartender-prospector was murdered—possibly because of a dispute over a claim.

Thrice-married Ben Vandre, 39, was shot and killed while he crouched, pistol in hand, behind a pickup truck loaded with uranium-hunting equipment.

Sheriff John Stocks of Grand County said one "possible suspect" had been jailed but declined to release the man's name or reasons why he had been arrested.

Keith Barker, owner of the Wagon Wheel beer bar where Vandre worked in this southeastern Utah boom town, said "something will have to be done" to bolster law-enforcement in the area.

"THIS MURDER WAS too close to home," Barker declared. "Maybe we'll have to do like they did during the gold rush days—organize a vigilante committee to preserve law and order. But this is a modern day and we don't want to go back to 1875."

Stocks said that just before Vandre finished his night shift at the Wagon Wheel, he had an argument with two unidentified men. When Vandre left for his trailer-home, he told Barker that he expected trouble.

The sheriff said there was a possibility the argument, and the slaying, was connected with a summons that he recently served on Vandre. The action involved Vandre's sale of uranium claims to an exploration company—claims the sheriff said involved a question about the lack of title, a faulty title "or even claim jumping."

VANDRE APPARENTLY was preparing to go to bed in his trailer when he was called out. The sheriff said the shirtless bartender emerged, pistol in hand, and tried to hide behind his pickup which he had loaded with equipment for a weekend prospecting trip.

The slayer, using a pistol or rifle, fired a bullet that struck Vandre in the right side, passed through his chest and exited through his back.

Lake County sheriff's office reported John Bancho, 80-year-old retired rancher, was found dead shortly before 8 a. m. A bullet from a high-powered deer rifle struck him in the chest over the heart.

A second hunter was reported wounded in the stomach about 6:30 a. m. He was L. D. Hanks, 33, of San Pablo, Calif. He was hospitalized in St. Helena, where he was said to be in fair condition.

'Happy' Tops Tough Rival in Kentucky

Chandler Lead 9000
in Latest Count of
Seesawing Contest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Former Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, striving for a political comeback, and Bert T. Combs, a young mountaineer judge, were locked in a close battle Saturday night for Kentucky's Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Returns from 1,318 of the state's 4,074 precincts gave: Chandler 102,960; Combs 93,891.

Chandler had hopped off to an early lead, only to see it overtaken by Combs as a big batch of returns came in from Louisville. The former judge of Kentucky's highest court had strong regular organization backing in the metropolis. Nearly one half of the 3rd District (Louisville and Jefferson County) precincts were yet to be reported.

THE EX-SENATOR then regained a slight lead.

Chandler ran well, as expected, in northern Kentucky, opposite Cincinnati, and in some rural areas. However, the tabulations included no report from the 7th District of East Kentucky, Combs' home area.

A third candidate, Jesse N. R. Cecil, trailed badly. Some counties were not keeping a running tab on his votes.

The Chandler-Combs contest was one of the hottest in the history of Kentucky politics.

Former U. S. Dist. Atty. Edwin R. Denney 19,383 to 5,198 for James L. Clay, an attorney.

Denney was endorsed by John Sherman Cooper, ambassador to India and former Republican U. S. Senator from Kentucky.

State Rep. John Young Brown, former U. S. Representative who had lost to Cooper in 1946, trailed in his bid for Democratic nomination for a State Senate seat.

Brown, a sales-tax advocate who strongly backed Combs, who, however, didn't commit himself to any specific tax program, had 3,459 votes to 5,551 for John C. Angelle, a young lawyer, in the Lexington and Fayette County District with 43 of its 60 precincts counted.

Candidate Kicked and Slapped at Polls

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — Ollie Montgomery of Campbellsville, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, was roughed up at the polls Saturday.

Montgomery said he was slapped in the face and kicked in the side by an unidentified assailant. The candidate said he was talking to an organization worker when a man walked up to him and asked, "Who the hell are you?"

Then, after a few more words, Montgomery said, the man struck and kicked him.

He was taken to General Hospital, where his side was taped and he was released.

It'll Be 90 Again! Beach Jam Expected

More than 250,000 persons are expected to jam local beaches today as the largest crowd of the year after the weather bureau predicted another day of over 90-degree temperatures.

Throngs estimated by life guards at around 175,000 swelled on the sand Saturday. Guards made 10 rescues throughout the day, hauling 7 persons from Colorado Lagoon and 3 from Alamitos Bay.

A 57-year-old man collapsed in the noon-day heat while moving a lawn at 785 Raymond Ave. and was pronounced dead on arrival at Community Hospital.

THE VICTIM, Harold N. Nelson, 3322 E. 8th St., had been hired by Veronica Daly, of the Raymond Ave. address, who said she found him, slumped on the ground, 10 minutes after he began work.

'AVALON OR BUST' QUARTET GOES BUST

4 Marines Saved Trying to Paddle Raft Across Channel to Catalina

By BOB SANDERS

Four Marines learned the hard way Saturday that they weren't cut out to be sailors.

After 12 hours at sea, one of the Leathernecks came down with "exposure shakes" and his three buddies then decided to cancel their attempt to paddle across the Catalina channel in a rubber life raft.

The quartet checked out a 12-foot Navy raft from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station recreation department and set out about 4 a. m. to paddle their way from Newport Beach to Catalina Island.

"Everything went okay," said Sgt. Dave Johnson, 21, "until we hit the open water out of the channel. Then it started to get kind of choppy."

Johnson and his three companions, Cpl. Anthony Pesce, 20, Cpl. Gary Bear, 22, and his brother, Pfc. James Bear, 20, kept on paddling until 4:20 p.m.

Pesce then began to shake and complain about being cold.

"Since the rest of us were pretty warm," Johnson said, "we began to worry and decided to give it up."

THE COAST GUARD reported the raft was about 12 miles off

Hurricane Misses Populated Islands

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UP) — The weather bureau said late Saturday night Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands no longer are in danger from hurricane Connie.

The threat passed these U. S. islands an hour before midnight, the official report said.

The bureau bulletin said the eye of the hurricane, roaring across the open Atlantic north of here, had passed about 100 miles north of San Juan.

"Its movement is taking the center of the storm away from the islands," it said.

Huntington Beach at this time, position visible from the air.

Johnson said. No airplanes came over to see it, however.

About 4:30 the raft was sighted by the fishing vessel, Evac, out of Long Beach. Capt. Howard Miller picked the men up and towed the raft back to the City Yacht Anchorage here.

Clad in green fatigues and wearing sheathed hunting knives, the quartet, particularly Pesce, appeared somewhat saddened by their ordeal.

"About six more hours and we would have made it," Johnson said.

The whole thing was a "one last fling before discharge" affair, which the men said they cooked up about a week ago.

ASKED "WHY?" they replied, "We just wanted to go to Catalina for a weekend."

Asked if they wanted to try again, they replied with emphatic "noes," then as an afterthought one said, "Well, not this weekend, anyway."

The Bear brothers are scheduled for discharge Thursday, Pesce and Johnson, Friday.

As the Evac pulled into the yacht anchorage a voice on shore yelled out to the group of fishermen who had rented the ship for the day, "Did you do any good?"

"Naw," was the reply, "We were too busy rescuing people."

Yacht Racer Dies

HONOLULU, T. H. (UP) — Yachtsman J. A. Gurley, 60, of Newport Beach died Saturday of pneumonia contracted during lengthy exposure aboard the Sea-drift in the recent transpacific yacht race. Gurley was hospitalized Friday.

Fire Burns 175 Acres
Near Paso Robles

PASO ROBLES (UP) — Fanned by a hard wind, a brush fire estimated to cover 175 acres raged Saturday night despite the efforts of 70 fire fighters 20 miles north of here.

The fire started on the Jack ranch shortly after noon, covered 100 acres in an hour, and kept growing despite efforts of Monterey County and San Luis Obispo County firefighters who were called in to help.

2,500 SLATED
TO BE REWED
AT OLD CHURCH

NASHUA, Iowa (UP) — About 2,500 couples who were wed at the Little Brown Church in the Vale were expected to repeat their vows here today as part of the church's centennial observance.

The Rev. Glenn L. Utterback, pastor, said all of the more than 25,000 couples who have been married at the famous church have been invited back for the ceremony. About one-tenth are expected to be on hand, he said.

Sheriff's Men at Santa Ana Smash Gang

Scores of Armed Robberies Believed
Conducted by 'Mob'

By BOB BECKMAN

SANTA ANA—Jailing a Long Beach man as ring-leader and two others as suspected lieutenants, sheriff's investigators Saturday claimed breakup of an audacious robber band linked with a long series of Long Beach-area and Southland holdups.

Two of the men surrendered in response to a plea by the father of one of them.

Seized earlier were four other suspects. Another is hunted, believed to be the bandit who pistol-whipped Edward A. Allen of Los Alamitos so severely during a cafe holdup that 32 stitches were required to close head wounds.

THE THREE PLACED behind bars Saturday were Charles Bonds, 21, reputed bandit chief who gave his address as the Carmelitos housing area in Long Beach; Ray Pierce, 22, of 2364 Lewis Ave., Long Beach, and Andrew J. Ennenman, 22, of 6881 Watson St., Cypress.

Arrested earlier were Steve Hazzard, 25, of 6628 San Luis St., Compton; Ronald Rideout, 19, and Jack Broshear, 22, both of 3703 Fairman St., Lakewood, and Michael Johnson, 19, of Guthrie, Okla.

Sheriff's investigators Dan Rios and Barney McKown said the group has been "almost positively identified" in connection with nine recent Orange County armed robberies and is suspected "of a host more in both Orange and Los Angeles Counties."

CHIEF ON THE LIST OF crimes, Rios said, is the $3,000 robbery of Sam's Sea Food Spa. (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 3)

U.S. Soldiers Bayonet Three Korea Vets

SEOUL (Sunday) (UP) — U. S. soldiers guarding a Neutral Nations inspection team bayoneted three demonstrating Korean army veterans Saturday in Pusan. Korean government sources said today.

The inspection team was made up of Swedish, Swiss and Communist Czech and Polish members.

The three South Korean veterans were part of a crowd of 4,000 joining in nation-wide protests demanding the ouster of the Neutral Nations Security Commission.

The commission, which polices the Korean armistice, contains Communist, Czech and Polish members whom the Republic of Korea bitterly denounces as "Red spies."

There was no immediate confirmation from U. S. authorities. The source said the bayoneted men would require three or four weeks of treatment.

FBI to Take Girl Stowaway Off Destroyer Here Today

JOSELYN PILAPIL
On Unique Cruise

A pretty 16-year-old Hawaiian girl will arrive here today aboard the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan after stowing away on the vessel at Hilo, Hawaii, last Sunday.

Joselyn Joan Pilapil, discovered in a stern compartment when the destroyer was at sea, left a note for her mother saying "Bill wants to take care of me and the baby."

Her mother, Mrs. Gloria Pilapil, said she had seen no indications that her daughter was going to have a baby.

The mother said she didn't know Bill but understood he worked "on one of the ships."

The Athabaskan was scheduled to arrive at 10 a.m. today at the Navy net pier at the Terminal Island Naval Base.

A reception committee from the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Los Angeles office will be on hand to greet the girl.

But when there is full employment, a spiraling wage influence and mounting credits, it is a good time to wonder if it has reached the danger point. The people who take this attitude may not grow rich from inflation, but they will be hurt less if the bubble breaks.

Just how high the present boom can rise is anyone's guess. There are no definite standards on which we can judge the present boom. It is now far above what so-called experts thought it could go. But our unexpected increase in population has thrown out of gear many of the ideas we had before. The tremendous advancement of electronics has opened an entirely new field for industrial expansion. The people are spending and going into debt as never before. At the same time the total savings of the people are at an all-time high.

At present, costs of production and prices are substantially in balance. The new wage increases may be absorbed by manufacturers and retailers. If they are not, then greater efficiency must be had if prices are to remain the same. Unless unions guarantee greater efficiency with fewer lost hours, due to labor troubles, there will be no lowered labor costs. If there are not lowered labor costs per unit then higher prices must come.

It is apparent the government is taking steps to combat further inflation. Its success in this endeavor will largely depend on how the people react. It will be recalled how such steps were taken during the postwar years when goods were scarce. The government called for higher down payments and short pay-off periods on consumer goods. The actions the past week may be only a start on a program of changes in merchandising and production.

Such actions naturally face opposition from industry and business concerns, which have more goods to sell than there are customers. This is the big difference between 1946-49 and the present. The same methods may not achieve the same results. But it is apparent inflation is feared by the government. It is also feared by millions of people who have seen the value of the dollar cut in half during the past 15 years. That is the thought-provoking point made in Business Week. It should interest every wage earner and particularly every person living on a fixed income.—L.A.C.

FEUDING IN WEST VIRGINIA

Shotguns, Slabs, Fists Fly in Family Duel

PINEVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—It all started when the McMillons and the Browns ran into each other and decided to see "which one could get whipped." Their fists gave way to wood slabs and rocks and finally shotguns. There were two casualties on each side. That was Friday. The whole lot of them, 11 in all — seven McMillons, three Browns, plus an AWOL Marine—spent the night in Sheriff Paul Goode's Wyoming county jail. Saturday in Magistrate Jack Tizzino's court, each was fined $10 for "fighting." The hearing lasted three hours and drew 300 neighbors. The state agreed to drop felony charges—"shooting a gun across a state highway," after the families agreed to keep to their sides of the Jesse-Ravencliff Rd. They live about 200 yards apart, on either side of the road here in the mountains near the southern tip of West Virginia. All the Browns paid their fines and got out of jail.

GEORGE McMILLON, Floyd McMillon and Donald McMillon, 18, couldn't pay and had to stay in jail along with the Dove brothers, Carl, 22, and Oran, 20. They live with their grandpa, Bill, the 83-year-old head of the McMillon clan. Others of the feuders who got out, with approximate ages, included Alderson McMillon, 60; James Brown, 11; Homer McMillon, 40, and Geraldine McMillon, 22. Deputy Sheriff Dennis Acord Jr. told the judge Floyd McMillon had been drinking and apparently set off the fuse. "Carl Dove and Theodore Brown were standing in the road with Floyd," Acord said. "Floyd was egging them up to fight and see which one would get whipped. They started into it and everybody else came in." First they just used their fists, he said. Then they turned to wooden slabs left along the road from logging operations. Some threw rocks and there was a shotgun on each side of the road.

THEODORE BROWN, 23, and his 18-year-old wife were early casualties, each having been hit with shotgun pellets. Floyd McMillon had eight to 10 shotgun pellets under his skin.

NOT TOO PRACTICAL

FBI Called In and Frankster Called Out
BARABOO, Wis. (AP)—A practical joke at the Baraboo Ordnance Works resulted in damage to a powder-making machine, an investigation by the FBI and firing of the jokester—in that order. Officials wouldn't reveal the name of the prankster but said he decided to play a practical joke on a fellow employee by putting a 50-pound weight into a bucket of raw material to be dumped into the mixer. The mixture caused $1,000 damage to the machine, sabotage was suspected, the FBI investigated, the practical joker admitted his mistake... and was fired.

16278 S. Coast Hwy., Sunset Beach, last month. Rios said the gang apparently "moved into high gear" after striking at the Grove Sporting Goods Store in Garden Grove June 6. Five guns, all .38-caliber automatics, were taken. The guns were recovered in the mass arrest.

Moving from stickup to stickup without masks, the gang followed a busy schedule. Rios and his men were able to reconstruct the following:

June 9 — Armed robbery at Joe's Cafe in Stanton. Loot: $200.
June 10 — Armed robbery at Produce Market, Commonwealth and Dale Aves., Buena Park. Loot: $600.

June 30 — Armed robbery at Los Alamitos Airport Cafe, Los Alamitos. Loot: $120.

July 6 — Armed robbery at Young's Service Station, 18462 Huntington Beach Blvd., near Huntington Beach. Loot: $160.

July 28 — Armed robbery at Art and Vis Cafe, 5952 Westminster Blvd., Westminster. Loot: $142.

July 29 — In quick succession, armed robbery at Lincoln Drive in Theater, Cypress, in which $500 was taken; Gopher City Cafe, Moody St. at Orangeflake Ave., Cypress, in which $200 was taken.

July 30 — Taylor's Automobile Works, 6551 Westminster Blvd., Westminster. Loot: $142.

RIOS SAID THAT BONDS, Pierce and Enneman apparently spent the past week in Arizona "lying low."

Meanwhile, authorities in both counties were closing the ring of evidence. Rios said officers talked to Enneman's father, Joe, an El Monte dairyman. The older Enneman promised to "bring my son to you" when he saw him again.

Saturday noon, young Enneman, Pierce and Bonds appeared at the Enneman farm. Enneman listened to his father's plea to give himself up and agreed it was a good idea. Bonds was convinced too. The pair was brought to the sheriff's station here by the worried father.

PIERCE, WHO HAD refused to accompany his buddies, was arrested shortly afterward at the dairy farm. Although three through his body and lodged in the plywood trailer.

Friends said Vandre, who had lived in Moab for a year, had twice been married to Margie Jones in Moab, but they recently separated again. He also reportedly had a former wife and two children in Salt Lake City.

It was the first fatal shooting since the uranium rush started a few years ago to the Colorado Plateau, which now ranks second only to the Belgian Congo in production of uranium for the Western world's nuclear arsenal.

Jail Escapee Shot, Arrested in Texas

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Carroll McKinney, an escaped fugitive from the Glenwood Springs, Colo., jail, was wounded and under heavy guard Saturday night in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Capt. C. E. Travis of the Potter County sheriff's department said McKinney, 20, told officers he was shot accidentally by two companions. He was dumped out in front of the hospital with wounds in the left shoulder and forearm.

Russ Fleet Reported Off Norway Coast

TROMSOE, Norway (AP)—A Soviet fleet was sighted off the coast of Northern Norway Saturday.

A British trawler which arrived at the port of Vardoe reported that it had observed several Soviet naval units, including light and heavy cruisers, four destroyers and a great number of smaller and faster vessels immediately before the trawler left the fishing banks off the coast of Finland.

The master of the trawler also said that a large fleet of Soviet Russian trawlers took part in the fishing off the Finland banks.

In Oslo, military authorities did not put any special significance in the reports from Tromsø. They said the Russians normally would start their naval maneuvers in the Arctic Sea at this time of year and that they had a right to do so.

Russia Sweet and Sour on Relations With West

By RICHARD R. KASSISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—There was a tinge of bitterness in Soviet relations with the West Saturday. Western ambassadors were preparing to accept the invitation of Premier Nikolai Bulganin to visit his country villa Sunday and bring the wives and kiddies for an afternoon luncheon, swimming and romping on the grass.

But meantime the Soviet press and Tass took up again a flurry over the Soviet attitude toward President Eisenhower's blueprint plan for arms inspection. The premier was quoted as telling the Supreme Soviet (parliament) that some foreign newspapers "are trying quite wrongly to make it seem as if the Soviet government was rejecting" Eisenhower's proposals, made July 21 at the Geneva summit conference.

In the Supreme Soviet session at the Kremlin, translators appeared to understand Bulganin to say "the foreign press misunderstood" his references Thursday to the Eisenhower plan as a Soviet rejection.

THE SOVIET LEADERS also were apparently distressed to learn that Western reporters in the Kremlin galleries recorded the fact parliament members laughed when Bulganin said both the United States and Soviet Russia "comprise vast areas on which, if it were desired, one could hide anything one wanted to." Aerial photography of military installations, as proposed by Eisenhower, "cannot provide the expected results," Bulganin said he told the United States in the Geneva talks.

Laughter is rare in the Kremlin. And Eisenhower's quick comeback in a news conference in Washington Thursday—when he said he did not think the Soviet Union had closed the doors on the U. S. disarmament proposals—apparently awakened the Soviet chiefs to the alertness of world opinion on such a delicate subject as disarmament, which is no laughing matter. The U. S. Embassy said Ambassador Charles F. Bohlen planned to attend Bulganin's Sunday party, taking Mrs. Bohlen and their oldest daughter, C. C. Parrott, British charge d'affaires, plans to take his family. Virtually everybody else invited on an ambassadorial or ministerial level is going. Westerners noted, meantime, the velvet carpet treatment for two groups of Yugoslavs now touring the country. A Yugoslav parliamentary delegation is getting the best of everything.

Hundreds Die in Red Prison, Say Returnees

VOESLAU, Austria (AP)—Seventy-three Austrian prisoners sent home by the Russians Saturday reported hundreds of slave laborers were killed in a fight with Soviet troops last year.

The Austrians said the clashes occurred in camps of the Karaganda region of Central Asia after thousands of the laborers, including Russians, rioted against living conditions they deemed unbearable. The laborers were reported finally beaten by Soviet tanks and guns.

The returning Austrians also said the Russians are speeding up preparations for the release of most of their German and Japanese prisoners.

Pony Takes Bite of Flowers Held by British Queen

BRECON, Wales (AP)—A committee of loyal Welshmen, bowing low, gave visiting Queen Elizabeth a gorgeous bouquet of carnations and jasmine Saturday. A 9-year-old pony named Owain Glyndwr reached over and took a bite out of the flowers, which the Queen held in the bend of her elbow.

The Queen didn't seem to be alarmed and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, walked over and rubbed Owain Glyndwr's ears to be uncomfortable.

Russia Aims for Tourists ---Bulganin

MOSCOW (AP)—Tourists—the foreign kind—have become front-page news in the Soviet Union for the first time since World War II. Premier Nikolai Bulganin told the Supreme Soviet this week he personally is going to promote the tourist business in the interest of East-West relations.

Boatmen OK $40 a Ton Cut in Tuna Price

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

SAN PEDRO—Owners of purse seine boats here Saturday agreed to take a $40 per ton cut in tuna prices, but the issue remained in doubt with other elements of the harbor's troubled fishing fleet.

Mason Case, manager of the San Pedro Fishermen's Cooperative Assn., that represents the 150 purse seine boats said the price was agreed to "reluctantly" at a meeting of the boat owners Saturday afternoon.

This decision, however, far from settles the purse seine fleet's tuna problem since at least one of the two unions whose men work on the boats appeared reluctant to accept wages based on the lower prices.

"We just can't make a living that way," stated Anthony Sokolich, secretary of the ILWU fishermen's union. "It would mean that our men are taking a $450 per trip cut since last year. That's too big a nut to crack. We have a contract effective until Jan. 1 and we expect it to remain in force."

MEANWHILE OPERATORS of hundreds of small troll boats that fish for albacore met Saturday night without reaching a decision.

Peter Repovich, head of the California Commercial Fisherman's Assn., which represents the troll boat operators in this area, said most of the members will journey to San Diego today for a mass meeting of all the Southern California albacore fishermen.

Case was pessimistic about the chances of many of the purse fleet sailing in the near future.

"We were forced into accepting the price cut by other segments of the industry," said Case, apparently referring to a settlement by boat operators in San Diego earlier in the week.

"It is doubtful if many of our men can continue to make a living under the new price structure."

CASE AND REPOVICH bitterly assailed the State Department for its opposition to efforts to impose a quota on the flood of Japanese tuna that is cutting into the American fishermen's market and causing the price cuts.

Repovich said the cannery were not giving his men a "fair shake," under the impression that they are not well organized.

"They want us to sell our fish for less than yellow fin, considering the better yield and quality of our product."

He said the albacore fishermen were considering the possibility of taking "legal steps" against the U. S. government but would not elaborate on this.

Fishing Derby to Open Week-Long Aqua Show

JUNIOR CHAMP

Recent winner of Pacific Coast junior skiing championship, Chucky Stearns, 16, of Long Beach, has entered Aqua Fair competition slated here Friday through Sunday. Chucky set a record in leap of 77 feet 6 inches at Seattle last week end.

Long Beach will become the water sports capital of the Southland on the second annual Aqua Fair this week, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Spectacular events, in which sportsmen of all ages and from all areas of Southern California will participate, will include a fishing derby, water ski races, sailing regattas, model boat competition, diving meet, water ski shows and an outboard motor race. Events will be free to the public.

The schedule:

TODAY
12:01 a.m. to 8 p.m.—King Neptune Fishing Derby in the Pacific Ocean. Anglers leave from Pierpoint Sport Fishing Landing.

9:30 a.m.—30-mile Water Ski Race over beachfront waters between Magnolia and Belmont Piers.

1 p.m.—Foam Cutters Sailing Regatta of the Little Ships Fleet on harbor waters between Pier A and breakwater.

WEDNESDAY
All Day Event—Model boat sailing competition for youngsters of all ages at Colorado Lagoon.

FRIDAY
All Day Event—International Championship Regatta for Penguin Class Dinghies on beachfront waters between Alamitos Bay jetties and breakwater.

All Day Event—Southern California Water Ski Championships in Marine Stadium.

7 p.m.—City-wide diving meet at Wilson High School. Special exhibitions to feature champion divers from the Southland.

SATURDAY
All Day Event—International championship Regatta for Penguin Class Dinghies on beachfront waters.

All Day Event—Southern California Water Ski Championships in Marine Stadium.

2 p.m.—Water Ski Show in Marine Stadium.

SUNDAY, AUG. 14
All Day Event—Southern California Water Ski Championships in Marine Stadium.

10 a.m.—Penguin Class Dinghies non-travelers race on ocean-front waters.

10 a.m. to 3 p.m.—Outboard Boating Race on beach front waters.

2 p.m.—Water Ski Show in Marine Stadium.

Food Preservation

CHICAGO (UP)—Argonne National Laboratory Saturday began experiments to determine the feasibility of preserving food by bombarding it with radioactive gamma rays.

The facility uses highly radioactive uranium fuel elements. One of the first users of the new facility will be the army quartermaster corps.

Boat Loses Prop, Pair Drift Hour

A Long Beach man and his companion floated helplessly Saturday evening in their disabled 20-foot speedboat in the Los Angeles River Flood Control Channel for nearly an hour before their rescue by a passing craft.

Nelson Thomas, 39, of 170 Gordon St., told authorities he bought the boat Wednesday for $2,000 and decided to give it a "speed test" Saturday in the channel.

With him was a friend, Hans Haller, 43, of Los Angeles.

The boat, traveling at a "pretty good clip," hit shallow water south of Sixth St., scraping over a submerged mud bank which tore off the propeller and caused a bad leak around the shaft housing.

The two men used a wadded up shirt to slow the leak.

They drifted in the channel until Joe Pelayo, 18, of Los Angeles, in his 12-foot outboard motor boat, the Nutshell, happened by and towed them back to the Golden Ave. boat launching ramp.

Whittier Wife Killed, Husband Hurt in Crash

NORWALK—A Whittier woman was killed and her husband critically injured Saturday afternoon when their car collided with another auto at Artesia Blvd. and Carmenita Rd.

Mrs. Christine Petty, 54, of 13239 Leffingwell Rd., was dead on arrival at Carobol Hospital. Her husband, Charles A. Petty, 56, suffered grave internal injuries.

California Highway Patrol officers said the car driven by Petty collided with one operated by Wayne W. Stevens, 31, of 330 Cummings Lane, Long Beach. Stevens was treated for contusions and abrasions.

Governors to Confer on Road Safety

CHICAGO (UP) — Highway safety and problems of road-building are expected to highlight discussions at the 47th annual governors' conference opening here Tuesday.

At the latest count 46 state governors—25 Democrats and 21 Republicans—are scheduled to attend, along with the governors of Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

Aides said Democratic Govs. Orville Friesman of Minnesota and Hugh White of Mississippi definitely will not attend. Republican Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts is scheduled to attend, but may be held by a legislative session.

Conference officials had hoped President Eisenhower would be able to come to address the meeting on Thursday, but the Chief Executive said he had no plans to make the trip.

Chief item on the agenda will be a discussion of highway safety.

Esperanto Appeal

BOLOGNA, Italy (UP) — The world's Esperanto enthusiasts appealed to all governments Saturday to teach the international language in their schools. The appeal came on a motion passed by the Esperanto congress meeting here. It was backed by 1,700 delegates from 36 nations.

HAPPY'S OPPONENT CASTS BALLOT

Bert T. Combs, candidate for Democratic nomination in Kentucky gubernatorial race, drops ballot into box Saturday at Prestonsburg, Ky., his home town. His wife casts vote too. Combs is opposing A. B. (Happy) Chandler for the nomination. — (AP Wirephoto)

Sweet Adelines Slate Songfest Here Sept. 10

LONG BEACH—When they open their mouths, these girls mean melody and the "Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc."

The Sweet Adelines, Inc., of Long Beach, comprising 38 harmony-minded lassies, will be playing hostess at the Lafayette Hotel Sept. 10 for the South-Western District Region 11 Convention of Adelines.

Choral groups from Phoenix and Tucson will compete in a tonsil-tattle with such California groups as San Diego, Bakersfield, Downey, Pasadena, Arcadia and Riverside.

"DARK HORSE" winner of the first event, held last year, which makes them ineligible to compete this year, the local chorus is under the direction of Bob Moffitt, one of the original Gaylords of the popular men's quartet, who has much radio, television, vaudeville and movie experience.

As hostess chapter, the Long Beach Sweet Adelines will have Georgia Orman of Santa Monica as mistress of ceremonies for programs to be held at Poly High School, where sing-offs will begin at 8 p.m.

HEADQUARTERS will be the Lafayette Hotel for general meetings, with a Saturday night banquet and a Sunday morning breakfast for all participants, according to Mrs. Iris Hult of Lomita, press chairman for the group.

Guest artists to appear on the program are "The Four Bits of Harmony," "The Crown City Four," and other top talent.

Members from Lomita are Mmes. Mimi Blakesley, Winoni Tait, Iris Hult, Gazella Scott, Fern McCann, Charlotte Warren and Elva Decker, Wilmingtonites are Sylvia Shideler and Olea Brown.

U.S. Plans to Save Boston-Area Shrines

WASHINGTON (UP) — The federal government will begin a study soon to determine whether to launch a program to preserve outstanding historic shrines in and around Boston.

The first step will be for a seven-man group, to be known as the Boston Historic Sites Commission, to start cataloging important sites. Members of the commission still are to be chosen.

Hunt for Sutton Informer Killer Leads to Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, (UP) — A three-year global search for the slayer of the Brooklyn, N. Y., pants salesman who "fingered" bank robber Willie (The Actor) Sutton centered on Australia Saturday with a report that the "key" man in the case has taken refuge in the Sydney underworld.

Special detectives, prepared to cope with a dangerous criminal, searched for a warthy, scar-faced, heavily-armed waterfront hoodlum believed to be John (Chappy) Mazziotta, 39, described by New York police as their city's "No. 1 criminal." Mazziotta is wanted in the still unsolved slaying of 24-year-old Arnold Schuster, who was shot down from ambush on a sidewalk near his Brooklyn home March 8, 1952, 10 days after he had tipped police off to Sutton's whereabouts. Sutton was in jail the night Schuster was killed and disclaimed any knowledge of the slaying.

But police, after a thorough investigation, determined that Mazziotta was the last man known to have handled the stolen .38 caliber army revolver that killed Schuster. "If Mazziotta didn't kill Schuster, he knows who did," one New York detective said. Shortly after police put Mazziotta's name at the top of their suspect list, they began a global search for him. More than 60,000 circulars were sent to police throughout the world in the spring of 1952. An additional 40,000 were circulated in the summer of 1953.

CON STARTS ALARM BY SLEEPING

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A sleepy prisoner caused a false escape alarm at the state prison Friday night. The alarm was broadcast when 22-year-old Emmett Hickley of Fallon failed to report for the customary bed check. But it developed that Hickley already had fallen asleep—out in the prison yard.

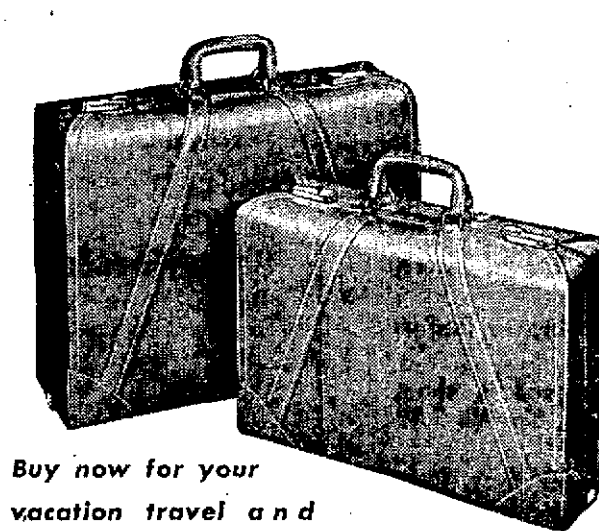

Space Flights Reality, Says Science Group Head

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—Everybody has stopped kidding about space flights, the American president of the Sixth International Astronautical Congress said Saturday. "This is the first time I have attended an astronautical congress without reporters asking 'What do you think of flying saucers?'" said Frederick Durant III, a rocket researcher and executive with the Cambridge, Mass., firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc. Durant said this absence of flying saucer ribbing and jocular references to space men in general gratifies him. Durant said this is proof that the public now takes space flight plans seriously and no longer regards them as on the level of science fiction. He said Massachusetts Institute of Technology is even carrying in its fall catalog history's first listing of a special course in "orbital vehicles." Durant said "tremendous development has already started, first of all boosted by President Eisenhower's recent announce-ment of the satellite project, but then by this congress." "It has meant a great step forward and certainly has been the most successful so far in the history of the federation," he said. The congress ended Saturday. Besides MIT, space flight research is being carried out at California Institute of Technology, Princeton University's Forrestal research center, Purdue University, and "a great many other universities," Durant said. The satellite project would progress in research on astro-nautics. service" program with Army, Navy and Air Force participating, he said. "A very important thing," he added, "is the clear statement from Washington that technical information about the satellite itself, as well as of its orbital path, will be released in sufficient time to all those interested in the orbital program." Russia's Prof. Leonid Ivanovich Sedov of the University of Moscow agreed with Durant that the coming years would see swift progress in research on astro-nautics.

Escapes Under Shade, Now Fights Extradition

DOTHAN, Ala. (AP)—Probably the only prisoner to escape a prison work gang by sitting under a shade tree is fighting extradition from his jail cell at Dothan.

John Lloyd Bedsole, 34, of Dothan, says he didn't escape from a group of prisoners repairing a Florida highway. He says Florida authorities lost their jurisdiction over him when the prisoners crossed briefly over into Alabama.

Bedsole, serving a six-month sentence for highway drunkenness, said the guards worked the group of prisoners up to the Alabama line and called a rest period. They selected a shade tree which happened to be just across the state line.

When the rest period was up, Bedsole refused to budge. He told the guards they couldn't touch him.

The guards notified County Commissioner T. W. Patrick of Malone, Fla., who threatened to charge Bedsole with theft of his prison uniform if he didn't return.

Bedsole said the only thing he had that belonged to Florida was his shoes. He tossed them across the state line. The guards didn't take Bedsole back.

Baby Picket Action Fails

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—A "diaper" picket line of 500 babies appeared Saturday to have failed in its attempt to keep a favorite doctor from leaving here.

Directors of Grandview Clinic declined to release Dr. Everett Gustafson from a contract clause which prohibits him from practicing here within three years of his resignation. He resigned July 1.

A number of babies, aged 1 to 3, carried signs in a picket line Thursday, advertising that "We Want Gus" and "Clinic Unfair to Dr. Gus."

Mothers who signed a petition indicated they would let the matter drop.

CITY OFFICIAL SHOWS UP IN SHORTS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jasper R. Vettori, first associate prosecuting attorney emboldened by an official plug for Bermuda shorts, showed up in a pair of them today at his office.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker recently suggested to the police chief that traffic policemen be outfitted with Bermuda shorts for summer duty—a proposal most of the traffic cops gave a cool reception.

Vettori, resplendent in shorts and colorful sports shirt, explained his attire by saying it was hot and "the police department wanted some public official to break the ice."

Police Quiz Abbott Again on Slaying

OAKLAND (AP)—Berkeley police briefly resumed their questioning of Burton Abbott Saturday but refused to tell what information they were seeking.

Charles O'Meara, Berkeley police inspector, said only that "I talked to him for half an hour but he refused to tell me what I wanted to know. It was strictly a one-way conversation. He said his attorneys had told him to answer no questions."

Abbott, a 27-year-old University of California student, is charged with kidnapping and murdering Stephanie Bryant, 14.

Flood Hits Albuquerque; 500 Homeless

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A one-inch downpour sent flash floods "running through the windows" of homes in northeast Albuquerque Saturday for the fourth time in 10 days.

Police said Saturday's floods were the worst of the series. Some 500 persons or more were chased from their homes.

The raging floodwater boiled down from the nearby Sandia Mountains, swept down Bear Canyon and then poured a half-mile wide route through residential areas for some two miles.

One whole section of about 15 square blocks was isolated as city authorities called out personnel from two military bases.

EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT NOW
Holly McMenamin, 6, gives her mother, Mrs. J. Thomas Taggart, a big hug Saturday after Holly flew to Oklahoma City from Philadelphia. The girl has been the object of a bitter court fight between her mother and father, James McMenamin, who are divorced. After Holly was taken to Philadelphia last Wednesday by her father, a charge of child-stealing was filed against him, but officials later said the charge would be dropped.—(AP Wirephoto)

Buried Gold Stirs Two Texas Cities

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) —Police officials in at least two Texas cities alerted squads Saturday night to prevent possible digging for buried gold in a cemetery and a churchyard.

There was no sign of treasure hunters after an aged Mexican spinster in California disclosed details of where Pancho Villa, the Mexican revolutionary leader and bandit, supposedly buried $1,500,000 worth of gold coins in Texas.

She named an old cemetery at Corpus Christi, "beside a high wall" that runs around a church in San Antonio, areas around Robstown and Roma, Tex., and on a ranch near a town she called Cienita. There is no Cienita, Tex., listed.

The woman is Dolores Vasquez, 76, who lives at Brawley, Calif., near El Centro. She said she was a nurse in Villa's army.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S office at El Centro took a deposition from the elderly woman.

She said one cache is in "the oldest cemetery in Corpus Christi." There is a cemetery there known as Old Bayview which dates back to Civil War days.

Corpus Christi police kept a patrol car cruising in the area of the old cemetery. San Antonio police also were alerted but said there was no rush to dig yet.

Policeman Routs 3 Youths Who Attacked Him in Alley

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A young rookie policeman proved too fast on the draw Saturday for three beer-drinking youths who attacked him in a dark alley without provocation.

The patrolman, 23-year-old John J. Lynch, was attacked by three youths who had been drinking beer in Lansing taverns for more than three hours.

As Lynch was rushed by the three, he drew his service pistol and felled two of them with bullets. The third ran but was soon caught.

The patrolman's third attacker was identified as a soldier, Donald R. Melton, a cousin of Morris Melton who was home on furlough. The soldier fled the scene but was arrested later. He had been shot through the left forearm.

The soldier said that he and

Guild Hopes Early End of TV Dispute

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Screen Actors Guild said Saturday it hopes that producers of most television filmed shows would agree to confer early this week to settle the strike by 10,000 guild members.

The members went on strike early Friday against the producers mainly over payment to actors of second showings of TV films in which they appear.

Fire Damages Barn of Supervisor's Son

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fire Saturday caused damage estimated at $25,000 to a dairy barn at the Roger Jessup farms.

Vincent Jessup, dairy manager, said the fire flared up in the attic of the main barn and destroyed the roof. Jessup is the son of County Supervisor Roger W. Jessup, owner of the dairy.

Patrol Car Victim

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — Lloyd E. Milano, 18, an employee of San Rafael Ferry, was killed early Saturday by a California Highway Patrol car which was hurrying to the scene of an accident.

Patrolman Adolpho Siri, 34, said he was unable to avoid hitting Milano, who ran in front of his vehicle.

Will Susan Learn to Read?

Sight-Sound System Supported in Survey

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP News Features Writer

This fall another tremendous crop of youngsters—some 3,600,000—will be planted in the nation's first grade.

In no time at all, they are sure, they will be able to read.

But all over the country there are critics who insist they won't.

They say that modern reading theories are on the wrong track, that other basic studies have been neglected and that the high school graduate of today is far behind graduates of 30 years ago.

A few sample criticisms:

A New York editor: "My nephew's a smart boy, a high school graduate with two years

G-H-O-T-I SPELLS FISH? YES, MA'AM

George Bernard Shaw was a caustic critic of spelling absurdities in the English language. He once announced that "fish" could be spelled g-h-o-t-i.

Here is how the great author's reasoning went:

Pronounce the "gh" as in "enough," the "o" as in "women," the "t" as in "nation."

And fish it is.

in the Coast Guard. I wish you could have seen the letter he wrote me. Good Lord, he's illiterate!"

An electronics supervisor: "We had a skyrocket here. I mean, he was one of the best. But on written reports he couldn't spell the simplest words. Take 'electronic engineer,' which is what he is. I suppose it's too much to expect him to spell 'electronic,' but wouldn't you think a college man could spell 'engineer'?"

Mostly today's criticism seems to center about the way reading is, or isn't, taught.

As one parent puts it: "Show me a child a strange word, and even though it's a simple one, she has no idea how to pronounce it. We haven't had that word yet," she says.

THIS YEAR more than 10 billion dollars will be spent on elementary and high school education in this country.

Are we getting our money's worth. Or is this a pedagogical swindle in which we are alarmingly short-changed?

To get some answers, Associated Press reporters have interviewed college presidents, psychologists, grade school teachers, parents, remedial reading instructors and assorted experts from coast to coast.

Their opinions on today's schools vary from "terrible" to "splendid." But the majority from such cities as Chicago, Atlanta, Denver, Louisville, Seattle and a dozen others—insists that today's youngsters read better, and understand much more, than their parents did.

To get an idea of the school's viewpoint, let's take the case of Susan, a going-on-6-year-old resident of Fairfax County, Va.

Susan has merry blue eyes, a pony tail and two missing front teeth. She can hang by her knees, sing all the verses of "Davy Crockett" and print her name either S-U-S-A-N or N-A-S-U-S. "Sometimes I print it backwards," she explains, "because I like it better that way."

Fairfax is a rural, part metropolitan county across the river from Washington. It appears to have a typical school system with all the current problems: overcrowding, difficulty in finding topflight teachers and a constantly shifting population. Like most schools today, it tries to steer a course between the progressive and a fundamental styles of instruction.

WHAT'S IN STORE for bright-eyed Susan?

How quickly she starts to read will depend on what educators call "reading readiness." They compare this with learning to walk. Some learn to walk at 11 months and others at 20 months, but the early walker won't necessarily be the better one.

Right off, we run into criticism. Some contend that this is a scholastic boondoggle, that a child goes to school to learn to read, so why not cut out the pretty blocks stuff and start teaching him?

But E. M. Day, for 29 years a teacher and elementary school principal in Fairfax, insists that hurrying a child in his reading can be a major blunder.

"Time after time," he says, "we find that a youngster has been forced to read too soon. He gets off on the wrong foot and becomes discouraged. I'd say it is one of the main reasons for failure."

It will take a series of tests to show when Susan is ready to read.

Is she ready physically? Has she seen, heard and done things that will give her a better understanding of the words she is given? Can she follow directions?

If the answer to these and similar questions is yes, she soon should have a reading vocabulary of 50 or more words, words she can see and recognize.

By this time she should have caught on to the fact that letters and sounds often go together, that "Susan" and "she" both begin with an "s." Susan now is ready for a more serious application of phonics, or speech sounds, and we are ready to look at one of the bitterest disputes in the whole reading problem.

A HUGELY VOCAL school of thought insists that phonics should be stressed far more in teaching children to read.

Its most recent spokesman has been Dr. Rudolf Flesch, author of "Why Johnny Can't Read." Said Flesch:

"The teaching of reading—all over the United States, in all the schools, in all textbooks—is totally wrong and flies in the face of all logic and common sense."

To this the educators, almost to a man, not only cry, "Not guilty!" but in return accuse Flesch of misrepresenting the facts.

Far from ignoring phonics, teachers say they are an essential part of every school reading program right now.

About a century ago a shift was made in teaching reading. Children were given phonograms, or combinations of letters like "th," "ck," "st," "ba," "ca," "da," to sound out. Often many weeks would be spent in drilling on those unrelated phonograms before any serious attempt was made to teach reading.

But once the reading began, it was thought, the child would go more rapidly. If he hit a strange word, all he had to do was to sound it out.

Almost everyone in this country who is more than 35 years old was trained under this system.

In the 1920s it was decided sounding out words made slow readers, often readers who did not comprehend what they read.

So educators began turning to sight reading, or if you prefer Flesch's viewpoint, "word guessing."

Here the children were introduced gradually to 50 or 100 basic words, to be recognized on sight, before any training in phonics was given.

Under this system, it was believed, a youngster would read faster, and would more readily pick up a strange word from its context in the sentence.

Some schoolmen say it may be that sight reading was carried too far. But now, they say, nearly all schools use a blend of phonics and sight reading.

BUT WHY NOT stress phonics? Suppose the youngsters do read more slowly, wouldn't they be more sure of themselves? And wouldn't they spell better?

Most educators say no. And high on their list of reasons is the disorderly English language itself.

Its words are a glorious hodgepodge of Teutonic, Latin, Greek and heaven knows what origin.

Anyone trying to walk the straight phonetic line soon runs into words pronounced alike and spelled differently: "there" and "their," "one" and "won," "to," "two" and "too."

In the major school systems checked by the Associated Press, all schools use the same ingredients, phonics and sight reading. The difference is in how much of each ingredient is put in—and when.

The Los Angeles recipe, as given by Ellis Jarvis, deputy superintendent:

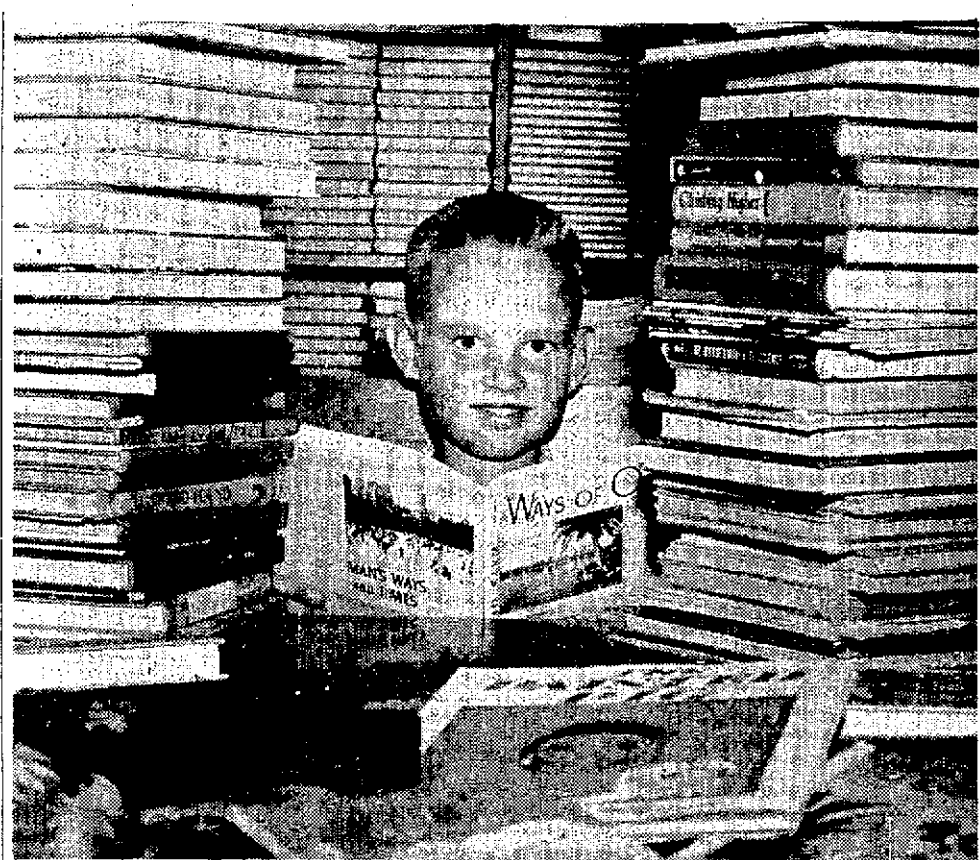

"Reading is taught by a sight-phonetic method. However, we feel that phonetics is merely a tool in the teaching of reading. The sight method receives the emphasis, although both are used."

"Boston," says its superintendent, Dennis C. Haley, "basically follows the phonetic system, with some sight thrown in when it is felt it can be used. Certain words can be grasped by sight, but the fundamental method is the traditional phonetic."

All these disputes, though, fly far over the heads of Susan and her 3,595,999 fellow first graders.

If all goes well, at the end of the school year Susan should be figuring out words for herself.

Not all children will do so well. Many will have trouble in the first grade. Others—and Susan

BILLY'S HERE SOMEWHERE

Bill Johnston, 9, of 1933 Fandwood Ave. eyes some of the books he'll read next school year as a fourth grader at Minnie Gant School. Long Beach Unified School District, Supt. Douglas A. Newcomb reports, stresses both phonetics and sight reading in its "middle course" program. "Reading is the most important of the basic skills," Newcomb says. "That is the reason we emphasize mastery of reading skills in our schools."—(Staff Photo) may be among them—will falter along about the fourth grade. Some will show weaknesses when they reach high school, others even in college.

CRITICS OF TODAY'S SCHOOLS point to these failures as evidence that training in fundamentals, and particularly in reading, is inadequate. Many of them believe the schools did the job better in the good old days.

"The schools ain't what they used to be," Will Rogers once said, "and probably never was."

Defenders of the present system agree with Rogers. They say it's easy to forget that a generation ago only the better students finished high school.

The National Education Assn. says:

"Many studies show that the present-day groups, average as high, and usually higher, on the same tests given at the same grade levels as the pupils of 30 or more years ago."

Yet there are failures, and some dismal ones.

Because Fairfax County has its share, a special remedial reading program has been set up under the chairmanship of Juanita S. Murrow.

Take the baffling case of Johnny.

"He has uphucked every single morning," Mrs. Murrow said. "I don't know what the problem is. I do know that even over the phone his mother appears strained and worried."

"Obviously this is too much for us to solve. I don't know whether he can't read because he's disturbed mentally, or whether he uphucks because he isn't able to read."

THIS BRINGS US to a curious fact: Far more boys than girls have trouble reading.

"In my remedial reading classes this summer," Mrs. Murrow said, "I had 28 boys and only two girls. I don't know why. Certainly little boys are as smart, maybe smarter, than little girls. But they have so many important things to take care of. They just don't have time to fool around with reading."

Nearly every expert, and almost every teacher, stresses the part the home plays in helping, or hindering, a child in learning to read.

Many experts say children who are read to regularly, in homes where reading is a part of daily living, rarely have trouble.

How many reading failures are there? No one knows for sure. A Chicago high school principal estimates that 15 per cent of his freshmen are deficient in reading and spelling. Dr. Clanton Williams, academic vice president of the University of Illinois, which has an enrollment of 14,000, says between 300 and 500 freshmen show up needing remedial reading.

The reasons according to Williams: "The no-phonics fad swept the country about 15 years ago, but the older and wiser heads went back to phonics long ago. The evil that exists now in colleges is the fruition of the evil that existed in elementary schools."

AND NOW let's turn from failure to success.

Fairfax's Principal Day says Mrs. O. C. Halsey is one of the best grade school teachers he has ever had. How does she do it?

"I think self-confidence is the most important thing of all," she says.

"So often when you find a child having trouble, someone has destroyed his self-confidence. I move him back, all the way to the primer if necessary, until I find a page he can read all the way through without a mistake. Then I start building all over. building up his ability to read, and building up his self-confidence."

Concludes Principal Day, who has watched thousands of youngsters and hundreds of teachers come and go:

"I don't care what system is used. If the teacher is good, it she understands her work and she really loves her boys and girls, those boys and girls are going to learn to read."

CAN HE HEAR?

5 Pointers on Reading

WASHINGTON (AP) — For parents anxious for their youngsters to read, and read well, here are a few suggestions from a remedial reading teacher, Juanita S. Murrow:

1. Make sure he has good vision and good hearing. Hearing defects, especially, are often overlooked.

2. Get him to bed early. "Youngsters are always coming to school half asleep."

3. Get him up in time so that he can have a good breakfast and get off to school without being rushed.

4. Teach him to enjoy literature. "I'm a great believer in reading to children. All types of reading. Nursery rhymes, stories, factual pieces."

5. Give him the best home environment possible. "A child," Mrs. Murrow says, "should feel secure and loved."

Farmers Warned to Be Careful

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Farmers were cautioned by the State Agriculture Department Saturday to follow directions on the labels of pesticides they apply to food crops.

Failure to do so, said Allen B. Lemmon, chief of the department's chemistry bureau, may injure human beings or livestock.

Insects might also go unharmed, he said, and plants may be damaged. Lemmon cautioned particularly against using heavier than recommended strengths, repeating applications more often than advised.

Dear Mr. Chan: "The day I came to your office with my mother and brother I was about to give up hope of getting rid of my asthma attacks. I spent hundreds of dollars for shots and pills but yet found no results. After reading your advertisement, I tried you for my last resort, and was thrilled to find that I responded wonderfully. After the first treatment I was able to breathe normally and could sleep better for the first time in months. Now, my brother, who has been suffering from his asthma since he was born, and he has been helped by your treatment. I am now a happy man and my mother and brother are happy too. I am now a happy man and my mother and brother are happy too. I am now a happy man and my mother and brother are happy too."

stricken with neuritis in my shoulders and extremities. My hands and knees were so badly swollen that I could hardly use them. I wasn't able to raise my arms above the shoulders. I was told by several doctors that they have done all they could for me and that I no longer will be able to work again. Finally a friend referred me to Dr. Chan's Natural Therapy. After the first week, I felt much improved and the fourth week, found me waiting in a chair with the pain in my shoulders disappearing; my hands returned to normal and I had one of them once more. I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Chan to anyone who is ill. Sincerely, E. R. Irving

NEW DUDS FOR AIRMAN SCHMIDT

Airman 2/C Daniel C. Schmidt, of Redding, Calif., adjusts belt of new suntan uniform at Hong Kong Jockey Club after crossing border to freedom. His wife, Una, 20, remarried while he was a prisoner, thinking he was dead. Air Force released this picture Saturday.—(AP Wirephoto)

Freed AF Colonel Tells of Torture, Breaks Down

TOKYO (Sunday) (AP)—Col. John Knox Arnold Jr. today said Chinese Reds had subjected him to "persuasion that civilized people simply do not know about" in efforts to make him confess to spy charges.

Arnold broke down at a news conference and Air Force officers asked newsmen not to pursue questions as to what had happened to him.

Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn, Missoula, Mont., navigator of the B-29 which was on the leaflet-dropping mission to North Korea when it was downed Jan. 12, 1953, said the plane was at least 40 miles south of the Yalu River when it was shot down.

The 11 U.S. fliers freed by Red China from 32 months of imprisonment Saturday began placing their first transpacific telephone calls to loved ones over free circuits provided by the Red Cross.

Saturday night they had a party.

But most of all, the 11 are looking forward to departure by plane either late Tuesday or Wednesday for a joyous reunion with relatives and loved ones at Travis Air Force Base, north of San Francisco.

One such reunion will be under strange circumstances. Mrs. Una Schmidt-Fine has said she will be on hand to greet Airman 2-C Daniel C. Schmidt, 22, of Redding, Calif., and talk over their "problem." The problem is that she has a 2½-year-old son by Schmidt—and another husband, Alford Fine, a California logger, whom she wed in the belief Schmidt was dead.

Schmidt attempted to phone his wife today at the Cisco Grove, Calif., address he had clipped from a newspaper but was unable to locate her there.

Schmidt did succeed, however, in reaching his mother, Mrs. Ray Peters, at 1328 Southwest 3rd St., Portland, Ore. The Red Cross which arranged the call, said Mrs. Peters apparently was surrounded by newsmen when she took the call.

Saturday night's party was one reuniting the fliers with old Air Force and other friends in the Tokyo area.

THE AIR FORCE Saturday started them through rigorous medical and dental examinations, a process expected to require three days.

Despite long months of captivity they were described as "all completely okay physically" by an Air Force medical source.

"They are in amazing condition, although one appears shaken mentally," he added. The source wouldn't elaborate.

10 Dead, Five Near Death in Span Plunge

SEOUL (Sunday) (AP)—A 2½-ton army truck carrying 20 U.S. soldiers to Kimp'o Airport for a gay holiday trip to Japan hurtled through a bridge rail Saturday dropped 40 feet onto its canvas top and burst into flames.

Ten soldiers died, some in the gasoline-soaked pyre ignited by an exploding tank.

Five were reported in "dangerous" condition and four others were listed as "serious."

The 121st Evacuation Hospital said one of the injured soldiers was scarcely breathing and might die today.

One escaped injury and another was hurt only slightly. These two were believed to be the driver and a hitchhiker who had been picked up just before the truck turned onto the narrow Yangwha bridge between Seoul and Kimp'o.

They were riding in the cab. The 19 soldiers, all with the 24th Division, were riding on benches in the truck bed.

NO CHINESE HELD BY U.S.

Seek Showdown on Reds' Charges

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is demanding a showdown with Red China on its charge that "several thousand" Chinese students in this country have been barred from going home.

U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, who is conferring with Red China's diplomats at Geneva, has asked the Peiping regime to provide a list of the names of any students "being detained."

Johnson acted on instructions from the State Department in an effort to speed up negotiations at Geneva on getting Red China to release 40 American civilians.

President Eisenhower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Johnson have denied categorically that any Chinese are held in the United States against their will. This has not stopped Chinese Premier Chou En-lai or his Geneva negotiator, Wang Ping-nam, from repeating the complaints.

SO FAR, INFORMANTS said Saturday, Wang has not given Johnson a single name during the talks to prove the charges. But he may produce a long list when the talks are resumed next week.

The State Department took the position that the talks are in such a delicate stage that it should not comment on them at this time. But the administration is known to be hopeful that the deadlock on Chinese students can be broken soon and release of the 40 civilians realized.

This government will go over any list provided by Wang to show its sincerity.

Officials believe the Reds are holding up release of the American civilians in hopes of finding some face-saving device on the student issue. The Reds also are believed stalling in hopes of gaining now for higher-level talks later between Dulles and Chou En-lai. The Red game is viewed here as aimed at eventual U. S. diplomatic recognition and taking over Nationalist China's United Nations seat.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT has no comment on reports that Red China considers that it has control over all Chinese nationals in the United States, regardless of whether they are American citizens. But such a claim never will be accepted.

The student problem developed out of Communist seizure of the China mainland and Red China's entry into the Korean War. About 5,000 students were in the United States when the Reds took over. Only 124 were at any time prevented from leaving the United States.

The United States announced on April 2 that the list had been pared to around 80-odd and that 76 of those were free to go home immediately. The remaining few were quickly cleared for departure but about 40 still are in the United States. Some are reported to have changed their minds while others are making final arrangements to leave.

The Reds, according to Geneva reports, are insisting the whole problem be turned over to a third power for investigation.

Nationalist China has denounced any such plan as a sinister attempt by Red China to win some kind of U. S. recognition.

Army Officer Killed

LUNA, N. M. (UP)—Army Lt. James Finerty, 21, of Glendale, Calif., was killed Friday when his car swerved off U. S. Highway 260 and overturned five miles west of here, authorities reported Saturday.

FUN IN LONG BEACH... East German Version

COUPLES IN CHAINS, YET

Long Beach 'Slaves' Shown in Red Fake

BY PAUL FRAME

Apparently stirred by our favorable publicity in the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant, Russian propagandists have singled out Long Beach for attack in an East German newspaper.

A clipping out of the newspaper published in Otsendorf-Siedlung on the river Saale shows a picture of two couples chained together and running in a circle while a crowd looks on.

The clipping was sent to Ida Schedler, 2284 American Ave., by her sister, Mrs. Oswald Wanke, resident of the German town.

A CAPTION with the picture recounts how the sated people in the "luxurious bathing resort" (luxusbadeort) of Long Beach "in Kalifornien" are amused as unemployed married couples, in chains, engage in "walkathon" races for "a few dollars to retain the semblance of humans."

Overcoats worn by spectators and other clothing of the pictured spectators seem quite foreign to Long Beach. Even the "contestants" have a distinct un-American look.

THE CHAINED RACES, it is suspected, may be a project of the Recreation Department at Otsendorf-Siedlung.

Mrs. Schedler said she hopes to straighten out her sister regarding Long Beach, but doubts she can get the true story by the censors in East Germany.

Mrs. Schedler has lived in the United States since 1925, and in Long Beach two years.

OPEN DEER SEASON WITH A BANG

Just a few hours after the deer season opened Saturday, Daniel F. Talbot (right), of the Long Beach Rod & Gun Club, and George L. Hutchinson bagged this buck in southern Orange County. It was the 10th year in a row that they returned to Long Beach with the first deer of the season, they reported.

Korea Withdrawal Given Study by U.S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Top United States policy-makers are expected to take a new look soon at the possibility of withdrawing American forces from South Korea. If this is decided upon, they would be pulled back to Japan and other forward bases in the Pacific.

Several recent developments have combined to strengthen speculation within the Defense and State Departments that withdrawal may prove possible in the months ahead. But the issue is controversial and is sure to be fully debated in the joint chiefs of staff and the national security council when it is actively raised.

The developments bearing on the situation are these:
1. INCREASING EVIDENCE—Including the current American-Red Chinese talks at Geneva—that Red China is cooperating with Russia's policy of easing East-West tensions. The prospects of war in the Formosa area have declined steadily in recent months. The dangers of some new military aggression by the Reds in the Korea area are rated very low. The Far Eastern front from Indochina through Korea seems to be stabilizing.

2. The introduction of a new personality into the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, reportedly a vigorous advocate of redeployment of U. S. forces in the Korea-Japan area, replaced Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway recently. The idea of getting its troops out of Korea has long appealed to the Army command, though the Navy and Air Force have tended to favor retention of the bases forward of Japan. Taylor may pursue the Army purpose, in changing world conditions, more actively than Ridgway felt able to do.

3. THE GROWING STRENGTH and effectiveness of the Republic of Korea army. ROK forces total 20 divisions, with a 10-division reserve. This is a force of about 660,000 men and one of the four or five largest military forces in the world.

By contrast, United States Army strength in Korea is said to be now under 100,000. Stationed there are the 7th and 24th Army divisions, in under-strength units.

condition. Marine and Air Force units are also assigned to the area.

The United States has been training and supplying the Allied South Korean force since the end of the Korean war two years ago. The present state of its development actually may be used as an argument both for and against the withdrawal of American forces.

Rhee Denies Intention of Using Force

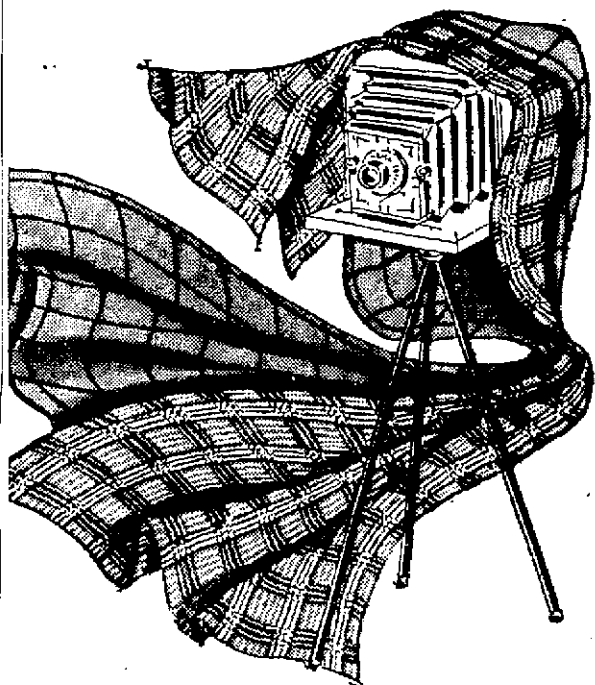

SEOUL (Sunday) (AP)—President Syngman Rhee again has promised the United Nations command that his South Korean soldiers will avoid any incidents which might provoke a rekindling of the flames of war in Korea. Rhee said in an interview today.

"Gen. Lemnitzer was here Thursday and I told him the same thing I am telling you. I do not say we will never use force, but for now we have no idea of using force."

THE U. N. COMMANDER-in-chief, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, rushed here from Tokyo to call on Rhee and find out what was behind his statement last week asserting the Communists would have to leave any ground they hold south of the 38th Parallel. The Reds occupy the city of Kaesong and the nearby Ongjin Peninsula.

Atom Peace Talks Due, Stir Hopes

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federation of American Scientists expressed hope Saturday that the atom-for-peace conference opening in Geneva Monday will help spur a "worldwide reduction in armaments."

It also said in a statement that the unprecedented international meeting appears to be "breaking the deadlock" over the international exchange of atomic information.

The federation's observations came as the Atomic Energy Commission announced that this country's participation in the meeting will be greater than at any other scientific conference in history.

SEVENTY-TWO NATIONS, including Russia, are sending their top atomic scientists and exhibits to the meeting which was inspired by President Eisenhower's original atom-for-peace proposal and is sponsored by the United Nations.

The purpose is to exchange information and to make plans for harnessing the atom to peaceful rather than warlike purposes.

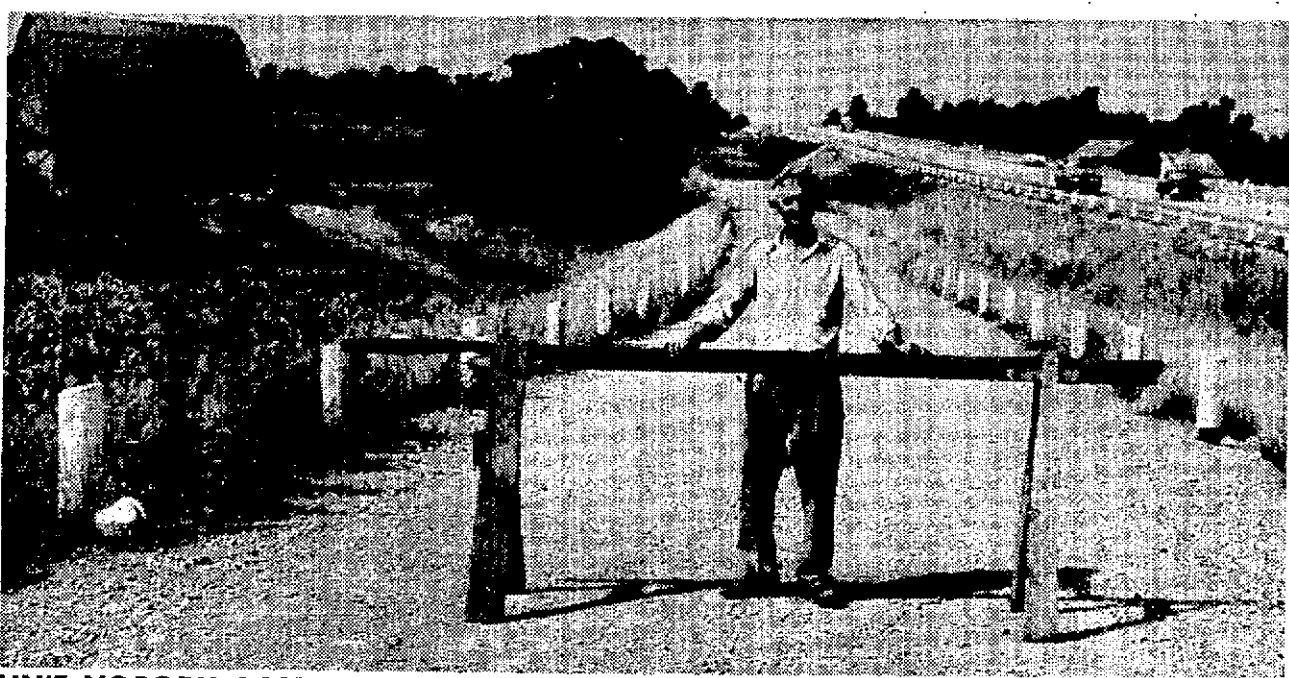

The federation labeled the conference a "landmark in international cooperation" and said it is "proud of the part played by the United States in initiating the program."

The federation is a nationwide organization of more than 2,000 scientists in all fields. Some of the greats in the atomic world are members.

IT SAID THE exchange of information at Geneva "should lead to incalculable benefits for the people of the whole world as well as our own nation."

Earlier, Dr. George Weil, technical adviser to the 183-man official American delegation, told some of the more than 600 newsmen gathered here that:

"Any information not directly connected with military questions has been declassified. (But) We certainly hope to learn as much as we give. We expect to learn a lot."

No Horses for T.R., Says Rough Rider

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (UP)—Stripped of their horses, sabres and pistols and shunted aside by the regular army, the Rough Riders stormed San Juan Hill on foot because Col. Teddy Roosevelt would not let them languish while history was being made, a Spanish American War veteran recalled Saturday.

Roosevelt had recruited and trained the First U.S. Volunteer Cavalry at San Antonio, Tex., in six whirlwind weeks and rushed them to Cuba seeking action. But when the assault began on the Spanish blockhouse the Rough Riders were in a reserve position along "bloody bend" in the San Juan River.

that Colonel Roosevelt was in no mood to sit by and watch the regular army hog all the glory. "I recall that Teddy remarked that he could not find anyone who had the authority to order an advance, and that the Rough Riders were not to stand around while others fought," Shanafelt said.

"We saw the 22nd Infantry advance a short distance down the line, and I recall Teddy saying 'We're not going to be left down here.'"

Billy McGinty, the spy president of the Rough Riders, confirmed that Roosevelt took it upon himself to order his men into the battle.

When the already famous Roosevelt organized the Rough Riders, he accepted beardless eastern college athletes, Indians, ranchers, doctors, lawyers, lawmen, clerks, and even an ex-minister. The only requirement was that every man be an expert horseman, and ready for a fight. But when the Rough Riders landed in Cuba, the Army requisitioned all their mounts and cavalry arms. They were issued rifles and reduced to foot soldiers.

Roosevelt waved his men on at Bloody Bend and led them up the hill, Shanafelt said. The Rough Riders closed with the Spanish troops in the trenches, and fortified strongholds, finally overwhelming the numerically superior enemy.

But the glory which the Rough Riders stole from the 22nd Infantry in 1898 was paid for in blood and gore. A third of the regiment—and 42 per cent of Roosevelt's officers—was killed or wounded during the Cuban campaign.

The Rough Riders have pledged that the annual reunions will be held "to the last man"—although only a few of the surviving veterans show up each year. The reunion is held in Las Vegas because 40 per cent of the First U.S. Volunteer Cavalry was recruited in New Mexico.

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower signed into law Saturday a bill extending from three to five years the terms of the directors of the subversive activities control board. The SACB now has five members, four men and one woman.

Ford Plans Prizes for Atomic Devices

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Times in a copyrighted story said Saturday night the Ford Motor Co. is considering a plan to set up a one-million-dollar fund for prizes for men who develop peacetime uses for atomic energy.

The Times said the prizes would be similar to the Nobel prize for science.

It said it was possible that an announcement of the plan would be made at the International Conference on Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy opening Monday at Geneva, Switzerland.

Available Ford officials in Detroit had no comment. The Times said it had reached Ernest R. Breech, chairman of the board of the Ford Motor Co., by telephone at his vacation retreat and that Breech had confirmed such a plan was being formulated.

Nebraska's Heat Hatches Out Eggs

FALLS CITY, Neb. (UP)—It was hot enough to hatch eggs in Falls City this week, even though it may not have been hot enough to fry them on sidewalks. About a week ago, Alvin Bahr Jr. sold off 30 hens but did not collect the eggs from their nests. Friday, Mrs. Bahr was attracted to the henhouse by "peeps" and eggs after the hen was taken off.

Cadillac

CAD TOM

Figures He's Waited Long Enough!

The long-striding, fast-moving man you see in this picture has made the right decision at the right time!

For the past year or so, he has been thinking about a Cadillac—and he has finally made up his mind.

He is through with compromise and doubt and wonder. This time, he is going after the real thing!

And how lucky he is that he made that decision today! For wonderful news of a special nature is waiting for him.

He'll find, for instance, that Cadillac ownership is far more practical now than ever before. He'll learn, in fact, that the lowest-priced Cadillac can be purchased for little more than he might expect to pay for a goodly number of the so-called medium-price cars.

He'll also find that his dealer—because of a low used-car inventory—is in a position to offer him a very generous allowance on his present car.

And he'll discover that, because of Cadillac's greatly increased production during the current year, he can take title to his new Cadillac after a surprisingly short waiting period.

And all these special inducements, of course, are in addition to the other great

Cadillac virtues—such as legendary dependability and long life... remarkable economy of upkeep and operation... and traditionally higher resale value.

All in all, he's walking in on the motor car opportunity of a lifetime!

And how about you? Have you been postponing your dreams of a Cadillac?

If so, there's no reason to wait any longer. Come on in and see us. Let us put you behind the wheel of a Cadillac... and give you the whole, wonderful story of the "car of cars." We think you, too, will decide that you've waited long enough!

FOR 78,000 WHO PERISHED

Rev. Kiyoshi Tanimoto, who survived the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, lays a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Washington Saturday, commemorating the 10th anniversary of the blast which cost 78,000 lives. He offered a prayer that "never again should any city or any nation have to suffer a similar fate..." (AP Wirephoto)

Minister Tells of Airmen Prayer Before Hiroshima

By THE REV. WM. B. DOWNEY
(As told to the United Press)

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The briefing session was held the night of Aug. 5, 1945, in a quiet hut. As usual, we ended the session with a short prayer.

It was a special one I wrote on the back of an envelope, and it said among other things: "We pray Thee that the end of the war may come soon, and that once more we may know peace on earth."

I went down to the control

tower and watched Col. Paul W. Tibbets Jr. and his men take off at about 1 a.m., Aug. 6, 1945.

The bomb was dropped that morning. It was a very successful mission. The bomb went off where they wanted it to. They killed a lot of people.

There was quite a celebration on Tinian that night. Then the men began to talk about the moral implications of the bombing. They were wondering about killing all those people.

There were an estimated 78,000 people killed and 37,400 injured. Smoke and dust hung over Hiroshima for four days so that photography planes couldn't take pictures.

What could I tell them?

My attitude toward the bombing then and now is that all war is wrong. I don't think you can qualitatively say that one part is more wrong than the other part. All war is a denial of God.

Of course it's wrong to kill 78,000 people with an atomic bomb. The issue is, what is the alternative?

The reason we are faced with this terrible evil is that man wants to be God. That is the ultimate definition of sin.

The solution is the same as for all sin... a new life, a new birth in the grace of God.

What science has done is neither good nor bad. We are good or bad. Consequently, our future is still within the context of our moral and religious decisions.

It hasn't been illustrated to me in my study of the western civilization that man has improved much, and I don't see how he can deal with the problem of finality.

I'm pessimistic about our future. I see little hope for our time. I don't believe in a Utopia. But I believe in the possibility of men becoming Christians.

Veterans Invited to Take Potluck

World War I veterans are invited to a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the banquet room of Veterans Memorial Bldg., a meeting of Baracks 154, Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. at 8 p.m. in Hall 3 of Veterans Memorial Bldg. Jim Butler will preside.

The last meeting of the Baracks had an attendance of 109 and 30 new members joined, according to Oscar C. Holand, publicity chairman.

17 Italians to Testify in Murder Case

NOVARA, Italy (UPI)—Seventeen Italians will leave Tuesday for the United States to testify in a reopened investigation of the wartime cloak and dagger slaying of Maj. William Holohan, a qualified source said Saturday.

Two of the Italians in the group were co-defendants in a local trial growing out of the case. Lt. Aldo Icardi of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Sgt. Carl Lo Dolce of Rochester, N.Y., are accused of having killed Maj. Holohan, their superior officer in an O.S.S. unit. Both have denied the charge.

Killed in Fall

MILL VALLEY (UPI)—George W. Stevenson, 77, was killed Saturday as a railing gave way on a small footbridge and he fell 10 feet to a rocky creek bed near Muir Woods. His head struck a rock.

A Pat and a Hug for Champ Swimmers Navy Pushes Supplies to Arctic Bases

SEATTLE (UPI)—Ships of an Arctic armada are pushing towards waters in which the Navy says "no ship has ever been before."

They are carrying a vast array of supplies for military bases and radar installations all across the north from Alaska to Greenland.

The Navy, releasing new details on the supply project Saturday, described the supply mission for the radar network across the top of the continent as a "dramatic race with melting ice." The supply line involves 117 ships on both Pacific and Atlantic coast routes.

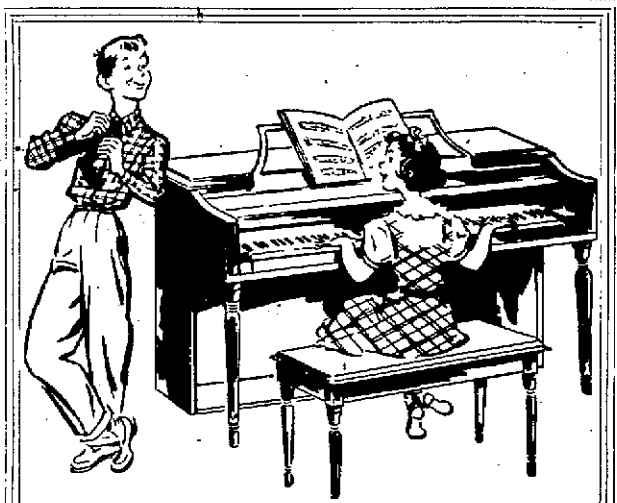

Their destinations range from Greenland to western and northern Alaska.

The 117-ship fleets include eight ice breakers. Many of the vessels have been provided with special fittings to meet the menace of Arctic ice. Those that go east of Point Barrow, northernmost tip of North America, the Navy said, must stage a race against time to get unloaded and headed homeward before ice closes tightly around them. Part of the fleet was pushing past Barrow in the past week.

An air arm has been set up to aid the Navy's military sea transportation service in the battle with the ice. Float-equipped ships which become trapped by the ice. Helicopters have been assigned to seek passages for ships and to warn of dangers ahead.

Plans have been made to evacuate crews by air from any ships which become trapped by the ice.

SHE HEARS through HER EYEGLASSES!

Here is the amazing new hearing aid featured in the WALL STREET JOURNAL, TIME MAGAZINE, NEWSWEEK, LOOK, BUSINESS WEEK, TEMPO, QUICK, AMERICAN WEEKLY, the NEW YORKER, SUNDAY NEWS, and hundreds of newspapers throughout the world. Incredible as it may seem, the pair of glasses worn by the young lady pictured here is a complete, self-contained hearing aid — The sensational "Listener" by Otation.

And no wonder everyone's so excited!

- THE LISTENER looks like an ordinary pair of eyeglasses, yet is a powerful hearing aid.
- THE LISTENER IS ALL YOU WEAR—NO CORDS, NO UNSIGHTLY EAR BUTTON. Only a tiny transparent tube leads to the ear canal.
- THE LISTENER IS PUT ON AND TAKEN OFF IN SECONDS.
- THE LISTENER PERMITS YOU TO WEAR ANY APPAREL—Tuxedo, evening dress, sports clothes—even a bathing suit.
- THE LISTENER PERMITS YOU TO WORK NORMALLY—TO ENGAGE IN STRENUOUS SPORTS!

LINDA PRESTON Leaves Water After Winning

Belshe Wins Seal Beach 4-Mile Swim

Cheered on by the shouts of 1,500 onlookers, Buddy Belshe of Huntington Beach Saturday afternoon took first place in Seal Beach's second annual four-mile rough water swim. His time was 1 hour, 29 minutes, 25 seconds.

Second place in the men's open, age 16 to 35, went to Dick Rowland of Del Mar. Bob Niet-hold took third.

First place in the women's open was won by Linda Preston in 1 hour, 53 minutes, 25 seconds. Second place was divided between Maryann Ward and Carol Chaplin. After them came Gerry Smith, Amy Hilland and Yvonne Sharp.

NAMES OF THE MAN and woman who finish first each year will be engraved on the Ernie Pyle perpetual trophy given this year by the Monterey Oil Co. and the Texas Co.

Alfred Guch took first in the men's class, 35 to 45, in 2 hours, 14 minutes, 17 seconds. Rex Finney took second and W. S. McDonnell, third.

In the men's class, 45 and over, Tom Lind won first in 2 hours, 19 minutes, 57 seconds, with second and third places going to Charles Day and Wilfred Slater, respectively.

Boston's Polio Epidemic on Downgrade

BOSTON (UPI)—Boston's polio epidemic showed signs of leveling off Saturday with only 11 new cases reported. But the shortage of nurses to care for acute cases was critical.

"The picture looks bright," said Dr. Frederick F. Maloff, assistant city health commissioner. He said the 11 cases were "quite a drop" from 26 cases reported Friday.

There have been 24 deaths in Massachusetts, nine of them in Boston.

Maloff said if new cases could be kept to 15 a day it would mean a break in the siege. The city now has a total of 312 cases out of 758 for the state. The case load at this time last year was less than 100.

FOR ALL NEW ENGLAND the total passed the 1,000 mark, but outside Massachusetts there were no sharp increases over last year and nothing approaching an epidemic New England had about 220 cases at this time last year.

Boston already was in a mild epidemic and was due to reach a full-fledged epidemic momentarily with a total of 320 cases, or the equivalent of 40 cases per 100,000 population.

Health officials have reported that only 19 of 160,000 Massachusetts children vaccinated against polio have been stricken.

Hard of Hearing

According to the Basic Diagnostic office, it is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, "We have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else."

Once they try this new and proven method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases folks are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple. It consists of three steps and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition a special treatment is given, if the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given and if it is a bone condition, the tympanic-oscillations treatment is given.

"I have been wearing a hearing aid for a period of three years after receiving only three treatments I was able to discard my hearing aid. I highly recommend Tympanic-Oscillations to anyone now wearing a mechanical device."

Mrs. A.C. (Letter in our files)

To all readers of The Independent - Press - Telegram the Basic Diagnostic Office will give the first treatment for only $3.00. The address is 927 E. Broadway in Long Beach. Phone 64-8203. In Huntington Park at 2836 E. Florence.

GOP Victory in '56 Seen by Knowland

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate party leaders disagreed sharply Saturday on whether the session which ended this week proved that the country benefits or is harmed by divided political control of the White House and Congress.
Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, fired an opening gun in the GOP campaign to regain congressional supremacy by contending that "a reelected Republican administration would be seriously handicapped if the Democrats controlled Congress" after 1956.
Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said the session that ended last Wednesday was one of "unity and achievement," and added:
"It put to rest the fears of those who had so little confidence in the American system they thought it would not work unless both the Congress and Executive were controlled by the same political party."

KNOWLAND AND JOHNSON agreed that Congress had done a good job in the field of foreign policy. Both praised Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for his share in shaping international policies.
Knowland told reporters that in the domestic field the session's record was "satisfactory as far as it went." But he said the Democratic-controlled legislature had rejected, ignored or altered "key pieces" of President Eisenhower's program.
"In order to pin down the responsibility it is important that the party which controls the White House after 1956 has a majority in Congress," he declared. "I think that President Eisenhower or whoever is President will face difficult problems if Congress and the administration are not working together."
Knowland expressed confidence that Eisenhower "or whoever is the Republican nominee" would win in next year's presidential contest and carry his party to control of both houses.
Johnson, still in a hospital after a heart attack, made no political predictions in a statement which said Congress had attained national unity on foreign affairs, with "the voices of discord" reduced to a whisper.

Bonneville Power Probe Seen Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Possible investigation of government power policies affecting the Bonneville and Hell's Canyon areas of the Pacific Northwest was suggested Saturday as a follow-up to a probe of the Dixon-Yates contract.
Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who has headed a senatorial study of the Dixon-Yates plan for feeding private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA), suggested a look into Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) policies.

Scientist Sees Medical Security in U.S. Future

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of Columbia University's medical school said Saturday that "medical security in some form is coming in America, just as social security has been established."
Dr. Willard C. Rappleye, dean of the university's faculty of medicine, said in his annual report that the American people are "determined that the results of modern scientific knowledge be made available to the entire population."
Rappleye said more than 103,000,000 Americans now have some type of voluntary prepayment hospital and medical care insurance.

Big Italian Theft

'Defense a Mess,' Says Symington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said Saturday the operation of the Defense Department is "the biggest mess that I have ever seen in the 10 years that I have been in Washington."
Interviewed on the CBS radio program "Capitol Cloakroom," he accused the administration of being "unwilling or unable to give the American people all the truth money we are spending, we are getting relatively little aircraft production."
Symington, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a former Air Force Secretary, said Russia has about 175 jet bombers, in one formation more than we have altogether. He demanded to know "why is it, for the tremendous amount of money we are spending, we are getting relatively little aircraft production?"

U.S. Farmers Stop Being Polite to Russ

STALINGRAD (UP)—Members of the visiting farm delegation from the United States have begun to discard politeness and speak out on what they consider are some of the faults of Soviet agriculture.

Until now they have been reluctant to voice criticism because of the hospitality they have been shown.

Apparently they have seen plenty of evidence of Soviet backwardness. Even reports by Tass, the official news agency, have begun to mention some of the Americans' critical comments.

SOVIET AGRICULTURE. Official newspaper of the ministry of agriculture, reported that the American delegation visited the Stalin farm in the Rostov-on-Don region and was told by the farm chairman "we have an amateur theatrical circle, football team, movies, etc."

But, the report said, Charles Hearst of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, came back with a question about what happens on the collective farm when the machine tractor stations fall down on their quota of work.

"In cases like that we simply don't accept their work," the farm chairman replied.

But Hearst's question, "Who gets fined, who gets fired?" went unanswered.

ASA CLARK of Pullman, Wash., found a cat being cleaned on a threshing floor and asked why this was not done with combines.

Clark commented that the Soviet Union was wasting much human labor and should improve its machines.

John Steddon of Granger, Iowa, also commented that the Russians had a long way to go in farm mechanization.

Russ Farmers Mingle With U.S. Cowboys

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (UP)—Three visiting Russians, wearing western-style leather thong "bolo" ties, caught some of the flavor of the old West Saturday as they mingled with calf-branding cowboys and 2,000 Indians.

The rope-twirling cowboys really caught the eye of Petr Badmindra, and he insisted on trying his hand at swinging a lariat. He declined, however, to actually try to rope a calf.

The Russians flew here to witness a pow-wow of 2,000 Indians—decked out in their tribal finery—from the United States, Canada and Mexico.

They paused to talk with 97-year-old Dewey Beard, believed to be last surviving Sioux brave of the battle of the Little Big Horn—better known as "Custer's Last Stand." Like the Russians, the aging Sioux warrior spoke through an interpreter.

The three Russians were up at the crack of dawn as they wound up an overnight visit to the huge, 173,000-acre Keeline ranch near Gillette, Wyo.

AFTER packing away a hearty breakfast of hot cakes, bacon and eggs—washed down with hot coffee—they were given a demonstration of calf roping and branding.

As usual the Russians fired a barrage of questions, jotted down copious notes.

The ranch reception seemed pleasant but it was in direct contrast to the inhospitable attitude expressed by Joseph J. Keeline, owner of the huge ranch, who was in Denver for a trap-shooting contest.

Keeline told newsmen the visit of the Russians to his ranch wasn't his idea and added that he was "not sorry I wasn't there to greet them."

He said officials of the Keeline organization had called him to ask if it would be all right for the Russians to visit the ranch. He said at first he said no, but then told them to talk to his sons. The sons okayed the visit.

Joseph Keeline Jr. showed the Russians around the ranch and his wife commented that the Russians "were very, very polite and seemed very happy with the opportunity to visit here."

"I thought they are all very nice," she added.

THE RUSSIANS whizzed through the rolling Minnesota farmlands in their air-conditioned bus, bound for Minneapolis-St. Paul for a full-scale Sunday holiday in the land of 10,000 lakes.

The Russians, apparently looking forward to a day of rest, made only brief stops on farms along the way.

They were scheduled to take the day off today. However, a few of the Russians expressed an interest in getting in some fishing on their day off.

The Russian delegation, scattered to the four winds in the past few days, will re-group in the Twin Cities today, with the three Keeline ranch visitors flying in from Wyoming, and the leader of the delegation, Vladimir Matskevich, coming in from Texas.

Newsman's Plane Crashes in Wyoming

GILLETTE, Wyo. (UP)—A light plane carrying Tass reporter Michael Leponhkin and two other newsmen covering the American tour of Russian farm experts hit a fence while trying to take off from a ranch 40 miles south of here Saturday and crash-landed. No one was hurt.

Discrimination to Whites Hit by Solon

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (U.P.)—Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) said today he will fight discrimination against "the greatest minority group in this nation—the white people of the South."

He said white southerners "have been subjected to abuse worthy of the dictators."

In a speech prepared for the Virginia State Bar Assn., Thurmond attacked the Supreme Court for its ruling against public school segregation.

THE SOUTH Carolina Democrat, "states rights" candidate for President in 1948, charged that foes of racial segregation seek "to destroy the Constitution and the rights of the states."

"We might do well to adopt the tactics of our opponents," he said. "If propaganda and psychological evidence are effective for our opponents, they can be effective for us. Our worthy objective of preserving the Constitution justifies the method."

THE BEST AND THE WORST

Halsey Recalls Pacific Battles

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey sat back and recalled the titanic war that was ending in the Pacific 10 years ago.

The time they were down to their last three planes off Guadalcanal... the long night racing through strange waters, worrying that an uncharted island might hit them in the face at any moment... the decision to turn north off the Philippines... the smiling day they sailed into Tokyo Bay.

He remembered the best and the worst moments. He recalled with pride the men of his command, with sorrow the men who were lost, with confidence equanimity the critics who belabored him for his action in the battle of Leyte Gulf.

The man they called "Bull" Halsey, who once commanded the greatest single naval force in history, now makes his bridge behind a corporate desk in a Manhattan tower. He is board chairman of All-American Cables and Radio, Inc., and Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co.

At 72, the retired admiral still stands erect. The corners of his mouth still turn down in the tough expression thousands of men came to fear and revere. His speech and opinions retain their oldtime vigor.

But he is partly deaf as a result of the accumulated violence done his ears by the big guns. His blue eyes are heavily magnified by the thick lenses of glasses worn since a cataract operation several years ago. He can see well straight ahead, but his sideward vision is gone. The admiral now needs help in crowds.

WHEN HE THINKS of the war, what phase does he remember best?

"Those early days in the South

AND STILL TALKING

Adm. W. F. (Bull) Halsey is shown in 1945 (left) and today. A decade ago he commanded Third Fleet. Now he heads the board of All-American Cables and Mackay Radio & Telegraph.—(AP photos.)

Pacific," he said. "We had nothing but a shoestring. We were told to hold on—and we held on all the way from Guadalcanal to Tokyo."

"When I had the Third Fleet, I had a tremendous steamroller. I could do anything I damned pleased. But in those early days I was scared to death all the time. The Japs had everything. They could have wiped us out."

In the two years before he took command of the Third Fleet in 1944, Adm. Halsey commanded the South Pacific naval forces.

In those early days, sometimes I'd have a carrier—sometimes none—and three or four cruisers and some destroyers. I remember one time at Guadalcanal, while supporting the invasion, we were terribly short of beans and bullets. We had to tug a barge full of ammunition right up to the beach.

"One day we were down to only 2,300 gallons of aviation gasoline. We had only three or four planes fit to fight. Another time, I was in New Caledonia worrying about a couple of Jap battleships coming in to bombard Guadalcanal."

"I didn't have a damn thing to oppose them with. They started the bombardment. I kept worrying all night how it was going. Finally Archie Vandergrift (Marine general in command at Guadalcanal) sent word that the bombardment was over."

The invasion was slowed down but it wasn't stopped. Naval bombardment alone can't stop an invasion. That's a good thing for the critics to remember. The Jap battleships? They were finally driven off by two or three torpedo boats."

WHAT WAS his most anxious moment of the war?

Halsey grinned and recalled his first offensive action, the daring strike against the Marshall and Gilbert Islands in 1942.

"I had to make a long, fast run to get in and out. I had one carrier, three cruisers and nine destroyers. All that night we moved at full speed—23 knots—in waters which had last been charted in 1880. We weren't at all sure of our way around."

As his flagship, the Enterprise, raced through the night, Halsey tried vainly to sleep. He read "every piece of trash around" but still couldn't doze off. Finally, at 2 a. m., he went up to the flag shack for a cup of cocoa.

Suddenly his flag duty officer broke in, yelling:

"I just felt sand in my face!" To the admiral, that could mean only one thing: they were so close to an unseen island the beach sand was blowing their way. Halsey told the officer to double-check. He came back laughing.

It turned out that some crew members had been making coffee in one corner of the flight deck. The wind had blown some of their sugar onto the flag duty officer.

IN THE BATTLE of Leyte Gulf, in 1944, which accompanied Gen. Douglas MacArthur's return to the Philippines, Halsey's Third was one of two fleets standing offshore in support of the invasion. Vice Adm. Thomas Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet was the force to the South. Halsey was to the North.

The Japanese fleet came in to attack from three directions—South, West and North. The Central or Western force turned out to be the strongest. After both U. S. fleets had done great damage to the southern and central Japanese forces, Halsey turned his units north to chase enemy carriers there.

It was this action which brought Halsey considerable criticism. His critics say he fell for the enemy bait, that he was lured into chasing a decoy fleet of carriers which actually carried few planes; that he endangered the whole Philippines invasion by leaving the San Bernardino Strait unprotected. Fortunately, the enemy failed to pursue his advantage and the Japanese fleet never again proved an effective fighting force.

But the criticism of Halsey continued for a long time.

What's his answer? "First of all," he said, "I still don't think that was a decoy force. I still think the Japs were lying. They just invented that stuff about the 'lure' after the event."

"Secondly, if I were given the same information today, I'd do exactly what I did. Except this time I wouldn't turn back. I'd have stayed up there and finished that gang. I turned back south under pressure. That was the greatest mistake I ever made. But, hell, all's well that ends well."

HALSEY ALSO pointed out that even if the Japanese central force had pursued its advantage it would not necessarily have been fatal to the invasion force. "Even if they had sunk every ship we had there, they still couldn't have done a damn thing about stopping the invasion without their own ground troops."

Does the admiral have any regrets about the war? Does he quarrel with any of the over-all

Grandma Rescued Off Sinking Plane

NAPLES, Maine (U.P.)—A 70-year-old grandmother rescued from a sinking plane amidst six-foot waves Friday, was landed by James Bulid, 21, and said she is looking forward to her next trip.

While clinging to her pilot-grandson's plane, Mrs. Tena Day confided she couldn't swim but quipped, "at least I'm getting a bath and a good shampoo."

Solon Hits Misuse of Hospitals

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Price Daniel of a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Narcotics urged Saturday that facilities of federal narcotics hospitals be used to fight the "socially contagious" narcotics habit.

The Texas Democrat made the suggestion to H. Chapman Rose, chairman of the government's inter-departmental committee on narcotics. He said statistics from the surgeon general's office show that more than 500 people have voluntarily applied but have no hope for immediate treatment in hospitals at Lexington, Ky., and Fort Worth, Tex.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH Service, meanwhile, announced it has appointed a narcotics specialist to gather information on the problems of drug addiction in states and localities. Dr. Kenneth W. Chapman, a health service psychiatrist, was named to the newly-created post and will work through health service regional offices providing advice on rehabilitation of addicts.

Daniel said bed space at Fort Worth was made available to 518 mental patients last year compared with 297 narcotic addicts. He said the Lexington hospital accommodated 110 mental patients while it had a waiting list of "several hundred addicts."

"It is obvious," he wrote Rose, "that if arrangements were made for treatment of these mental patients at other institutions, and if the narcotics hospitals were used primarily for the purpose for which they were established, all of the more than 500 drug addicts now on the waiting list could be hospitalized immediately."

Italian Scientists Honor Fermi

COMO, Italy (UP)—On the shores of Lake Como where he taught only a year ago, fellow scientists Saturday honored the memory of the late Enrico Fermi.

His widow, Laura Fermi, watched in silence as officials unveiled a memorial stone to the Italian-born physicist.

"Here in Varona," said an inscription, "Enrico Fermi disclosed... those last secrets of the atom for which he already had become immortal."

Illegal Boycotts by Unions Increase, NLRB Charges

WASHINGTON (UP)—The National Labor Relations Board Saturday reported a record number of illegal secondary boycott charges against unions during the second quarter of 1955.

Of 500 charges of unfair labor practices against unions filed with the board in the April-June period, 139 involved alleged illegal secondary boycotts. The previous record was 94 such charges filed during the second quarter of 1954.

L.A. Called Easy on Drunk Drivers

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Not enough Los Angeles drunk-driving suspects are being convicted, an official of the National Safety Council claimed Saturday.

Paul F. Hill, field service department manager, said convictions here are 12 per cent lower than those of other major cities.

"I recommend a closer search for and more frequent convictions of intoxicated drivers," Hill said.

Mazey Tells of Offer to Drop Charge

DETROIT (UP)—Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO United Auto Workers, said Saturday the Department of Justice offered to drop indictments against the union if he would deny the UAW spent general funds for political purposes.

Mazey told the Wayne County (Detroit) CIO Council convention he turned down the offer. He said he admitted to the FBI and a federal grand jury that the UAW had paid for radio and TV programs on which union-supported candidates for federal offices made appearances.

The UAW has been indicted by a federal grand jury on four counts of violating the corrupt practices act in using union funds illegally for political purposes.

"I'VE WILL NOT be intimidated," Mazey said. "We are going to win this fight. The fact that we did an effective job is the reason we have this little difficulty at the moment."

"We took the position from the beginning that we had nothing to hide," Mazey said.

Army Plans Fall Training for Reserves

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army has proposed to start the new six-month Reserve training program in October with an initial class of about 10,000 teenage trainees, a Defense Department manpower official disclosed Saturday.

The overall plan is to train about 100,000 of the teen-age volunteers during the coming year.

The six-month training program is a new type military service inaugurated in the reserve plan approved by the last Congress. Under the program, the youths will be given six months active training duty followed by 7½ years compulsory duty in the ready reserve.

Maj. Gen. John B. Murphy, military assistant in the office of assistant defense secretary for manpower, said the Army has proposed to start the six-month training program this fall, probably in October.

Reds Underline Ike's Triumph at Geneva

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER was the hands-down winner of the title of peace-maker at the recent summit conference in Geneva.

The Russians themselves have now underlined his victory.

In the closing hours of the conference Mr. Eisenhower calmly tossed a bombshell amid the Russian delegation, and the reverberations were felt around the world in public opinion.

He suggested that Russia and the United States exchange maps showing military installations and permit mutual aerial inspection of each other's territory.

This proposal left the Russians, who have said so much about peace and the easing of tensions, sitting with a stunned, confused look on their faces.

They had no immediate reply, and it was obvious they had been caught off guard by this dramatic challenge to prove good faith. For the time being they withheld answer.

Meanwhile, the world savored a new hope. One of the two big nations holding in their hands the power for cataclysmic destruction had advanced a plan which, if accepted, could profoundly change the supercharged atmosphere of international tension.

What would be the reply of the other great power? Two replies came this week. The first—nothing doing.

Since the answer was no, one wondered why the Russian leaders bothered to make any answer at all. They should have hoped that in absence of further comment the episode might fade from the public's conscience. Their woefully inadequate reply only emphasized how badly they were outscored.

Under Mr. Eisenhower's plan, said Premier Bulganin in his report to the Deputies to the Supreme Soviet, anybody wishing to hide anything could do it very easily because "both countries have limitless territories on which one could hide anything."

That, of course, deliberately missed the entire point. Mr. Eisenhower made it clear that his plan could not be considered a conclusive, airtight solution. It was offered as an initial step, a significant gesture, a means of testing the possibility of future accords.

Mr. Bulganin's second reply, in which he said his first really hadn't been a rejection of the plan, which is still "under consideration," seemed an effort to recoup. He just left the matter dangling.

So the impression that stands is:

The President of the United States offered to show Russia our blueprints if Russia would show us her blueprints. Object: Better understanding and world peace.

And Russia tempered an outright refusal with doubletalk that expressed hope but, as usual, offered nothing concrete to prove her object is also peace.

Without Ike, Republican Future Would Be Dismal

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is scorching hot in the nation's capital but the President's remarks to a delegation of Ohio well wishers about his age and "the strain of the Presidency" have many top Republicans shivering with fright.

The President will be 65 years old in October and would be 70 in the final year of a second term.

In speaking of the "physical erosion" of a man in the Presidency, Eisenhower said that no President has ever reached his 70th year in the White House.

Ike mentioned that "duty" is an extremely important word in the Army, but added that he favored giving younger men an opportunity to solve the problems of the nation.

Quite naturally, Republican leaders hate to hear that kind of talk. But the irrepressible Sen. George Bender of Ohio was equal to the occasion.

Said Bender: I thought I detected some sort of emanation from the man (Eisenhower) that convinced me he'll run again.

I have faith, he added, "in God and Eisenhower." The Senator from Ohio, who will face a tough campaign for reelection next year, was expressing the feelings of virtually every Republican member of Congress.

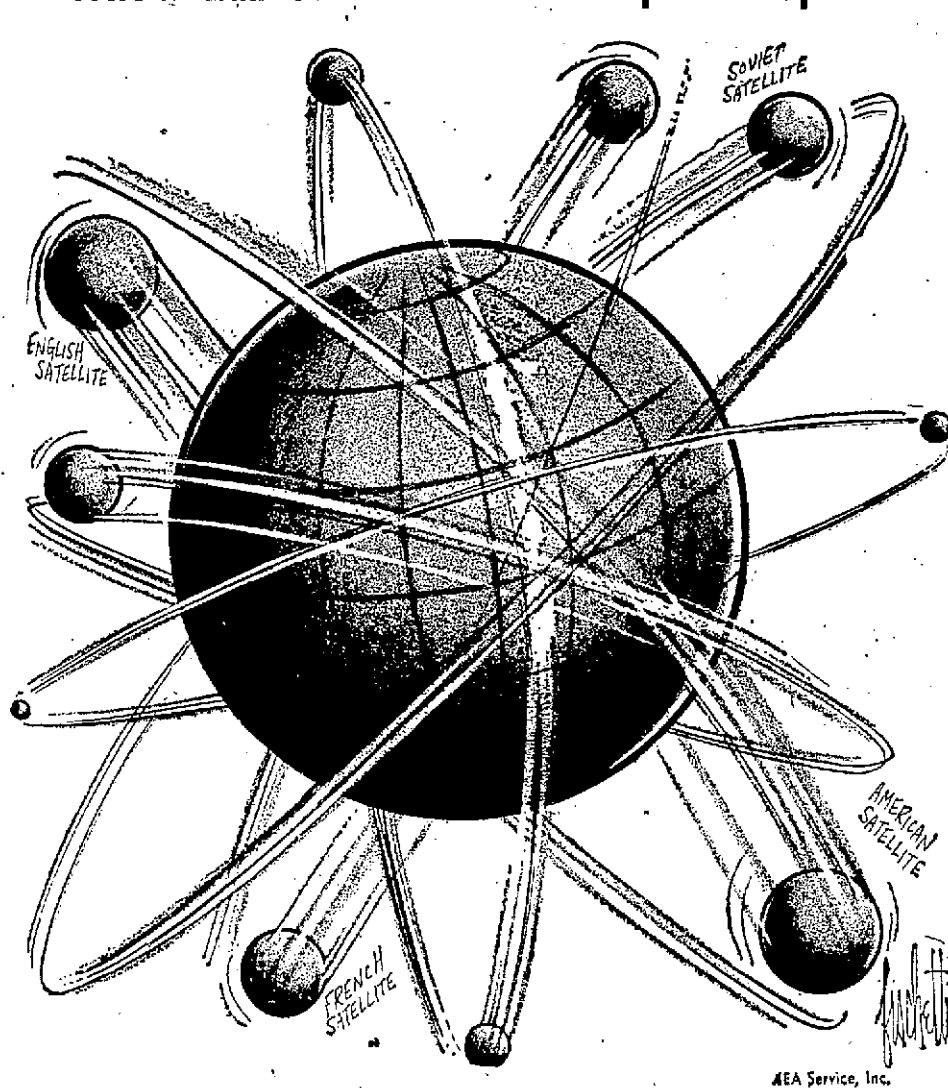

Without Ike, the Republican party faces a dismal future. There are, of course, younger men in the G. O. P. with real ability. At the moment, however, none of them, including Vice President Nixon, seem equipped for the Presidency.

I hold a higher opinion of Nixon than do many of my associates. He is the hardest working Vice President within my memory and is completely devoted to Eisenhower.

PERHAPS LATER

While Nixon has shown some evidence of immaturity in his comment on foreign affairs, his potential for growth is very high. In another four years, perhaps... Well, why speculate in a 20-minute appointment

Ike's Forecast of Political 'Cold War' Borne Out by Demo Congress' Record

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's prediction before last year's Congressional elections that, if the Democratic Party were given control of Congress, "a cold war of partisan politics" could ensue has been borne out by the record.

Though Mr. Eisenhower did not refer to the speech of October 8, 1954, delivered at Denver, urging the American people to elect a Republican Congress, the President at his press conference on Thursday of this week made almost identical points in revealing his disappointment over the Democratic party's behavior.

"We must continue to foster the growth of a free economy to provide more jobs and higher living standards. We must continue our efforts to cut the cost of government, so we can cut taxes still more. We must continue each year to improve our peacetime farm program. We must have a vast new highway program. We must expand our foreign trade and American investment abroad. We must expand markets for America's farms and factories, if we are to keep prosperity within our own land. We must write into law a national water resources program. We must help our people meet their critical health and medical needs, while repudiating socialization of medicine. We must find ways to encourage communities to provide the schoolhouses they need, and to improve opportunities for their school teachers. We must build a new and effective reserve program for our armed forces. We must begin to unravel the confused relations between the federal, state and local governments, and make still more improvements in the organization of the federal government. We must drive through partisan obstructions to achieve statehood for Hawaii, to lower the voting age in federal elections, and to make our promised changes in the labor-management laws."

"We must continue our efforts to cut the cost of government, so we can cut taxes still more. We must continue each year to improve our peacetime farm program. We must have a vast new highway program. We must help our people meet their critical health and medical needs, while repudiating socialization of medicine. We must find ways to encourage communities to provide the schoolhouses they need, and to improve opportunities for their school teachers. We must build a new and effective reserve program for our armed forces. Man-Made 'Moon' Designed Originally to Balk Enemy Guided Missile Attack

WASHINGTON — Real fact about the new man-made satellite which will whirl around the earth's surface is that it was designed originally to protect the United States from enemy guided missiles.

Chief worry of American defense planners today is not so much the long-range bombers which might fly here from Moscow, but guided missiles launched from the Soviet secret air bases near the Franz Josef Islands in the Arctic.

The United States has now developed a guided missile which can fly so accurately that it can hit within 10 miles of Moscow. It goes at the amazing speed of 4,000 feet a second, or over 3,000 miles an hour—in other words, at the rate of New York-to-Moscow in about two hours.

While it can't be ascertained for sure, it is believed that the Russians have the same type of guided missile—and they could be ahead of us.

So far, there's no way to stop these missiles once they are launched. The speed is much too great. It might be possible to stop them during the first 100 miles after they are launched, when they are gathering speed. But once they are streaking through the stratosphere at 3,000 miles an hour, nothing is fast enough to intercept them.

However, the "Minimum Orbital Unmanned Satellite of Earth," or "Mouse" for short, was devised with the idea that delicate electrical instruments inside might be able to detect guided missiles immediately after they were launched and fire a shotgun blast before the missile gathers speed.

The man-made satellites are by no means perfected to do all these things as yet. But this gives some indication of how complicated the war is going to be in the future, and why the new look on the faces of Soviet representatives at the summit conference may be the most hopeful thing that has happened in this generation—if the smiles don't change to scowls.

WHAT'S A GOOD DEMOCRAT? Congressman George Miller of California got a lot of ribbing as the lone Democrat traveling with President Eisenhower on his plane to San Francisco. But he managed to hold his own. At one point, F.O.A. boss David Stassen asked Eisenhower in a booming voice heard all over the plane:

"Mr. President, what do you think constitutes a good Democrat?"

"Well, I would say that a good Democrat," replied Ike, "is one who has seen the light and is about to be taken over by the Republicans."

To which Miller retorted:

"Mr. President, I think I am entitled to ask: What constitutes a good Republican? I think the record will show that some of us Democrats have supported your program more than members of your own party in Congress. I've supported you about 74 per cent of the time. That's 10 per cent higher than the support you received from the average Republican member of the House."

Miller looked straight at GOP Congressman Hubert Scudder, also of California, who has been on and off the Eisenhower reservation during crucial votes. Scudder squirmed, grinned sheepishly, said nothing.

NEGRO DIPLOMAT

When Adam Clayton Powell, New York's Negro Congressman, went to the Bandung conference of Asian-African countries, the State Department had its fingers very much crossed. In fact, it opposed the trip.

Later, it was embarrassed when Powell scored a rousing propaganda victory against the Communists by telling the yellow and brown races that there was no real racial discrimination in the United States, and that the great majority of American people were not racially prejudiced.

The State Department had warned Congressman Powell to stay away from American embassies during his Bandung trip, and their faces were very red after the job he did for the U. S. A.

This summer Powell is taking another trip, this time to the Near East, where he will try to do what Ralph Bunche did, and mediate between Egypt's Premier Nasser and Ben Gurion of Israel. This time the State Department has sent word to all American embassies in the Near East that Powell is to get the full V.I.P. treatment when he passes through.

INVITATION TO PUERTO RICANS? Congressman Pete Rodino of New Jersey is a good public servant, but he ought to be more careful about the lives of fellow Congressmen.

Ever since a band of Puerto Ricans opened up on the House of Representatives in March, 1954, strict control

Truman Book of Memoirs on Sale in Fall

KANSAS CITY (UP)—Former President Truman, through a publishing house spokesman, announced Saturday that the first of two volumes of his memoirs would go on sale Nov. 2.

The title of the 608-page, 320,000-word first volume is "Year of Decisions."

Timothy Seldes, a senior editor of Doubleday & Co., of New York, said the two volumes would sell at $5 each, or at $8.50 for both if ordered as a set. The second volume, Seldes said, is tentatively scheduled for publication in February, 1955.

Under the contract agreement for publication of Truman's memoirs, the former chief executive will receive no royalty on the sale of any copies of the books.

The publishing contract calls for serial publication in Life magazine, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York Times, as well as in volume form. For the entire publication Truman receives a total of $600,000.

SELDIES SAID TRUMAN would make only one appearance in connection with publication of the first volume. That will be at a publication day party for him at the Hotel Muehlebach here on Nov. 2. He said there would be a special Kansas City edition to be distributed to local book-sellers.

The first volume, Truman

Bombardiers of 452nd Slate Reunion Here

The annual reunion of the 452nd Light Bombardment Wing, first Air Force Reserve unit to get into combat in the Korean War, will be held next Saturday at 8 p. m. in the non-commissioned officers club of Long Beach Air Force Base.

The wing, which trained one week end each month at Long Beach Municipal Airport as an Air Force Reserve unit, was called to active duty Aug. 10, 1950.

Its Douglas B-26 light bombers flew their first mission on Oct. 26, 1950—only 77 days after the reservists were ordered back to active duty.

THE REUNION will be an informal dance, according to Capt. Week Morgan, AFRES, who is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Several hundred former members of the wing, some of them still on active duty with the Air Force, are expected to gather for the reunion. Among them will be Brig. Gen. Luther W. Sweetser Jr., AFRES, who commanded the 452nd at the time of its recall.

THE 452ND served 21 months in Japan and Korea, participating in high and low altitude bombing and strafing attacks against the Communists.

It was deactivated in May, 1952, but subsequently was re-

Iturbi Featured in Pop Concert

Jose Iturbi will be featured in film in the Patio Pop concert at Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St., Thursday at 8:15 p. m. He will demonstrate the playing of the harpsichord, in addition to playing Liszt's Eleventh Hungarian Rhapsody and Fantasia Impromptu by Chopin on the piano.

Excerpts from "Naughty Marietta" with Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald will also be on the program. "Be Gone Dull Care," which portrays boogie-woogie in fluid lines, will be the final film shown. The program is free.

800 Air Reservists Enter Summer Camp Here Today

"H" hour for 800 Southern California Air Reservists of the 452nd Bomb Wing, Tactical, comes at 8 a. m. today when "Operation Wingspread," their annual two-week summer encampment, gets under way at their home station, the Long Beach Air Force Base.

The 452nd, commanded by Col. John R. Allison, will be one of 24 flying wings which will participate in "Operation Wingspread" at 25 air bases in 15 states across the nation.

Included will be nine fighter-ment and 13 troop-carrier wings. THE 77TH AIR DEPOT Wing, also stationed at Long Beach Air Force Base, will begin its summer encampment Aug. 15 at Norton Air Force Base, San Bernardino.

The 77th, commanded by Col. Clarence Schmid, does specialty work in the field of Air Force supply and maintenance.

Approximately 1,600 men will take part in the operation.

Modern Dental Plates

Aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques," used in the construction of dental plates, Dental Science has followed a "progressive" path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than thought possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples and modern dental plates, upper, lower and partials. GOOD dental plates need not be expensive. THE COST IS SMALL.

Once Over Lightly
By DAVE LEWIS
By JIMMY BRESLIN
(Pinch-hitting for Dave Lewis, who is on vacation)

NEW YORK (NEA)—With the American League heading toward the kind of last-ditch finish which could force five teams to have World Series tickets printed and ready for sale, there is more for the players involved to worry about than the day-by-day standings.

That would be the record book, which shows what happened to several important figures after thrilling races.

Through the past 10 years, you see, there has been a definite pattern of trouble for the guy who delivered the stand-up-and-cherish play that brought a pennant.

Gene Bearden stands as the best example. It was Bearden, the young member, who won the only play-off game in American League history, defeating the Red Sox in 1948.

The left-hander had a 20-7 mark for the Indians. Bearden's knuckler didn't allow the Braves a run in 10 1/2 innings of the World Series.

He was a 29-year-old who seemed to have a long and illustrious career ahead of him. But the next season, Bearden was whacked all over the American League. He finished with an 8-8 mark and was busily sliding out of sight from then on.

"Nothing went right once the Series ended," Gene moaned. Bearden keynotes the headaches which descend, immediately and almost en masse, on the brightest luminaries of close pennant finishes.

THE SAME SEASON in which Bearden started, the Braves, then in Boston, were making their way through a treacherous National League race with the slogan: "Spahn and Sain and pray for rain."

Right-hander Johnny Sain was a 24-game winner for the Braves, had a 1-1 record in the World Series. The next season, Sain, crashed to a 10-17 record.

Bobby Thomson, whose now legendary home run beat Brooklyn in the final play-off game in 1951, was believed to have arrived as a star of the first magnitude.

But Thomson, now a pinch-hitter for Milwaukee, never reached the same heights again. After the homer, in fact, the Scot was just another right-handed hitting outfielder and a broken ankle in spring training in 1954 cut his effectiveness in half.

Another home-run hitting star, Dick Sisler of the Phillies, went the same way. In the 10th inning of the season's finale in 1950, Sisler sliced a homer into the left field seats at Ebbets Field to beat the Dodgers.

The next season, Sisler, who had hit .296 and knocked in 83 runs, fell off considerably and was traded.

So, while these one game heroes are great while the fame lasts, they seem to turn into a revolving door which ushers the guy from limelight to street lights outside.

Oregon Driver Takes 316-Mile Outboard Race

REDDING (AP)—Arvid Nyleen of Wilhelmina, Ore., gained his outboard up from Stockton Saturday in 7 hours, 9 minutes and 36 seconds to take first place in the 316-mile Diamond Cup race up California's twisting waterways.

In second place was Harold Conklin, Ephrata, Wash., 7:22:21; third, Frank Pennisi of Daily City, 7:37:54; fourth, M. A. Bailes of Oakland, 7:38:22.

Nyleen won $1,000 first prize for the diamond studded cup. Earlier, Don Quinlan of Torrance finished first in the more leisurely two-day spin down the San Joaquin River, then up the Sacramento Slough and up the Sacramento River to Redding. He led all the way with an unofficial time, not counting an overnight stop at Colusa, of 7 hours and 21 minutes.

Pennisi held the lead at the start, with Nyleen second, Conklin third and Bill Jones of Downey, Calif., fourth. Bailes, who came in fourth, held fifth position at the start.

Portland Returns Flyhawk to K-City

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Portland club of the Pacific Coast League has returned outfielder Joe Taylor to Kansas City and the Athletics are re-assigning him to Toronto of the International League. Joe Ziegler, Portland general manager, announced Saturday.

Taylor was being .295, had 10 home runs and 53 runs batted in for Portland. He hit three homers in his first game with Portland when sent here early in the season but was benched two weeks ago after a long slump.

Terwilliger Back in Action Tuesday

CINCINNATI, O. (AP)—Second baseman Wayne Terwilliger of the New York Giants was released from a hospital Saturday, after an overnight stay for treatment of a head injury.

Terwilliger was hit by a ball thrown by pitcher Johnny Klippstein of the Cincinnati Reds in Friday night's game.

Doctors told the second baseman to stay out of uniform Saturday and Sunday, unless the Giants became hard-pressed for men. It was indicated Terwilliger would return to the lineup at Brooklyn Tuesday night.

All-Star Grids, Browns Tangle Friday

CHICAGO (AP)—The College All-Star football team, winless in this rousing series since 1950, will bank on speed, brawn and a pro coaching touch for an upset of the Cleveland Browns in the 22nd All-Star Game at Soldier Field Friday night.

The game will be televised nationally (6:30 p.m. PDT ABC).

It was the idea of the late Arch Ward, Chicago Tribune sports editor and founder of the midsummer grid classic, to put the collegians' year entirely in the hands of coaches from the pro ranks.

Previously, college coaches directed the All-Stars. The collegians have won only six games and tied two, while losing 12 against the National Football League champions.

So now it's up to Head Coach Curly Lambeau, pioneer of pro football at Green Bay, Wis., and former Chicago Cardinal and Washington Redskins coach, to outguess and outmaneuver Coach Paul Brown of the 1954 NFL champs.

Lambeau has surrounded himself with a staff well grounded in pro tactics. It includes Hank Anderson, whose old Chicago Bear lines were the best in the business, and stout Steve Owen, former head coach and defensive wizard of the New York Giants.

Another important change from last year is use of the free substitution rule which prevails in pro football but was discarded in collegiate football two years ago. The All-Stars required the Detroit Lions to play one-way football in last year's game and it boomeranged into a 31-6 trouncing of the collegians.

The All-Stars may have the offensive-defensive blend needed to cope with the talented Browns, who this year will be missing the magic quarterbacking touch of Otto Graham, now in retirement.

Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi, California's Paul Larson, Oregon's George Shaw and Ohio State's Dave Leggett provide the All-Stars with a gifted crew of s'rrp-passing quarterbacks.

Their targets will be mainly Max Boydston of Oklahoma and Henry Hair of Georgia Tech, a pair of fine receiving ends, and such backs as Ron Drzewiecki of Marquette, Joe Heap of Notre Dame, Frank Eidom of Southern Methodist, and Dick Mogle of Rice, all fleet-footed lads.

As the All-Stars have learned by sad experience, this game is determined to a large extent in the line where the behemoth pros, more and more, have pushed the collegians around.

It may be different this year. The All-Stars boast the best set of tackles since the 1950 squad which crushed the Philadelphia Eagles for the last collegiate triumph. They average better than 245 pounds, headed by Rosey Grier of Penn State, a 266-pound hall of fire, and 253-pound Tom Jones of Miami of Ohio, as defensive bulwarks. Notre Dame's 235-pound needed to cope with the talented Browns, who this year will be missing the magic quarterbacking touch of Otto Graham, now in retirement.

The guard department also was selected by the pro-minded All-Star staff with an eye on heft as well as mobility. The 10 guards average slightly over 211 pounds and about an inch over 6 feet.

Frank Varrichione spearheads the offensive tackle group. The tackles also include Mississippi's Rex Boggan, 257; Louisiana State's Sid Fourbett, 235; Texas' Buck Lunsford, 225; Tennessee's Darvis McCord, 247; and Baylor's Jim Smith, 222.

Frank Varrichione spearheads the offensive tackle group. The tackles also include Mississippi's Rex Boggan, 257; Louisiana State's Sid Fourbett, 235; Texas' Buck Lunsford, 225; Tennessee's Darvis McCord, 247; and Baylor's Jim Smith, 222.

The guard department also was selected by the pro-minded All-Star staff with an eye on heft as well as mobility. The 10 guards average slightly over 211 pounds and about an inch over 6 feet.

and two plays later Tank Younger, who had just entered the game, went over from the one. Once again Richter added the extra point to make it 28-17.

The Steelers closed the gap to 28-24 with about 10 minutes to play. On the first play after a Steeler punt, Towler fumbled on a smash up the middle and Steeler Richie McCabe picked up the ball on the first bounce and raced 25 yards to a touchdown. Michalik added the extra point.

However, Younger, running with the same power and speed he showed before his serious injury last season, moved the margin to a safe one again when he cracked up the middle for 17 yards and his second touchdown to make it 34-24. Richter made it 35-24.

With two minutes to play, the Rams ruffed a scoring opportunity deep in Steeler territory. Will Sherman intercepted a Steeler pass on Pittsburgh's 35 and returned it to the 12. Younger replaced Towler at fullback for the Rams, but fumbled the handoff on the first play and Bill McClung of the Steelers recovered on the line of scrimmage.

RAMS LEAD, 14-10. The passing of Van Brocklin did most of the damage as the Rams marched to a score with less than three minutes remaining in the first half to take a 14-10 margin at halftime. Tom McCormick crashed over from two feet out for the teedee and Richter converted.

Los Angeles had scored its first touchdown on the second play from scrimmage following the opening kickoff. Woodley Lewis ran the kickoff back to the Steelers' 45. After McCormick made nine yards through the middle, Van Brocklin faced two handoffs and he passed into the end zone to the speedy Boyd. Richter's conversion made it 7-0.

Pittsburgh narrowed the count to 7-3 with six minutes left in the first quarter. On a fourth and five situation Steeler middle guard Art Michalik booted a 32-yard field goal.

Then, with nine minutes remaining in the first half, the Steelers marched 55 yards to their first teedee. Quarterback Jim Finks passed six yards to halfback Lynn Chandrois for the six points. Finks outmated the Rams by electing to pass on a fourth and two situation and found Chandrois all alone in the promised land.

Another field goal attempt by Michalik failed with five minutes remaining in the second quarter.

Phils Hand Redbirds 8th Loss in 9 Games

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Murry Dickson turned back the St. Louis Cardinals with a six-hitter Saturday night and Stan Lopata's two-run homer gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-3 victory.

It was the eighth loss in nine games for the Redbirds.

The Phillies trailed 3-2 going into the eighth inning when they

Garcia KO'd First Time by Cadilli in 7th

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Favored Rudy Garcia of Los Angeles suffered the first knockout of his 40-bout professional boxing career Saturday night when he was stopped in the seventh round by Gil Cadilli of San Francisco.

Garcia, one time local Golden Gloves champ and recent holder of the California featherweight title, was well ahead on points when Cadilli lashed out with a stiff left hook.

The blow caught Garcia on the chin, sending him down for an eight-count. Cadilli rushed in with another left a few moments later and Garcia took another eight count. The San Franciscan decked the bewildered Garcia twice more before Referee Mushy Callahan stopped the fight.

Garcia had won the first four rounds with short lefts to Cadilli's head and body. Cadilli worked faster in the fifth. The sixth was even. Garcia weighed 128 1/2 pounds.

Colts' Defense Sharp in Modified Scrimmage

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—Three different offensive units were used Saturday by Coach Weeb Ewbank but none of them could score on the Baltimore Colts' vaunted defensive team in a modified scrimmage.

Instead of tackling, the players simply touched the ball carrier to down him. Halfbacks Royce Wamble of North Texas State, Walter Bryan of Texas Tech, and fullbacks Zoile Toth and Dick Young gained most of the yardage.

Ex-Trojan Williams Joins Giants Grids

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Defensive back Johnny Williams Saturday signed a contract with the New York football Giants and joined the squad at its training camp here.

Williams, a graduate of the University of Southern California and veteran of three professional seasons, was traded last month from the San Francisco 49ers but he at first expressed reluctance to leave the West Coast.

Mundy, Bettenhausen 1-2 in Stock Race

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Frank Mundy of Atlanta won Saturday night's 100-mile late-model stock car race, sponsored by the American Automobile Assn., at Broadway Speedway.

Second was Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., with Al Swenson of Chicago third.

Mundy and Bettenhausen each drove Chrysler 300s, while Swenson piloted a Hudson.

MEET SENORITA AVA

LONDON—"I even think in voice when she told me she would Spanish now," Ava Gardner said, "not miss much of Hollywood." The Senorita from the Caro-Frank Sinatra included. "That filthy press back home—she said it. She was relaxing in I've really got a beef against her fancy flat here, explaining them," she said.

But, dear bosses o'mine, relax—she didn't mean you," she replied to the scandal magazines. "All my things are being shipped from Hollywood to Spain," Ava continued, "I want to get down to the fair in Valencia, and from there I'll go to Madrid and buy a house. Metro has no picture for me to do right now, anyway."

"Are you ever going to pick up that divorce from Frank?" I asked her.

"Oh, I may some time," she shrugged.

Just a year ago now she was living on a mountain near Lake Tahoe, Nev., serving her 6-weeks residence to get a divorce from Frank. This roving, raving reporter pursued her there and met her bullfighter guest, Miguel Something or Other. Her divorce was just days off.

But—a dispute about divorce expenses developed—and Ava went on a divorce strike. And she's still on it.

Frank is a terrific actor and he is one of the greatest charm boys who ever lived. No-body can turn it on like Frank... or turn it off, either...

Ava no longer wears her wedding ring. She has been rumored sweetheating with an English peer and a titled Spanish diplomat. She was seen a few times at a Spanish restaurant in Kensington Gardens. The British speak well of her; one said, "She's not just an actress—she goes out with lords and earls."

Which isn't bad for a little gal from the cotton fields.

In all this chatter about love, I almost forgot her work. George Cukor, who directed her in "Bhowani Junction," just finished, told me this is the best she's ever done... and around the set at her studio they forecast an Oscar for her.

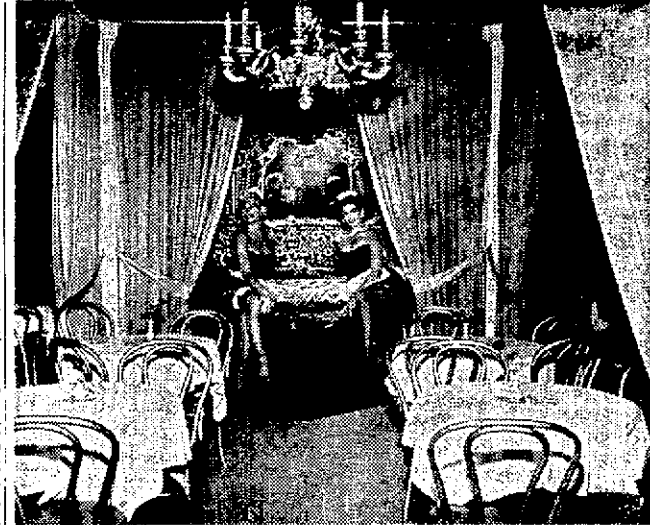

Ava's still one of the most beautiful girls in the world, and as for her animal appeal... well...

When she was idly talking to Cukor for a moment, a man nearby exclaimed, "Look. She even stands sexy!"

CHANDELIER ADDS ROOM

Carrying out the same French motif as the rest of Chandelier, Ernie Glaser has opened the Renaissance Room, an addition. The new addition will be for group dinners and afternoon parties and lunches. This shows a section of the room looking toward the piano bar. A water fountain with colored lights is in front of the setting. Glaser obtained another imported chandelier for the new room.

Gene Krupa's Gum Chewing Stealing Scenes in Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Many a Hollywood actor has stolen scenes chewing the scenery. Gene Krupa does it chewing gum.

The drummer many consider the jazz era's greatest is playing himself in "The Benny Goodman Story." As all jazz addicts know, the chicle is as much a part of Krupa's terrific beat as are his sticks.

Krupa has a big part in the movie—as he did in the original Goodman band—and he chews the gum both with and without the music.

He participates in 27 dramatic scenes—and chews gum in every one of them.

"I key my gum chewing to the scene," says the ageless musician. "Eat-chewing for the exciting scenes, slow for the more relaxed stuff."

Steve Allen, television's sardonic wit who is playing the title role, says this of Krupa's scene-stealing prop:

"After this picture, Krupa will be known as the Noel Coward of the cud."

None of the other musicians in the original band, all playing themselves, have such scene-stealing gimmicks as Krupa's. "But," comments Harry James, "I may have my wife turn the music for me in some of the scenes if this keeps up."

Harry, of course, is married to Betty Grable and no one watches a man chew gum while she's around.

Louisiana Acadians Head for Nova Scotia

MONTREAL (AP)—A party of 165 from Louisiana, many of them direct descendants of the Acadians, arrives here Tuesday en route to the Nova Scotia Acadian bicentennial. Emelie Evelyn Breaux, 19, is Louisiana's choice to play the Evangeline role. She represents the 4,000 Acadians and their estimated 600,000 descendants.

Coward Cast in American Film

LONDON (AP)—Noel Coward is going to play a role in an American-produced motion picture for the first time since "The Scoundrel."

"My first role in almost 20 years in an American movie is the part of Roland Smythe-Pigot in Jules Verne's 80 Days Around the World," he said. "It should be tremendously interesting, for there's no such role in the book."

There's no such book, for that matter. Verne called his work "Around the World in 80 Days."

Mike Todd, the American producer, observed: "There's no bullfight in the book either and we've hired a whole Spanish town to put one in."

Just Call Heem Loo-ees Bah-ya

MONTREAL (AP)—The head of the only Swiss-style government in the Western Hemisphere, President Luis Batlle Berres, is expected to encounter some name pronunciation trouble on his visit to Washington Dec. 5-7. His name sounds Loo-ees Bah-ya Bah-r-r-ras. He is head of the nine-man National Council that serves as the executive power in Uruguay.

Thelma Ritter's Son in Scene With Her

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In "The Proud and the Profane," now locationing in the Virgin Islands, Thelma Ritter portrays the boss-lady of a group of Red Cross women.

In one scene, Thelma says goodbye to a batch of Marine raiders as they leave for a landing. She pats one Marine on the shoulder and says, "Good luck, son."

The sentence says more than it reads, because the boy is her own son, Tony Moran, making his movie debut.

Newlyweds Flocking to U.S. Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's capital is giving Niagara Falls a good run for the honeymoon trade.

Honeymooners are trooping here from the Far North and the Deep South—and all across the continent. And they've boosted the capital city into the top bracket of honeymoon towns.

WASHINGTON, whose tropic-like heat drives the natives out of town, hasn't daunted the newlyweds. They've found it's one of the nation's most air-conditioned cities.

Although the capital just steamed through its hottest July on record, the Board of Trade reports it did its brisk tourist business, with a "tremendous jump" in the honeymoon trade. The newlyweds begin to arrive with the opening of the first cherry blossom in the spring. They stroll hand-in-hand along the tidal basin, walk through the parks, paddle up the Potomac in canoes and take in historic sites. And, as one long-time resident remarked, "just about all of it's free."

A Board of Trade spokesman said "This year's crop of honeymooners are a practical lot." They don't ask for vine-covered cottages along the river, flowers, champagne or soft music.

Prospective bridegrooms write for comfortable, convenient accommodations at modest rates. And the board writes back that Washington has the answer.

HOTELS REPORT they've had "more honeymooners this year than ever before." Some offer special rates and almost all if they're forewarned—send flowers to the newlyweds.

One hotel goes all out and offers special rates on a bridal suite decorated in soft pastels. It features dinner and dancing, with a floor show under the stars.

George Gobel Reveals Secrets of Life at a Film Studio, So There You Are

By GEORGE GOBEL

I thought you might like to know what I'm doing this summer. Besides playing golf, that is. What I'm doing is I'm making a moving picture. I'm not making it myself, of course. I'm getting a little help from an outfit called Paramount Pictures. Does that name mean anything to you?

Anyway, Paramount supplies the cameras and the sets and the technicians. They also supply the producer, the director, and the script. I supply the cards.

See, what happens when the producer and the director and the technicians get into a hassle on the set, there's usually no room for me. So I go off to one side and play cribbage with my stand-in.

My stand-in is like me in every respect except one. He plays a lot better game of cribbage.

OH... BY THE WAY... The name of this picture is... was... that is... well, we don't have a name yet, if you want to know the name... We're still looking at titles. But you know who's in it? Mitzi Gaynor and David Niven.

Now ordinarily you would think that a beautiful girl like Mitzi would be bound to go for

GEORGE GOBEL

this suave Niven dude. Such is not the case.

The way we've got this swindle, or this picture, worked out, Mitzi makes a pitch for me. This makes me the romantic lead, a fact which doesn't shock me so much as it does my wife Alice. And it's not that Alice doesn't consider me romantic. It's just that if there's any leading to be done around our house, romantic or otherwise, Alice is the one who is going to do it.

I'm more the "romantic follow" type. At home, that is. In the studio I lead. In fact, down here they call me "the crew cut Napoleon."

ONE THING I should mention. This picture, which we hope will turn out to be a comedy, is being made in VistaVision which is Paramount's answer to Davy Crockett. VistaVision is a pretty technical process, but I can explain it to you in a few words.

VistaVision is a combined, synchro-coordinated... well, it's more like a super-focused, negatively exposed turbo... see, the way it works, the cameraman has to keep one foot on the clutch at all times.

I gotta go now. It looks like there's going to be another hassle on the set, and I'm 60 points behind on my cribbage game. I'll drop you another line in a few weeks. "Til then, this is your old friend Lonesome George who is secretly developing a revolutionary movie technique for the very small screens.

It's called Micro-Scope.

Tape Marks Trail to Robbery Suspect

NEW YORK (AP)—A mosquito helped police catch a youth wanted in a Bronx gas station holdup.

Levis Nedd, 18, was arrested after an alarm went out for a man with adhesive tape on his nose.

Nedd said he put the tape on his nose to cover up a bad mosquito bite.

Fewer Married Couples Now Live With In-Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fewer and fewer married couples are living with their in-laws, the Census Bureau reported today.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) summed up the feeling of most Congressmen when he told a reporter that "The low down payment for houses has helped more couples to live alone and like it."

The Census Bureau said its statistics show that the war-born practice of married couples living with their in-laws has become outmoded. It based the statement on preliminary surveys. A definite figure on the trend will be issued next week.

JOE SEDENSKY of Elyria, O., was visiting Washington with his wife when a reporter cornered him in the Capitol and asked his reaction to the Census Bureau's statement.

"No two families can live under the same roof," he said as his pretty wife nodded in agreement. "In this case, it's better to go it alone."

Rep. Oliver Bolton, (R-O.) said he's something of an expert on the subject because he and his

N. Y. Asks U. S. Help in Drought

WASHINGTON (AP)—A searing August sun burned pastures through the Midwest and East last week, but government drought officials reported only one plea for federal aid—from New York.

Weather Bureau reports through Aug. 1 said Missouri pastures needed rain to save the shriveling grass. Great Plains pastures were suffering under heat and dryness. In Kansas pastures were "fading rapidly" and "stock water shortages again becoming critical."

In New York, where pastures also were falling under the heat wave, Gov. Averell Harriman asked the Agriculture Department to survey conditions in six counties. The study was to determine the area's eligibility for federal drought emergency loans.

THE GOVERNMENT'S feed subsidy program for drought-stricken farmers and ranchers was dropped July 31. But emergency loans to qualified farmers hit by drought remain available in affected areas of 19 states—New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Mississippi, South Carolina, Kentucky, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Missouri, Alabama, North Carolina, Virginia, Arkansas, Louisiana, Georgia, Tennessee and Illinois.

Most of the Southwestern and Plains areas hardest hit by drought and dust bowl conditions last spring and early summer had "come back" with later rains, an Agriculture Department official said.

Harvey A. Dahl, a drought relief specialist, said only sections of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas remained on the feed subsidy list when that program was dropped July 31. At the peak of the drought last spring, feed subsidies were going to farmers and ranchers in more than 1,000 counties in 19 states—a third of the nation's agricultural counties.

Despite one of the hottest Julys on record, hay crops have been good in most parts of the country and a big feed grain crop is forecast.

THIS SUMMER'S heat wave, whatever the records say, doesn't seem as bad as last year's to Dahl, who has made dozens of drought area inspections. He recalled a trip to Missouri last summer when "the temperature hit 119 degrees and we found them putting ice on the incubators to hatch baby chicks."

Some corn had been damaged beyond recovery in Kansas and Nebraska by heat up to Aug. 1. But in most other areas, despite a growing need for water, the crop was reported in generally good condition up to last week.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Stut-Stut-Stutters Help Understanding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Stuttering, under some sex hormone and early activity conditions, is easier to understand than normal speech, Dr. John J. Dreher says. He describes "bounce block" stuttering as best for transmitting through noise.

A "bounce block" stutter is one in which the sound of the first consonant is repeated, such as "wuh-one, tuh-two."

Research by Dr. Dreher at the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Ohio State University shows that if noise interference is high, as in aircraft communications, a radio message comes through better with the "bounce block" stutter method.

Dr. Dreher says further research will be done to determine if a "double bounce block" such as "tuh-tuh-two" gives better intelligibility than the single "bounce."

He says individuals from Japan, India and Hungary, as well as Americans, were used in the tests, and all found the stuttered words easier to understand. First tests used only numbers; later tests employed lists of words most frequently used in CAA control tower operations.

He says the "bounce block" stutter method was used because "it appears the initial sound in a word is very critical to its identification. Repeating the entire word is time-consuming for the speaker and doesn't improve intelligibility much. When a listener makes an error in understanding a word, he tends to repeat the mistake on the second attempt."

PREMATURE BIRTH CLUES DISCOVERED

Iowans Set Program for Golden Picnic

It will be a golden anniversary for the Hawkeyes, who are more numerous than cornstalks in these parts.

The 50th annual Iowa summer picnic, largest outing of the season, will be Saturday in Recreation Park, under the joint auspices of the Iowa Association of Long Beach and Southern California.

State Sen. Richard Richards will speak on "The Tidelands Question." He will be introduced by Malcolm Epley, "Beach Combing" columnist of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Marshall Craig, formerly of Allison, will be master of ceremonies.

COUNTY AND COLLEGE registration will begin in the morning. At 12:15 p. m. the Municipal Band, directed by Eugene LaBarre, will play a concert featuring numbers by Iowa composers.

These will include march, "Auto Triumphant," T. Fred Henry (Des Moines); novelty, "Old Settlers on Parade," C. W. Dalbey (Council Bluffs); march, "Land of Plenty," C. L. Barnhouse (Oskaloosa); melody, "A La King," Karl L. King (Fort Dodge); "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," Meredith Wilson (Mason City); march, "Iowa Band Law," George W. Landers (Clarinda).

J. OLIVER BRISON (Creston) will lead the national anthem and Rev. C. N. McMillan (Britt) will give the invocation.

Mayor George M. Vermillion, an intruder from Kansas, will speak on "Welcome, Iowans!" Norvin E. Smith (Keosauqua), will give the response.

President Harry Ruffridge (Greene) will introduce officers of the Iowa Association of Long Beach and Lon E. Peck (Waterloo) will introduce distinguished guests.

"Extravaganza Phantastique" will be given by the Granger Dancing Academy, featuring "When It's Tulp Time in Pella" by Harvey and Bryant, and soloist Charleen Dickman (Le Mars).

Missouri Picnic Scheduled Aug. 28

Approximately 40,000 former Missourians and their friends are expected to attend the 42nd annual Missouri picnic Aug. 28 in Bixby Park. The program will start at 1 p. m. with a concert by the municipal band.

Tables will be available for registrants for Missouri's 114 counties. Entertainers from Irene's Stage Door Studio, Compton, will appear.

Summertime Class Ready to Graduate

Twenty-nine students from three Long Beach high schools will graduate in ment ceremonies Thursday at 8 p. m. at Poly High School.

Gene Bishop, principal of Dewey - Continuation High School, will be the graduation speaker. Rev. Keith A. Druley, curate of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, will give the invocation. The diplomas will be given out by Dr. Walter H. Boyd, member of the Board of Education.

Presiding over the exercises will be Harvey Kirlan, principal of the Long Beach High School Summer Session at Poly. Polyette Marie Parmelee will be pianist.

Sclerosis Foes Seek Volunteers for Drive Here

"Help Kill the Destroyer" is the slogan for the multiple sclerosis drive Aug. 28, according to Eugene G. Atkins, 1103 St. Louis Ave., drive chairman and head of the newly formed Long Beach branch of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Volunteers are being sought who will conduct a house-to-house canvass from 7 to 10 p. m. Aug. 28, according to Atkins.

A multiple sclerosis film, open to the public, will be shown at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday at Temple Israel, 3rd St. and Loma Ave.

Universe Girls Take Over U-I

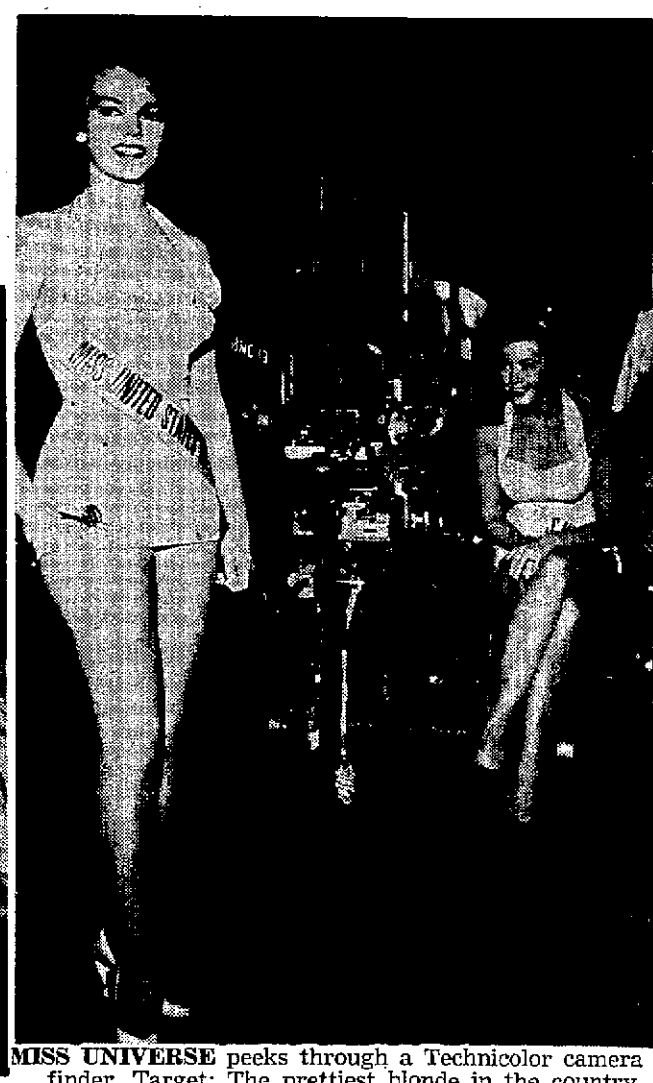

CONTRACTS are presented to four Universe Pageant dazzlers by Robert Palmer, casting director who doubles as pageant judge. He's encircled by Miss Universe (left), Miss Ceylon, Miss El Salvador and Miss United States.

FEMININE STARS at Universal

International moved over to make room for Miss Universe Pageant winners and runners-up last week. Signed to long-term contracts were Miss Universe, Hillevi Rombin; her runners-up, Miss El Salvador, Maribel Arrieta, and Miss Ceylon, Maureen Hingert, and Miss U. S. A., Carlene King Johnson. A score of pageant beauties appeared in a film short, but the four lovelies in these pictures appeared to be the best bets for film careers. By week's end everybody from Rock Hudson to the script girl knew the pageant beauties had taken over at U-I.

ROMANTIC duet is played by Miss Universe with Steve Allen, star of "The Benny Goodman Story." She's cast as Goodman admirer in her first featured role.

Chess Aces Arrive for U. S. Tourney

Crack chess players of the nation today were converging on Long Beach for the United States Open Chess Championship Tournament opening Monday in the Municipal Recreation Center, 350 E. Ocean Blvd.

The tournament, which will end Aug. 20, will draw 200 players, according to John Looney, president of the Lincoln Park Chess and Checker Club.

THE TOURNAMENT will be played under rules of the United States Chess Federation, and the federation president, Frank Graves of Fort Worth, Texas, will be here.

So will Larry Evans of New York, open chess champion and Karl Burger of New York, chess master.

Among the juniors playing will be Long Beach's Larry Remington, second ranking player under 21 years in the United States.

HE GOT BIRD

Now L.B. Man Wants to Know What to Do

Joe Anakin, 5320 E. Broadway, got the bird Saturday afternoon. Now it looks like he's stuck with it.

Joe found the bird—apparently only a few days old—in his patio. He figures it must have fallen from a nest in a tree, but he can't find any nests in nearby trees.

Now he's appealing for someone to take it off his hands or tell him what to do with it.

"I know from nothing about birds," Anakin said, "and I don't like the way the cat looks at the little guy."

Joe tried to feed the little chirper some worms, but the bird refused to take them in that form.

"I guess he wants 'em chewed up," Joe said, "and I draw the line at that."

Property Tax Rate Cut Seen for Lakewood

The City of Lakewood's 1955-56 budget will exceed by $307,000 last year's budget of $981,260, but the property tax rate will be cut one cent, City Administrator Robert T. Andersen predicted Saturday.

The city administrator said his proposed budget would require a general property tax rate of 28 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The trick of cutting the tax rate while hiking the budget, he explained, is possible because of unexpended reserves carried over from 1954-55, plus anticipated increases in revenue.

Lakewood City Council will hold a public hearing on the budget at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the council chambers, 5062 Faculty Ave.

THE PROPOSED 28-cent tax rate, based on the city's estimated $40,000,000 assessed valuation, would yield revenue of $112,000.

The remainder of the $334,500 anticipated revenue would come principally from state and county allocations, license fees and sales tax receipts.

Sales tax receipts in Andersen's proposed budget total $35,000 and include only the month of April, 1956, when the tax must go into effect.

On sales taxes, Andersen stated: "If a sales tax ordinance is adopted by the city prior to April 1, 1956, the revenues will be increased accordingly and the development of our park and recreational facilities will be expedited. This potential revenue for the period from Oct. 1, 1955 to April 1, 1956 has not been included in estimated revenues, but it is estimated to be approximately $200,000."

A CITY SALES TAX will not be introduced Tuesday, and it is not "physically or practically possible" to adopt a sales tax and have it go into effect prior to Oct. 15, city officials said.

Introduction of a sales tax this fall was proposed by the city as an alternative to a proposed property tax increase by the Lakewood Park, Recreation and Parkway District to expedite development of three city parks.

PRINCIPAL REASONS for the $307,000 boost in this year's proposed budget are added police protection in the amount of $50,000; an additional contribution of $90,000 to the street lighting maintenance district; and a $170,000 increase in capital and street construction projects, Andersen said.

Capital projects include $83,000 for acquisitions and preliminary plans and surveys for a city-county administration building and community auditorium.

Other capital projects include $47,000 from the general fund for developments at Mayfair Park, including a youth building, lighting for the softball diamond, picnic tables and shelters.

Also included in the total budget are $47,000 for park and recreational facilities development, and $58,000 for the operation of Mayfair Park, and swimming pool, and the city's contribution to the Camp Hill-Hill program of the Long Beach Unified School District.

Andersen said the city is in a sound financial position, and predicted the property tax rate will be reduced again in fiscal 1956-57 because of an expected sales tax revenue of $425,000.

BENDS VICTIM

CG Rushes Diver to Decompression Cell

A 24-year-old Santa Monica diver, stricken with the "bends" while diving off Santa Barbara, was rushed Saturday night by a Coast Guard plane to a San Diego decompression chamber.

In sick bay aboard a submarine tender, his condition was listed as critical.

Long Beach Coast Guard headquarters, which directed rescue operations, identified the victim as James McElroy.

Officers said McElroy, using shallow water equipment, had been diving to 150-foot depths for several days from the converted minesweeper, La Busca, six miles south of Santa Barbara.

Ceramic Hobby Exhibit Closes 5-Day Run Today

"Ceramics in Motion," the $5,000,000 California Ceramic Hobby Show, will conclude its five-day run at Municipal Auditorium today from noon until 11 p. m.

Featured will be actual production of ceramics, from simple work to lace dolls.

INCLUDED are pottery throwing on the wheel, copper, enameling, gold etching, hand sculpture, firing in the kiln and hand decorating.

Grant Beach, noted teacher, will bring the entire ceramics department of his School of Arts and Crafts for demonstrations.

Exotic models in costume will pose for those working in clay sculpture and rare pieces from the school's gallery will be shown, including the works of Dr. Glen Lukens, Susi Singer, Shoji Hamada, Margaret Montgomery and other leading ceramists.

Library Youth Council to Eye Science Fiction

Why do people read science fiction? How did it begin? Is it just a fad or does it have real value?

These are a few of the questions that will be discussed at a meeting of the Library Youth Council Thursday at 7 p. m. in Bay Shore Branch Library, 5390 East 2nd St.

Discussion will be spearheaded by a panel made up of three members of the council and Judson Voyles, Bay Shore librarian and a science fiction fan of long standing.

The program was planned by Mrs. Doris Watts, Long Beach Public Library's Coordinator of Work with Young People. It is open to high school and college age.

Final meeting of the Library Youth Council summer series will be held in the Film Room of the Main Library, Aug. 18 at 1:30 p. m. Edwin Castagna, city librarian, will speak.

Marine Seriously Hurt, 8 Others Injured in 3 Auto Collisions

BUENA PARK—One Marine was critically injured, another suffered major injuries and seven other persons were hurt in three accidents here Saturday.

Raymond C. Zietler, 19, stationed at Camp Pendleton, was reported near death in St. Joseph's Hospital, Orange.

He was one of eight persons hurt in two accidents within an hour near the Manchester Blvd.-Artesia Ave. intersection.

THE SECOND seriously injured Marine was Joseph W. Young, 20, of 1512 W. Cedar St., Anaheim, who is stationed at El Toro Marine Air Base. He was taken to El Toro's dispensary, then was transferred to Corona Naval Hospital after his car collided with a gasoline truck on Lincoln Ave. near Hansen St.

E. N. Evenson, 33, of 1010 S. Magnolia St., Fullerton, the truck driver, was not hurt. Zietler was injured when the car in which he was riding, driven by Morris F. Moran, 21, of Camp Pendleton, was involved in a four-car pileup.

Other drivers were Forest L. Dolan, 41, of Los Angeles; Everett P. Hinojos, 45, of Monrovia, and Harry Naiman, 46, of San Gabriel.

OTHERS HURT were Edith E. Hampling, Los Angeles; Moran, Dolan and Kenneth Shattles, 20, another Marine riding with Moran.

In the second accident at the intersection, Louis Suboter, 31, of 2553 Glencrest Ave., Anaheim, was seriously injured when the car he was driving collided with one operated by Benjamin E.

Peters, 41, of 673 Victoria St., Costa Mesa.

Peters and his passenger, Chester A. Conley, 19, a Camp Pendleton Marine, suffered minor injuries.

Caltech Reports Big Earthquake in Pacific

PASADENA (AP)—The California Institute of Technology recorded Saturday a strong earthquake which seismologists said occurred deep in the earth in the Southwest Pacific.

Seismologist Charles Richter said the tremor probably was in the vicinity of the Fiji Islands, and its epicenter was 250 miles below the earth's surface. The quake registered a magnitude of 6.8—a major shock.

Big Merger Wins OK of Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Department of Justice has given its blessing to a proposed $130,000,000 merger involving some operations of Radio Corporation of America, Sears-Roebuck and Co. and two large appliance manufacturers, it was announced Saturday.

Assistant Attorney General Stanley N. Barnes, chief of the department's anti-trust section, said an extensive study proved that the transaction will have no major impact on competitors in the markets involved.

The department has an anti-trust suit pending against RCA charging the huge concern with monopolizing the radio-television patent licensing business. But the current deal involves different fields and will work this way:

The Whirlpool Corp. of America, manufacturers of a home laundry equipment line, and the Seegar Co., manufacturers of refrigerators and freezers, will pool their assets. RCA and Sears then will acquire part of this company, with RCA contributing its entire stove and air-conditioner lines.

SEARS already owns stock in both Whirlpool and Seegar, but plans for the merger state that Sears and RCA together will have "less than 50 per cent" control in the firm.

Plans for the merger were made public recently by Whirlpool in a letter to stockholders. Whirlpool officials later told the United Press that all parties to the agreement had sought Justice Department approval. Barnes was then asked about the anti-trust implications.

He said that all aspects of the deal were considered. First, the department gave weight to the prospect that participation by Sears and RCA jointly "might develop into something like the DuPont and General Motors combine in the white goods line."

"This was no serious cause for concern, he said. "Further, we received assurances from RCA that it will not use its position to supply Sears with its radio, television or phonograph products."

He said that since Sears and RCA both have stove lines now, the department also took up the possibility that competition between the two would be eliminated.

"WE FOUND RCA stove line is in poor health," he said, "and that both companies are comparatively small in this field. The move will have little impact on the 11 other major producers who certainly are strong and healthy enough to buck the competition."

Barnes said distribution angles also were considered very carefully. "We found that there are 1,648 distributors handling white goods lines and 2,250 handling either white goods or television products—either of which line could be expanded," he said.

He explained further that independent washing machine manufacturers have been having their troubles for many years. He pointed out that of 36 such manufacturers existing in 1940, only four are left in the field.

"THE OTHERS had to sell out or diversify and get into an integrated operation," he said. "This move will give a small stove and a smaller white line company a chance to tie up with a strong corporation and tie into RCA's TV distribution system."

Most competition to the new company will come from other big companies "like GM or General Electric," he said.

This is "not one without its problems," he said, "but we finally concluded to give our consent to it."

Officials of Whirlpool said they have not yet tried to pinpoint a target date for completion of the merger, pending stockholder approval. They said employees for the new company will be selected "principally from the merging businesses and from Sears and RCA."

Headquarters for the operation "probably" will be St. Joseph, Mich., Whirlpool's headquarters.

Bryce Canyon Bringing 650 Sailors Home

The destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon will return to Long Beach next Thursday, bringing home 650 men and a new commanding officer. The ship has been in the Far East six months.

New skipper of the Bryce Canyon is Capt. James W. Davis of Oceanside. He relieved Capt. Mann Hamu July 19 while the ship was in Yokosuka, Japan.

Thirty-seven Long Beach men and 15 from immediately adjacent communities are aboard the ship.

THE BRYCE CANYON sailed from Long Beach Feb. 25. It provided repair and tender services to destroyers of the 7th Fleet at Subic Bay, P. I., and at Yokosuka and Sasebo, Japan. The ship also visited Hong Kong, Manila and Kobe.

The tender is expected to remain in the Long Beach area until next spring.

"I used a hammer. I hit the baby about three times. I think I hit Irene twice. I turned on the water in the bath."
If Chapman had a motive, police did not reveal it. He was arraigned on murder charges.
Chapman told his story to Brighton Detective Superintendent Philip Burney, an old friend who only last week walked with Chapman in the mourning procession at the cremation service for Chapman's father, William. The elder Chapman, one of his wife and daughter, Burney's leading detective, ney said. "The charge was read headed the homicide squad in over to him and he was called Scotland Yard until his death. He made no reply."
Chapman was pale when he appeared at the arraignment in Aug. 15. A clerk asked Bromley. He spoke only in low whispers.

Burney stood beside him at the arraignment. He showed no emotion as he discussed Chapman's confession. He said he questioned Chapman at the Brighton police station early Saturday, and then took him to London for further questioning.
"There Chapman said, 'I would like to tell you what happened.' Burney said, 'He then agreed to make a written statement.'"
At 2:35 p.m. on August 6th Chapman was charged at Catford Police Station with the murder of his wife and daughter, Burney's leading detective, ney said. "The charge was read headed the homicide squad in over to him and he was called Scotland Yard until his death. He made no reply."

Arrest of 'Life' Man's Attacker Asked

NEW YORK (UP)—Life magazine said Saturday it will file a criminal assault charge against a gambling syndicate member who roughed up a Life correspondent assigned to do a story on vice in Galveston, Texas.
Edmund T. Hennelly, a spokesman for the magazine said the charge would be filed Monday in Galveston against Anthony Fertitta, director of the city's notorious Maceo syndicate.
Fertitta has admitted striking Henry (Hank) Suydam, chief of the Life bureau in Dallas, Tex. The incident occurred Thursday when Suydam and photographer Joe Scherschel took pictures at an alleged gambling casino.
Andrew Heiskell, publisher of Life, appealed to Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas to step into the case, which he described as "an affront to the American public and a flagrant violation of freedom of the press."

Heiskell demanded that the mayor and city attorney of Galveston provide Suydam with police protection when he returns to Galveston Monday for the filing of the charge.
Suydam and Scherschel had spent a week in the island resort city secretly snapping photos of Galveston vice spots and gambling clubs.
Suydam, later sporting a bruised cheek, said he and Scherschel fled from three men after they took pictures of the Turt Club, operated by the notorious Maceo syndicate. Suydam said he later was knocked down by an alleged gambling casino.
Fertitta, syndicate director in Galveston, said he told Gov. Shivers of Texas to step into the case, which he described as "an affront to the American public and a flagrant violation of freedom of the press."

20 Killed in N. Africa Border Crash

ALGIERS (AP)—Twenty persons were killed and six wounded in clashes between French forces and North African natives, French authorities announced Saturday.

Twelve khaki-clad soldiers of the rebel "Army of God" were killed just over the Tunisian border by colonial infantry. One French soldier was killed and five wounded.

The rebels had "crossed the border to stir up trouble," authorities said.

Professional Men of Argentina Hit Peron Law

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Doctors, dentists, engineers and lawyers Saturday demanded repeal of the law under which the government seized control of their professional societies soon after Juan D. Peron became president.

National organizations representing the four professions joined forces with the Buenos Aires Bar Assn. in charging that the law "curtails the constitutional right of free association . . . and denied the fundamental principle of self-government."

The engineers also charged in a separate statement that nine years of official control have wrecked their professional association, "once the pride of Argentina and its members."

POLICE CHIEF RAPS CLUB ATMOSPHERE

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—If there was a "night club atmosphere," as Police Chief John Reynolds put it, at police headquarters here, it was shattered Saturday in the wake of an order from Reynolds.

Reynolds directed his men to keep their feet off the headquarters office desk and not to listen to radio music.

He said the ruling was prompted by two visits during the week by Mayor John J. Grogan. Reynolds said each time Grogan found the desk officer slumped in his chair listening to radio music.

HUNGRY Get-Up Wins Counterspy Him a Meal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The man in Union Square, Saturday, wore black slacks and a black and pink sports shirt. His manner was furtive.

His pockets were filled with microfilm, envelopes with "top secret" stamped on them, a tear gas gun the size of a fountain pen. To Patrolman Don Murphy, the man showed cards and credentials identifying him as an agent of Central Intelligence Agency.

"Don't let anybody see them," the man said. "I'm after some secret documents that were stolen from another agent here last week."

He said his name was Richard Ernest Grayson and that he was staying at the YMCA. He refused to elaborate further. The police called Rear Adm. (Ret) M. C. Cheek, local head of the CIA here. Cheek took one look at Grayson and his get-up.

"If one of our agents ever showed up in an outfit like that," Cheek said, "We'd fire him."

Rice Hulls Use in Bricks Found to Resist A-Rays

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A Louisiana State University agriculture engineer has found that rice hulls can be made into a lightweight, low-cost brick which may prove to be valuable in defense against atomic attack because it absorbs radiation.

Some 90,000 tons of rice hulls are now burned or dumped as waste each year.

Assistant professor John H. Hough discovered that when burned rice hulls turn into a mineral state that is 94.5 percent silica. The ash flakes are porous and contain numerous non-connecting cells which make it a good insulator.

A small tool shed, which could serve as shelter from radiation, has been built on the Louisiana campus for local tests by the Louisiana civil defense agency.

"This type of structure may solve the problem of finding economical, durable and effective shelters against radiological fallout," said state civil defense director Francis A. Woolfley.

Hough said the new brick, with burned rice hulls used as a substitute for sand, actually will gain in strength over a period of years and tend to become like soft sandstone.

The bricks are lighter and probably better insulator than adobe bricks, but not comparable in strength, Hough said.

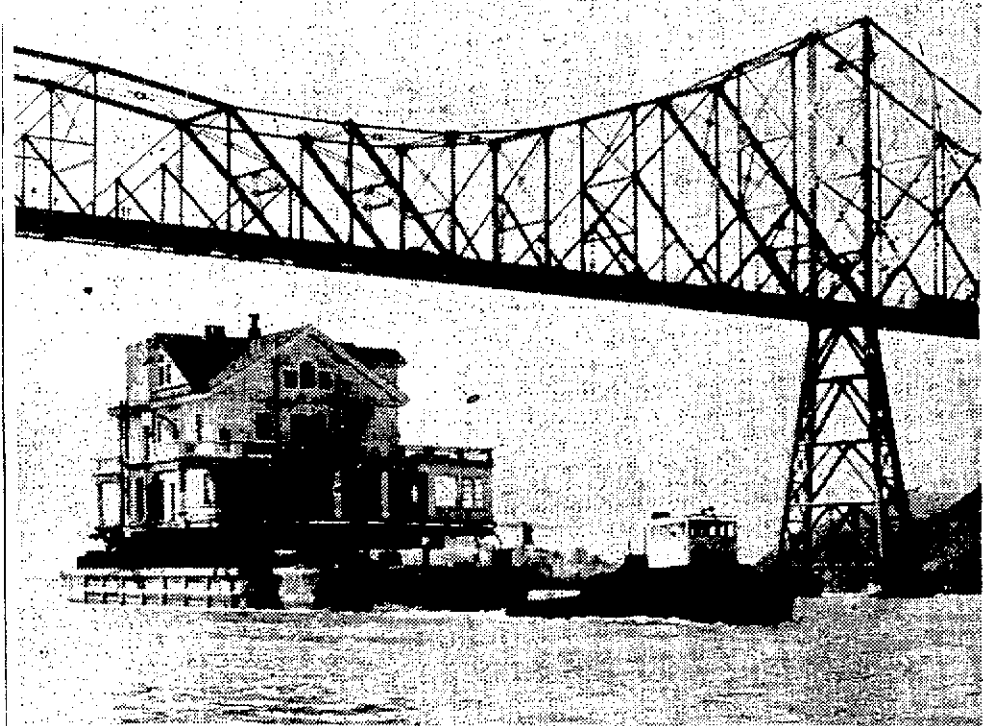

He estimated that the "soil-ash" brick could be made by a farmer for as little as five cents each, if he had the brick forms, mixers and rice hulls.

The bricks are made of equal parts of ash and soil and some emulsified asphalt with water added, poured into forms and dried before being exposed to the sun for curing.

Voyagers on Junk Due in This Week

TAIPEI (AP)—U. S. Vice Consul Calvin E. Mehlert hopes the 30-ton junk carrying him and five Chinese crewmen across the Pacific will reach San Francisco early this week.

A radio message received from Mehlert Friday said the junk Free China, which left here 110 days ago on a voyage that has been persistently dogged by trouble, would reach the California city within three days.

Thermal Oil Recovery in Field Tests

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An experiment with a new method of recovering heavy crude oil in California has shifted to a commercial oil field after being conducted in a laboratory the past eight years.

The test will be the first attempt to extract heavy oils from a commercial field by a thermal recovery process. This method was developed in Texas by Magnolia Petroleum Co., as a joint research effort of Socony Mobile Oil Co. and its affiliates, Magnolia and General Petroleum.

General Petroleum has just started the experiment in the South Belridge field, northwest of Bakersfield in Kern County. The project is expected to take 2½ to 3 years and to cost about a million dollars.

The purpose, GP says, is to see if thermal recovery, also known as in-place combustion, is feasible from both engineering and economic angles as a secondary way to recover low gravity crude which has resisted gas or water injection, or other means.

IN LAB TESTS of thermal recovery, Magnolia engineers found that the heat generated by burning a small amount of heavy residual oil underground in a reservoir lowers the viscosity of the remaining oil so that the latter can be recovered when pushed toward producing wells.

What actually is done, the company explained, is this: The heavy oil is ignited electrically after the oil sands have been permeated by air, pumped into the zone through an injection well. The combustion rate is regulated by the amount of air injected.

No usable oil is expended in the thermal recovery process. That oil is pushed ahead of the burning front after their viscosities have been changed, with only the residual oil actually burning.

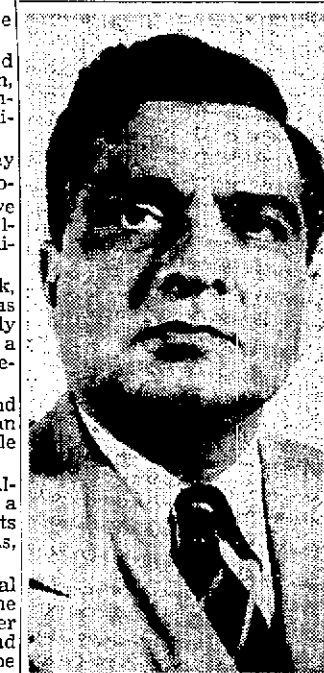

THE GP EXPERIMENT is being carried on in the upper portion of the Tulare oil zone and at a depth of about 700 feet, producing 13 degree gravity crude.

This zone is similar to other California producing zones which contain large amounts of heavier crude oils at the end of primary production.

The field test will use a 5-well pattern, with four production wells centered on one injection well. The production wells will be 330 feet apart. There are also four observation wells.

If the thermal-recovery method succeeds here, GP said, other tests may lead to production of unestimated but apparently large amounts of oil heretofore held to be unrecoverable.

Other firms connected with the field experiment are Continental Oil, Esso Research and Engineering, Gulf Oil, Honolulu Oil, Ohio Oil, Shell Development, Sunray Mid-Continent, Texas Tide Water Associated Oil and Union Oil Companies.

Truck Plunges, Driver Saved by Fast Leap

HILLSBOROUGH (AP)—Jacob Reitz, 39, of Fresno, jumped to safety as his six-wheel dump truck plunged off a 50-foot embankment on Crystal Springs Road Saturday.

He said the vehicle went out of control when the dirt load shifted. Before Reitz jumped, the truck snapped off 50 feet of heavy timber fence and clipped off a utility pole. The pole landed on a following car driven by Carl Alex Wilcosinsky, 25, of San Mateo.

When Wilcosinsky stopped his car it was struck from the rear by another dump truck driven by Wallace J. Carter, 51, of Pismo Beach. The pileup halted traffic for an hour.

Ike Won't Interfere in Washington Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House Saturday labeled as false reports that President Eisenhower might be considering a proposal to end the long Washington transit strike by agreeing to veto a bill to revoke the Capital Transit Co. franchise and corporate charter.

"The President of the United States does not make any agreements with anyone as to how he shall perform his constitutional duties," press secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters.

CHICAGO (AP)—Three things happened to make Saturday a big occasion for 31-year-old Mrs. Bessie Samet.

It was her birthday. It was her 11th wedding anniversary, and she received a letter from Queen Elizabeth of Britain.

The letter was acknowledgment of a poem, "Sonnet to a Great Lady," which Mrs. Samet had written and sent to her.

Drug Given Blame as 2 Children Die

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Following the death of two children and the serious illness of five others, warnings were broadcast in Lisbon Saturday against further use of a penicillin-type drug produced in Portuguese laboratories.

The broadcasts were aimed at physicians and druggists. Don't inject any more "Lipocine," said the announcements. The laboratory which manufactures the product said the drug had been made and sold since October 1954, with excellent results.

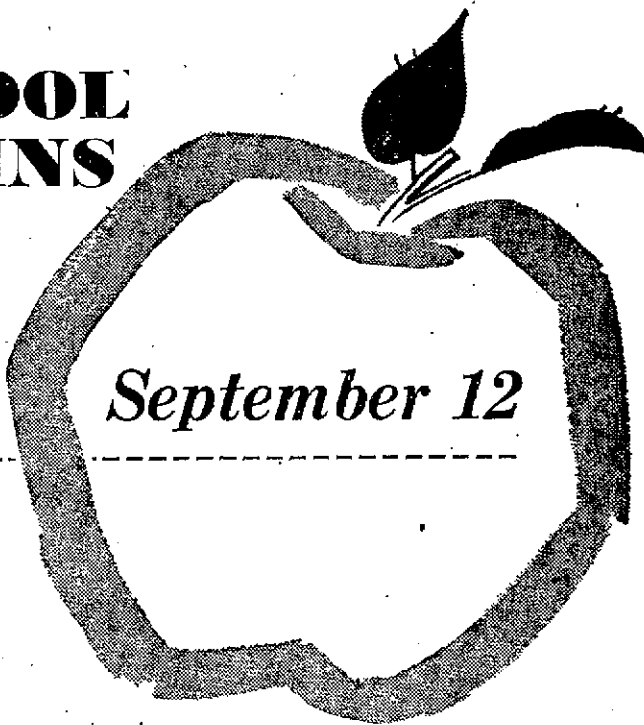

U.S. Crops Urged to Crack Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) Saturday urged President Eisenhower "to use our vast farm surpluses as a weapon to crack the Iron Curtain."

"We have something that Soviet Russia and Red China urgently need," Kerr said in an interview. "If these stocks of food, feed and fiber are handled properly they can end international tensions and make for peace."

Other senators, including Stennis (D-Miss), Russell (D-Ga.) and Young (R-ND) have suggested that U. S. farm surpluses might be sold or traded to Iron Curtain countries if the Communist world demonstrates it is sincere about ending the cold war and expanding peaceful trade.

CAMP IN CANADA

Local Scouts Leave Soon for Jamboree

Three Long Beach Explorer Scouts and one adult leader will represent this city at the 8th World Jamboree of Boy Scouts, convening in Niagara-on-the-Lake, Canada, Aug. 18 for an 11-day period.

The local Scouts will leave Monday night for Los Angeles and depart by train Tuesday morning for Salt Lake City, where a two-day practice camp will be set up.

The itinerary of the western Scouts, comprising five full troops of 33 boys each, plus three adult leaders in each troop, will take them from Salt Lake through Chicago, New York and Washington, D. C., before arrival at the quaint Canadian town, which is near Niagara Falls and Lake Ontario.

DR. DON MARKHAM is the adult leader who will be Scoutmaster of one of the troops. He will have as assistants Calvin Detwiler of Hollywood and Weston F. Sprague of Whittier.

Dr. Markham, commissioner of the Long Beach Area Council, will be the official movie photographer for Long Beach and Region 12, BSA. He is taking 4,000 feet of 16-mm. film and will dub in sound track later. When finished, the motion picture will be shown to thousands of Long Beach Scouts.

In his troop will be California, Arizona, Utah and Hawaii boys. The boys from this area are Robert Smith, Compton; Evert Brown Downey; Emil Ponso Jr.; Lynwood; Bradley Peck; Richard Terbush; Douglas Sprague and Sanford Weldon, all of Whittier. The Long Beach boys are Jerry Jacobs, 14 (Post 101), 4300 California Ave.; Bill Bennett, 15 (Post 48), 4101 Chestnut Ave., and Johnny Sessions, 14 (Post 86), 5105 Harvey Way.

Bennett and Sessions are Eagle Scouts and Jacobs is well on his way toward that high honor.

SIX HAWAIIAN BOYS are scheduled to reach here tonight, via airliner from Honolulu. They will join Dr. Markham's troop Monday evening.

Canada is expected 10,000 Scouts and adults leaders at the jamboree. One thousand of those will be flown across the Atlantic from England, making it the biggest airlift in Scouting history. Canada has invited 47 countries of the British Commonwealth and 57 other nations to send delegates to the jamboree.

GOING TO WORLD JAMBOREE

Railroad Century Saluted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Blood-tingling cries of "Gold!" still echoed through the Mother Lode foothills of the Sierra.

River steamers and sailboats, plying the Sacramento River from San Francisco, dumped passengers and supplies on the busy river docks.

Stages and freight wagons rumbled through the streets on their way to bustling mining camps—Red Dog, Whiskey Bar, Rough and Ready, Yankee Jim's and Murderer's Bar.

Sutter's Fort, once a community of several hundred whites, Indians and half-breeds, had become the thriving little city of Sacramento.

AGAINST THAT backdrop, Col. Charles Wilson launched the first railroad project in California and 100 years ago next Tuesday the Sacramento Valley Railroad Co. (SVRR) laid its first rails of a 23-mile line to nearby Folsom.

Beset by financial difficulties and competition, the SVRR several years later was taken over by the Central Pacific Railroad, parent of today's farflung Southern Pacific.

On Tuesday, the Southern Pacific observes the 100th anniversary of its first line in the West, forerunner of the historic railroad days of the "Big Four"—Leland Stanford, Collis P. Huntington, Charles Crocker and Mark Hopkins.

The centennial celebration at the SP station here will include a "train to rail" pageant. There will be Pony Express riders, an old stage coach and reenactment of historic episodes of early railroad days.

A HIGH POINT will be arrival of a "pioneer" train pulled by one of the old diamond stacked locomotives. The train will include an early day coach, complete with its pot-bellied stove, oil lamps and passengers in top hats and bustles.

On exhibition will be some of the West's most historic old locomotives and cars as well as modern railroad equipment.

An anniversary dinner will honor Theodore Dehone Judah, the young chief engineer who built the Sacramento-Folsom line and later surveyed the route for the first transcontinental railroad, over the High Sierra via Donner Pass.

Lakewood Dogs Entertain Tots

Fifty dogs and their handlers, all of the Lakewood Obedience Club, entertained young patients at the Children's Orthopedic Hospital, Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon. The dogs demonstrated obedience from the basic "sit!" and "down!" to advanced "education" when they follow complicated instructions by hand signals alone.

Events included relay races over six hurdles, and maneuvers to music by a drill team of 16 dogs and their handlers.

Robert Davis emceed the show.

HAS GOT SO MUCH TO GO WITH!

The most up-to-date V8

Chevrolet "Turbo-Fire"—that's the quick way to say "the most modern, and the goingest, V8 on the road!" So advanced in design and so efficient in operation that it needs only 4 quarts of oil instead of the usual 5. Shortest stroke of any V8 in the industry. Delivers more horsepower per pound than any engine in Chevrolet's field. Take your choice of the 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire" or the 180-h.p. "Super Turbo-Fire," optional at extra cost.

Two Sizzling 6's

If you go for 6's, Chevrolet offers two that will really go for you! They're the most powerful 6's in Chevrolet's field—with all the advantages of Chevrolet's long leadership in valve-in-head engine design. And like the V8's, they give you the extra punch, performance and reserve power of the only 12-volt electrical system in Chevrolet's field.

HIRAM'S MARKET STARTED

Work Starts on Hiram's Market

Ground was broken Friday morning for the new Hiram's Market at Spring St. and Palo Verde Ave., which will be the largest such store in the Southland and one of the largest in the state, the Aldon Construction Co., developers, announced.

Costing $2,000,000, the store will have 51,500 square feet of floor space. Construction will be done by Zimmer-Lieberman, Los Angeles.

All of the latest conveniences for shopping will be incorporated, according to the owners, Phil Harris, Irving Moss, Leon Silverman and Nat Moss.

This will be the fourth supermarket for the firm. The first was opened in August, 1939, in

Los Altos Buyers Can Occupy Homes Before School Opens

"Be in your new home before school opens," is assured buyers in the popular 25th unit of Los Altos, Rodney Whaley, executive vice president of the Los Altos Realty, Inc., stressed as he announced only a limited number of homes remain on the market.

Located on Palo Verde Ave., just north of Anaheim St., the homes adjoin the exclusive La Marina Estates sites which L. S. Whaley & Sons are offering for highly restricted residential construction. They are also across the street from the fast-growing new Long Beach State College.

Close by is a grade school and only a short distance away is the new high school, now under construction.

Embodiment of most of the outstanding features of other Whaley built homes in Los Altos, the 25th unit offers a wide selection from which the buyers may select their new home.

Built-in ranges, ovens, beautiful fireplaces, glass walls to the patio areas and each with two baths, are but some of the many features of this newest unit. A complete fire alarm system is offered.

WITH CONSTRUCTION nearly completed on the big new Walker's Department Store in the Los Altos Shopping Center, Bellflower Ave. and Stearns St., and many other stores now being erected, property values in the area are showing a marked upward swing, reported Dave Davenport, general sales manager of Los Altos Realty, Inc.

"With the new center open we will offer Los Altos residents the complete, planned community, unequalled anywhere else," emphasized Davenport.

"When Mr. Whaley started his developments in the area he set aside much acreage for parks, churches and schools. We now have some of the outstanding grade and junior high schools in the Southland and soon will have a big new high school. The city has started developing the parks and we already have fine churches throughout the area."

"With the shopping center opening Los Altos will become one of the best-known communities in the nation because of the planning and development."

"Recent sales of homes 'two and three years old in Los Altos show a marked upward trend in values, largely because of the development of the center."

Unit 25 may be reached by driving out Pacific Coast Hwy. to the Junction of 7th St., east on 7th a short block to Bellflower Blvd., north on Bellflower to Anaheim St. and east to Palo Verde. Or from the north, visitors may drive east on Spring St. to Palo Verde and south to the model homes.

LUXURY LIVING OFFERED

Recently completed is the 26-unit furnished apartments at 231 Belmont Ave., known as the Bon-Vita. Built by Weese Bros., they were designed by Architects Killingsworth-Brady & Smith, outstanding for contemporary work. Indoor-outdoor living is provided in the luxury units as the singles and one-bedroom apartments open onto this spacious patio with heated swimming pool. (Perry Griffith photo.)

Walker-Lee's Sales Soar

Walker & Lee's 1955 real estate sales to date triple those of last year. Figures released reveal this realty firm sold over 3,000 homes in the first 6 months of this year, with a volume of $38,786,167 compared to 1954's sales for the same period of 1,124 homes valued at $12,904,358.

"The fact that Walker & Lee is tripling last year's sales volume is indicative of the record-breaking sales the home building industry is setting in Southern California," said Frank Hart, general sales manager of the realty firm. "Sales in Orange County continue at a fabulous rate and indications are that there will be no let up in 1955," Hart continued.

Walker & Lee, Inc. has gained national recognition as specialists in merchandising new homes and subdivision acreage. The firm maintains offices in Lakewood and Orange County and serves many of the Southland's top builders.

Linda Lyle Estates for Luxury Living

"Convenience" has been the key-word in the planning of Linda Lyle Estates, according to builder James F. Rigsby.

Linda Lyle Estates received wide publicity as an all-electric community, but electric living is only one of many attractions to be found in the homes.

Rigsby said, "We took it for granted that our buyers would expect such things as sliding glass doors, fireplaces, select hardwood floors, complete insulation and patios. We went further, though, and tried to think of features that some people might not specifically ask for, but would be glad to have after they moved in. That's why we have included infra-red ceiling heaters in the bathrooms, vent-hood equipped with lights and fans over the ranges, professional landscaping, easy-to-clean GE textolite moulded drainboards and handy breakfast bars."

Storage space has been emphasized as well, with revolving closets, walk-in kitchen pantries, oversized garages and attics.

Linda Lyle Estates are set in an orange grove on the western outskirts of Fullerton. Schools, churches and a complete shopping center are nearby. The homes are on Cypress St., one hundred yards north of East Chapman Ave.

Five basic floor plans for 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes are offered from $20,000 to $24,000. Among the many extras included in the purchase price of each home are six General Electric built-in appliances in color: Range, refrigerator (hanging-wall refrigerator in some homes), oven, garbage disposer, dishwasher and combination washer-dryer. A General Electric water heater is also included in the purchase price, and so is a GE weathertron that heats, cools and air-conditions without burning fuel of any kind.

Two B. of A. Men Promoted

Two Long Beach bank officers, Ralph K. Seiersen and Rene A. Brosseau, have been promoted by action of Bank of America's board of directors, Jesse W. Tapp, chairman, announced.

Seiersen, who is at the bank's Long Beach main office, receives the title of vice president and trust officer. Brosseau, at First and Pine branch, has been promoted to an assistant vice president.

Seiersen, 600 Flint Ave., is a member of the Elks and Exchange clubs and the Chamber of Commerce.

Brosseau, 825 Golden Ave., is a member of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Lions club, and was active in last year's Red Cross drive.

Quality Is Stressed in Pembroke Village

Good sales response at Pembroke Village unit 5 in Garden Grove indicates that today's home buyer is willing to make a reasonable down payment for a quality home, reports Bruch Bartleson, sales director for Pembroke Village, builders and developers of this unique and popular unit featuring rustic architecture for country living.

This newest unit of Pembroke Village continues emphasis on custom details, Bartleson related, and there are several new features in the three or four-bedroom, two-bath Hanson and Hite homes.

Compartmentalized baths with sliding doors make it possible for five people to conveniently use the facilities in complete privacy, and the bathrooms are equipped with fans and Pullman lavatories.

Albert Walker, Ric Owen Win Realty Board Honors

Albert E. Walker, who first became interested in real estate when dragging a surveyor's chain at the age of 12, is the Realtor of the Week, honored by the Long Beach Board.

A native of Arkansas, Walker aided his grandfather in surveying land for his renters.

He was a salesman for a large fixture concern in the east from 1923 to 1943.

"I learned the definition of money at an early age," he says. "Money is a commodity that will buy everything except health and happiness and a universal passport to everywhere except heaven."

His next move was to learn how to acquire money, he continues.

"I found the basis of all wealth is real estate and decided to make realty my business."

"Having come to Long Beach and worked in the shipyards from 1943 until 1947, I studied real estate and passed the examination in July, 1947. I opened an office on East Broadway. Then in January of 1950 I moved from that office to my present location at 1827 Harbor Ave."

With him is an associate broker, Mrs. Thelma Chigaras.

Mr. Walker and his wife, May, are charter members of the Trust Memorial Baptist Church, where he serves as the eldest active deacon. Their home is at 1245 Loma Vista Dr.

E. W. (RIC) OWEN, the salesman of the week, is one of the most traveled persons in Long Beach.

He came to California from the Great Lakes region as a lad. While working his way through the University of California, Berkeley, travel books gave him a yearning to see the world. With $50 in his pocket he took a leave of absence. First he purchased a $30 used car and headed east. After 6 months he reached the coast, having worked his way along.

In the next 15 years saw him cover most of the world, 75 countries in all.

"I did this selling," he explains. "Selling goodwill, education, entertainment, films, literature and advertising. I recall how it was tacos in Mexico, cane in Cuba, salt water to Capetown, big game in Africa, heat in Arabia, curry in India, tea in Ceylon, temples in Siam, rubber in Malaya, opium in Saigon, the wall in China and Geisha girls in Japan. Those are some memories."

"I finally returned home to complete my education and graduate from Berkeley and then took off to tour North and South America. I returned to New York to start a lecture tour just as gas rationing started."

His tour plans halted. Owen went into war work in the Pentagon and then came to Long Beach for war work.

With his knowledge of the world he decided to teach geography in the public schools and did so for 5 years. Then he returned to selling. He signed up with Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., 408 E. First St.

He recently was awarded a trophy by the Long Beach Sales Executive Club because of his selling ability.

"I think I have seen the world and I can proudly say that Long Beach has more today and promises more tomorrow than any other area."

Owen, unmarried, lives at 1236 Atlantic Ave.

Office Moved
Carl and Kathryn Wiand announced they had moved their realty office from 2441 E. 10th St. to larger quarters at 3226 E. Broadway.

Village Home Fair Draws Big Response

Although many of the roads in the area are still in the new pavement stage, the preview showing of the Anaheim Village Home Fair in West Anaheim last week met with overwhelming response, the sales agent, Walker & Lee, reported.

Buyers from the Long Beach area were especially enthusiastic over the near location and the wide variety of floor plans and the choice of conventional and modern exteriors.

The builders, Griffith Bros., also stressed that buyers who act quickly can still buy on the veteran, no-down terms and easy 30-year payments. "Home Fair is one of the newest home sites that will have these easy terms while the homes in our first unit remain for sale," a spokesman for the builders said.

The Anaheim Village homes feature the Blue Ribbon kitchens that have built-in range and oven, washer-dryer, dishwasher and disposal in a choice of decorator colors.

To visit Anaheim Village Home Fair go straight out Lincoln (Carson) to Euclid and turn right at the signal to the homes.

New Records at City Library

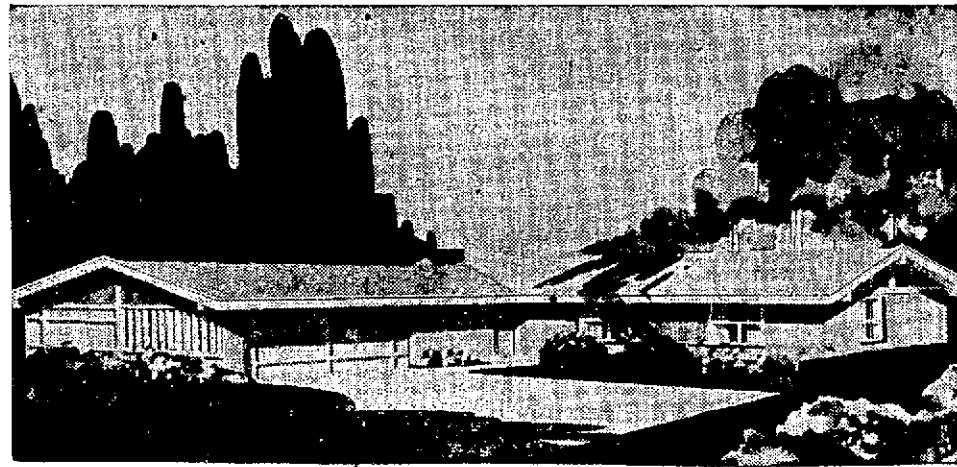

The Public Library suggests that you listen to "Symphonies Under the Stars" in your own patio, if you are unable to get to the Hollywood Bowl as often as you like. Suggested new lps to choose from are:

"The Art of Josef Lhevine" (selections from Chopin, Debussy, etc.); Frank, "Symphony in D Minor" (Pavane conducting); Holst, "The Planets" (Sargent conducting); Mahler, "Symphony No. 8 in E Major"; Rimsky-Korsakov, "Symphony No. 2" (Ansermet conducting) and Shostakovich, "Symphony No. 1" with "The Golden Age."

IN ANAHEIM VILLAGE

This home is typical of the variety of contemporary and provincial stylings being offered at the Anaheim Village Homes Fair where the three and four-bedroom homes are still available to vets for no down payment, sales agents Walker & Lee stated.

IN CHAMPION PARK

Wide choice of stylings, as exemplified above, gives custom-built appearances to 148 three and four-bedroom, two-bath home community at Champion Park, located at East and North Sts., Anaheim.

'Wetback' Arrests Show Big Drop

EL CENTRO (UPI)—Arrests of Mexican "wetbacks" were far under last year's total through July, the U. S. Border Patrol announced.

Average daily arrests during the month were 54 for a total of 1,645 or 24 per cent under those made in July, 1954, when 202 illegal entrants were apprehended.

Builders to Wear Loud, Wierd Shirts

Members of the Builders' Exchange of Long Beach, who attended the dinner meeting Monday evening at Lafayette Hotel, are invited to wear colorful sport shirts.

Chuck Stovall, manager of the Exchange, said most men have received shirts as gifts which they consider too loud and wierd to wear in public. "Here's their chance to wear them," he explained.

Speaker at the dinner will be Al Sparlis, former All-American and pro grid player. He will discuss proselyting players.

George Jagerson is program chairman for the month.

Report Heavy Sales for Champion Park

Heavy sales increases were reported by the Arnold Construction Co., builders of Champion Park at North and East Sts. in Anaheim, following announcement that nothing-down terms for veterans and small down payments for non-vets, will continue for a limited time, despite the recent government ruling restricting such terms on future developments.

The three model homes, with contemporary, maple and modern furnishings, have drawn large crowds, including many buyers, from all parts of the Southland, it was reported.

"Noteworthy in Champion Park Homes," he said, "are the nine different scientifically designed floor plans to meet individual needs, and the avoidance of 'tract appearance' by giving buyers a choice from among 18 different exteriors."

"Living rooms," he added, "have sliding walls of glass opening onto terraces, with built-in brick barbecues, while draperies for the wide-expanse of glass walls come with the homes in a choice of six colors."

Terms for vets are nothing down but costs and impounds with monthly payments from $66.70 for principal and interest. Non-vets may buy on low FHA terms.

Other features of the new homes include built-in range and ovens, 70,000 to 75,000 BTU thermostat-controlled heating, 40 to 50-gallon gas water heaters, ceramic tile pullman tops in both baths, stall showers in some models, natural birch kitchen cabinets, Waste King garbage pulverizers, wide overhangs, redwood fencing, front and side lawns and shrubs, and two-car garages with extra storage space.

To Resume Dredging on Colorado River

NEEDLES (UPI)—Dredging operations on the Colorado River here will be resumed by the Bureau of Reclamation as soon as full crews can be obtained.

Paul A. Oliver, project engineer, said the dredging will start downstream from Needles. The channel will be cleared as far as Topock, about 10 miles to the south.

The project will cost $1,214,000, Oliver said.

Pay Hiked

GEORGE LOEB
Will Manage Local Store

Franklin's Will Open in Center

The opening of the new Franklin's in Lakewood Center early next month will mark the first step in expansion of the 170-store chain into Southern California.

Franklin's, operating its women's and children's ready-to-wear stores in many cities of the southwest and western states, will open about Sept. 1 at 5028 Pepperwood Ave.

Manager of the local store will be George Loeb, who comes here from Franklin's in Houston, Tex. Loeb has managed local units of the chain for the past six years.

He and his wife, Shirley, have settled in Los Altos, residing at 6828 Driscoll St. with their two children, Randy, 5, and Sandy, 16 months.

The new Franklin store, located in the mall unit south of the May Co., will cover 7,500 square feet. Four shopping window displays will face each side of the mall, with entrance to the store from both sides.

The shop will feature leading brand names, and will stock complete lines of women's and children's apparel.

"Our policy will be to strive for customer satisfaction and convenience in a friendly atmosphere," Loeb said.

Record Pace in Dwelling Construction

At the present pace of home building, an all-time record for construction of new dwelling units will be set this year in Los Angeles and Orange Counties, it was announced yesterday by the Home Builders Institute, trade association of large home builders and allied industries.

Unless the present pace slows, new dwelling units started during 1958 will total 121,900 in the two Southland counties. Previous high figure was chalked up in 1950 when 102,766 units were started.

Included in the figures are single family homes and multiple family structures already completed or started and units planned for construction starts during the next five months, it was stated.

Of the projected total for the two counties, 94,000 units are expected to rise in Los Angeles County while Orange County will be the scene for 27,900 new dwelling unit starts. Highest previous figures for the two counties, individually were 96,501 units in Los Angeles County in 1950, and 18,411 in Orange County in 1954. In 1950, Orange County had only 6,265 dwelling unit starts.

NEED FOR even more homes were pointed out by HBI President Walter W. Keuder, who said, "When we consider that 18,000 persons are moving into Los Angeles County each month, representing a current annual population increase by removal from other areas of 216,000 persons, it becomes evident that the 94,000 units expected to be started this year are not too many."

Of the 94,000 Los Angeles County units, 69,000 are expected to be single family residences, as compared to 78,025 in 1950. In Orange County, 27,000 of the 27,900 dwelling units forecast for 1958 are expected to be single family homes.

The Los Angeles County picture is already being effected, he said, by the increasing cost of land.

Sciots Schedule Pops Symphony

David Forester and the Hollywood Pops Symphony will give a concert Sept. 24 in Municipal Auditorium, under the auspices of Long Beach Sciots.

These annual concerts by the Hollywood Pops enable Sciots to expand their building at 1005 E. 6th St. headquarters of Sciots and many youth groups.

Mayor George M. Vermillion heads the committee. Tickets may be obtained at Sciots Hall.

No Immediate Effect Seen on Stiffer Housing Terms

By ROBERT F. MORISON

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Effects of the stiffer government guaranteed housing loan requirements are not likely to be felt for some time.

Officials of both the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration are watching the market to see what happens to new home building once the reduction in maximum loan maturity from 30 to 25 years and the 2 per cent hike in down payments is felt.

One government official said no "significant decline" is expected. Probably only after the current house building season is over can any estimate of the effect be made, he said.

He thought January would be a good indicator month.

Officials explained that the move was not directed against the volume of new building—top administration officials have said they see no evidence of overbuilding—but rather to forestall inflationary trends. Prices "have been creeping up" the past few months in various items used in construction. Although these rises have been largely absorbed, officials said, "that can't go on indefinitely."

THE NATIONAL Association of Home Builders disagreed with the government's move and flatly predicted an annual cut of 100,000 new units in housing starts next year once the present backlog of mortgages already approved is gone through. The NAHB fixed the value of these units at $1,000,000,000.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, too, condemned the move and said the government's "expressed fear of future shortages in certain building materials . . . is likely to have the effect of an invitation to hoarding building materials and boosting their prices."

Albert M. Cole, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, which handles the FHA home loan program, has estimated new housing starts this year at between 1,200,000 and 1,300,000. The record year was 1950 when 1,396,000 new starts were made.

Earlier this year, new home building ran at an annual rate of about 1,400,000 but has tapered off since.

In June, FHA and VA reported that record highs had been reached in new home loan approvals. For VA it was 39,500, and for FHA 32,000. But both agencies reported that applications for new loans were down in June from earlier this year.

THE VA, which industry officials expect to be harder hit, reports that in 1954 the average down payment was $1,100 on some 407,000 loans guaranteed. Two out of every 5 new home loans were guaranteed on a no-down-payment basis. One-third were approved on new homes for 26 to 30 year maturity.

The VA also said the 30-year loans were being traded at increasing discounts before they were dropped. But an industry official predicted that banks would soon start selling the 25-year loans at a discount too.

The VA and FHA regulations do not reflect the actual market terms which a buyer may get. They are, it is stressed, merely the most liberal terms the government will approve. The buyer may have to put more money down and pay off his mortgage in a shorter time.

For a $16,000 home, the FHA said, a buyer will now have to put down about $2,300 and pay $75.78 a month, including principal and interest, for 25 years. Under previous terms, he would have to make a 5 per cent minimum down payment of about $2,000 on the same house and pay $71.20 for 30 years.

FOR THE SAME home, the VA said, a GI buyer must now pay 2 per cent, or $300, down and $81.70 a month, including principal and interest, for 25 years. Before the change the buyer could, if the lending agency was willing, put nothing down and pay $76.05 a month, including interest and principal, for 30 years.

Typical conventional loan terms, according to the U.S. Savings and Loan League, are now 20 per cent down and, in the case of the hypothetical $15,000 home, pay $79.20 a month, including interest and principal, for 20 to 25 years.

POPULAR WITH BUYERS

Villa de Flores in Santa Ana reports heavy sales as the new unit offers luxury homes from $14,500 with no down except costs and impounds to vets.

Villa de Flores Reports Near Half Million Sales

Featuring all-electric kitchens that include built-in, comfort-level, range tops and electric dishwashers. Villa de Flores, Brainerd Construction Co.'s development of 108 custom-styled three-bedroom-and-a-den and four-bedroom residences on Flower St. in Santa Ana, today enters its fifth week of sales activity. Sales already have topped the $1/2 million mark, and nearing the $1 million record, according to officials of Walker and Lee, agents.

Priced from $14,500 and $15,400, qualified veterans are still moving in on terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs, it was stated, with monthly payments ranging from $73.52. Convenient FHA terms are also still available for non-veteran buyers, sales agents further explained.

Furnished exhibit homes, open daily to 9 p. m. are reached from Long Beach in approximately 20 minutes by driving east on Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) which becomes Memory Lane in Santa Ana, to Flower St., turn left on Flower to Orange St. and Villa de Flores. In addition to the built-in all-electric kitchens that also feature copperized range hood which is concealed exhaust fan and light, and large ash hardwood cabinets, other luxury appointments are floor-to-ceiling real log-burning fireplaces; sliding glass doors; genuine plaster walls; oak floors; forced air heating; deep, walk-in wardrobe closets; steel casements; cedar shingle roofs; Rockwool insulation.

Large and convenient separate service porches with rough-in for washer-dryer and stub-in for 220 volts; asphalt concrete driveways and concrete walks; and big, two-car garages with 300 cubic feet of storage area are other features.

Frank Chandler of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, declared that all residences in this newest section will be fully priced at $12,050, and are to be available to qualified veterans for no down payment except impounds and closing costs. Monthly terms, including principal and interest, will be $61.06.

Chandler urged all veterans interested in these quality homes on the easy terms to act without delay, adding that D. & E. Corporation has built more than a thousand dwellings in the Norwalk area, and all have been sold before actual completion. Community's model homes.

Placentia Park Holding First Showing of New Unit

Placentia Park, one of five select oak floors over wood sub new home locations in the choice East Side residential section of Anaheim, will hold its feature showing this weekend.

The spacious 3 and 4-bedroom 2-bath homes are available to buyers in a wide variety of 18 different exterior elevations and a range of floor plans.

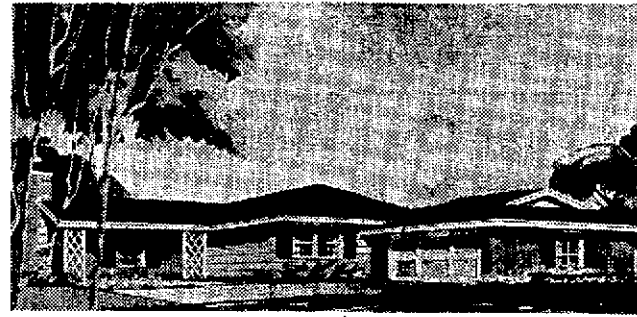

The variety, plus the quality construction and the low price of $13,910 has made the Placentia Park homes some of Anaheim's most popular, the sales agent, the Center Realty Co., said.

The choice of plans, exterior styling, the curved streets and ideal location coupled with sound construction that includes

Speakers to Discuss Realty Listings

Two speakers are on the program for the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors at Lafayette Hotel. Perry Johnson will discuss "Information a Listing Should Contain." Morris Holmgren will talk on "How to Obtain a Good Listing."

President E. T. Moore announced he will make his quarterly report at the meeting and no other business will be considered. John Bohan is program chairman.

AMONG MANY MODELS

This is typical of a Placentia Park home, just one of 505 different homes and floor plans all offered this week end and all within a few blocks of each other in the established residential East Side of Anaheim. The Placentia Park Homes, Bonded Homes, Chelsea Park Estates, Anaheim Gardens and Sun Estates all still offer veterans no-down-payment terms.

Still 'No Down' for Chapman-Magnolia

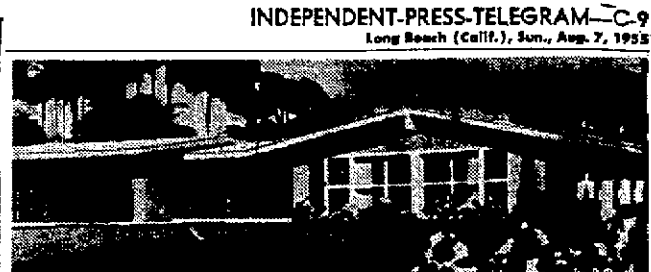

In spite of the recent governmental edict, officials of Ajax Construction Co., developers of Chapman-Magnolia Park, Garden Grove, announced the final unit of 3-bedroom-and-a-den and 4-bedroom homes, will still be available, to qualified veterans for no down payment, no impounds and no closing costs. Priced from $11,600, monthly payments for veterans will continue to be from $61.41, it was also noted, and all payments include principal as well as interest.

To inspect the development's two furnished model homes, open from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. every day, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Highway 30 (Grand Ave. to Buena Park); turn right and drive south to Chapman Ave.; left on Chapman to models.

Country-life features of these prestige homes termed as "distinctive rustic," are interiors where wall space, windows and use of floor area make effective and restful decoration and furnishing both simple and inexpensive, it was explained. Imaginative use of modern wall textures, finishings and color stylings help spur individual decorating talents, too, it was pointed out.

Other popular features are built-in gas ovens and range tops in a virtual rainbow of colors and hues, complete with automatic timing device and controls; spacious built-in breakfast nooks and large picture window.

DOLLAR-FREE TO VETS

Chapman-Magnolia Park, Garden Grove, still offers vets homes such as this without any down payment, not even impounds or closing costs.

Car Speedometer Often Faulty

BOSTON (AP)—When the policeman says you were speeding and you insist you weren't, chances are you're both right—because your speedometer probably is wrong.

That's the opinion of Robert S. Kretschmar, executive secretary of the American Automobile Assn., in Massachusetts.

"On newer cars," he said, "more than 50 per cent of those checked had speedometers that were 'slow.'"

Clubs Must Pay State Liquor Tax

TOPEKA (AP)—A request from the armed forces that liquor purchases for officers and non-commissioned officers clubs be exempt from the Kansas liquor gal-lonage tax, has been turned down.

The state liquor control director, Charles W. Pratt, said the tax amounts to about $20,000 a year.

Five Builders Offer East Anaheim Homes

Hailed as the newest in fine residential locations in Southern California, Anaheim's choice East Side is proving a popular homesite for many buyers.

This part of Anaheim, it was stressed, is well established with schools, churches, playgrounds and shopping centers already part of the smog-free community.

The location puts buyers close to beaches, and to main roads that lead to freeways yet is away from the industrial sections and noise of the freeway sites.

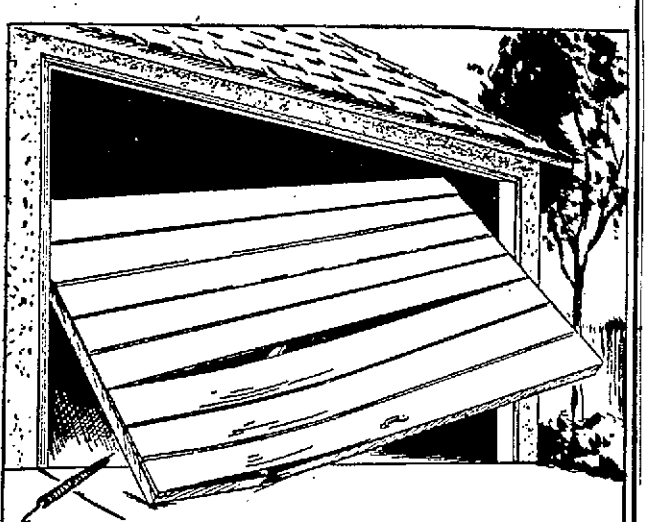

Five home builders will feature open houses in the area this

CLOSE TO BEACHES

Anaheim's choice residential East Side brings buyers very close to the Southland's finest beaches. Five home builders in that area are offering 505 homes, 20 furnished models this week end, and stress no down terms to veterans. Visitors are invited to see Bonded Homes, Anaheim Gardens, Chelsea Park Estates, Placentia Homes and Sun Estates—all within a few blocks of each other in the choice east part of Anaheim.

LIVING PACKAGE HOME

This attractive home is one of the distinguished contemporary designs at Verano House and Garden in Garden Grove featuring the complete indoor-outdoor living "package" developed by the Tobin Co. Included are complete landscaping, sprinklers, concrete patio with overhead trellis and large planter. Homes have three or four bedrooms.

'Package Plan' Aids Verano Home Buyer

Week ends formerly required for home buyers to condition new homes are saved for family activities with the indoor-outdoor living "package" featured at Verano House and Garden, new Tobin home development in Garden Grove.

Featuring complete landscaping, installed sprinkler system, trellis and concrete patio with overhead trellis and large planter, Verano 3 and 4-bedroom homes are ready for complete enjoyment when the home buyer moves in, according to W. J. Bortner, vice president of the Tobin Company, developers of this conveniently located suburban community.

The outdoor living facilities are a part of the complete living package, valued at $1135.55, included in the price of these 1½ and 2-bath homes, which can be purchased by veterans for no down payment, except impounds and closing costs. The 3-bedroom homes are priced at $10,995, with veterans' monthly payments, including principal and interest, of $59. Terms for models are full price, $12,595 and monthly payments, $66, according to the Pioneer Land Co., sales agents.

Interior features included in the living package are spacious kitchens, two big dining areas, Columbia steel kitchen cabinets with sliding glass doors and panoramic sand color, Westinghouse food waste disposers, kitchen vent fan, oversized electric bath heaters, Owens-Corning insulation, finger-tip heating with General thermostatic controls, Dishmaster and Laminart counter tops.

Homeseekers may reach Verano House and Garden via the Santa Ana Freeway to La Palma and follow signs to Brookhurst and Garden Grove Blvd.; left on Garden Grove to Century; right on Century to Verano, then follow signs to model homes, furnished by Aaron Shultz.

From Long Beach, take 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Century, turn right on Century to Verano.

Refrigerated Homes Termed 'Hot' Buys

"Real cool, yet the hottest home value in Orange County" is the way Henry C. Cox, builder, describes his new Lifetime Modern Refrigerated Homes, 100% air conditioned by Weather-sphere.

Large, quality-minded crowds are confirming Cox's opinion as they inspect the furnished model homes at Brookhurst and Chapman, Garden Grove.

Terms are no down to qualified veterans, followed by monthly payments as low as $73.32 (including both principal and interest).

The ultra-modern "ground-hugging" architecture of these new homes is characterized by glass gables and four foot overhangs, shading sliding glass walls and aluminum framed sliding windows. Lighting is noiseless Touch-Plate.

Meal preparation is virtually automatic in the Lifetime Modern Kitchens that offer the finest of nationally known built-in equipment, including range and oven, disposal and exhaust fans. Lavishly spacious, Lifetime Modern Refrigerated Homes of fine 3 or 4 bedrooms, plus a den, a dining room and breakfast nook, a roomy pantry, and 2 lavishly tiled baths.

Luxury Homes Only Few Minutes Away From Long Beach Industry

Easy accessibility to the Long Beach industrial and business areas is an important asset of "Luxury Homes," the completely new tract of contemporary homes in Garden Grove.

New freeways and modern highways take the "Luxury Home" resident to metropolitan Long Beach, as well as surrounding townships, in a matter of minutes.

Acclaimed the "moderate priced" home with the "luxury features," these homes are Modern Refrigerated Homes of fine 3 or 4 bedrooms, plus a den, a dining room and breakfast nook, a roomy pantry, and 2 lavishly tiled baths.

Incorporated in each residence are more than 44 extra features adding to a comfort and livability time.

unmatched by all others in the same price range.

Veterans can buy a "Luxury Home" for no cash down. Payments are as low as $73.32 per month for principal and interest. Four model homes are on display at Brookhurst Ave. and Bell Rd. in Garden Grove.

Ultra-modern accessories such as the built-in oven and range top, handy garbage disposal, cozy built-in breakfast nook, and unusually large closets are included to meet the needs and desires of growing families.

An emphasis is also placed on outdoor living, with a huge backyard area enclosed with decorative redwood fencing provided every home. Front landscaping is also included with attractive California shrubbery featured.

Plan Luxury Own-Your-Own

Brokers E. F. Barton and John E. Lenz announce the sale of the square feet and 1-bedroom den apartments 800 to 1,000 square feet. All units will have ultra modern built-in kitchens and a pantry.

The buyers, who have been active builders of own your own apartments, will improve this 100'x150' corner with the first privately financed multi-story Class A, steel and concrete, own your own constructed in Long Beach in 25 years.

Plans being drawn call for construction is scheduled to start at once.

Private Industry Joins War on Nation's Slums

By NEIL MacNEIL
WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's slums are under the most massive attack in history. Private industry has joined the government to correct housing ills in cities all over the country. Untold billions of dollars are being poured into slum clearance. Neighborhood rehabilitation, housing code enforcement, and new construction. The National Association of Real Estate Boards has launched a blight elimination program under the slogan: "No slums by 1960." The National Association of Home Builders, with 33,000 members, hopes to set up housing service centers in 50 cities before Jan. 1 to lead the attack on local housing eye-sores. Eventually the NAHB plans to have such a center in every major American community. Lending institutions—notably the U. S. Savings & Loan League—are seeking national legislation to permit them to take an active role in the war against slums. NAREB president Henry G. Waltemade said that the realtors' program to eliminate slums by 1960 is both "practical and attainable." He said this has been demonstrated by such programs in Los Angeles, New Orleans, Pasadena, Calif., Kansas City, Mo., and Charlotte, N. C. He also cited Chicago, New York, Cincinnati, Corpus Christi, Tex., Detroit, Portland, Me., and Philadelphia as making "impressive headway" in similar programs. "THESE COMMUNITIES are now wiping out unsafe and insanitary housing conditions at an annual rate that will make them free of health, safety and sanitary hazards in housing within five years," Waltemade said. "This doesn't mean, of course, that we expect perfection in urban environment by 1960. It does mean that any city that determines to do it can be without slum-breeding filth, squalor and dangers to health and safety... by 1960." The NAREB estimates, on the basis of U. S. census figures, that as much as $12,000,000,000 a year may now be going into home improvements and repairs. Many of these repairs are ordered by housing code enforcement officials—but many others are voluntary. Morton Sabar, chief of the NAHB rehabilitation department, said several major industries may join in the fight to eliminate slums. He said some are urging establishment of housing service centers to lead the attack in local communities. THESE CENTERS have already been established in Louisville, Ky., and Richmond, Va. Others are being formed in Washington, D. C., and Baltimore. Each would have a joint operating committee of builders, realtors, lenders, and civic leaders to advise the full-time permanent staff of the center. U. S. Savings & Loan president J. Howard Edgerton recently said that the lack of "enabling legislation" has so far prevented lenders from contributing their "know-how" to the cause of slum elimination. "Incredible as it may seem," he said, "the opportunity to assume part of the job of redevelopment has been withheld from our institutions, despite the fact that our institutions do the biggest home financing job and know more about housing than any other group of lenders." He urged that lenders be allowed to invest up to 5 per cent of assets in financing land acquisition and development or in construction and sale of houses in cleared slum areas. Sabar said the federal government could not carry the job of urban redevelopment all alone. He said this generally requires long advance planning and reflects the immediate need of neighborhood improvement.

Blue Bell 'Bargain' for Vets

To promote the sale of their luxurious 4-bedroom homes in Garden Grove, the builders of Blue Bell Manor are offering a 10-day special.

Veterans can move in for only $199 which includes impounds—a saving of nearly $200. Occupancy is immediate upon lenders approval according to Sam Wishnow, an officer of Monogram Home Builders, developers of the tract.

Blue Bell Manor is proving a favorite because of its close relationship to the beaches, Disneyland, and its ready access to the freeway and all major thoroughfares.

Conventional loans are available for non-veterans with only $4,995 as the down payment. Blue Bell Manor is reached by way of the Santa Ana Freeway, east to Euclid, south on Euclid to Chapman, east to West St. and then north to the tract.

These 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath luxury homes have four basic floor plans with choice of exterior and interior designs providing ample choice for prospective buyers to find self-expression in the home of their dreams.

A very limited number of these houses are available for immediate occupancy upon lenders approval. They are in the first unit and are on choice locations. The opening of the second unit provides the prospective home owner with a complete selection of homesites and floor plans.

Board Ends Hearings on Tax Boosts

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The State Board of Equalization has completed two weeks of hearings on proposals to increase tax assessments in 19 California counties.

Since July 25 each county has been allotted a half-day to make a protest.

The objections have followed a pattern. The counties have argued that the board's computations were inaccurate and that the board's sampling methods were inadequate.

FIVE COUNTIES — Merced, San Benito, Riverside, Shasta and Colusa—won their cases. The board, after last minute readjustments in each case, ruled that assessments within those counties were within five percent of the 25 per cent or market value goal set by the board.

The remaining 14 counties await a decision Aug. 15, the last date for the board to "equalize" assessments among counties. "Equalization" means simply that the board wants each county to assess property at the same percentage of market value as all other counties.

AS THE FIRST STEP to bringing this about, the board proposed to up the assessment ratio in 19 counties where it found, by special sampling, that the assessment was below 20 per cent market value.

The last time the board exercised this power and duty to "equalize" assessments was in 1935. A majority of the counties went through an upgrading that left many county assessors and local taxpayers mad at the board.

IN SANTA ANA

Fairview Ranchos Landscaping Included; No Down to Vets

Fairview Ranchos, new D. & E. redwood planter box and seat posers; copperized range hood with concealed exhaust fan; natural-finish wood kitchen cabinets with hammered copperized hardware; a "convertible" dining nook, semiautomatic dishwasher. Service porches, which are separate in some models, have built-in laundry trays; 40-gallon water heaters, and inlaid linoleum flooring.

Surrounding the entire garden area is a 5-foot high redwood basket-weave fence. Fairview Ranchos can be reached via the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor Blvd.; right on Harbor Blvd. to Edinger St., left on Edinger to Bristol, then left to a row of models furnished by C. Tony Percira, and color-schemed by Mel Grau. Exhibit homes are open daily.

Offered are three basic floor plans with either front or rear in profusion decorate the sites. Living rooms, and 23 exterior designs. "Happiness kitchens" feature double sinks with colored ceramic drainboards; garbage disposers; copperized range hood with concealed exhaust fan; natural-finish wood kitchen cabinets with hammered copperized hardware; a "convertible" dining nook, semiautomatic dishwasher. Service porches, which are separate in some models, have built-in laundry trays; 40-gallon water heaters, and inlaid linoleum flooring.

More than 1,500 square feet of lawn is planted, front and rear, with sprinklers installed. Shrubs in profusion decorate the sites. Living rooms, and 23 exterior designs. "Happiness kitchens" feature double sinks with colored ceramic drainboards; garbage disposers; copperized range hood with concealed exhaust fan; natural-finish wood kitchen cabinets with hammered copperized hardware; a "convertible" dining nook, semiautomatic dishwasher. Service porches, which are separate in some models, have built-in laundry trays; 40-gallon water heaters, and inlaid linoleum flooring.

Glen Dell Park Features Central Hall Plan Homes

Homes built around the central hall plan, and offering either front or rear living rooms, 2 bedrooms, attached or detached 2-car garages, 23 exteriors, and a variety of decorative redwood trims as well as other custom exterior appointments, are current attractions at the third and final unit of Glen Dell Park, in suburban Garden Grove, according to officials of Pioneer Land Co. sales agents.

Still available to qualified veterans for nothing down except impounds and closing costs, and on monthly terms that range from $58.75, including principal and interest, development's mortgage-payment insurance protection policy, with premiums paid for one year, which is given to each buyer at no added cost, continues to draw potential buyers from many Southern California communities, builders say.

Structurally, Glen Dell Park homes, like all D. & E. Corp. projects, offer conventional construction, which features such time-tested building techniques as genuine oak hardwood floors for laid over diagonal sub-floors, genuine lath and plaster walls, and separate service porches.

Greatly expediting occupancy of completed homes in Unit No. 1, Pioneer officials further explained, is the escrow-processing desk right on the premises. Staffed with escrow-trained clerks, veterans' applications for loans are taken at the time of purchase, and processing begun almost immediately. This assures complete processing in 14 days or less, it was noted.

IT'S TRUE...

U.S. Tightens Housing Loan Regulations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The government today tightened the brakes gently on home-building boom today, announcing that tighter terms in mortgages it guarantees.

The Federal Housing Administration announced these changes, effective immediately:

- 1—The maximum repayment period for home loan mortgages is reduced from 30 to 25 years.
- 2—The minimum cash down payment is increased by 2% (from nothing to 2% in the case of GI loans).

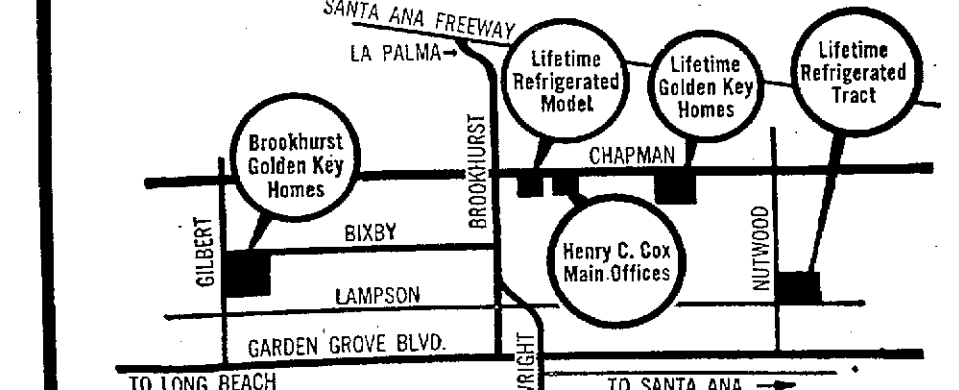

On FHA-insured loans, the action means a down payment of 7% will be required on the first $9000 of appraised value, plus 27% of the balance. For the past year the minimum had been 5% of the first $9000 and 25% of the remainder.

New Requirements
For a home costing $20,000, a down payment of $1,950 is required.

LARGE HOMES OFFERED

Delhi Gardens, Santa Ana, are all designed for the growing family and still can be purchased by vets for no down payment. This is one of the models.

Delhi Gardens Home for Growing Family

When Cliff Oisten, one of the claim for homes in Delhi Gardens, southland's foremost figures in, dens.

Kitchens feature built-in range tops, wall ovens and garbage disposers. They also have 50-gallon water heaters, natural-finished birch kitchen cabinets, formica-topped drainboards with covered splashers, "no drip" edges, "dyna-vent" range hood with exhaust fan and light, wall switches and appliance plug-in.

Adjoining the kitchen, and set off from the living room by book cases, the family room centers everyday family living. Priced from $12,999, and still requiring no down payment of qualified veterans except usual costs and impounds, low monthly payments range from $66.94 and include principal and interest, spokesman for Pioneer Land Co., pointed out.

To see this new residential community, home seekers take the Santa Ana Freeway to Main St. in Santa Ana; turn right on Main St. to Delhi Rd., and right developed the "Mary Oisten, on Delhi Rd. to model homes at Kitchen" and family room, both Lowell St. open from 10 a. m. to of which have won national ac-9 p. m.

NEW BUS DISPLAYED

After five years of experimental road tests, this new Trailways Vista-Liner has been adopted. It is shown during a visit here for display purposes. Filtered air is conditioned for coolness in summer and warmth in winter. The skylights provide more vision for the traveler on cross-country runs.

Low Terms to Vets in Excelsior Village

Low monthly terms are still offered at Excelsior Village in Long Beach.

Vets may still buy the large family-sized homes for monthly payments as low as $64.36, including principal and interest, Coleman explained.

Motor Vehicle Output Drops

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's automotive reports estimated last week's motor vehicle output at 144,569 cars and 22,815 trucks. The previous week 161,370 cars and 26,136 trucks were built and in the same 1954 week 105,421 cars and 15,516 trucks were completed.

Ward's said the decline is in line with August scheduling. This, it added, calls for 611,000 cars and 98,000 trucks.

Indians Lose Suit Over Oil Wells

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Federal Judge Eugene Rice has ruled the Chotaw and Chickasaw Indian tribes have no valid claim to more than a half dozen oil wells in the Red River between Oklahoma and Texas.

The wells, on the William Seay tracts in Jefferson County, Okla., are owned by several oil companies and were drilled since 1930. Through a treaty made in the 1880s, the Indians claimed, they were given title to the river bed.

All the wells are offset to others on the Texas side.

Moore Realty in Banner Month

With a total volume of over $930,000 for July, Moore Realty had the best month in the history of the company. Seventy properties were sold, including home resales and income property.

E. T. Moore said he has over 125 selective listings now which can be sold with possession before school starts in September.

ALARM SYSTEM

The new Fire-Belle alarm system is one of the extra safety features of Excelsior Village, the Orange County completely planned community where the homes are still available on low monthly terms.

New May Homes on Two Sites

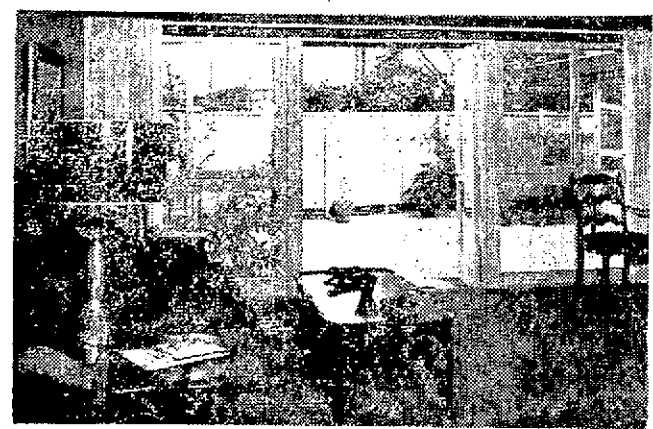

Two choice locations are available to buyers of the award-winning Cliff May designed homes, and they are still offered to vets for no down payment except closing costs and impounds, it was announced this week.

The 3 and 4-bedroom contemporary ranch style homes are located in Tustin and Anaheim with the Tustin homes situated on large estate-sized lots in a restricted suburban area but near schools and shopping center. They range in price from $13,800 to $16,500.

The Anaheim site is near the Freeway with shopping and other community centers near by, and are located on extra large lots. However, it was pointed out, that only 15 of these homes remain to be sold.

All the homes include fireplace, forced air heat, built-in range, and oven, full floor to ceiling windows, and master bedroom "suite" with its own bath. Both developments feature the award-winning built-around-the-patio plan.

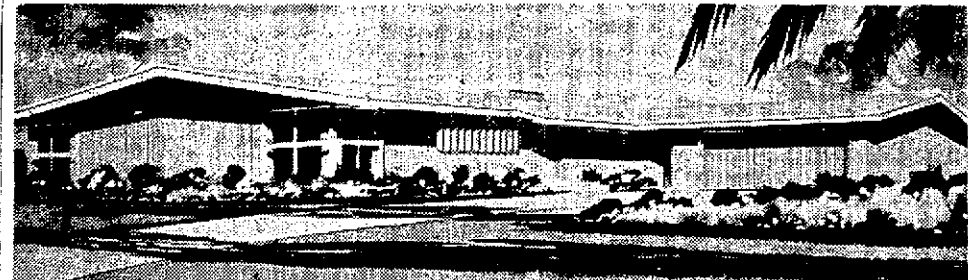

To see the Anaheim location, drive out Lincoln (Carson) to the Santa Ana Freeway. Turn right on the Freeway to Ball Rd., then right again on Ball Rd. to the furnished models. To see the Tustin ranch estates, stay on the Santa Ana Freeway through homes located at Redhill and Santa Ana and Tustin. Turn

HAVE ALL-ELECTRIC KITCHEN

Shown above is an artist's conception of one of 169 three and four-bedroom, two-bath Signature Homes now rising in Buena Park at Hansen and Crescent Ave., near Knott's Berry Farms. Priced at approximately $14,000 on VA terms with no down payment for vets, the new homes feature color-matched all-electric kitchens.

New Midwood Unit in Preview Showing

Preview showing begins today for Midwood Construction Co.'s new 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath Signature Homes rising in Buena Park at Hansen and Crescent Ave. Priced at approximately $14,000, the new homes, it was stated, are the first in their price range to feature color-matched all-electric kitchens.

Terms for the new homes will be nothing down for vets, except for nominal costs and impounds, on long term VA-guaranteed loans.

Included in the price and terms are color-matched built-in General Electric ranges, ovens, combination automatic clothes washer-dryers, automatic pre-rinsing dishwashers and garbage disposals. The built-in range, it was noted, has pushbutton controls while the eye-level oven is clock-controlled.

"The appliances are all built-in as part of the house and make this offering of 169 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes not only one of the last 'no down payment' opportunities for vets, but the best in our opinion," it was stated by Jerome Snyder and Max Levine, who head the Midwood Construction Co.

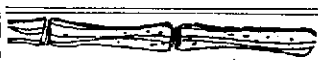

"These homes will sell fast because of their superior Buena Park location near Knott's Berry Farm, their quality construction, their all-electric color-matched kitchens and their no down payment terms," the builders stated, pointing out that 220 Signature Homes offered recently in North Long Beach were sold in one week-end.

Other kitchen features which will be displayed in five model homes—all exquisitely furnished by Lloyd's of Long Beach—include natural finish birch cabinets, ceramic tile counters, electric fan over range, and Forentine pattern linoleum for floor-cleaning ease.

The homes have wood-burning fireplaces, forced air heating, Pre-View aluminum sliding windows and Panaview sliding glass doors.

N.L.B. Realty Club Will Hear Butler

Members of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club will hear Howard Butler at the meeting Thursday noon at Mayo's Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave. His subject will be: "New Changes in Real Estate Laws." Ruby Peterson is program chairman. Earl Altenburger will preside.

WHEN KIDNEYS Work too Often

There is nothing that can make you feel older and more depressed than losing sleep and worrying about "Bladder Weakness" (Getting Up Nights too frequent, burning, and itching urination) or strong, claudicant pains due to common kidney and bladder irritations, which sometimes result in backache, miserable referred, secondary aches, pains, headache and nervousness. In such cases New Improved Cystex usually gives quick, wonderful, soothing relief through its bacteriostatic action in acid urine and its analgesic pain relieving value. Over a billion Cystex tablets used prove safety and success. Get Cystex today under money-back guarantee. See how much better you feel tomorrow.

ciple of the league, is an important part of provisional training. They assist with the Children's Dental Health Center, which is sponsored by the Junior League, and the Community Volunteer Office.

Gay Round of Pre-Nuptial Courtesies
Keeps Joan Hunter, Fiance in a Whirl

Pink to please the ladies and rich maroon in deference to the men, set the theme for colorful decorations as Miss Joanne Kerr entertained Saturday evening in her 18 Neopolitan Lane West home with a buffet dinner and kitchen shower honoring Joan Hunter and Bruce Purvine who will be married Aug. 26 at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Centering the buffet table was a white bell tree, gaily adorned with kitchen utensils, easily recognizable as knives, forks, cups and egg beaters beneath their coats of pink and glitter. The tree was flanked by spiraled pink candles, maroon bows and more glistening utensils.

Kitchen gifts for the popular pair were placed on a table guarded by a pair of lovebirds perched outside their birdhouse

of pink net. A large maroon heart of pipe cleaners provided background for an arrangement of carnations which graced the piano. Greeting the 30 couples as they arrived for cocktails preceding dinner and an evening of dancing, were festoons of white wedding bells with maroon streamers, jauntily placed on the front door of the Kerr home.

Pink was chosen as central color for still another party feting the bride-elect when Mrs. Emmet Sullivan hosted a delightful brunch at Virginia Country Club which placed Joan high atop "Cloud Nine." Other party guests, via place cards and decor, also found themselves way up in shocking pink clouds. Shattered pink carnations, and blue bachelor buttons were scattered on white ribbon the length of the brunch table.

Guests at the party all were long time friends of the bride-elect and of her mother, Mrs. John K. Hunter. Presented to the lovely honoree were a dozen place mats with matching napkins of Brussels lace, imported from Belgium for the occasion. Accompanying the gift was a large greeting card, adorned with pink clouds, and bearing signatures of the guests, interspersed with colorful and beautifully painted bachelor buttons.

Still in the offing for the happy pair is a cocktail and dinner party Friday to be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Volney McCutchan in their new home at 3801 Walnut Ave. Young friends of the engaged couple will gather about the patio picnic table for the buffet supper, with garden flowers and tropicals in their natural habitat as decor.

Mrs. Allan McMillan (Marlene Metteli) was complimented with a post-nuptial miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. A. L. Jacobus in her 3749 Lime Ave. home.

A pink and white theme was followed in party decor with the use of attractive arrangements of white stock and pink carnations. A wedding cake, with a miniature bride and bridegroom as top piece, centered the refreshment table. Mrs. R. W. Shirey Jr. served the cake and Mrs. Eunice Shanblin poured.

Included on the guest list were Mmes. Rhea Allen, Amy Arnold, Arthur L. Arnold, Don Ashley, E. L. Baldwin, Grace Bartlett, Herbert von A. Burkart, Euphonia Campbell, Van

Junior League Projects
Fill Need in Community

By ELAINE RISINGER

Interest enough to care, persistence enough for action and successful enough to accomplish—this is the Junior League story, a study in community service.

For the league's more than 240 members, the cultural and philanthropic progress of the city is no mere dream, but a working every day goal. And their influence reaches out to aid many citizens.

Nearly 24 years ago, Mmes. William Whent, Francis Settle, H. Milton Van Dyke, John Lounsbury, Glen Carpenter, Ansel Olson, Joseph Tiernan and Betty Crawford, formed the Long Beach Junior Charity League. These were busy days when plans for large projects were still in the nebulous stage. But as the original octet was joined by friends, these ideas gave way to action and the league spearheaded the way for civic betterment.

Since those early months, the scope of the Junior League of Long Beach (the original group affiliated with the Association of Junior Leagues of America in February 1948) has been amazing.

Members tackle jobs others avoid. They speak of committees, appointments, placement and meetings as career girls discuss their jobs. For in a sense, being an active Junior Leaguer is just about as time consuming.

But let's look at what those hours of conferences actually accomplish for the community. Here is where Mrs. Franklin Waters, charming new president of the league, and her officers and chairmen lay the groundwork for such events as the yearly rummage sale which nets thousands of dollars each year. And every cent of the money is turned back to the city through the league's own special projects.

They also review the 22,000 hours of volunteer service given by 124 active members at hospitals and other agencies throughout town, plus the many days spent working on their committee responsibilities. Mrs. Waters explains.

Thousands of children smile more brightly now due to the efforts of the Children's Dental Health Center for underprivileged youngsters, a project of the league. And many local residents have learned to live more useful lives because of their work through the Community Volunteer Office, organized by the league and now jointly supported with the Community Chest. Members and provisionals also form the clerical staffs at these offices.

Their sphere of concern reaches to the Municipal Art Center, where they assist with the cultural development of citizens and to the Juvenile Bureau, which receives financial aid to purchase articles for the children, Mrs. Waters says.

In all these projects the national association is ready to assist this league, as it does the other 182 member groups with advice and organizational ideas, she adds.

As president of this growing organization, Mrs. Waters knows possibly more than any other, the continual need for good provisionals. Here are the league leaders of tomorrow when the now active members pass into sustaining status. Here also are future city leaders, who will step into community roles as Red Cross colonels, Community Chest canvassers and civic board members. And good provisional training to prepare them for their jobs is essential.

The word placement is a vital part of a Junior Leaguer's vocabulary. Provisionals learn this all too fast. For when they accept a membership invitation they also accept a weekly duty of service to the community.

This spring 28 young women began a year of training to prepare themselves for active participation in the league. Under the guidance of Mrs. Robert Sully, chairman of provisional training, and her committee, they will study the local league and its national governing body and discern its projects through work.

They, along with transfers, will learn more about their city, its resources and what is offered residents during an interesting orientation course

Charge California
Women Are 'Lax'

By JEANINE STILES

Women of California—Unite! Roll up your sleeves and sharpen those wits. Our cause needs defending.

California has been placed in the category of "sluggish and lax in the promotion of women," with only about one-third the number of women in "top level" positions as in the State of New York, according to a recent survey conducted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Washington, D. C.

Accepting the challenge on a state level with the creation of a new division—Status of Women—is Mrs. Gerald Whitaker, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. L. E. Sinclair, owner and operator of one of the largest ranches in Imperial Valley, has been chosen to spearhead the drive for a unified plan of action on the part of California's women for elimination of weaknesses in existing promotional processes.

Outstanding weaknesses, the survey claims, now "retarding" the professional progress of women can be confined to two . . . men do not want women in public affairs, and secondly, women do not support women.

In a quick survey of several local prominent citizens, male the party at the Tom Stevens home, 5372 Applan Way, beginning at 1 o'clock. Proceeds will go toward the school building fund. Mrs. Lawing is president of Ladies of August Guild of the Altar Society.

Wild Waves

By IOLA MASTERSON

There have been three and there will be more before cold weather sets in. The "three" were outdoor barbecue parties which spread from the terrace to the patio and back again at Betty and Stillman Loveren's home and, at each, guests hovered over the barbecue pit like they were godfathers to the steaks on the grill.

At the last of the outdoor affairs lucky sniffers of gourmet-scented air were Peggy and Dr. Houston Fairley, Marian and Bob Rittner, Florence and Sam Magill, Virginia and Floyd Todd, "Bird" and Verne Garten, Cecile and "Hap" Appleton and Ola and Don Murphy. The Peeks, Marnette and Lon, were unable to be present. Assisting their mother and dad with great aplomb and plenty of know-how were Linda and George.

Anglers! Here's a challenge. See if you can dream up a better fish story than this. Only requisite is that you keep it reasonably honest, even if unbelievable. Six Long Beach people caught 16 salmon on one day's fishing trip, the combined weight of same totaling 160 pounds! And nobody had their toe on the scale at the "weigh in." The big catch was made in Monterey Bay waters. Rod and reeler were Lawrence Kaylor, who brought in a 22 pounder; Rex Kaylor, who boated an 18 pounder; and Elaine Kaylor, Bernice and Lloyd Lancon and Clifford Wavell, who accounted for the 120-pound balance.

They shall remain nameless—against our natural instincts! It seems a prominent bakery executive of this fair city was about to celebrate his birthday so friend wife, ever mindful of this boy's happiness, decided to make him a cake with her own two little hands, the first she'd ever baked in their 25 years of marriage. She bought prepared cake mix and prepared icing and went to work with a will—if little knowledge. Well, along came the guests for the big celebration and, with the first cut of the cake, it became obvious this would never do. That was when Mr. Baker hid himself off, complete with Mona Lisa smile, to his bakery and fetched home a cake for his own party.

When a man, who has been moping around a house recuperating from whatever ails him, starts eyeing his golf clubs and singing to his wife, "You're the flag in my golf cup, you're the tee in my cap," then you know the crisis is over. And Bob Leebrock has been singing that to Irma! Even although he's still bound to a pair of pesky crutches, he's a man who is getting ready. An accident five months ago has confined him to the role of spectator ever since but when he starts to play again we, at least, would be pretty shrewd about how many strokes we gave him!

The $64,000 dollar question in Marjorie and Chili Scott's home right now is: Will Dad Get 'Em? The $16,000 question has long since been answered when it became apparent that the other three children were definite victims of daughter Eleanor's mumps. Now back to the big question—

Splashing, munching and laughter were the sounds of gaiety at Audrey and Murray Moore's new Garden Grove home the other night when Audrey's Sandlark sisters and their husbands housewarming the new master. The Moore's pool was well initiated and there were delicious buffet morsels to eat when ever anyone felt like climbing from the cool, clear water. Shirley and Howard Jones and Gloria and Paul Crandle were party instigators.

When you're 2½ years old it's darn hard to decide which doll you love the most, so little Melinda Muchmore just made up her mind to take all 21 of them on her two-week vacation with mom and pop, Virginia and Don Muchmore and 4-month-old sister, Mary. They are in the midst of holidays in a bay front home at Balboa Island, guests of Virginia's parents, Neil and Louis Gunn. Also present for the 14 days are Marjorie and Randy Whitney and their little six-month cutie, Barbara. Hee-hee! Only when the formula is late!

Blueprint of activity is the announcement sent by Mary and Doc Don Truitt telling their friends they've moved their pots, pans and television to their new home at 5701 Seaside Wk. from their former digs on Redondo.

Most practice bailing water Navy man Bob Hatcher ever had was in his own basement, we understand. Seems his hot water heater got tired of the monotony of it all and just dumped its load of boiling H2O on the floor. Jean assisted in the two-man bucket brigade.

Bearers of glad tidings were Leta and Bob Place when they returned from their trip to Europe—especially as far as Fran Farmer Guthrie's friends were concerned. Bob and Leta, you see, brought home first-hand news of Fran and Navy captain husband, Bill Guthrie, who are currently stationed in Paris. Fran has fixed up their lovely Parisienne apartment to perfection and they are thoroughly enjoying life in the gay French capital, the returnees report.

Exciting moments were a dime a dozen during Kay and Bob Gorbould's just completed vacation. They began it by going with Charles Day and his wife, Em, to Lake Mead where Charlie, as you remember, managed to make the first successful nonstop swim over and back of the lake. Bob manned one accompanying lifeboat and Kay the other for the record-breaking swim. Then, this successfully accomplished, they played in Las Vegas before traveling on to Canada where they were audience to Calgary's famous Stampede. On to Lethbridge to tend to affairs of a farm Bob owns then back via Reno.

'Ol rockin' chair is gonna have Joyce Berry for awhile—and at that it will seem good in comparison to the hospital bed she's now occupying while she recovers from a severe attack of virus pneumonia.

Perfectly relaxed and perfectly wonderful was the little dinner party Liz and Lloyd Patterson had week ago last night when they entertained quietly for "Aud" and Gordon Robbins, Murle and Glenn Scott and Roy Brown. They missed having Eleanor B., who is traveling in Europe with her mother.

Multiplying three couples by their children, put them all in a great big rambling house on Catalina for their vacation and voila! Merriment! It happened to Dorothy and Ed Grisinger, Marguerite and Harvey White and Mary Jane and Chuck Walker. Ed and Chuck only managed the weekends, what with business chores and all.

New friends are like fresh air but old friends are the breath of life! All ready to enjoy the latter are Jess and Hale Young, who will greet Mrs. May Dickie of Ft. Worth, Texas, when she arrives Tuesday for as long a visit as the Youngs can manage to keep her here. Jess and May have continued a friendship through the years that their mothers began before them!

Summer rain in the desert became a torrential downpour Tuesday at Joshua Tree and probably elsewhere but it was at J. T. that Judge Percy and Marge Hight and daughter, Mabel, watched the skies open up. They went to the sand and sage spa Monday, returning late Wednesday—glad the roads hadn't been washed out from beneath them!

We Welcome

It's Outdoor Life for Pinksers

By JEAN B. MOORE

For more years than he can count on both hands Dr. Leon J. Pinsky has talked about coming to California to live. One day in 1955 he and his wife, Selma, made the final decision. In March they became full fledged Californians, living in a ranch style home at 3137 Shipway Ave., and getting out of doors for work or fun at the slightest provocation.

The Lakewood dentist and his wife were both born in Philadelphia and both were presented by CVO and sponsored by the Junior League and Community Chest, Mrs. Sully explains. Tours of the Children's Clinic at Seaside Hospital, CVO and the Children's Dental Health Center also are included.

Community Needs Filled by League

The visit to CVO acquaints provisionals with their placement "home" for the summer. Typing and filing are a part of the office routine they will do one-half a day a week.

In September, Mrs. Sully explains, the neophytes extend their abilities to the office at the Dental Health Center. Then after a two months' winter vacation, they are given their choice for work until July between these two agencies, Mrs. Sully says.

But don't think their jobs stop there. In between placements, provisionals attend meetings, assist with the league rummage sale and help with Red Cross and Community Chest drives.

Culminating the year's training, the provisionals are officially accepted into membership in March.

Spunkled among the work dates is party fun. Provisionals and their husbands don beach attire in September for a swimming party given by members of the training committee. And when February rolls around, the provisionals play hostesses by entertaining youngsters at the Children's Clinic with a Valentine party. The general league also fills the year's date book with a Valentine Ball, End of Summer Dance, family picnics and no-host get-togethers.

graduated from Temple University. Dr. Pinsky is a member of the Alpha Omega dental fraternity there.

During World War II Dr. Pinsky served the Third Army as regimental dental surgeon in the European Theater, and for more than a year Selma was able to join him in Frankfurt, Germany.

Practicing his profession in Philadelphia after the service, Dr. Pinsky engaged in post-graduate work in New York and for the past four years was on the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania's school of dentistry. He was chairman of the clinical conference department and instituted several new courses. He also presented clinics before various dental groups and lectured before service organizations.

Upon receiving her BA degree from Temple, Selma went on for her master's in social work from the University of Pennsylvania. For several years she did case work in a children's institution in Philadelphia.

Photography is a consuming hobby of the little Pinksers' dad. They are his favorite subjects now, although he first trained the lens on scenes in Europe.

Donna, the eldest, is 7 and operates her own camera. Some of her pictures are better than his, her daddy admits. She will be a second grader at Cubberley School and probably will be showing her classmates some of the pictures she took this summer.

All three—Donna, Anne, 3½ and Robert, 1½—seem to have an innate sense of rhythm. Hearing music, they will dance to it in perfect time and sing on key, too.

Apparently their appreciation of music is inherited from their mother. Selma enjoys playing the piano and often in Philadelphia could be found teaching her children the rudiments of playing and appreciating.

Other interests have developed for the family since moving to California. In addition to joining the Sponsors Club of the City of Hope Hospital, Leon is taking golf lessons, while Selma is brushing up on bridge. Robert's too little to be more than a spectator, but he sometimes goes along when his big sisters take their swimming lessons.

Dorsey-Londeree Names Joined in Nevada Service

Miss Jo Ann Londeree, assistant cashier and escrow officer of the Bank of Belmont Shore, and Alfred Dorsey, general contractor and builder of Gardena, were married in a double-ring ceremony at the Little Church of the West, Las Vegas, Nev., July 22, at 9 p. m. Dr. Donald R. Coyle read the ceremony.

Attendees were Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Peters of 2434 Chestnut Ave., Long Beach.

Miss Londeree is affiliated with the Long Beach Escrow Association, the National Association of Bank Women, Altrusa Service Club and Harbor Chapter Women's Committee of the American Institute of Banking.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey vacationed for a week in Las Vegas and are now at home to their many friends at 825 Terraine Ave.

State Women Face Challenge

and female, a few other weaknesses were advanced, in addition to some personal views on the subject in general.

Dr. Lois Swanson, associate dean of students at Long Beach State College, feels that more women do not achieve top-flight positions because "they, by choice, concentrate for years on their family responsibilities and often do not pick up their professional careers until after their children are grown."

"Other factors," she continued, "of which there are many, include the subtle lack in many women of the drive to succeed as men have. Men know they will be working under competition and will be supporting families. And some women do not own up to their intelligence because of the feeling they might 'suffer' in the eyes of the men."

Pointing out, however, that the day of the "aggressive Rights for Women enthusiasts" is past, Dr. Swanson also stressed the fact that so has the period passed when women have to reject their femininity to compete with men.

"It is important that large organizations all set policies for people to get promotions and recognition on their real ability regardless of sex, nationality or religion," she said. "Toward this goal, women's groups can see that channels are kept open for superior women to rise in status. They must be vocal about it."

Since modern girls are thinking about two roles at once, mother and careerist, Dr. Swanson feels that girls today need a great deal more maturity and preparation than during grandmother's time when a woman was expected to fill only one role.

"The girl who thinks she does not have to have as good a preparation to compete with men is just fooling herself—she has to have better!" Dr. Swanson warned.

Education, librarianship and nutrition were three fields named by the dean as offering excellent opportunities for women, "without the competition of a large number of men."

This competition was given by George Toll, manager of the California Department of Employment in Long Beach, as a major reason why he feels there are not more women in top-level jobs locally.

"The supply of male labor in Long Beach has always been a little above average," he explained. "The number of salaried women in top positions in Long Beach is not below the national average, but it is not above, either."

While large plants and corporations were named by him as probably offering the best opportunities for women administrators, the engineering field, in his estimation, also presents a wide vista for advancement.

"There is a terrific shortage in this field," he stressed, "and there are not many women engineers."

A little darker picture was painted by Mrs. Lucille Swigert, secretary to the manufacturing supervisor, BJ Service, Inc., who feels that opportunities for women in Key Long Beach positions are "not too good." She blamed industry for this condition.

"It has not grown up enough nor is there the proper variety of industry here," she said. "I think Long Beach has just been going through growing pains. It has been an orange grove area for so long that lots of people still think it should stay that way. This type of thinking has held industry back."

Major oil companies and refineries, legal offices and aircraft factories were mentioned by Mrs. Swigert as "doing well by their women."

To improve conditions for advancement of women, the secretary suggested women pay more attention to educational courses. As a means to this end, the Desk and Derrick Club of Long Beach, comprised of women in all phases of the oil business and of which Mrs. Swigert is program chairman, is sponsoring a course at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division.

Scheduled to begin in September, the course will be taught by people actually in the oil business and will include such things as accounting principles for oil companies, technical oil terms and other specialized phases of the business. Though the program's infant beginning is with this single course, Mrs. Swigert indicated that expansion plans are under way for early 1956. The eventual aim of the organizers is for a series of such courses to be college accredited on a national scale.

A Chamber of Commerce spokesman raised the pertinent question as to what basis the survey used for classifying jobs "top level"—by salary, by title or by importance of duties—and how the surveyors treated self-employed women in key professions. Since the characters of the areas being compared—New York and California—are so diverse, the spokesman did not feel the accusation of "sluggish" is justified for California women.

"We must look at the outside factors influencing the total number of women in 'top level' jobs," he said. "The climatic and recreational angles alone are indicative of why there is a difference between the two areas—if there really is a difference."

"In California we have a more family and home type of atmosphere with more emphasis on casual living where in women are not as eager to get out and work. But this does not mean women should not work. If they can handle the job, then they can be equal to any man and should be paid and recognized commensurably for it."

He also observed that with diversification of eastern plants to the west coast and the resulting transfer of many veteran employees, opportunities for California women are cut even further.

Mrs. Margie Cate, inspector with the Long Beach Juvenile Bureau, agreed, however, with the survey's conclusion that California women are lax in promoting their own sex to key positions.

President of the California State Peace Officers Assn. and a member of Pilot Club, Mrs. Cate has recently returned from an eastern tour in which she visited top women peace officers in Chicago, Washington, D. C., Detroit, and New York. As a result of her observations made during the trip, she concluded that "in the east, people seem to make their jobs their lives."

"Here we have so many hobbies, travel opportunities and other distracting influences that we lack the desire to drive ahead," she explained.

Opposing Mrs. Cate's view is that of Mrs. Helen Smith, insurance woman, who feels that advancement opportunities for women in Long Beach are good in practically all professions. Naming specifically the fields of medicine, law, education and government, Mrs. Smith believes that advancement to top positions is available, and has been obtained, in all four.

"For example," she said, "out of nine city council members, one is a woman. That's a pretty good percentage."

So there you have the opinion of six fellow citizens. What do YOU say? And what are you going to do about it?

Jean Lawing Is Lovely Bride

Exquisitely detailed Chantilly lace over satin formed the bridal gown of Miss Jean Lawing, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lawing, 525 Flint Ave., when she became the bride of Charles Vernon Stableford of Kingman, Ariz., on Saturday morning.

Nuptial mass uniting the popular young couple was solemnized by Rev. Thomas Kennedy at St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church. The double-ring ceremony, read by candlelight, was witnessed by 350 guests.

The wedding gown was fashioned with a tiered flounce of old ivory Chantilly lace which began low on the torso and extended into a chapel length train. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline, and a headpiece of tiny seed pearl blossoms held in place an heirloom lace veil imported from Brussels. The bride carried a handkerchief matching her veil, and a single orchid with Stephanotis whose simplicity pointed up the rich beauty of her gown.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride walked down the center aisle which was beautifully marked with streamers of blue tulle and clustered pink carnations. Formal altar arrangements were of white larkspur, gladioli, stock and carnations, with here and there a touch of pink and blue.

Attending as maid of honor was Miss Susan Kirstie of Long Beach, long time school friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were former classmates of the bride at Flintridge Academy, Misses Marian Haddad, Dion Maeth and Mary Flanagan, all of Westwood. The attendants were gowned in floor length ice blue crystalline with long tulle gloves. The maid of honor wore a headpiece of blue veiling under a coronet of pink carnations and blue forget-me-nots, with the same flowers repeated in her bow shaped bouquet. The bridesmaid's headpieces also were of blue veiling with pink carnation coronets, and they carried bow-shaped arrangements of pink carnations.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Richard Stableford of Kingman, Ariz., to serve him as best man, and guests were escorted to their seats by Phil Kay, Richard Meadows and Charles Anthony Gillespie of Long Beach. Wayne Charles Metcalf, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

A delightful reception followed at Pacific Coast Club where Ed Thornberry played for dancing in the Sunrise Room. The bride's mother chose for the occasion, charcoal Chantilly lace over ice blue taffeta with a hat of ice blue sequins, and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. P. E. Keller of Kingman, Ariz., was gowned in pale coral crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. John Meadows was reception hostess, assisted by Misses Robert Agnew, Charles Kirste, Edward DeFreitas, Harold Reed, William Whatley and Miss Mayme Barry. The bride's sister, Mrs. Lory Metcalf, was in charge of the guest book.

Following a honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara, the newlyweds will make their home at 2248 Blake St., Berkeley, where both will further their educations at the University of California.

The youthful bride was graduated from Flintridge Sacred Heart Academy, and this fall will be in her junior year at Berkeley where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority. Her bridegroom received his early education in Arizona, and attended Arizona State College at Flagstaff. His fraternity affiliation is Delta Sigma Phi, and he also is a member of Sigma Xi, Blue Key, and Phi Eta Sigma. He will do graduate work toward a Ph.D. degree this fall.

Dana Russell Honoree at Bridal Fete

The lovely home of Mrs. Peter D. Zarifes, 4335 Olive Ave., was setting recently for a personal bridal shower complimenting Miss Dana Russell who will become the bride of Doyle Edson on Aug. 12 at First Baptist Church.

The Zarifes home was decorated with dainty yellow umbrellas and yellow gladioli. Center of interest was a round table holding gifts for the honoree, with a large yellow umbrella suspended above.

The honoree is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Russell, 2135 Oregon Ave. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Dr. and Mrs. Winfield Edson, 3939 Locust Ave., who have just returned from an extended tour of Europe and the Holy Land in time for the wedding.

Co-hostesses were Misses Helen Zarifes and Signe Gissberg who will be bridesmaids in the wedding. Assisting were Mrs. Peter D. Zarifes and Mrs. James Sullos. Guests were close friends of the honoree, Misses Sarah Bingham, Cynthia Decker, Meriel Mills, Leona Porterfield, Olivia Rumph, Kay Russell, Beverly Steele, Cynthia White, Mmes. Kent Bingham, James Decker, Raymond Fox, R. W. Richmond, and Robert Walker.

Women of Moose

Mrs. Thelma Murphy will be hostess Wednesday at 11 a. m. to members of the Women of Moose Homemaking group in her 1334 W. Hill St. home. Women of Moose chairmen will meet that evening at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Peggy Crawford, 16281 Huntington Beach Blvd.

A friendship meeting is scheduled at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Mottell's Garden Room. College of Regents will meet at 11 a. m. Saturday in the home of Mrs. Thelma Russell, 2448 Montair Ave., and a friendship breakfast is slated at 9:30 p. m. Sunday at Compton Hall.

Rounding out the party whirl surrounding bride-elect Miss Shirley Howell was the kitchen shower given by Mrs. Russell Hodges in her home at 3210 Lemon Ave. Miss Howell and Roger T. Williams will be married August 20.

Pink and white were carried out in the decorative scheme. Mrs. Foster G. Strong and Mrs. J. Paul Walker in serving.

August Date for Wedding

A surprise announcement heralding the approaching marriage of Miss Martha Inez Roberta Ganen to Lemuel Dominguez was made recently at a luncheon given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Dodge of Los Altos.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Ganen, 2012 E. Seventh St. and P. S. Ganen of Mesa, Ariz., is a graduate of Wilson High School and Long Beach City College. Her fiancé, son of Rev. and Mrs. Alfonso Dominguez, 1350 Redondo Ave., attended Long Beach State College.

The young couple's wedding date will be August 21 when they will speak their vows at 2:30 in the afternoon at Belmont Heights Methodist Church.

Wedding Plans Revealed on Bride-elect's Birthday

A surprise birthday party was given additional dash and verve with the announcement of the honoree's engagement. The bride-elect is Miss Rita Rac Fergerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fergerson, 5208 Calderwood Ave., who told of her betrothal to Ronald Lee Sisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sisler, 3518 Baltic Ave., when she was entertained by her fiancé's parents on the occasion of her birthday.

Miss Fergerson is a graduate of Wilson High School and attended Long Beach State College. The bridegroom-elect is a graduate of Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. He is currently completing his education at Long Beach State College where he is a member of Sigma Epsilon. No date has been set for the wedding.

Auxiliary Session

Ladies Auxiliary 70, of the Plumbers Local 494, will meet Monday at 8 p. m. at 1246 Locust Ave. Mrs. Mary Lee Daniels, new president, will conduct the meeting, and Mrs. Betty Garrels is in charge of the program.

Summer Interests of Business Women Varied

By ANNE GILCHRIST

"Pilot Stages a Convention" was the theme of the highly informative program presented at the Wednesday night business meeting of the Long Beach Pilots at Hotel Lafayette.

With the 34th annual convention of Pilot International just concluded in Los Angeles, Ruth Tay, local president who served as official delegate from her club, worked out this special program to present to all members of the club the entire story.

Reporting to the membership were Pilots Mildred Morris speaking on "Behind the Scenes"; Margery Procter, "The Stage Is Set"; Margaret Fenwick, "Dramatist Person"; Margaret Darby, "A Director Speaks"; Edith Klein, "Special Funds"; Peggy Finley, "Convention Publicity Highlights"; Virginia Rogers, "Finance"; Hazel Blair, "The Lines Inspire Us"; and Ruth Toy, "We See Stars." Each speaker brought out the unusual, interesting human interest angles and incidents of the convention together with the important Pilot information gained there.

Long Beach Pilots attending convention sessions at the Hotel Statler in Los Angeles last week included: Mildred Morris, Ruth Tay, Peggy Finley, Elayne Moxley, Helen Andrews, Eleanor Boyd, Hazel Blair, Frances Catchpole, Gladys Chapman, Margaret Darby, Marguerite Dougherty, Margaret Fenwick, Lucy Hart, Edith Klein, LaVey Louk, Virginia Linabury, Gladys McMullen, Martha McRae, Antonette Oster, Vern Preston, Margery Procter, Mildred Robinson, Mary Lou Highstone, Virginia Rogers, Myrna Russell, Marion Tripeny, and Nina Boyle.

Highlight of the convention was the election and installation of the 1955-56 officers and directors of Pilot International. Mrs. Edith McBride Cameron, Gainesville, Fla., was installed as president. Miss Jean Conacher, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, was installed as President-elect of Pilot International. She will be the first member of a foreign Pilot Club to hold the office of president.

Women Accountants

A new year begins for the Long Beach chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants Wednesday when the members gather at the Lafayette Hotel at 7 p. m. for the first meeting of their new club year. Angeline Elmore, newly installed president, will preside. Bernice Becker, program chairman of the evening, will introduce speaker Nile Bunch, a past president of the Society of California Accountants. His topic will be, "Internal Accounting."

Tillie M. Bolte, Anna Dietrich, Lucille B. Gray and Dorothy Kreuter will be welcomed as new members.

The July board meeting, preparatory to the Wednesday meeting, occurred at the lovely Palos Verdes Estates home of the club's vice president, Doris Deardon, who served buffet dinner before business discussion. During the evening's discussion the following members were approved to committee chairmanship: Bernice Becker, awards; Dean Stuart, bulletin; Mary Schultz, education; Vera Thamer, finance; Ann Murawski, legislation; Doris Deardon, program; Katie Dell Latham, public relations; Estelle Cannon Davis, publicity; Beulah Gee, research; and Evelyn Borton, yearbook.

Executives' Secretaries

The pungent and tantalizing odors of steaks being broiled over charcoal wafted over Ruth Dye's section of the peninsula Thursday night as she entertained the board of directors of Executives' Secretaries at a patio barbecue dinner before the inevitable business session. Joining the board were specially invited E/S members Sybil McEwen, national vice-president, Lucille Jagerson and Vi Dovey, all members of the club's advisory committee.

With Dorothy Kane Oleson presiding, members voted two new members. Members approved were Mrs. Gloria Granich on staff with International Business Machines and Mrs. Betty Abraham with Pacific Forge, Inc.

Yesterday members and guests of Executives' Secretaries were invited to an informal and delightful all-day swimming party at the home of member Margaret Stinson in Garden Grove. Between pool splashing delicious refreshments were served from the poolside buffet.

Others of the group traveled to San Diego Friday to attend that city's E/S Firm Night, sponsored by Union Title Insurance and Guarantee Co.

With Pearl Avitt, president of the San Diego Club, official hostess. The party was given at the fashionable Kona Kai Club and those from Long Beach in attendance were Sybil McEwen, Flo Courte, Mary Kay Kelly, Lorraine McDonough, Maxine Bohl and Ouida Flack.

Women's Transportation Club

The informality of summer was suitably saluted by the Women's Transportation Club when they were guests in the home of member Helen Ackerman, 1436 Santa Cruz St., in San Pedro for a leisurely patio supper. With President Anne Saunders and Eunice Crawford assisting the hostess, barbecued ribs were brought, golden brown, to the table accompanied by other big platters of good, good outdoor eating type food. No wonder little or no business was conducted. Time for that come cool weather!

Vacations

With the first warm breath of spring until the leaves turn of autumn vacations are much a part of the interesting news of business and professional women. Among those noted this week is one which Elsie Aitken, popular legal secretary, is currently enjoying. She left Monday by plane with her sister, Mrs. Henry Anderson of San Diego, for Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada to visit another sister. She will be gone a month.

Alta Larson returned to work last week after a month away from office routine during which time she visited her daughter, and son-in-law, Rosamary and Jerry Diehl on their ranch in Magic Valley, Idaho. Naturally, her greatest thrill was meeting for the first time her eight months old grandson, Curtis, and re-acquainting herself with her other little two year grandson, Michael.

Glad cries of "welcome back" rang through the floors at Buffums when Mildred Miner returned to work Tuesday after an absence of three weeks while she recuperated from surgery. Mrs. Miner is a buyer at the department store.

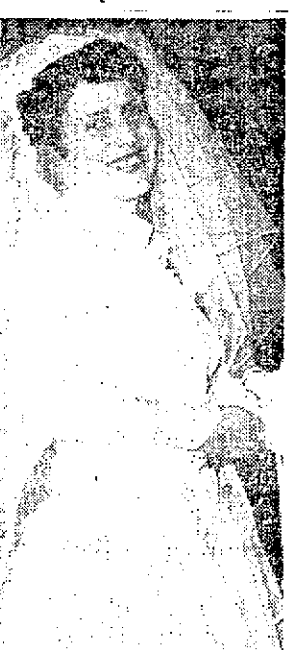

Among eyes that shone this week were those of Miss Elizabeth Ison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Ison, 2160 Fashion Ave., and Elijah L. Owens, Rev. Clifford L. Musgrove officiated in the presence of 500 guests.

A trellis entwined with ivy and roses formed a background for bouquets of white flowers at the altar, illuminated by candlelight. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore Chantilly lace over slipper satin, with a veil of silk net held in place by a crown of Chantilly lace and pearls, made by her mother. She carried a white Bible with white orchids and orange blossoms.

Mrs. Duane Hart was matron of honor wearing blue taffeta and carrying a spray of pink carnations. Bridesmaids, Misses Joseph Ison, Billie Charles, Roderick McIntire and Miss Thelma Matthews, were in rainbow shades of pink, yellow, green and lavender and carried yellow carnations. Eonita Joyce Olinger was flower girl, and candles were lighted by Misses Elleen and Retha Hensley, cousins of the bride.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Harry Swan, and guests were seated by Duane Hart, Pat Laster, James Sargent and Harvey Olinger. Marshall Aikers was ring bearer.

The newlyweds are residing in Long Beach. The bride was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Life Bible College of Los Angeles. She is co-chairman of the Long Beach Christian Business and Professional Women. Her bridegroom was graduated from Seattle Pacific College in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Elijah L. Owens

Owens-Ison Join Names in Ceremony

Four-square Church was setting recently for the lovely wedding ceremony uniting Miss Elizabeth Ison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Ison, 2160 Fashion Ave., and Elijah L. Owens, Rev. Clifford L. Musgrove officiated in the presence of 500 guests.

A trellis entwined with ivy and roses formed a background for bouquets of white flowers at the altar, illuminated by candlelight.

DUV Luncheon

Anna Etheridge Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans, will meet Monday noon for a sandwich luncheon and social meeting in Veterans Memorial Bldg. Elsie Songstad will preside.

The daily grind after vacation began Monday for Lillian and Floyd Ancheta. For two weeks they roamed and explored the Pacific Coast and southwest, visiting the Oregon Caves, Crater Lake, Las Vegas, Phoenix and many a spot in between. Most vivid memory of Phoenix was the flash floods they encountered there when traffic was halted while a 50-foot wall of water tore across the highways. In Las Vegas they managed to be present when the recent tremendous rains inundated that pleasure city, short circuiting electricity and plunging the downtown section into darkness, the first time in many years lights haven't blazed in that city.

Pretty pink and white flowers adorned tables at Lakewood Country Club Tuesday when Miss Lillian Wright was honored at a bridal luncheon. Hostesses for the event were Misses Francis A. McNeese, Thomas W. Smith and Paul E. Pauls.

Miss Wright, an airline hostess, is the bride-elect of Robert Booth of Los Angeles.

Bidden were Misses William S. Hemphill, Jane Warden, Sam P. Wright, Charles B. Vana, Sam J. Wright, Horace Warden, Edward Zinner, Neal Hamilton, Robert J. Wright, Harry E. Petro, George Miller, Warren Ferguson, Sanford Baker, Misses Betty J. Wright, Barbara Barkdel, Betty Fowler and Mary Compton.

More than 2,500 persons today are expected to see the Renoir exhibition in the Los Angeles County Museum, Exposition Park, Los Angeles.
The exhibition, drawing the greatest crowds to the Museum since the Berlin Masterpieces in early 1949, is seen by an average of 1,000 persons week days and 2,000 persons on Sundays. Today is expected to be one of the largest Sundays in the showing, which ends Aug. 21.

Assembled and catalogued by the Museum staff, the four million dollar exhibition includes 200 pieces of art by Pierre Auguste Renoir, 1841-1919, French landscape and
old masters. Shown are 61 oils, 30 drawings including pastels and pencil, crayon and charcoal sketches; 35 prints, including etchings and lithographs, and 18 pieces of sculpture. Eighty-one lenders made the show possible.

"It's a pleasant, cozy experience going to the Renoir show," reports an enthusiastic visitor. "Colors are bright and warm, the people are real, the work is pretty. Renoir wanted it pretty and it is."

Individuals and groups from all walks of life daily visit the showing, studying the paintings, prints and sculpture in the galleries, enjoying the Renoir color movie shown daily at 11:30, 1:30, 3:30 and again on Thursday evenings, at 7:30 and 8:30. Costumes of the period are displayed in the costume gallery and the historical department has on display contemporary documents and pictures of Renoir's time. With attendance figures climbing, Dr. Brown, chief curator of art, suggests that those intending to visit the exhibition plan to come early in the day when crowds are lightest.

The Museum is closed Monday, open daily from 10 to 5, and Thursday nights until 9.
A moderate charge is made to adults and children for admission to the Renoir exhibition.

It's that time again! The Municipal Art Center is throwing open its doors to the art talent of Long Beach and vicinity for the annual non-juried exhibition, Aug. 23-Sept. 18.
Any adult resident of the area is welcome to enter a painting, print or drawing. Entries should comply with the following rules:

1. Pictures must be framed, and tightly wired, ready for hanging. 2. Maximum size for accepted items is three by four feet. 3. Entries must be clearly labeled, typed or printed, with the entrant's name and address, and either the price or "not for sale." 4. All work must be entirely original.

Entries will be accepted at the Municipal Art Center, 2300
E. Ocean Blvd., Friday, Aug.
19, from 9 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30.

"Gonna Be Gone South of the Border for Two Weeks,
Aug. 8 to 22," say gay yellow, cactus-trimmed cards issued by Bud Overholzer, owner of a studio and art gallery, 127 E.
1st St. He will be at Estero Beach, just below Ensenada, and hopes to do some painting.
Although the gallery will be closed for two weeks, persons (including the exhibiting artists) who wish to see the exhibit may do so. Mrs. Bettie Nissley, member of the sketch group, has the key. She is at 1211 Electric Ave., Seal Beach.
Sea pictures by 12 local artists—Richard V. Johnson, William Bartko, Charles E. Smith,
F. DeMain Saunders, Don Miles, Peter Lore, Karl Albert,
Angel Espoy, Darrow Durham,
George Miller, Chico Aguilo and Bob Peck—are shown in the Bank of Belmont Shore.

Bartko studied in Toledo with Karl Kappas and at the Academy of Fine Art in Budapest. Espoy, a native of Spain, studied in Barcelona and Havana.

Municipal Art Director Samuel W. Heavenrich and Mrs.
Heavenrich are away for six weeks, combining vacation and a hunt for new exhibits for the Municipal Art Center. They will be in San Francisco, New York, Washington and the Green Mountains of Vermont.

A tea from 3 to 5 p. m. today in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery opens the 37th annual prize membership exhibit and a three-man show by Galen Doss and John Hilton, oils, and Phillips Hepler Skelton, water colors.

Only one week remains to see the Festival of Arts and Pageant of the Masters which closes Sunday, Aug. 14, in Irvine Bowl, Laguna Beach.
Paintings, drawings, sculpture, ceramics and handicraft may be seen and each evening men, women and children of Laguna Beach act as living models to recreate famous paintings and sculpture.

Child Care

Girl Feels Neglected by Parents

By MILTON I. LEVINE, M.D., and JEAN H. SELIGMANN

(Q) "I am a girl of 12. I have two wonderful sisters aged six and four. My parents will never include me in family conversations. Only let me go out of the house once in a while and then only for a short time, and make me go to bed at 9 p. m. even during the summer. Most of my time is spent doing housework.
Many times I feel that my parents don't care for me. It's getting to a point where I can no longer bear it. Please advise me."

(A) You are feeling what many—perhaps most—boys and girls your age and somewhat older often feel. You say that many times you feel that your parents don't care for you. But of course they do.
Your parents are doing what they think is best for you, even though it may not be what you think is best. Nevertheless, these are signs that they love you and want to protect you.

If what you say is true, perhaps your mother and father are being somewhat overprotective. Do you go out of the house less than friends of your age do? Do you go to bed earlier than they? If so, you should talk this over calmly with your parents. We feel that they will agree that you should be treated pretty much the same as those of your friends of whom your parents approve.

Naturally, your mother and father do not give you the same kind of treatment as they do your little sisters.
They are too young to be given the kind of jobs or responsibility that you are entrusted with. And since you are older, more is expected of you.

As far as being included in family conversations is concerned, you know that there are some subjects which adults want to discuss without children, just as children do not want to discuss many things with their parents or other adults.

There are several good pamphlets written for pre-adolescent and adolescent boys and girls which might help you with some of your problems. If you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to us, care of the Press-Telegram, we will send you the names of these pamphlets and where they may be obtained.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Seaside Camp 5550, Royal

joyed at noon.

OIL IS THE TOPIC

Putting the story of black gold on a blackboard will be a steady occurrence this fall as a new course of study, the first of its kind in the world as far as is known, begins at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division to specifically train women desiring to enter the oil industry as secretaries, accountants or office personnel. Discussing the exciting new course, which will begin with speed reading classes, are from left, Mrs. Ruth Purdy, teacher of the first study section; Lucille Swigert of the Desk and Derrick Club, which is sponsoring the course, and the club's president, Jean Kasper. Accredited teachers as well as oil industry men will teach the various classes.—(Staff photo.)

Oil Industry Training for Women to Begin in Fall

Noting a lack of training, primarily technical, among women seeking employment in the oil industry, members of Desk and Derrick Club, composed of these women now employed in companies affiliated with the petroleum field, decided to correct the condition. Meetings with members of the Long Beach School system and with men in the oil industry followed and now the women are ready to announce a concentrated course of study to begin this fall.

Dr. M. H. Hubbell, associate dean of the Business Division of Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division, was consulted and with Desk and Derrick's president, Jean Kasper, and Lucille Swigert assisting, have scheduled a full scale course to be given at City College's B & T Division beginning Sept. 15. The course will be given in three phases, the first two to be taught by regular certified California teachers and the third by qualified men in the oil industry.

The first phase will be preparatory and will be on speed reading and vocabulary building to be taught by Mrs. Ruth Purdy, the speed reading expert who has received much publicity for her unusual and valuable course. This will run one night a week for eight weeks. A great proportion of the speed training will be in the special vocabulary of oil refinery, chemical, oil tool and oil well servicing phraseology.
The second phase of the certified course will be office procedure consisting of office relations dealing with such lar subjects.

As a student completes each category and passes the examination she will be given a certificate which states that she is a Certified Technical Office Worker, a Certified Technical Accountant or a Certified Secretary.

The course will be open to anyone who has a satisfactory background of general secretarial, accounting or clerical training. It is the first of its kind, as far as is known, in the world to specifically train personnel for oil industry office work. Inquiries for registration may be made at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division on

Will Attend Woodmen Convention

Meetings on both a national and local level will occupy Long Beach Grove No. 26, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, this week. Opening Wednesday at the Statler Hotel in Los Angeles will be the four-day national convention. "Building for Tomorrow" is the conclave's theme.

The drill team of Long Beach, along with those from Los Angeles and Huntington Park, will perform Wednesday night.

Heading the Long Beach delegation will be Mrs. Marie Bartlett, president of the local Grove and also state president. Mrs. Bernice Fisher and Mrs. Carrie Woods, also state officers, plan to attend, as do Mrs. Irene Richards, Margaret Eastwood, Gail Spokesfield and Mable Stanson.

Business meeting of the Long Beach Grove is set for Friday at 7:30 p. m. in Machinists Hall with Mrs. Bartlett presiding. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Lucille Rahm and Mrs. Florence Fitzpatrick.

National membership in the organization numbers more than 156,000. Begun 64 years ago, the society has paid nearly 73 million dollars in benefits.

On Honeymoon

Home from their honeymoon are Mr. and Mrs. Laurence R. Beach of Compton. They took in San Francisco and Yosemite Park. Mrs. Beach is the former Jeardis Aliene Drake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Drake. She is a graduate of Compton High School and Compton Junior College. Beach is a graduate of Oregon State College.

Latimers Arrive for Party, Son's Wedding

With the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Payton Latimer by plane Friday from Memphis, Tenn., a last minute pre-nuptial flurry has enmeshed Miss Nancy Green. It is the Latimers' first trip to California, and despite its many attractions, the principal one that brought them west is the wedding Saturday evening of their son, Lt. (j.g.) Robert W. Latimer, to Miss Green.

In the tradition of Southern California's way of life, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Green, 3949 Myrtle Ave., entertained Saturday night at a barbecue dinner honoring the Tennesseeans and the future bride couple. The Latimers were introduced that night to the host of relatives of the bride-elect residing in the Southland.

Continuing the round of courtesies complimenting the bride-to-be and her fiancé, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Crossley will welcome guests at a cocktail party and kitchen shower today in their home in Tujunga. Assisting them in the party plans are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Murrell and Miss Barbara Sanders. All the hostesses are Gamma Phi Beta sorority sisters from UCLA of the future Mrs. Latimer.

On Monday, friends of the bride couple and their parents will be guests at a barbecue in the Downey home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brewer.

Tending to final details for her wedding will occupy Miss Green on Tuesday and Wednesday, but she plans to complete them in time to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Latimer and her fiancé on a sightseeing tour of the Los Angeles area. They will be joined on some of the excursions by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Green, Nancy's parents.

After the wedding rehearsal on Thursday evening, the bride party will arrive at the Pacific Coast Club for a buffet dinner, followed by dancing.

Elderbloom Club

Program and social hour will follow the 1:30 p. m. business meeting when Elderbloom Club meets Tuesday in the YWCA.

Emblem Club Events Set

Mrs. Anne Gelder will be hostess at a 10 a. m. meeting Tuesday of Long Beach Emblem Club 106 Sewing Section in her 131 E. Bort St. home with Mrs. Emily Birnie as co-hostess.

A dinner and board meeting is scheduled at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday in the home of the president, Mrs. Gertrude Landsworth, 1247 E. Tenth St. A canasta party is planned at 12:30 p. m. Thursday at Linden Hall with Mrs. Katherine Harmon as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Gwen Burnham, Adeline Decker, Hassel Davis, and Margaret Beck.

Choraleans will rehearse at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Pearl Rausch, 5856 Orange Ave.

August Date Set for Jorlind Party

Aug. 13 has been set as the date for the annual beach party of Jorlind Club at Huntington Beach State Park. Starting at 7 p. m., the evening's gala activities will be highlighted by swimming, volleyball and other games.

Plans for the event were completed at a recent business session of the group at the home of Mrs. A. G. McGraw, 1225 E. 55th St. During the evening, Mrs. Forrest Clark, social welfare chairman, gave an expenditure report on the club's revolving fund to aid patients of the Seaside Hospital Medical Clinic. A demonstration of the making and arrangement of corsages was given by the hostess, Mrs. McGraw.

MEMBERSHIP TEA

Money for the scholarship fund will be raised Friday at 1 p. m. when Patrons of City College entertain at a membership tea in the garden of the Joseph Reed home, 2335 Cedar Ave. This event has been set to welcome new members and to renew old memberships. Above, planning flower arrangements for the party, are from left, Mrs. Irvin Mozingo, president; Mrs. Reed, hostess of the tea; Mrs. Lida Self, hospitality chairman, and Mrs. Rebecca Loy, membership chairman. Last year the patrons gave four scholarships to City College students.—(Staff photo.)

Compliment Mrs. Depew

Mrs. Gene E. Depew was complimented at an anticipation shower recently given by Mrs. Hubert McCague and Mrs. Charles N. Depew Jr. in the latter's home, 6124 E. Coan St. Baby bottles in pink and blue decorated the sheet cake which centered the refreshment table.

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. John James Gibbons of 2276 San Vicente Ave., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Corinne Audrey, to Lewis Barton White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Franklin White of Apple Valley. The bride-elect is a graduate of Wilson High School and attended City College. He is a Poly High School graduate and is a student at City College.

Secretaries Trek to San Pedro for Meeting

Lovely San Pedro Hacienda Hotel was setting for the August dinner meeting of Queen Beach chapter of National secretaries Assoc. The dining room where the meeting took place overlooks the beautiful pool and offers a panoramic view of Long Beach Harbor and the skyline, leaving nothing to be desired for atmosphere, according to the secretaries.

President Marie Wells read a commendation which was proudly received by Neva Blust from J. C. Woelfel, commanding officer of the U. S. Naval Station, praising her for her "intense interest in and devotion to the many and varied duties which have been assigned to her" during Woelfel's command. The commendation was just as proudly heard by Mrs. Blust's sister secretaries.

President Marie was elected as the chapter's delegate to the regional convention of National Secretaries to take place in Los Angeles in October.

Immediate past president Jeanne Hissner gave a report on the recent state convention in Santa Monica. Members celebrating birthdays in August were recipients of clever "Do It Yourself" travel kits, originated and designed by Alice O'Hara.

Evening's guests included Gloria Bores, Rea DiMuro, Ramona Finch, Dorothy Gahry, Virginia Oryzek, Medley Thiel-

man, Virginia Underwood and Betty Wilcoxen. Door awards were presented to Cal Holmes, Erna Pasque, Elma Braid, Edna Sellers and Glea Robinson.

Pleasant excitement at the meeting was created when it was noted that Preston Foster and other members of the cast of TV's "Waterfront" program were dining at the Hacienda at the same time.

'Noble Grands to Meet Wednesday

Mrs. Ruth Gray will be hostess in her 3737 E. 15th St. home at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday to members of the Past Noble Grands Club with Kirstine Peterson, president, in charge. The Sewing and Social Club will meet at 12:30 p. m. Friday at Town Hall with Emma Stivers as hostess. Ethel Casterton will preside and plans will be completed for an October bazaar. Card playing will conclude activities.

Nuptial Mass Unites Couple

Holy Innocent's Catholic Church was the scene of the recent nuptial mass uniting Paulette Katona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Katona of St. Louis, Mo., and Carl W. Kelnek, son of Mrs. H. A. Ellsworth of 4620 Faculty Ave.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was gownned in ice blue net over taffeta fashioned with white brocade inserts. She carried white roses and a sheaf of wheat centered by a white orchid.

In the entourage were Mrs. C. E. Kemp, sister of the bridegroom, matron of honor; Edna Monroe, bridesmaid; Raymond E. Kelnek, brother of the bridegroom, best man, and Howard B. Doty and Charles E. Kemp, ushers.

A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The wedding cake was cut by the couple with the sword of Maj. M. A. Ellsworth, USMC, retired, stepfather of the bridegroom.

The newlyweds will reside in Long Beach after a honeymoon at the Catalina Guest Ranch. The bride attended schools in St. Louis, Mo. Her husband, a graduate of St. Anthony's High School, served two years in the Navy. The bride's parents flew here to attend the ceremony.

Club Selects Hat Theme

Accent will be on hats when the Realtors Wives Club meets for luncheon and a program Wednesday at 11:30 a. m. in the Solarium of Lakewood Country Club.

Mrs. Ruth Williams, television personality, will demonstrate how to fashion hats from such improbable things as popcorn and scraps of material, and will explain how she became interested in her novel hobby.

Furthering the hat theme, table decorations will be small hats filled with flowers, the work of Mmes. Ted Skasko, Cliff Wad and W. C. Whittemore.

Arrangements for the card party to follow the program are being made by Mrs. Howard Reed, assisted by Mrs. P. Hayward and Mrs. W. M. Sutton.

Mrs. Joseph F. Reed will preside.

Sea Folk Turn to Land-Lubber Activity

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Winding up their summer activities with a gay farewell-to-summertime luncheon party at noon Wednesday the popular Wives of Navy Doctors' Club members will gather at the Officers Club, Allen Center, to make plans for a big fall season.

Mrs. Will Stidger will be senior hostess and reservations may be made with Mrs. Joseph Kelly of 19 Paloma Ave.

Many of the members will be returning from vacations, but hospitality chairman, Mrs. William Lawler, has left to enjoy August in San Francisco while her husband, Dr. Lawler, is with his ship in that area.

Mrs. W. Jackson Galbraith has returned after several months in the east seeing friends and relatives in Tennessee, Rhode Island, Ohio and New York.

Fleet Officers Wives Club members will meet Thursday at 12:30 p. m. at Allen Center for luncheon. Mrs. Dale Collins, assisted by the wives of officers attached to the USS Manchester, will welcome the many guests and members. "The Dance" will be the theme of this summertime party, with dancers from Arthur Murray Studio presenting a program.

On Sept. 10 in Denver, Colo., June Scanlon and Lt. Thomas Evans, executive officer of the USS Cobb, will listen to wedding bells together.

Pretty card from those Florida fans, Comdr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn, who are fishing and seeing the sights down near Largo. They parked their trailer, USS Retired, on the banks of Lake Seminole.

Last Thursday Mrs. J. M. Clement was a most charming hostess at a dessert bridge party for a group of friends at her home here.

Mrs. Philip Ruth entertained recently at a lovely buffet supper party and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, who are here from Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hupp and Stanley Rutkowski.

Mrs. James Meale and sons were recent house guests of Capt. C. W. Fielder, commanding officer of the Naval Air Station and Mrs. Fielder up in Monterey.

The Nautical Club will hold a board meeting at the Officers Club, Allen Center, on Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. it was announced by the president, Mrs. Philip Ruth.

Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Clement are looking forward to the arrival shortly of their son, Midshipman James Markland Clement Jr., who will be home for three weeks' leave from the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Darrell Hanscom have as their house guest, Mrs. Hanscom's cousin, Pte. J. Ernest Gosselin from Camp Irvine.

Among the distinguished newcomers to the service set here are Capt. and Mrs. Frank Parker and daughter, Cynthia Louise from the University of Wisconsin; and son Frank who just graduated from high school.

school. The family is now residing in San Pedro and come from Milwaukee where the naval officer was professor of naval science at Marquette University. He recently took over the command of the USS Cavalier which is based here.

Dinner guests and visitors of Mrs. and Mr. Albert Kauch and son Mike are Rosemarie Dimbro, Katherine German, Monica Daws and Vera Gange from Rochester, N. Y.

Former nurse "pals" of Helen Kauch, they drove way across country to get a peek at the Kauch's first born, cuddly young Mike, age four months.

Back from the cool breezes of Mare Island is Mrs. J. C. Voelkel, who enjoyed a wonderful visit with Mrs. Leon May at Mrs. May's mother's, Mrs. Kingsbury of Vallejo. Mrs. May will return home later in the summer.

Days of trout fishing were part of the exciting vacation enjoyed by Mrs. G. W. Davis, who with her sisters Virlee Donaldson and Mrs. George Leslie of Oxnard, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Dean of Denver, Colo. They visited another sister, Mrs. Dutton Stephenson, of that city.

A farewell party was given recently by the officers of the USS Cavalier for CWO and Mrs. Leroy "Dusty" Laine and Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Thomas H. Joyce, Jr. Lt. Joyce is returning to civilian life and the two will leave shortly to visit parents in Vermont. CWO Laine will go to Officer Candidate School in Rhode Island and from there he and his wife will go to Glenview, Ill.

Lt. and Mrs. C. W. Gilcrease have as their house guests, the Navy officer's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gilcrease and their uncle, Garret Campbell of Bishop.

Jumpers Top Fall Styles for School

First on your list of fall clothes for the girls should be a jumper. There's a bumper crop of jumpers predicted for the season ahead. They are worn with blouses, or still more popular is the turtle neck sweater which permits a splash of color above the scoop of V neck dress.

Outstanding novelty is the wonder jumper, a suede cloth jumper made to be worn four ways—turnabout and turned inside out! It's really a double jumper with one side styled mainly in black and white check, and the other in a bright contrasting color, such as red. One neckline is scooped, the other side V. Front bodice is bright colored, while the other contrasts color with check to effect a brief bolero line.

Denim frequently takes on a tweedy look. In fact, sometimes it is difficult to distinguish from the host of tweed cotton novelties so popular this season. One of these lovely denim fashions is a most attractive princess dress with midly highlights. Styled for 3 to 6' clear up to sixteen ages, it has a billowing skirt, slim waist and midriff. Nautical note is the large square midly collar. Added authentic touch is the white pique dickey embroidered with a giant, red satin-stitched anchor.

Reception Compliments Pair Following Nevada Wedding

A reception, to which 180 guests were bidden, took place recently in the Bellflower home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Allen Jr., to honor newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Ripa whose wedding took place in the Little Chapel Around the Corner in Las Vegas, Nev.

Mrs. Peter P. Ripa

The new Mrs. Ripa is the former Miss Sally Joan Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe G. Hammond of Palmdale, formerly of Long Beach. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Ripa, 6151 Walnut Ave.

Hosts at the reception were the brother-in-law and sister of the bride. Assisting were Mrs. Beverly Slater, Mrs. Joe G. Hammond Jr., and Miss Lillian Messerschmidt. Little Terry Allen, daughter of the hosts, was in charge of the guest book.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the Allen home. Guests were served wedges from a three-tier wedding cake.

Given in marriage by her father at the Nevada ceremony, the bride was attired for her wedding in a white embroidered ballerina length gown and a finger-tip length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and carnations.

After a honeymoon trip to Balboa, the newlyweds are now at home in Long Beach.

Both were graduated from Long Beach City College in June where she belonged to Entre Nous and he to Junior Exchange. They plan to attend Long Beach State College in the fall.

Eastern Elegance

From the East comes inspiration for access-magic, designed for the "East Indian look." Imported paisley square scarves looking like illuminated mosaics, add Oriental spice to suits and dresses. Magnificent satin collars from India, encrusted in gems, gold bullion and silver are high drama for simple necklines. Gold-touched scarves, sari-sheer, add a touch of glamour to bare evening shoulders. And everywhere, in scarves, fill-ins, ascots and gilets, the jewel colors of the East glow in velvet, satin, pure silk and chiffon.

Blue Stars Meet

Long Beach Chapter One, Blue Star Mothers of America, will meet at 1 p. m. Monday at the YWCA with Blanche Bell presiding. Luncheon will be served at noon.

Our Children

Being a 'Welcome Guest' Is an Acquired Talent

By ANGELO PATRI

Summer is the time when young people go visiting. Being a good guest is an art well worth acquiring. Maybe a few hints gained of experience with youthful visitors may be helpful.

First, set a definite time for arriving and leaving. This makes things easier for both host and guest. Be prompt about both. Be on the ship, the plane or the train you said you would be on, and be sure that you take the train, or whatever mode of travel you use, promptly at the end of the set time. Even if you are invited to stay over—go when you said you would go. Many a guest has closed the door behind him by staying over his allotted time.

Fit yourself into the life of the family. Watch to see what the family routine is about bathrooms, meals, daily household chores and do your full share toward keeping the household running smoothly. Always remember to say, "May I?" before using a chair, a radio, a television set and never lay hands on a car unless you are requested to do so. This is ironclad etiquette. Any breach of it will make a young guest about as welcome as a mosquito.

When asked about a trip, a picnic or a party, listen with your mind as well as with your ears. Go along happily with whatever entertainment is offered you, but be truthful about any lack of skill in a sport of you suffer that lack. Don't be like the girl who was asked along in a sailboat with the idea that she could help sail the boat. She had never been in a sailboat in her life, but hated to say so, and the result can be imagined. Don't belittle any skill you may have, but don't pretend to have what you have not, unless you want to be in a very embarrassing place.

Keep your belongings in the room you occupy and keep them in the closet, the chest or your suitcase; anywhere but scattered about the house. Neatness in this will create a warm spot for you in the heart of the hostess.

Try to be pleased with everything and never, never say, "Ours is so different. Much larger, and you can do lots more with it." A sophisticated air and a "I really don't care. Whatever you say"—that's poison. You are to be pleased, delighted, with whatever is offered.

Be particularly careful to pay courteous attention to any elderly person in the family.

In saying goodbye, thank everybody for their kindness and once at home, write your thank-you note.

Sometimes lying is caused by fear and the first step in overcoming lying is to find the cause, then strive to remove

Work Space

Pay special attention to the laundry when you plan home improvements. In addition to efficient equipment, including automatic washer, clothes dryer and ironer, every laundry area needs several sorting centers of easy-to-clean surfaces, which should be built to the proper height for the homemaker.

the obstacle. Dr. Patri tells how to correct this dangerous habit in leaflet P-15, "Lying." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, P.O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N.Y.

Barbara Vance Becomes Bride of Glen L. Nichols

Storybook romance of Barbara Irene Vance and Glen Lee Nichols, childhood sweethearts, culminated in recent nuptials at First Christian Church, Wilmington. The double ring rite was performed by Rev. Harlan D. Morris.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Vance, 1262 Roman Ave., Wilmington, and the bridegroom is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ireland, 1532 Lagoon Ave., Wilmington.

The bride was a picture of loveliness in a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace over slipper satin. In the center front of the bouffant skirt, scallops of lace met an accordion pleated nylon tulle panel. A pearl crown of orange blossoms design held her fingertip-length, illusion veil. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of four white orchids with white satin streamers tied in sweetheart knots.

Maid of honor was Miss Doris Irene Tenney, cousin of the bride, from Santa Barbara, and bridesmaids were Miss Violet Farrell and Mrs. Greta Hastings Vance.

Melvin Vance, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Gene Wood and James Skow.

A reception at the church social hall was attended by 200 guests.

Following the reception, 75 family members and intimate friends were invited to a patio buffet supper at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, who is a Banning High School graduate, is a former member of Job's Daughters, Wilmington Bethel 57.

Her bridegroom, a U. S. Marine sergeant stationed at Twentynine Palms, has been in the service for the past three years. When he attended the local high school, he was a leading tennis star. He is also a former member of Wilmington Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

The couple is receiving friends at their residence, 922 W. "M" St., following a honeymoon in Palm Springs.

GLAMOUR'S TOPPING FOR FALL

Japan is the inspiration of Sally Victor this year, who designed the graceful hat of silvery panne at left. The soft tucks are taken from the folds of a Japanese kimono. Romance of the ballet permeates the next hat called Jete by Emme. Designed in fur beaver, the large undulating brim is centered with a shallow round crown. A black

Shetland veil with a wide band of chiffon borders the hat—third hat by Emme. This little derby is of holly-berry red soles. Fujiyama is the name given by Sally Victor to the chapeaux at right. Neither snow covered nor steep, this green velvet chapeaux is gently sloping and very becoming.

NOTHING IS MORE CHIC for fall than this rib-knit ensemble by Zolot of California. The two-piece rib-knit dress, tied at the waist, is complemented by a matching slim coat lined in silk crepe. The coat is belted in back and has the popular push-up sleeves. In colors hunter-green, faun and charcoal, it is priced around $80.

(For the name of the store showing this style, phone Susan at 70-5951, Ext. 249, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, Press-Telegram, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Rings Achieve Slender Look

The slender-as-a-willow look has reached the bridal market and filtered clear back through the betrothal period. Engagement rings and wedding bands have gone from plump to narrow. Diamond ring mountings are designed with "slim shoulders," the shoulders of the ring being the sections that slant down on either side of the center stone to meet the finger band. The diamond is lifted high off the finger, and the narrow mounting by contrast makes the stone appear larger than its actual size.

The Worry Clinic

Surgery Fear More Harmful Than the Actual Operation

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case P-306: Clara L., aged 47, was hysterical with fear as she telephoned me long distance for advice.

"Oh, Dr. Crane, my doctor says I have a tumor of the bowel," she began, and was crying as she talked. He recommends an immediate operation, but I am so afraid. Do you think I will die on the operating table? I have two children in high school and I don't want to leave them yet."

Usually I refrain from dealing in this column with purely medical problems, but there are exceptions.

Fear causes more pain and disturbance of your normal physiology than cancer or any other ailment. For fear can produce insomnia, peptic ulcer, high blood pressure, spastic colitis, and a host of other actual organic ailments.

So face the facts and you'll be more calm. To do that, of course, you must have frank scientific data, which is why your editor runs this clinical column.

You don't need worry about dying on the operating table. That is such a rarity that you can dismiss it as a very remote possibility. Furthermore, you lose very little blood during any operation. You have five or six quarts, and may lose only a few tablespoons at most.

For doctors clamp off any bleeding vessel at once and tie it.

If you have an obstruction of the bowel caused by a tumor, that section of your bowel may be cut out, just as you might cut out a 6-inch piece of leaking garden hose to repair it. The two good ends of the bowel are then sewed together very neatly.

Sometimes it is wise to detour the contents of the bowel for a few weeks, so a hole is cut in the abdominal wall and the bowel is brought to the surface. A slit in the side of the bowel may be made so the contents can empty into a little bag worn over the new exit.

"But suppose I have cancer?" Clara tearfully inquired. "Would the surgeon cut it all out?"

He will cut all that he can find. Sometimes a tiny bit of the cancer may float away in the blood stream and lodge in some small blood vessel, possibly in the liver, where it might start up afresh.

But that's a chance you have to take in life. So place your faith in God and trust your surgeon to do all that is medically possible.

Then live like a lion instead of a fearful, timid sheep. Death is only a graduation ceremony where you go on to the next classroom in God's cosmic school system, so team up with God and you need not fear graduation.

"But what about diabetes or epilepsy?" somebody may ask. "Can I get cured?"

No, you cannot get cured, but in diabetes you can often get along without insulin shots by lopping off excess fat and by watching your diet so you don't overeat.

Even if you must then take insulin, that is not too bad. And you have about a million companions in the same boat

Arizona Trip

En route to Arizona for a month's stay are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smithman of 5801 Daggett St. with their sons David and Jack. They will visit Mrs. Smithman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ridgway, in Sanford and take numerous side-trips to spots of interest in the Southwest.

Smithman will interrupt his vacation to spend a short time in Flagstaff, Ariz., where he will attend Flagstaff State College summer session.

To Sew Friday

Granddaughters Club of Emily R. Jewell Tent No. 15, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will have an all-day sewing for a day nursery Friday in the home of Mrs. Ethel Fruits, 4545 E. Anaheim. Luncheon is planned for noon.

with you. And many people with diabetes or high blood pressure, etc., may actually live longer because of those ailments!

For then you are forced to steer your life by your brain. So your intelligent pattern of behavior may give you a longer lifespan than if you had goaded and caroused yourself into an early death, even though you had never been a diabetic.

So team up with God. For when God is your Senior Partner, you can relax at night and converse via prayer, as by saying: "Father, I have a heavy day's work tomorrow so will you please take over the night shift for me while I sleep?" and you can then slumber in peace.

Why Grow Old?

Beware of Summer Hazards

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Summer has its hazards as well as pleasures. I have already written several times about suntanning. Today I want to bring you some information and suggestions about some of the physical discomforts to which outdoor life exposes you.

Part of the fatigue you feel in very hot weather comes from loss of salt and water in the tissues through perspiration. Most doctors feel that you should force fluids for this reason. In other words, drink water at regular intervals whether or not you are thirsty. Also, use more salt than usual on your food. Take salt tablets only on your doctor's advice. This is not usually necessary unless you are doing heavy physical exercise in hot weather.

Athletes Foot is more likely to add to its list of victims in hot weather than in cold. The reason for this is the fact that damp, perspiring feet provide a perfect atmosphere for the growth of the fungus which causes this trouble. Also, we spend more time near swimming pools, in bath houses and shower rooms.

In order to avoid Athletes Foot wear wooden clogs when you walk about locker rooms and showers and the edge of the pool. Also, take especially good care of your feet. Dry them carefully. Change your stockings or socks often and use dusting powder between the toes.

Rocky Mountain Spotted

Fever is another summer hazard. It is not so horrifying as it once was but it certainly is something to avoid. The antibiotics have reduced the death rate terrifically.

This disease may occur any place and is transmitted to man by ticks. In order to be safe use tweezers to remove ticks from dogs or other pets which are allowed to run in fields or woods. Do not use your hands. Even better, remove the ticks by using one of the insecticide powders or liquid dips.

When camping in spots known to be infected with Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, you would be wise to wear high boots. You should also inspect your entire body once a day and your bedding at night. If you find that there is a tick on you hold a lighted cigarette or match close to it. When it lets go, remove it with tweezers and disinfect the spot with carbolic acid.

One should always take a First Aid Kit on vacation. This is what the American Red Cross recommends: Six one-inch adhesive bandages, individually wrapped, two 3-inch bandage compresses, one square yard of sterile gauze, a triangular bandage (which can be used as a tourniquet) and a tube of burn ointment. For trips to far away places you should also have one roll of one or two inch bandage, a roll of 1/4 inch adhesive tape, a pair of scissors, forceps for removing splinters, spirits of ammonia, sterile mineral or castor oil for use as eyedrops and wire or thin boards for splints.

If you would like to have our leaflet No. 69 "Tricks in Camping," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of the Press-Telegram.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Dr. Edson Beebe

Chef of the Week

'Say Ah' Becomes 'Hmmm' as Doctor Turns Cook

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Today's Chef of the Week, Dr. Edson Beebe, knows the true meaning of perseverance and singleness of purpose. His degree in medicine meant enough to him that he, during a period of 13 years, alternated the refueling of the exchequer, with the absorbing of medical lore. His motto has always been—"If you want anything badly enough, you'll work for it."

Beebe started out from Atchison, Kan., and although he spent several summers in Long Beach, the first as early as 1910, this city actually became his home in 1916. The family residence was located at 4th and Pine, the present site of the Bank of America.

After having experienced the casualties which befall the Pine Ave., the American Ave., and the Atlantic Ave. schools, with other of our "chefs," his educational itinerary reads like this: Poly High, UCLA-Long Beach Jr. College, and "Cal" for a semester. He spent the next six years replenishing his finances. After two more years at "Cal," he enrolled at Stanford University, from which he received his degree in medicine. His internship was spent in Los Angeles County Hospital.

One of our "chefs" first business ventures was delivering Mrs. Criller's Potato Chips. His territory included Zafaria (now East Long Beach), Willowville and the flood control. He received the sum of two bucks a week.

He recalls that the first oil rusher, on Signal Hill, came in on his birthday—and enjoys remembering the "good old" days when he used to play hand-ball with the Davis boys, Al and John. Their "court" was the side of the Davis Furniture Co., then located at 125 East 4th St.

A downtown Kiwanian, Beebe holds membership in the American Academy of General Practice, and was a clinical instructor of medicine, UCLA Medical School. He serves on the board of directors YMCA, and is chairman of Health & Physical Education of the "Y."

Sparkling Play From Tourney

The national championships begin tonight at the Palmer House in Chicago, with a well-known-in game that serves as a sort of warm-up. No national championship is settled in tonight's game, but the entire proceeds are turned over to charity. Last year the warm-hearted bridge experts raised more than $2000 for the American Cancer Society in such a game, and they expect to do as well this year.

Today's hand, taken from last year's charity game, was played by Norman Kay of Merchantville, N. J. For the last four or five years, Norman has been one of the leading tournament players of the country, and at this moment he has won more master points in bridge tournaments than any other player for the year so far.

West led the nine of diamonds against Norman's very normal contract of four hearts. East put up the jack, and Norman made the kind of play that keeps him up among the leaders year after year.

Strange as it may seem, Kay refused the first trick. He decided that West was sure to have at least one more diamond. That being the case, South was sure to lose a diamond trick sooner or later.

Think this over to prove the point. If South wins the first trick and later knocks out the ace of spades, whichever defender takes the spade ace will be in position to lead a diamond.

After that strange first trick, East continued with a diamond to South's ace. Declarer drew trumps with the ace and king, knocked out the queen of hearts, and had no trouble regaining the lead and drawing the outstanding trump, and setting up dummy's spades to discard clubs.

At most tables South lost the contract by winning the first diamond. When West got the lead with the queen of hearts, he cashed the ace of spades, led a diamond to the queen, and was assured of the setting trick when East led a third diamond. Whether South ruffed high or low, West was sure to win a trick with the nine of hearts.

Mother Neglected by Only Son

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I am a widow with one son living. My two daughters were killed 10 years ago in a car accident. My son was eight when his daddy died.

I sacrificed everything for him and he was a model son until he married four years ago. His wife is a know-it-all, brags about her folks, her rich relations, etc. She feels I am a nobody, as I am janitress in a large office building.

She and my son visit me about once a week for 15 to 30 minutes at a time. But they both visit her parents for a whole day. I am alone every holiday, for she has to be with her mama, and naturally my son must be with her.

She entertains her family and they are constant visitors there, whereas I am never invited at all.

While she was baiting my son she was so sweet to me. Now she never says anything nice at all.

Charles calls her parents papa and mom. She calls me Mrs. U—. She never refers to me as Charles's mother, nor says a kind word when I try to do little favors for them.

I might add here—although I don't mean to sound like an old "whine"—that I have an incurable illness and am living on borrowed time. That is why attention, any little attention, from my son at this time would mean so much.

I simply can't understand his acting this way, as he always was so sweet to me and so interested. I guess now he is ashamed of an honest, respectable mother because I am and must work.

—SON'S CASTOFF.
P.S. Her mother gave a birthday dinner for Charles and never invited me at all.

DEAR SON'S CASTOFF: If you "whine" a little bit—and I scarcely think "whine" is the word—why, I don't blame you. You've had a heavy load to carry, and I admire you for carrying it with your head up.

Charles should admire you, too, and so should his wife—but most of all Charles. After all, what he is, and what he has is in large part due to you.

But how can you call a son to you and say, "My dear boy, I've done a great many things for you when it was really rough going. You owe me affection and love. You owe me attention."

However, I do think you can get in touch with him when his wife is not around and tell him you want to discuss a few things. Then, you could show him the letter you've written to me. And you can say that as his mother you feel you have a right to tell him how he has hurt you. Don't mention his wife; just talk to him. It won't hurt matters and it might help. I sure hope so. —M.M.

shopping sense

by Lisa Towne

August, so named for the Roman Augustus Caesar, is always a momentous month, because summer is waning and vacation-time is about over. It's time to start thinking ahead to new activities. Perhaps we might define it as The Month to Buy Things, because there are plenty of wonderful sales now, and don't forget that August is also Back to School Month. But for now just lean back and relax while we mention a few of the helpful shopping hints we obtained for you this week.

Here's more exciting news on the Annual August White Goods Sale now going on at PENNEY'S, 6th & Pine. This week PENNEY'S is featuring towels from the famous Cannon mill—the big 22" by 44" bath towels come in high fashion Care Free Colors with the Beauti-Fluff finish and now are specially priced at 75c each. Hand towels in matching or coordinated colors are specially priced at 45c; matching washcloths at 19c. Stock your linen closet now with these fine quality Cannon towels from PENNEY'S.

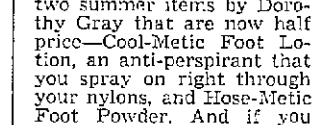

There's still plenty of beach weather ahead, and the forecast for fall fashions demands of you as much in figure proportion as does the bathing suit, so if you're unhappy with the shape of things it's time you investigated the reducing equipment available at ABBEY RENTS, where you can rent floor model belt vibrators, bike exercisers and hand massagers. In as little time as a month's use, you'll be pleased with the results. Phone 6-6264.

For a really fine selection of Correfors Swedish Import crystal visit MAYFAIR JEWELS, 3806 Atlantic, in Bixby Knolls, where you'll find values up to $50 at a 25% discount during August... vases, bowls, decanters, pitchers, dessert sets and many other pieces in Brown Smoke, Charcoal Blue, Green Crackle and clear. And MAYFAIR JEWELS is continuing its Get Acquainted Sale of fine jewelry through August so stop by and look around.

You'll have high praise, as does EGYPTIAN DRUG CO., 5128 East Second, in Belmont Shore, for Dorothy Gray's brand new spray-on deodorant Atomist in a plastic bottle at $1.25, because Atomist is effective in checking perspiration, and it won't harm fabrics. And do you realize the quickest way that your face will show exhaustion is when your feet are tired? So be foot-comfortable and smiling with two summer items by Dorothy Gray that are now half price—Cool-Metic Foot Lotion, an anti-perspirant that you spray on right through your nylons, and Hose-Metic Foot Powder. And if you want to fresher appearance of faded, sallow skin try Dorothy Gray's introductory size Hormone Cream Collagen, now only $1, at EGYPTIAN DRUG CO.

Co-ordinated fashion is the secret of the smartly dressed woman, and at ESTELLE THOMPSON'S, 4146 Viking Way, in Lakewood Triangle, you'll find the Thompsons have a personal desire to help you select your ensemble, or important furs or fur accessories, styled by Tommy Thompson.

If carefully supervised play and the development of good study habits are important factors to you in choosing a school for your kindergarten through fifth grade children, then you'll find what you want at MORRIS MANOR, 1120 Locust Ave. Your boys and girls are taught the three R's, given balanced meals and individual instruction at accredited MORRIS MANOR. Transportation is available!

Not only does SOFT WATER LAUNDRY & DRY CLEANING, 702 West Anaheim, handle father's shirts like a ringer by washing them in Lux Flakes and carefully pressing them to new brightness, but the shirts are put in cellophane to protect them from dust until wearing time. Don't forget, too, that if you bring laundry and dry cleaning to the plant, there's a 10% discount.

Now dreams come on four wheels, and you'll agree once you've seen and driven the superbly designed new Chrysler-300 at R. O. GOULD CO., Chrysler-Dealers, 1600 American Ave. The Chrysler-300 is the greatest performing sports car on the road with all the power and prestige of luxury styling for your driving pleasure. The interior is upholstered in long-wearing and handsome natural cowhide leather, and the seats are foam rubber. Choice of exterior colors—Platinum, Tangelo Red or Black. The Chrysler-300 is more than a car, it's a pace setter.

If you're looking for places to go, things to buy and customer services, let us help you solve your shopping inquiries. Phone Lisa Towne at 70-5951, extension 249, and we'll help you be dollar-wise with Shopping Sense.

We 'follow the news'

A California family finds clues to adventure in its newspaper

by SARELLEN M. WUEST

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

About twice a week Dad (my husband Henry) will look up from his morning Union, a colored pencil poised in one hand, and ask, "How would you all like to see a house built of handmade brick over a century ago? It's just been doomed to make way for the new freeway."

Or, "Biggest cargo of newsprint ever to arrive from Denmark is going to be unloaded at Pier 6 today. Who'd like to watch the job done?" Or, "Rookie firemen are scheduled to make practice jumps at the training tower this afternoon. How about driving out there?"

Whatever the suggestion, our 8-year-old adopted sons, John and George, and Ma (that's me) are likely to be teetering on our chairs in anticipation of taking off on another "exploring-our-town" excursion.

What Dad is doing is carrying out our family plan of digging a hundred little adventures a year out of our daily paper. Having his own insurance business, he's in the fortunate position of being able to accompany us on most of these news-item trips, which have added up to a wonderful backlog of fascinating hours spent together and a fuller appreciation of our community and the people who live in it.

Of course, there are a few principles involved. We don't go where there's apt to be a big crowd. We don't pursue sheer entertainment, obvious promotion deals or exploitations. We don't visit any place that's likely to be dangerous, or where the morbid aspects may be out of proportion to the learning possibilities.

A Way to Stay Young

Why have we bothered to arrange such excursions? Well, about 10 years ago a childless 40-year-old couple (my husband and I) was told by local child-placement agencies that they took a dim view of middle-aged applications for newborn infants. They pointed out all the usual factors to show what a detriment "maturity" could be. When we finally obtained our sons through private adoption, sanctioned by State Welfare, we resolved to try to do as well by them as parents 20 years younger would have done. Taking an active interest in what's going on in the world around us was, we felt, one good way of staying youthful.

Since then we have read about — and then gone to see — such diverse things as a grafted fruit tree which sported three shades of pink (as well as white) blossoms, and a bus fleet of "wetbacks" being loaded up for return to Mexico.

We have watched truckloads of discarded refrigerators smashed on a municipal dump so they wouldn't be a hazard to kids playing hide-and-seek, and a fireboat getting a new coat of red paint while on emergency call in San Diego Bay.

We have gone to the beach at the harbor's entrance to spot for ourselves a reported school of whales. And last spring, while inspecting "unclaimed items" at a city auction sale, we had the unexpected pleasure of spotting — and retrieving — a prized express-wagon, with the boys' names on its sides, which had recently disappeared from in front of our house.

Not long ago, a big excavation project gouged out a side hill within a block of our home. Layers of shells no longer found on our coastline (hundreds of feet below us) were laid bare in decks as high as a six-story building. "Did it tell about this in the news, Mom?" asked John, scrubbing the silt off a fan-shaped scallop shell he'd just picked up. "Why," added George, "don't we put it in the paper about how the beach used to be way up on our hill? People would want to know about that."

To our way of thinking, the boys had a point. Reading a paper with an eye alerted for such news items suggests innumerable exciting things to see and do. All that's needed is curiosity and imagination. It's the best way we know to build wonderful days — and memories. ■

• Today PARADE takes up something close to everyone's heart — money. Highly qualified to discuss it is New Yorker Sidney Margolius (r.), financial expert, author and lecturer. Drawing on intensive research and personal interviews, he has written six books and many articles on consumer problems, budgeting, taxes and such. His latest book, Your Guide to Financial Security, offers every family practical advice on managing and stretching its dollars. For more on this basic subject, see page 6.

MORSE CODE practice (on home-made senders) intrigues Eugene Baddaty (l.) and Phil Levine.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Sunny summer Sunday afternoons, neighbors of the big Jewish (non-sectarian) Chronic Disease Hospital here see a strangely moving sight. Troop 257 (14 members) and Cub Pack 257 (5 members) — two of the 450 troops and packs for handicapped youngsters belonging to the Boy Scouts of America — "march" from the hospital in wheelchairs or hobbling on braces.

At Camp Sakumow (two tents pitched on the hospital lawn) they salute the flag. Thereafter they roast marshmallows, practice knots and bone up for merit badges like normal Scouts from coast to coast. Toward sundown they "march" back inside the hospital, their heads full of woodland lore they can only hope someday to use.

ROLL CALL by Phil Levine's mother finds only two boys able to stand — and often some absent.

It's that DIAL feeling – you never worry about odor!

More than a feeling, it's a fact: with Dial Soap you never worry about perspiration odor. You see, normal perspiration has no odor until skin bacteria go to work on it. And ordinary soaps just can't get rid of bacteria effectively. But Dial Soap does. It removes up to 95% of these odor-causers, because Dial is the one leading soap with AT-7 (Hexachlorophene). There's nothing else as good for keeping odor away. Dial's AT-7 clings to your skin, so it protects you all day – and several days if need be. That's why folks who use Dial every day say they just don't feel as clean with any other soap. Dial stops odor before it starts.

Aren't you glad you use Dial Soap? (don't you wish everybody did!)

HOW TO MANAGE —AND STRETCH— YOUR DOLLARS

by SIDNEY MARGOLIUS

An expert shows you nine ways to bolster your income and build family security

IN TODAY'S UNCERTAIN world, people are strongly conscious of the need to try to build some kind of personal security. But much of this drive for personal security is unknowing, unplanned and chaotic. Anxious families buy thousands of polo insurance policies which insure them against a single dramatic illness while leaving them unprotected against a host of others. Millions invest their savings at 2 or 3 per cent, while borrowing money for mortgages, cars and others needs at 5, 12 and even 24 per cent.

To speak frankly, many people of moderate means simply do not have the necessary information to cope with the financial and legal problems they encounter in their search for security. Disabling illness and unemployment due to economic recessions are still the two most stubborn threats to personal security that are difficult for an individual or family to control by itself.

But a financially sophisticated family that develops all its resources is better able to protect itself against such external forces. In fact a family that spends and invests productively, and participates in community facilities which can increase its own security, helps keep factories running and men working, and contributes to the well-being of the whole community.

Recently I interviewed a man selected by his union as a "typical" wage earner because he earned exactly the U. S. average wage of about $70 a week, and had a typical family of two children.

Frances, his wife, told me that every Friday — pay day — John deposits $10 in the credit union at the factory. And on the following Wednesday, just as regularly, he has to draw it out to help pay the bills for the rest of the week. That $10 won't stick to his account more than a few days.

For one thing, he got into debt with a series of medical bills. Frances was pretty sick a while back, and only repeated doses of antibiotics pulled her through. The medicine cost $7 for each little box. A "typical" family's finances simply aren't built to stand that kind of assault.

Once in debt, John and Frances continue to pay a toll of interest which drains their funds so they can't get on a cash basis. They are paying for their furniture and refrigerator on the installment plan. They pay for their insurance that way, too: 25 or 50 cents a week or month on a lot of little policies.

To get out of the financial trap many people like Frances and John are in, even when they are steadily employed, you need both principles and practical information on how to handle your money and make it work for you. Based on the experience I have related, as well as many others, here is a set of nine tested principles which can help most families increase their security.

1. KNOW WHERE YOUR MONEY GOES.

The first and basic step in controlling your income so you can build financial security is to know where it is going. That means keeping a record of your spending. It is the first step in effective budgeting.

2. MAKE IT GO WHERE YOU WANT.

Your two tools for making your money achieve the things you want most out of life are a budget and a system of money control. Budgeting really consists of two parts: Budget or Spending Plan (conservative estimate of your income, a realistic estimate of how much you need for fixed expenses and necessities, allocation of the remainder to achieve your goals); Spending Record (proves whether the estimated budget is realistic, reveals whether you have been unwittingly spending more than you want to, and becomes almost an automatic control over money).

No standard budget can fit most families. The age of the children or the kind of work a man does makes a difference in food bills. It costs about 20 per cent more to buy food for a man who does hard physical work than for a white-collar worker. Also, standard budget percentages are sometimes made obsolete by shifts in prices. Food prices have gone up more than many other items in the past decade, and on an average command between 30-35 per cent of many family budgets. Other influencing factors: rent or the cost of your home.

Here is how you can plan your actual budget:

a) Know your expenses. Collect your household bills for the past year and try to figure out your average weekly expenses during that period for different categories—food, housing, utilities, clothing, household operation, medical expenses and so on. For items for which you have no bills, estimate your expenses as closely as you can or keep a preliminary record for a month.

b) Examine these expenses. Compare your weekly costs in each category.

c) Draw up your own tentative budget. On the basis of a conservative estimate of your monthly income, including both wages and interest earnings, you should be able to draw up a working budget. List your fixed expenses first—such as rent, utilities, carfare, cleaning supplies. Besides the usual items, your budget should provide for special family goals, such as vacation or children's education, reserves for replacement of household equipment and car, medical costs.

As to the Spending Record: this should be more detailed than the budget. Items should include personal care, recreation and advancement, personal allowance, transportation, car, savings. Use one simple notebook, with a page for each month for recording expenditures. Keep the record book in a specific, convenient place. Select a regular time for making entries, as after dinner when the family may be together.

3 GET ON A CASH BASIS.

Pay off all debts as soon as possible. A moderate-income family that habitually borrows and buys on time will rarely achieve financial security for these reasons: a) constant seepage of income—paying out anywhere from $50 to $250 a year in credit fees; b) the tendency to pay higher prices at stores that feature time payments; c) the tendency to overbuy.

Always use your own money first. But when you do need outside financing, here are policies for doing it at the least cost:

a) First make sure the item is necessary. If so, get information and comparative prices from other dealers, manufacturers and trade authorities before you sign an installment contract.

b) Compare the credit charge. You may be able to borrow cash or get installment credit from another store or bank for a smaller fee.

c) Borrow the least you need and pay it back as quickly as you can.

d) Avoid contracts with clauses that may make real trouble for you.

Many borrowers don't realize how much true interest they pay. It can save you money all your life to be aware that when the interest rate is figured on the full amount of your debt, but you repay monthly, the true interest rate is approximately twice the stated rate. That's because the lender calculates your interest cost on the original full amount, but when you repay monthly you owe on the average only half the original sum.

Here are various places you can borrow money or get a cash loan, listed in ascending order of cost: your life-insurance policy (true rate approx. 5%); a mortgage on your house (true rate approx. 4-6%); FHA Title I home-improvement loans (true rate 10%); credit unions (true rate 6-12%); regular banks (true rate 7-12%); industrial banks (true rate approx. 8-14%); stores (true rate approx. 6-24%); finance companies (true rate approx. 12-30%); small loan companies (true rate approx. 18-42%).

4 ACCUMULATE A CAPITAL FOR LIVING.

Once you budget your way out of debt, you can begin to accumulate savings. A capital for living can make money for a family just as a businessman's capital makes money for him.

The point is: make that capital an early and a major goal. Even $1,000 of capital for living accumulated early enough can provide the foundation.

5 INVEST IN YOURSELF FIRST.

For most families, the most profitable way to invest capital for living is in their own needs first. Many families have from $1,000 to $5,000 of capital. But it lies half idle, earning 2 or 3 per cent while the family pays 12 to 36 per cent to finance cars and household goods, 4 to 9 per cent to finance housing and repairs, and so on.

People seem afraid to use their own savings, even when profit is guaranteed and there is no risk, as in self-financing. Be your own banker and you'll make your money earn more.

Left in bonds or savings accounts, $1,000 of "living" capital would amount to only $1,300 in 10 years. But working full time, here are some of the things it can do:

It can save you $125-$150 a year if used as a revolving fund to finance purchases of your own cars and household goods. You have additional opportunities for saving 8 to 25 per cent by prepaying insurance bills, anticipating your needs for clothing and household goods at sales, and buying fuel ahead of the season. Reinvesting those savings by prepaying your mortgage, or in other comparatively secure investment, your growing capital can again earn 4 to 6 per cent. You too can invest in real estate as many investors do—in your own house.

In many cases, in 10 years $1,000 of capital for living can thus grow to $3,000-$4,000—a good backlog against unemployment and illness. And even though in your later years there are not as many opportunities for large earnings through self-investment, there are enough so that for many people the $3,000 can more than double.

A representative modest budget for a typical retired couple living in a medium-sized city—which would maintain decency and basic care if not many extra comforts—would cost, at early 1955 prices, about $200. In planning your retirement fund, the earlier you start the less you need to save. A man aged 45 starts buying a $37.50 Government bond a month. At 65 he will have a retirement fund of $12,000. Another man waits until 55 but buys a $75 bond a month. At 65 he will have $10,000. Both will have invested the same $9,000 but the early starter accumulates 20 per cent more money.

6 MAKE YOUR MONEY MAKE MORE MONEY.

By investing knowingly and early, even conservative investments will double your money in about 15 years. The foundation of your investment program is savings accounts and savings bonds.

Most thoughtful investment advisors feel that in addition to its budget reserves for health care and depreciation, a family ought to have at least six months' to a year's living expenses in readily available savings, such as banks and par-value savings bonds, before it considers other types of investment.

Here are brief evaluations of different savings accounts and institutions:

Mutual savings banks. Interest averages 2.6 per cent.

Commercial banks. Average interest: about 1.15 per cent.

Credit unions. Many pay 3 per cent on deposits.

Savings and loan associations. Interest rate of 3 per cent is fairly common and some pay 3½ and even 4.

Postal savings. You get 2 per cent interest (in Mississippi, 1 per cent).

Government savings bonds. Series E bonds return 3 per cent if you hold them the full 10 years.

7 PLAN YOUR INSURANCE TO REALLY PROTECT YOU.

Your life insurance needs to be integrated with your investments, for your investments are also part of your family protection. Your insurance program also needs to be based on an estimate of your family's needs for additional income to supplement its potential social security benefits and your own future need for retirement income.

8 USE COMMUNITY FACILITIES THAT CAN HELP PROTECT YOU.

There are scores of government and community rights and services that can help protect a family in time of crisis—from nursing care for infants to retirement payments for elderly people. Among typical services are:

Community Chest or United Fund.

Catholic Charities, Jewish Family Service, Salvation Army Family Service.

National Homemaker Service of the Division of Social Services, Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington 25, D.C.

Social Security Retirement Benefits (Consult your local Social Security office).

U. S. Children's Bureau, Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington 25, D.C.

9 BUILD YOUR EARNING POWER.

Since potential unemployment is the hardest threat to safeguard against, you need to build your resources there too, just as you build savings. Here your safeguards are increased working skills.

Among the best sources of information on employment prospects are the booklets published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Labor Dept., Washington 25, D.C. Also consult the Occupational Handbook and Job Guide for Young Workers.

Keep in mind that work competence is only one phase of job security. Along with developing skill it is a fundamental part of any job to be aware of the importance of getting along with others, and thus create mutual respect and cooperation.

► By following these nine tested principles, you can make your dollars go farther—and build a secure future for yourself and your family. ■

DOLLAR DO'S AND DON'TS

DO pay off your debts as soon as possible.

DO beware of "Christmas" accounts, which pay no interest, sometimes even charge "fines."

DO base your budget on net income—what you actually take home after withholdings for taxes and social security.

DO shop for low-cost food alternatives (canned vegetables, margarine, skim milk powder, etc.).

DO save money by collecting supermarket ads near the end of the week, then planning a week's menus in advance on the specials.

DO invest "sweat equity"—your own labor—by maintaining and improving your own property.

DON'T fall into the costly trap of having somebody else budget for you.

DON'T let your money lie idle. Be your own banker and make secure investments.

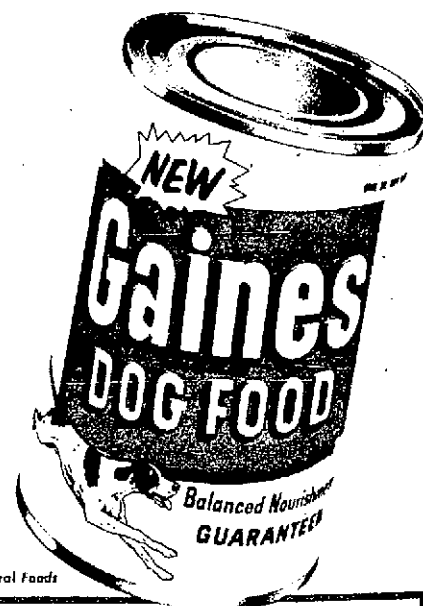

DON'T obligate yourself for luxuries before necessities are paid for.

Safety 'Test Tube'

Evansville, Indiana is showing how a city can make its streets safe

by SID ROSS

EVANSVILLE, IND. When a parade of 300 white-belted schoolboys wound through the streets here recently, the occasion was almost a civic celebration. For the second straight year, the city had been cited by the National Safety Council for having the nation's best school traffic safety education program among cities of 100,000 to 200,000 population. To Evansville, this was a real victory in a seven-year, community-wide campaign to make its streets safe.

Recognition of its safety patrol also indicated that the city might be winning the war as well as the battle. In 1948, a group of 12 safety organizations wanted a spot to try out the recommendations of the President's Highway Safety Conference. They settled on Evansville, which has a reputation as the typical American city (advertising men often use it to test new campaigns, politicians to send up trial balloons), as a "test tube."

That summer the safety campaign began with a bang. The city adopted a 10-point program calling for a whole new approach to traffic and traffic safety—a study of traffic flow and parking needs, rewriting of traffic laws, improving the records system, cracking down on violations and shaking up the traffic court, protecting pedestrians and, above all, making everyone in Evansville safety-conscious.

For a while things went swimmingly. Traffic deaths, at a high of 24 in 1947, fell steadily, even though more and more cars jammed the streets. In 1948 and 1949, Evansville was first in Indiana in traffic safety; in 1950, it was second in the state, sixth in its population group in the nation.

Then the good work began to slip. In 1951, traffic deaths climbed to 16; in 1952, to 18; in 1953, to 20. The National Safety Council stung the city with its annual report, which declared that Evansville had shown "very little improvement" and rated it 25th in its group for 1953.

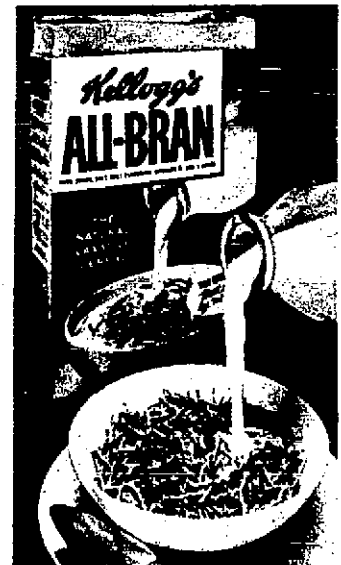

But when the Council's report for 1954 is issued this fall, Evansville expects to be near the top again. The poor showing in 1953 inspired a redoubled effort in 1954, and the crackdown paid off: deaths fell from 20 to 11, accidents from 3,394 to 2,331. (The 1955 dividends are even bigger: only three were killed in this year's first five months, compared to five in a similar period of 1954.)

The 1954 program outdid all the previous six years of work. City Traffic Engineer Paul W. Rice (the man who originated the increasingly popular "Yield Right of Way" sign) blueprinted a series

CONTINUED

PATROL PARADE includes motorcycle and mounted escort, antique autos, city officials. After parade, school patrolmen get merit scrolls, then a free outing at local amusement park.

SAFETY CHECK starts with license inspection (above). Other patrolmen will check brakes, lights, wipers, tires.

TRAFFIC ENGINEER Paul Rice inspects new expressway which will reduce congestion, cut accidents in Evansville.

School kids show their elders how to run a safety program of overpasses to eliminate traffic bottlenecks. The city began installation of new, radio-controlled traffic lights. The Retail Merchants Association started a survey of downtown traffic and parking conditions.

City police, sharply criticized in the 1953 report, got tough. They arrested twice as many violators as in 1953, got twice as many convictions. They drafted a new ordinance allowing School Safety Patrolmen to testify in court, like policemen. They instituted radar speed checks. ("It's getting tough to find speeders in Evansville," Lt. John Reutter, head of the Traffic Division, says.) Cars equipped with loudspeakers were stationed at strategic corners to warn pedestrians against jaywalking and crossing against the lights.

The backbone of the police crackdown, however, has been the "courtesy inspection" or "safety check lane" program. Not a new idea, it has proved itself a remarkable accident preventive in Evansville. Last year, police ran checks for a full three months, found 4,198 violations in 9,397 cars checked. The inspections cost the driver nothing, but violations must be corrected within five days.

A "check lane" is set up simply by driving to a previously arranged spot (drivers get no advance warning), marking the lane with yellow cones and flagging down every passing car. The first member of the checking team passes on registrations and license plates. Then the driver is told to "drive up to that next policeman," who suddenly flashes a card reading "STOP." (Sometimes this test is too effective. One woman carrying a vase of flowers in the back seat of her auto jumped the brakes so suddenly that she was doused with water and strewn with blossoms.) After this brake test, inspectors check lights, windshield wipers, exhaust, glass, steering and tires.

Far from evading the check lanes, Lieutenant Reutter finds, many drivers go out of their way to look for them. There has been some protest about the times and places chosen. Once, on "Dollar Day," police flagged down a flock of shopping-bent housewives, who wailed that they were missing out on the bargains. Again, an early-morning check flushed a number of wives who had been driving their husbands to work and were, as Reutter puts it, "wearing just any old thing" — and often not too much of that.

All 1954's concentration of effort was aimed at bringing safety work with adults up to the level of work with — and for — children. The Junior Chamber of Commerce felt that youngsters were protecting themselves pretty well, but still were being endangered by negligent adults. Accordingly, the Jaycees launched a "Watch Out for Kids" campaign, and gave it the full treatment. The Jaycees sell "Watch Out for Kids" rubber stamps for $1 each. Their "safety wagon" tours the city and broadcasts safety talks. Last month, a "Watch Out for Kids" radio-TV show carried the message into thousands of homes; an upcoming contest will award prizes for the most "Watch Out for Kids" clippings collected from the local newspaper.

Evansville remains proudest of the way its children have set the pace in the safety campaign. Known as the birthplace of the schoolboy patrol (in 1921), Evansville gives its school patrolmen a solid grounding in traffic regulations, first aid, civic responsibility. The police safety instructor, Lt. C. B. (Chuck) Hoover, persuaded local businessmen to contribute uniforms — overseas cap, shoulder patch, raincoat and boots for rainy weather, parka for winter. Each of the 38 schools has two platoons of patrolmen. Senior Patrolmen (eighth-graders) stand guard four times a day, four days a week; Juniors take over on the fifth day.

Safety, "Dragnet" Style

Hoover also aims to reach the rest of the student body with the gospel of safety. One gimmick has been a monthly slogan contest for fifth-graders and up, with cash prizes and public acclaim as the reward. (Sample winner: "Looking for a permanent rest? Signal east, then turn west!") And recently the safety patrolmen of Daniel Wertz grade school put on a television show a la Dragnet, written by one of the boys and underplayed by junior Joe Fridays. To a dum-da-dum-dum accompaniment, the hero and his partner tracked down a particularly bad case of "careless jaywalking." The show was such a hit that it later went "on the road" to various school auditoriums.

With the youngsters showing the way, Evansville now feels that it's licking the overall problem of traffic safety. "We sort of slipped the last few years," says Harry Thompson, executive secretary of the Mayor's Traffic Safety Commission. "But now we're clicking again. We've lived up to six points of the model package program. We'll keep working until we're okay on all 10."

Want to make daily living easier, more pleasant?
Try these new ideas suggested by U. S. industry

PERSONALIZE IT: If you'd like to monogram your car, bicycle, purse, wallet or luggage, you can get your initials in black enamel on $\frac{1}{8}$ "-high brass with a gold finish. Just press in place with finger tip and the letters adhere instantly. Set of 2 or 3: \$1. LEECRAFT, Dept PDM, 300 Albany Ave., Brooklyn 13, N. Y.

NO SLAP, NO BITE: A new tablet, just becoming available, is still in time for mosquito-ridden days ahead. Developed by a doctor, it's said to make you unattractive to mosquitoes. Dissolve one in your mouth and for 12 to 36 hours mosquitoes may light on you -- but they don't bite. Tablet is odorless, tasteless, said to be harmless even to children. 80 for 98c. KENTROL CORP., 10 E. Coulter, Philadelphia 44, Pa.

MODERNIZE YOUR SINK: Here's an inexpensive way to modernize an apron-front sink and get new storage space, too. It's an adjustable wood under-sink enclosure with sliding doors; easy to assemble and install yourself, it turns an old sink into a modern cabinet. Comes sanded, ready for varnish or enamel to match your kitchen. Adjusts in height and depth as well as width. To fit 36" and 42" sinks: $21.95. Larger sizes, slightly more. ACCURATE KITCHEN CABINETS, 156 17th St., Brooklyn 15, N. Y.

TWO-WAY HAS SOCK: Remove the cushion and it's a snack table with stainproof, plastic-coated masonite top. Sturdily constructed of wrought iron, it stands 19" high; its washable black-and-white plastic cushion has a "nubby" upholstery-fabric texture. $7.98. AROTEX, 124 W. 30th St., New York 1, N. Y.

Teen-age Questions

Q. If you and a boy like each other very much and another boy asks you out on a date, should you accept or will you hurt your boy friend's feelings? — A. H., Linden, N. J.

A. I cannot approve of steady dating at an early age. If a girl is seen steadily in the company of one boy, others might not attempt to ask her for a date. Thus she would not allow herself the time and experience necessary to form her taste.

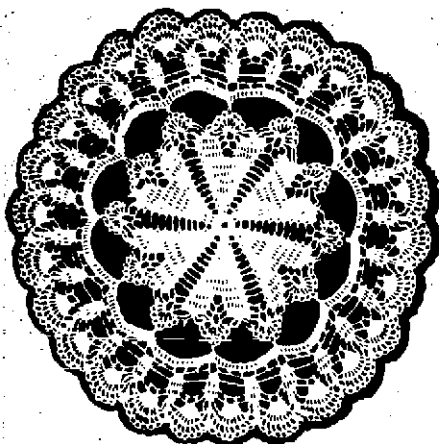

Q. I am 16 and have a boy friend whom I see quite often. My parents feel that I should limit my dates to skating, tennis, swimming or the ice-cream parlor. I agree but an occasional movie date would be nice. What do you think? — B. S., Augusta, Ga.

A. Your parents have probably seen teen-aged couples snuggled together in the back of the theater, oblivious to what is happening on the screen. Perhaps you could discuss this matter with them frankly and say that you would not be party to that kind of public behavior. You might suggest that another couple of whom your parents approve go along with you, on the theory that there is "safety in numbers."

Q. I would like to know if it's proper to have a boy in while I am baby-sitting. — P. J., Mercer, Pa.

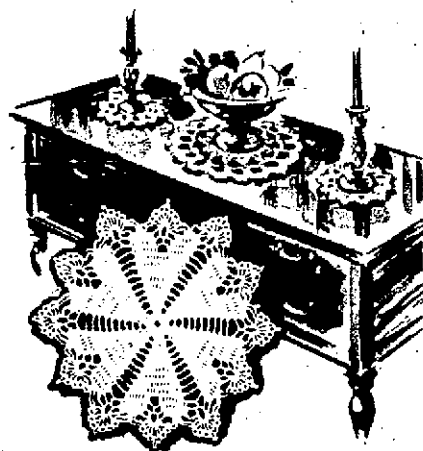

A. When you are baby-sitting you are on a serious job. You should not be permitted to have a boy visit you at such a time. His presence might divert your attention from your job — and the situation would not be safe for you from the standpoint of possible gossip.

Rare egret makes rounds of Florida homes

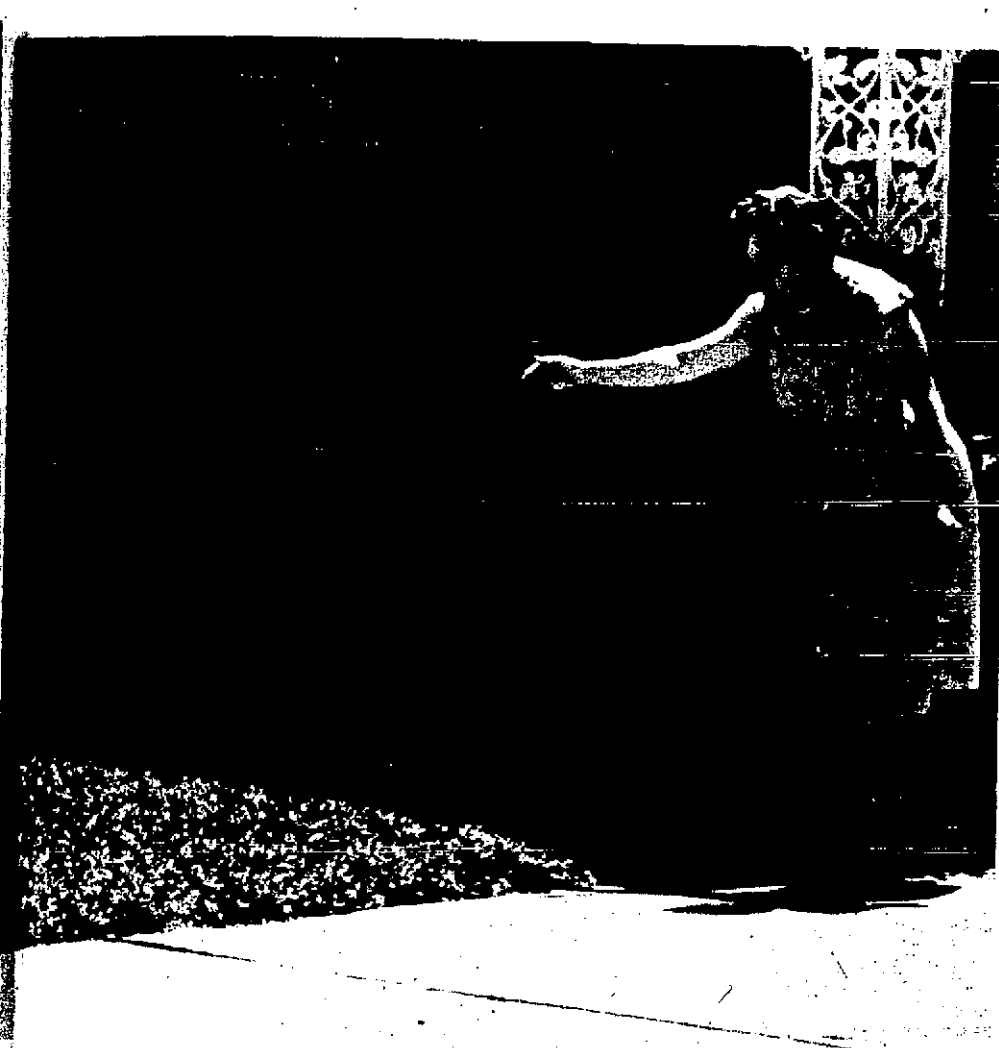

Head up and beak "on target," Frances the egret approaches Mrs. George CALLING: When Frances appears on one of her regular visits, Mrs. Amsden "entertains" her in the television room.

VIGIL: Frances also frequents the dock, hunting a meal of small fish.

Amsden of Lewis Island for a handout. The snowy bird is partial to roast beef, shrimps.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

The No. 1 citizen of tiny Lewis Island, in Big Bayou here, is a magnificent snow-white egret named Frances.

This rare bird is the special pet of summer dwellers along Sunset Drive, whom Frances visits regularly, morning and evening. Like a dignified matron, she stalks imperiously up to the door, waits to be admitted and then cadges a handout.

Frances and her spouse, Bill, were flushed out of their retreat on the previously untouched part of the island about six months ago by bulldozers. Apparently deprived of their food supply, the birds began panhandling along Sunset Drive.

Photographer Sam Shere, who took these pictures, swears Frances is camera-conscious. One evening she landed on the roof of his cottage and Mrs. Shere coaxed her down with raw hamburger. Next morning Frances showed up for breakfast.

home. Going from house to house, Frances will call at kitchen door if there is no answer at front.

Never Really Sick
Never Really Well

THE GRAY SICKNESS*

Never sick enough to stay in bed yet never really well. The GRAY SICKNESS keeps millions pale, tired and weak... never able to enjoy life to the full!

*IRON deficiency anemia has been aptly called the GRAY SICKNESS. Not only because its victims have lost their once healthy color, but also because life itself has become gray and drab for them. For you simply can't enjoy work or play when you have to drag through day after weary day feeling tired, weak and listless. And sleep doesn't seem to refresh you for you wake up tired.

The GRAY SICKNESS means your blood isn't getting enough iron. It becomes weak, thin, washed-out... just can't supply your body with the full supply of oxygen it needs for buoyant health and radiant color. Signs of the GRAY SICKNESS may be due to other causes so you should see your doctor regularly.

REBUILD STRENGTH FAST

Fortunately the GRAY SICKNESS responds quickly to proper treatment... and normal healthy color, strength and vigor return. In cases like this doctors usually prescribe an iron tonic containing many times your daily iron requirement. Each therapeutic dose, 6 tablets daily, of IRONIZED YEAST, contains 10 times your daily iron need... and this iron is fortified with vitamin B₁₂. Now this iron goes right to work... within 24 hours... to start building rich red blood... the kind of blood that soon brings back your normal strength and energy... fills you with your old-time pep... brings healthy color back to your cheeks again.

FEEL STRONGER IN 7 DAYS

Actually in just one week you'll start to feel your old self. You'll begin to enjoy doing a normal day's work again. So get IRONIZED YEAST tablets today. They are very economical to use even when taken in maximum dosage of 6 tablets daily. Just be sure you get genuine IRONIZED YEAST.

Everybody's favorite fried chicken—crisp on the outside, juicy and flavorful inside—when prepared by this new Mazola® method.

for frying...here's why I want you to try it.”

says ARTHUR GODFREY

Foods taste better because you fry right...at the correct high temperature with no smoking...
and “KEEP CALORIES DOWN”.

A RTHUR GODFREY's right! With Mazola you fry food at a higher temperature than ordinary fats allow. And with no smoking or burning! Food can't get fat-soaked. The quick-crusting action of Mazola oil gives food a golden brown crust fast—seals flavor and juices in, keeps “extra” calories in the pan.
All your Mazola fried foods taste better...look better, and are truly digestible, too.

This low-calorie Mazola method works for chicken, fish, French fried potatoes—all your favorite fried foods. So take Arthur's advice: Get Mazola Oil today!
For pan-frying and deep-frying always pre-heat Mazola to 375°F. before food is added. To test temperature, use a frying thermometer...or 1-inch square of day-old bread which turns golden brown in 15 seconds when pan-frying, in 30-40 seconds when deep-frying.

Arthur says: “No store-bought dressing can possibly have the fresh flavor, downright goodness of your own homemade dressing...so easy with golden Mazola Oil!”

Have you tried the new, easy Mazola No-Roll Pie Crust? Make, shape, bake right in the pie pan. No rolling. Recipe on label. Makes a wonderfully rich, tender pie crust.

TROPICAL CREAM MOLD

Here's a warm-weather dessert with delightful new flavor

by Beth Merriman, FOOD EDITOR

Have you discovered the flavor-appeal of dairy-made chocolate-flavored milk? Not just as a beverage, but as a recipe ingredient, too? If there is someone in your family who is not fond of milk "as is," you may find that a bottle or carton of chocolate-flavored milk in the refrigerator will prove tempting as a between-meals or bedtime snack. We used it in this delicious dessert, where its flavor blends beautifully with the mellow flavor of bananas. For the main course, how about grilled chopped steak, corn-on-the-cob, green beans and a tossed tomato salad?

TROPICAL CREAM MOLD

2 tablespoons	1/4 cup sugar
unflavored gelatin	1/4 cup mashed ripe
2 1/2 cups chocolate milk	bananas
2 eggs, separated	1 cup whipping cream

Soften gelatin in 1/4 cup chocolate milk. Beat egg yolks; combine with remaining chocolate milk; beat well. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Add gelatin; stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Meanwhile, beat egg whites stiff; gradually add sugar, beating constantly, until very stiff. Fold egg whites and bananas into gelatin mixture. Whip cream; fold in. Turn into 6-cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold; garnish with fresh mint and banana slices, if desired. Makes eight servings.

KITCHEN HINT:

"Chocolate milk" indicates a beverage made with whole milk; "chocolate drink," one made with milk of lower fat content.

BARBARA STANWYCK:

SHE'S INDESTRUCTIBLE

HOLLYWOOD.

A few weeks ago screen star Barbara Stanwyck tripped on a clothes hanger and fell down two flights of service stairs in her Holmby Hills mansion. Shortly her physician announced she might have suffered a possible fracture of the spine or hip. But most members of the film colony refused to accept that.

"It's impossible!" cracked one RKO press agent. "Stanwyck is scheduled to start Love's Lovely Counterfeit here in three weeks. Don't worry. She'll see to it that she's okay."

As it turned out, the actress suffered only painful bruises in the sacroiliac region and was able to make a fairly rapid recovery. In doing so she continued to perpetuate Hollywood's long-standing legend concerning Barbara Stanwyck: she is indestructible and her beauty is eternal.

At 48, after 25 hectic Hollywood years and 77 motion pictures, Barbara occupies a special niche in the hearts of the movie-makers. They love her for her courage, her Irish flame, her earthy frankness, her good heart, her businesslike promptness and her total lack of female venom.

Says Douglas Sirk, who recently directed her in There's Always Tomorrow: "The kind of cooperation Stanwyck gives a director is incredible. She's the first one on the set. She's never been late. She knows everyone's lines. It's just hard to believe that after all these years a big star like her can generate such fresh and overwhelming enthusiasm."

Adds director Bill Wellman: "Stanwyck is one in a million. Where else are you going to find an actress who refuses to dye her gray hair? What other actress do you know, young or old, who insists on doing her own stunts?"

Practically all movie queens lie about their age, but not Barbara. "I've never been afraid," she says, "to tell anyone that I was born on July 16, 1907. And I'm not afraid now."

"I've never quite understood why most women want to be young forever. Youth is such a fleeting thing. Instead of trying to hold back the years, it's far better in my book to live each day as it comes, to give as little thought as possible to how old you are, to concentrate on making yourself a better person."

"I feel genuinely sorry for women who try so desperately to hold on to their 20s or 30s. Frankly, I'm glad to be out of mine."

PERFECTION INDUSTRIES, INC.
CLEVELAND 4, OHIO

"One of the most important aids for anyone who wants to stay really young is to keep busy. A busy woman just doesn't have time enough to wrap up her entire life in what she sees in a mirror. This mirror business can be murder. You become so determined to look young that you tense up, you start to worry. And worrying about age only adds more wrinkles."

"I love to work. When I'm not working I'm miserable. I've had people tell me I was crazy making more than one or two pictures a year. 'That's no-way to enjoy stardom,' they say. But they don't realize that idleness helps make the calendar an enemy. I love picture-making. I love being on the go."

"And somehow I can't seem to get worked up about age or clothes or how I look. Maybe that's the real secret of youth. Serenity. I think serenity does more for a woman than anything else."

Just how serene Barbara Stanwyck is at this point in her eventful life, no one really knows. She has never been one to unburden her soul. An intimate of hers says, "She is serene in that she is calm, tranquil and reconciled to the status quo. But you must not equate serenity with happiness. After all, Missy has no husband and to be husbandless in Hollywood is almost a major tragedy."

Barbara Stanwyck has not always been husbandless. In her adulthood she has known two. Unfortunately both were actors: Frank Fay, a militant drinker out of vaudeville, and Robert Taylor, a too-handsome thespian out of Nebraska.

She was 20 when she first met Frank Fay. And she had had it rough. Born in Brooklyn and christened Ruby Stevens, she was orphaned at 2 when her mother died and, shortly, her father deserted his five children. Ruby was "boarded out" to various families, eventually went to live with an elder sister who worked as a chorus girl.

"In the environment in which I grew up," she recalls, "kids existed on the brink of domestic or financial disaster. We were alert, precocious and savage. I endured this world by developing a bitter hatred of it. I tried to escape by retreating to a dream world of my own."

When Ruby was 12, she quit school and went to work for the telephone company.

A few weeks later she was fired for arguing with an irate subscriber. She next landed a job in a publisher's pattern department, only to be let out for giving faulty instructions to a customer. From that point on she decided on a career in show business.

Borrowing her sister's dress and high-heeled shoes, rouging her face and painting her lips, Ruby Stevens at 14 began to make the rounds of the casting offices. For the next few years she shuffled from one chorus line to another, paying the high tuition necessary for admission to Broadway's University of Experience. With two other chorines, Mae Clarke and Wanda Mansfield, she lived in a dreary, cold-water, walk-up room. When money was short, the girls ate on credit at Billy La Hiff's Tavern on 48th Street.

One night producer Willard Mack came into the Tavern for dinner. La Hiff quickly walked up with Ruby Stevens, made introductions. Upshot: Mack gave Ruby an acting part in his play, The Noose.

A Name Is Born

When the play opened in New York, he also gave her a new name. "Ruby Stevens," he told her, "is no name for a star." His eye fell on a wall poster that read "Jane Stanwyck in Barbara Fritchie." That did it.

The Noose ran for eleven months on Broadway, and Barbara Stanwyck became a star. She then was signed by Arthur Hopkins for the role of Bonny Johnson in Burlesque. This play has been repeated on screen and television half a dozen times. It's the story of a drinking vaudevillian whose wife, a chorus girl, stays at his side through every bitter, disillusioning experience.

For Barbara Stanwyck, the play was a preview of her marriage to Frank Fay.

Barbara gave this marriage everything she had. She abandoned Broadway and came to Hollywood with Fay because he had a studio contract. While Fay, one of the wittiest men alive, sparkled at Hollywood parties, Barbara sat on the sidelines, the dutiful wife.

Then, with her husband's blessing, Barbara entered the movie game. Her second picture, Ladies of Leisure, made her a Hollywood name for keeps.

Meanwhile Fay's star began to wane. Frustrated, he became difficult to live with. Barbara suggested a stage show. Fay was billed as the lead. Barbara was also in the show. It was quite bad, but Barbara kept it going by paying the cast out of her $3,000-a-week movie salary.

Nothing helped — not even Dion Anthony, the son the Fays had adopted in 1932. Fay continued to drink and Barbara continued to become more famous. In 1935 she filed for divorce.

For her second husband Barbara chose an actor four years younger than she. This marriage endured for more than a decade. Then Taylor, on location in Rome for Quo

RELAXING on the set of her latest film, There's Always Tomorrow, Barbara treads a few measures with co-star Fred MacMurray.

Vadis, happened to make the acquaintance of an Italian starlet named Lia de Leo. To the casual observer, this appeared to create a triangle with Taylor and de Leo on one side.

Actually, their friendship had little to do with the 1952 divorce of Bob and Barbara. Friends attribute this breakup to basic differences. Stanwyck is an indoors girl who reads at least one book every two days; Taylor is an outdoors man who loves fishing and hunting. He has his own plane, was a Naval flight instructor during the war; Stanwyck hates to fly. Taylor has never coveted work, is still embarrassed at being a screen star. Unless she is working, Barbara is unhappy.

Work, constant, challenging work is probably the greatest love in Barbara Stanwyck's life. It is the source of her strength, the balm for her marital mishaps, the fountainhead of her beauty. When asked, for example, when she intends to retire, she comes up with one stock answer: "They'll have to carry me off feet first."

Until they do, Hollywood will continue to rank Barbara Stanwyck as its kindest, frankest, most lovable, most durable movie queen. At 48 she is convinced that the best and most fruitful years of her career lie ahead.

SOME SIDELIGHTS ON STANWYCK

- Because her trim (5' 5", 115 lbs.) figure measures 33-25-33, Barbara often is asked her secret. She has never dieted in her life. She is, however, a raw-meat eater and never touches carbohydrates. Her idea of a good meal: raw beef and champagne.

- Barbara's films include such hits as Stella Dallas, Double Indemnity and Sorry, Wrong Number; currently she gets $150,000 per picture; she has been nominated four times for an Academy Award—but has never won an Oscar. Her reaction: "They may have to wheel me up, but sooner or later I'll get one!"

- Although she refuses flatly to discuss her charities, Barbara is one of the most open-handed actresses in Hollywood history. Example: Each Christmas she reserves a dozen tables for indigent actors at the famous Brown Derby restaurant, picks up the check for all the food and drinks they can stow away.

- Barbara is a lifelong Republican. On a wall of her home, alongside paintings by Maurice Utrillo and Paul Clemens, hangs an autographed photograph of President Eisenhower.

BULLSEYE!

By Dave Emery

BACK in the Dark Ages, when death sizzled across the battlefield on a feather-tipped shaft, archery was a deadly skill that belonged to the professional warrior and huntsman.

But today all that is changed. The twang of the taut bowstring has found a sympathetic echo in the hearts of thousands of Americans who tramp off to grass lot archery ranges every week to practice their ancient art.

Archery — obsolete on the battlefield — has become a family sport.

TYPICAL of the hundreds of Southern Californians who belong to this stout-hearted clan of modern Robin Hoods are Ernie Van Tassel, a 29-year-old Long Beach Navy veteran, and his wife, Shirley, 25.

The Van Tassels and their 4-year-old son, Larry, trek from their home at 2411 St. Joseph Ave. to the archery range at Heartwell Park in Lakewood every few days.

Heartwell Park, scattered with hay bales, is the joint stomping ground of two clubs that represent opposite schools of thought in modern archery.

Oldest of the two clubs is the Long Beach Archers. They number about 75 members, the first of whom banded together in 1936.

THE LONG BEACH Archers are target shooters, and like about half of the 40 Southland archery clubs, they are interested primarily in marksmanship at tournaments for medals and trophies.

The second group — the one to which Ernie and Shirley Van Tassel belong — is the Long Beach Bowhunters.

The Bowhunters stalk wild game like the Indians did. They only shoot at paper targets when they can't go after bobcats, deer or jackrabbits.

Long Beach Bowhunters were organized by nine archers in 1952. Club President Art Taylor, purchasing department clerk for the City of Long Beach, estimates the bowhunters' membership today at 58.

DYED-IN-THE-WOOL target archers look down their noses at the bowhunter breed — and some of the veteran bowhunters shake their heads sadly at the mention of target tribe.

But according to Dr. Raymond Kelso of Long Beach, president of the California Archery Assn., there are hundreds of bow-and-arrow fans across the country who take pride in belonging to hunting and target clubs both.

"Joe Freis of Pasadena won the State Target Archery championship in May," Dr. Kelso pointed out, "and just last month he entered the State Field Archery match and won that, too."

"He's a good example of the men who think archery is a well sport any way you look at it."

PRESIDENT of the local target archers is Gene McKelvie of Long Beach. His club will be host to an estimated 200 members of the California Archery Assn. when they meet at Heartwell Park for a statewide tournament next summer.

Top archer in this area is Jean Richards of Laguna Beach, former world's champion woman target archer. She competed in an international tournament held last month in Helsinki, Finland.

Compared with the polish and precision of the target archer,

the bowhunter is a rugged breed.

"We're called 'instinctive' or 'bare-bow' shooters," bowman Ernie Van Tassel explained this week during one of his practice sessions at the Heartwell Park range.

"WE DON'T use sights on our bows. We aim and shoot like a cowboy firing from the hip.

"The practice targets we use have pictures of animals on them, and our real business is going after live game."

Local bowhunters hunt chiefly in the steep hills near Malibu and Santa Barbara. Other hunting grounds are near Big Pine and in the Greenhorn Mountains near Bakersfield.

"An archer has to see his game before he shoots," the dark-haired bowman said, "and that's why a lot of us took to archery in the first place."

"We like to hunt, but hunting with a rifle is too dangerous. With a bow and arrow you may not bag as much game, but you get a bigger thrill out of the hunt because you have to stalk your kill."

"You can't just take a pot shot at the target from a quarter of a mile away."

Bowhunters in the United States have bagged deer, elk, wild boar, bear, mountain lion, bobcat, rabbit, moose, coyote, waterfowl and even fish. The fish are shot with the aid of a reel that attaches to the hunter's bow.

IN STYLE, modern bows are little changed from the longbows that felt the grip of the archers of old England.

But new materials have made modern bows and arrows better, and even the champion arrow-slinger of the days of yore would have a tough time competing with today's target archer.

The target archer could shoot farther, truer and faster.

Robin Hood may have had a good eye and a steady hand, but he didn't have a Dacron bowstring.

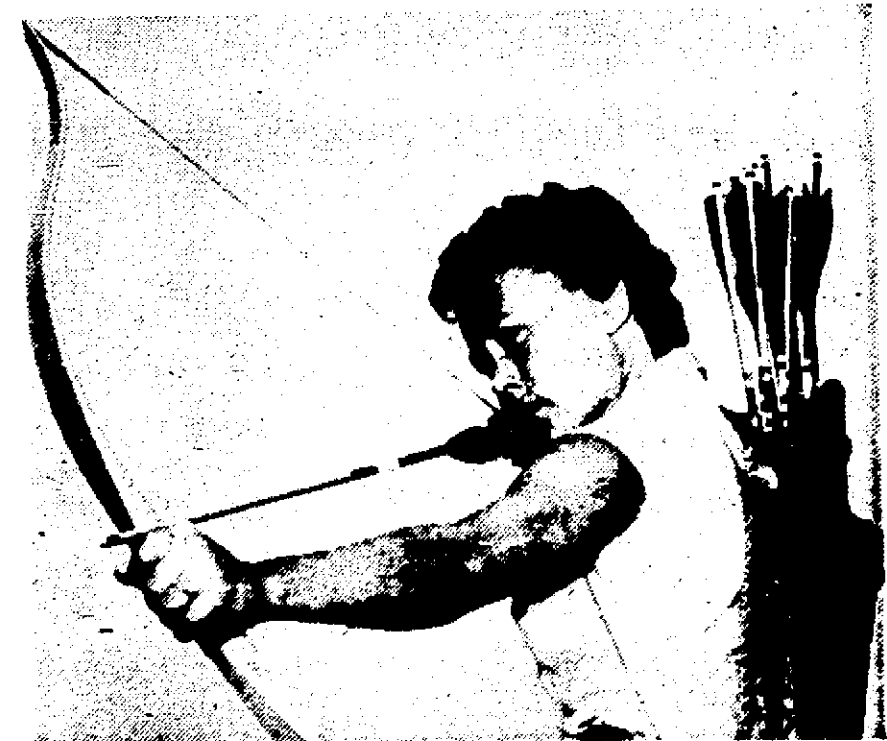

OUR COVER

It's little things like Carol Beck that make archery so attractive. At least, Dave Emery thought so when he discovered her relaxing on a target at Long Beach City College. Naturally, he snapped the color picture. This led to some mild inquiries on archery, and he discovered the sport to be not only attractive but fascinating—so fascinating that he wanted to write about it, too. And, oh, yes: Carol is 18, and lives at 11 Palermo Walk, Naples.

Mrs. Van Tassel, holder of medal for marksmanship, zeroes in a target which is about 40 yards away.

Down the turbulent Yampa and Green Rivers went this party in rubber raft. Four Long Beach men were aboard and claim trip unexcelled for excitement.

By Blaine Nels Simons

THE TURBULENT Yampa and Green Rivers flowing through Dinosaur National Monument in northern Colorado and Utah recently suggested a new idea for combined rest and excitement for Long Beach residents Dr. William Scott, Bob Wenke, C. Roy Erickson and the author. The idea — joining a Hatch River Expedition on a five-day run down these rivers.

The Hatch Expeditions headquarters in Vernal, Utah, and yearly take hundreds of river-running enthusiasts down the wild canyons of the Yampa and Green. Run by ageless Bus Hatch, a weather-worn veteran of 30 years experience on these rivers, the expeditions offer almost everything the traveler will need except personal good luck; even Bus Hatch cannot assure the latter on these runs.

Our trip began on the Yampa, a few miles above the Dinosaur Monument. Into a four-foot-wide, 26-foot long rubber raft, a Navy wartime pontoon, we piled huge boxes of food, mountainous bundles of camping equipment and, finally, ourselves; our two guides sat amidships manning sets of oars. A novelty on this trip was a 16-foot plywood outboard motorboat, piloted by three Denver men, which was to follow us downstream. No boat this size had ever made this run before and from the start the guides felt their attempt would be doomed.

The first day's run moved down calm and placid waters, belying the true temperament of the Yampa. Early on the second day the Yampa started moving, picking up momentum as it wound into ever steepening canyons. Small, unnamed rapids began confronting us every mile or so, while in between these runs ever stronger currents continually pulled us toward or into the cliffs. Giant boulders now abounded on the river banks or sat as obstacles in the river. The outboard churned along behind without incident as excitement mounted.

ON THE SECOND afternoon the first of the mighty named rapids was met: Big Teepee. Here swirling waters roared and pounded down a narrow chasm, splashing huge waves that reminded us of our own seashore breakers. A procedure was now commenced which would be hereafter followed on major rapids. Boat and raft were moored above the heavy water. Guides and passengers then moved downshore to inspect the rapids, noting particularly hidden-rock dangers and possible channels. The raft then proceeded first. This — our first "big run" — will never be forgotten. The serpentine raft in which a few moments before lay a certain degree of safety, now became an uncontrollable sliver of rubber, manned by two young guides bending furiously at the oars. Water poured in from all sides and cameras, out to record the first run, were soon forgotten.

"This river bottom is littered with cameras," said a guide.

We ended the run after a quarter of a mile and moored so as to be able to run back to observe the fate of the outboard. The tiny craft fooled all of us by zipping through with less trouble than we had. The guides assured us that future rapids would not be this "easy." They weren't.

Next came "Big Joe" where again the outboard roared through without trouble. Only mishap in these white waters was a tumble overboard by Dr. Scott, swim-suited for the occasion. Thanks to brilliant swimming and a helping hand from Bob Wenke, he was in the water less than a minute.

OTHER RAPIDS were thereafter rapidly met and conquered with the growing confidence that we had "whipped the river." This self-assurance was shaken on the noon of the last day, however, when our unsmiling guides made lifejackets mandatory wearing apparel for the last afternoon. Now in the Green River, some miles past the proposed Echo Park damsite, we were told that our four most dangerous runs lay ahead—the smashing Moonshine, Sob, Schoolboy and Old Ingleby rapids. Each did make the preceding days' runs seem like so much child's play. So fast and close together were these rapids that we had no chance to moor after running them. The outboard was "on its own." On Moonshine, we observed the trailing outboard tossed up by a mammoth wave to show its keel and underside for a moment and then disappear in a giant caldron of water. In another moment it bobbed up again and pulled to safety. So confident did this make the boat's crew that they roared by us and, in a final fling of good luck and skillful boat handling, ran the rest of the rapids ahead of us. Old Ingleby, our last rapid-encounter, hardly touched the outboard but in seeming anger completely spun our raft about, planking it down between two huge waves and within a wet duffle bag's width of turning us bottoms-up before freeing us for the trip's end a mile away.

Next year we plan another trip from further up the Green where, we are promised, lie splashier rapids and whiter water. For all of us there is now nothing like running the rapids for that complete "getting away from it all" feeling.

The author restores order to his gear after wild trip through the rapids. An outboard party also made trip.

Watching operation of rafting down river is Dr. William Scott (standing), of Long Beach. He was only "casualty"; fell into river but got only dunking.

Here's a study in contrasts. Consider the matter of amusement. My tallish pet, Bob Kopp, really puts on the man, pretending to get a lot of fun out of fiddling with complicated gadgets, such as ham radio outfits. Now I'm much more intelligent about my amusement. All I need is a spot of shade, an old shoe to cram my nose into and, as far as I'm concerned, life is just wonderful.

A Shaggy Dog's Story

Picture Story by Nancy Vogel

People are always begging Brinksie Kopp to "sit up" and "speak," so he decided to do exactly that. There's something they should know, anyway.

Brinksie is a somewhat-Airedale who lives at 5808 E. Dashwood, Lakewood, with his pets, Lt. and Mrs. Bob Kopp, and this is what he has to say:

"Everybody puts on the man too much. Why, take my largest pet, Bob, for extmple. When I send him to bed, does he just flop sensibly down in the grass? Oh, no; he has to have blankets, sheets, a mattress, pillows, pillow slips, pajamas, an alarm clock, maybe even a heating pad or some sleeping pills." Things are going utterly and completely to the men, according to Brinksie. He has arranged to present these pictures to prove his point, and to show how dogs have demonstrated their mental superiority by clinging to the simple life.

Here's another contrast in intelligence. When he eats, does Bob do a neat, simple job of it? No, indeed. He makes an awkward struggle with tray, cup, saucer, fork, etc. I slurp my food off the ground, real easy-like.

And clothes — look at the array. Shorts, shirt, trousers, socks, tie, shoes, cuff links, etc. There's such a conglomeration he needs his wife to help lay everything out.

Frankly now, isn't it absurd to wear clothes? Isn't it a lot better to go around like this, unrestricted by seams, belts and tight collars?

This is the most ridiculous part yet. Bob goes to endless bother shaving off the beard nature intended for him. I do it the easy way. I merely let mine sprout. Isn't my goatee just the handsomest thing?

By James Bacon
AP Newfeatures Writer

IT LOOKS as if Mitzi Gaynor, whom 20th Century-Fox dropped and now wishes it hadn't, may make movie history as Darryl Zanuck's third great boner.

The studio boss, often labeled genius by the Fox publicity department, also fired Clark Gable and Rita Hayworth early in their careers. The Gaynor blunder is even harder to understand. Both Gable and Hayworth were virtual unknowns when Zanuck let them go. In the case of Mitzi, everybody in town but the people she worked for knew she was star talent.

She hardly had time to dry the tears that fell on her pink slip before Paramount signed her to costar with Bing Crosby, Donald O'Connor and ballerina Jeanmaire in "Anything Goes."

Mitzi will receive $100,000 for her top role in this musical, Paramount's biggest and most expensive of the year. Reported budget — nearly $4 million.

And from that musical, Paramount signed her to be the love interest in George Gobel's movie debut, a remake of the Preston Sturges' hit of 15 years ago, "The Lady Eve." Mitzi will not sing or dance in this one but will get a chance at good comedy and dramatics.

BARBARA STANWYCK played the role in the original version. The movie, as yet untitled, has Gobel playing a frankfurter king who is a vegetarian and Mitzi and David Niven as a couple of card sharks out to fleece him.

She winds up falling in love with Gobel.

Now even Fox wants her back to star with Van Johnson, Frank Sinatra and Dan Dailey in a big musical about the songwriting trio of DeSylva, Brown and Henderson.

Mitzi got her dismissal notice soon after she started "There's No Business Like Show Business." It would have been a good spot for an actress to really show some spite. The sacking affected the 23-year-old Mitzi differently.

"Of course I was hurt," she says. "It always hurts to know that you are not wanted any more, but my husband and friends had been urging me for months to get out of my contract anyhow, so I just looked on the notice as a blessing in disguise. I worked my head off in the picture.

"I figured if I was leaving, I'd leave them with an 11 o'clock finish."

So what happened?

THE PICTURE came out and Mitzi, in a thankless part, stole the show.

Mitzi clobbered Marilyn both in sex appeal and talent. Marilyn, an honest woman, publicly admitted so and cited "Show Business" as one of the main reasons why she bolted the studio.

How does the studio explain what happened to Mitzi?

The official notice of dismissal meant only one thing — that the studio thought Mitzi was not star caliber. However, one studio bigwig, obviously anonymous, explains:

"Fox, for some unexplained reason, is a one-woman studio. Mitzi came in the Betty Grable era and left in the Monroe regime. It was just bad timing."

Even Grable, one of the greatest boxoffice stars in history, had to get out when the studio emphasis started shifting to Monroe.

Clock fancier since his early youth, Charles Snow of Long Beach poses with some of his cherished 500 timepieces, called West Coast's top collection.

He's Having the Time of His Life

By Ellen Saunders

TO MANY PEOPLE it may come as a surprise that one of the finest and most varied collections of rare and antique clocks in the United States can be found in Long Beach. Furthermore, the owner, Charles Snow, of 1639 Anaheim St., says that his 35-year-old collection of to fulfill the specific demands of its purchaser.

SNOW'S COLLECTION ranges from clocks of brass and native pine made for the peasant family to pastel shaded, ornately decorated creations of marble, onyx or Dresden porcelain designed by famous clockmakers for European nobility.

Other well-to-do families preferred clocks to be cast in the likenesses of historical, mythological or religious figures. Snow has several of these including the Spanish explorer, Ponce de Leon; Socrates, the Greek philosopher; Aphrodite, Greek Goddess of Love, and an original design of Jesus and Mary at the well.

However, Snow says the clock which catches the public's fancy is an Oriental masterpiece in brass covered with carved dragons' heads and elephants' tusks. Snow himself prefers a Miss Liberty, a highly polished young lady in brass who sits atop a brown onyx base. That the public frequently calls to Snow's attention the striking resemblance 500 clocks and watches is unusual in another respect. Every timepiece is in perfect running condition.

Since boyhood, when Charlie Snow learned the art of clock-making from his versatile Austrian-born father—whose linguistic ability had gained for him a position as interpreter to the late Emperor Franz Joseph—he has been completely absorbed in the subject of time. When he is not restoring beauty to clocks covered with century-old grime and dust he is making unusual timepieces or lecturing on the development of clock making in Europe.

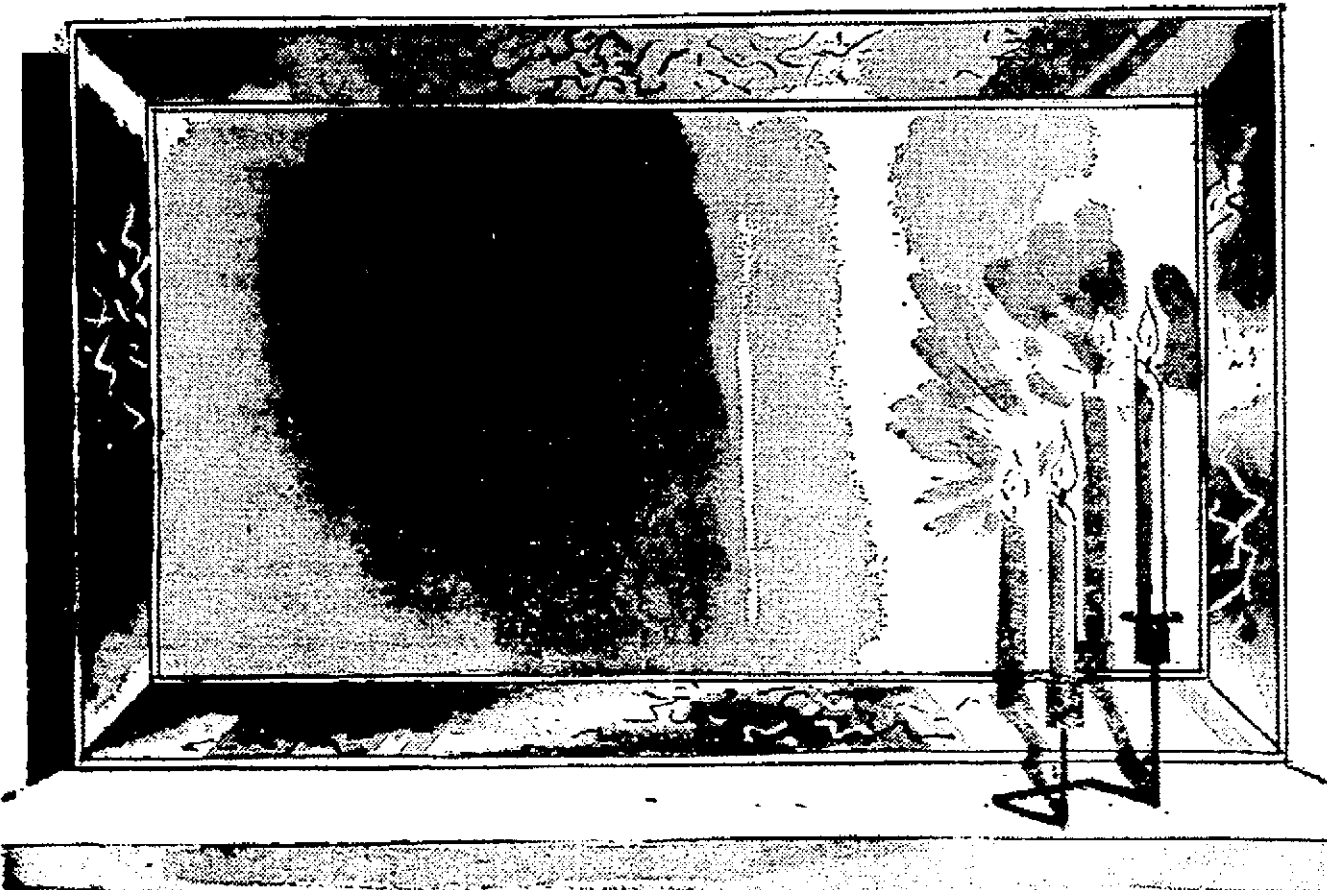

The majority of Snow's clocks are of European origin. The oldest and one of the most valuable in his entire collection is the first Italian pendulum clock, a product of the 17th century. According to Snow, mass production of clocks was unknown in Europe prior to the 20th century. Instead, each clock was an individual production created

These Babies Want Homes

This lovely child is one of many available for adoption by persons meeting certain requirements.

By Caroline Coleman

CURLY-HEADED BABIES, blonds and brunettes, Negro and Japanese babies, crying or cooing. Blind babies and beautiful babies, all without a mother and father to love them.

At the Children's Home Society in Los Angeles, where these babies are brought for a medical check-up each month by the foster parents who care for them until their adoption, case workers observe each child closely. Does this child have the coloring or similar features for a certain couple waiting to adopt a baby? Will an older child be better for another couple?

This statewide adoption service recently became an agency of the United Neighbors Community Chest of Dominguez, Signal Hill, Lakewood and Long Beach. It had applications from 990 couples last year, 94 of them from this area, all seeking adoptions.

Because there never are enough babies and because it

Passport to the GI's Future

By
Goldie M. Harper

Education is the passport to a better future, according to a time-honored axiom.

Out at Long Beach State College, 839 veterans, age 20 to 55, are going to school under the GI Bill of Rights. Benefits of the bill consist of allowances for tuition and other necessary expenses of instruction, and "living expenses."

Many college presidents, professional budgeteers and home-makers refer to the term "living expense" as a misnomer. For instance, there's a young bachelor who was sure he could manage on the $95 or so a month allowed for a single person.

His PAID $85 for board and room, walked everywhere, took absolutely no recreation, and bought his clothing from an Army, Navy, Marine surplus goods store. He stood this rigorous life three months, then was forced to draw from his savings. But without the "living expense" clause, he would not be going to college.

About $120 is allowed for a veteran with two dependents. Four of last year's students now enrolled in summer school agreed that it requires a minimum of $200 a month for a couple (with no children) to live, provided there are no time payments to be made.

Thomas Mills, born in Long

Harriett Mason, State College secretary, chats with Paul Crable, attending on GI Bill of Rights.

Beach, lives with his wife in a small apartment at 2371 Pacific Ave. He was in the Air Force 33 months, served the second stretch in Korea.

HIS WIFE teaches school. "We are so thrilled that we have saved enough money to enable us to go to Europe later this summer to study," she says enthusiastically. "Tom plans to attend the University of Paris for eight or nine months. We will study the people and their language during our free hours."

Mills carried six units of college work, last year did "practice teaching." He put in three hours of study every school day, plus the weekends, and in addition had a part-time job, working four hours a day at the college laboratory. He wants to teach in Southern California.

Jimmie Mangan, 3521 Charmagne Ave., Lakewood, is a retired Navy chief who spent 20½ years in the service. For income there is $145 retainer pay and the $120 subsistence allowance. In addition, he has a small interest in a farm in South Dakota, but not much cash came from that this year.

MANGAN has a wife and six youngsters, ranging in age from 15 years to five months. The Mangans are buying their home on monthly payments, and figure that a family the size of theirs needs a minimum of $400 a month.

Jimmie really "gets around" in the odd job category. He worked last Christmas holidays in the Long Beach post office. He gets a bit of clerical work at the college once in a while.

He averages 30 hours per week, although in May and June he worked 45 hours each week. He carried 17 units of college work and, by putting in an average of 54 hours of study every week, he stayed close to a straight A average, besides winning

Four-Legged Squares

Buttons and Bows, mounted square dancers, cut some fancy capers at Frank Vessels Ranch, east of Long Beach. Horses love to do complicated steps.

By Neoma Weed

FIRST COUPLE out, to the couple on the right . . ."

The craze for square dancing has spread to horses, and do they love it! A group of horses and riders at Garden Grove called "Buttons and Bows" dance for rodeos, horse shows, charities, movies. The horses can go through their routine without rein or guidance. In fact, one horse is used to train new riders.

The "Buttons and Bows" are not a mounted drill team, and have no drill movements, but are strictly a dance group. All the horses are quarter horses and move at a fast canter. The club consists of four couples and four color guards.

The horses are matched in pairs and are owned by the riders. A professional caller is part of the ensemble. The music is furnished by long-playing records of square dance rhythms.

THEIR trainer and "spark plug" is Lloyd Linton, who lives in Garden Grove. When not training horses, he runs a garage at Anaheim St. and St. Louis Ave., Long Beach. When asked how he started this work, he said, "My father trained circus horses and I have always loved them. My wife is an expert horsewoman and when our three daughters outgrew a city lot in Long Beach, we moved to Garden Grove and turned to horses as a hobby."

The horseback club they formed has given many young people a healthy, happy hobby. Some of the better riders wanted to do more than just ride, so the square dance team and club were organized. Only the best riders and horses from the riding club are used.

"We never train more than one new rider or horse at a time," Linton says. "The horse always learns first." In seven years the group has had no accident worse than skinned knees.

OTHER SQUARE dance groups have started and fallen by the wayside until now this is the only group of its kind, so far as is known. The members have a roomful of trophies and have never been defeated in competition.

The club performs at the annual Sheriff's Rodeo in Los Angeles, the Camp Pendleton Service Rodeo, and many other events in the Long Beach area.

They have taken part in several movies.

Working with these horses is adventure, but perhaps the club members' biggest thrill will come when they square dance for a full-length Walt Disney movie some time this summer.

"Promenade all, you know where, and I don't care . . ."

"CHARACTER Before Career" has long been the motto of the Southern California Military Academy. While entirely non-sectarian, this academy, as each of the other John Brown schools, is pledged to develop wholesome Christian Americanism.

Weekly chapel services and sympathetic counseling of the individual cadet make a valuable contribution in each boy's training. On Sunday mornings resident cadets are taken to the churches of their faith. The academy's educational program covers pre-school through the ninth grade. Resident cadets' homelike needs are complete in every way. Transportation and lunch are furnished for day students.

Southern California Military Academy is located at 2065 Cherry Ave. and is affiliated with Brown School for Girls in Glendora and Brown Military Academy in San Diego.

COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL will begin its sixth year when it opens to 80 Long Beach boys and girls Sept. 6. Strictly a country school for city children, full advantage is taken of the great interest the pupils show in this unusual setting, where donkeys and chickens are included in the study plans and arithmetic lessons can involve the yield of strictly fresh eggs to 100 pounds of feed.

Though the school's pupils may find a consuming interest in their country friends, they are kept busily working on the old-fashioned three R's to the point where a failure in spelling could mean the loss of their turn at watering the donkeys or feeding the ducks. It didn't work that way in father's time but it seems just fine today, say school officials.

THE NAMES of foremost instructors of musical instruments will be found on the roster of Whittaker Music Co., 242 E. 3rd St. Students may rent or purchase musical instruments while learning to play. Terms favorable to the student may be arranged, according to Robert Whittaker.

HOBBY HORSE DAY SCHOOL, 1710 Redondo Ave., is a private kindergarten and nursery for children aged 2 to 6. It features a modern building built especially for nursery and school and is air-conditioned and fire-proof. The playground is spacious and well equipped. Kindergarten classes are given several interesting field trips each year, according to Ina Cunningham, director. Arts and handicrafts are taught. Modern equipment includes a wet sand table.

PROGRESS SCHOOL will begin its 22nd year this September, offering a complete course for the primary grades through high school. Emphasis is placed on teaching the fundamentals and development of good study habits. In addition, a special reading program is maintained. Tests are given. The individual's needs are analyzed so that special instruction can be offered to build foundations in the basic skills. Classes in typing start in the sixth grade and a basic commercial course is available in the high school. The curriculum also includes a general high school course and an extensive college preparatory program. Beginning with the primary grades, a speech program is offered for all ages. Special speech correction work is given where needed.

PALOS VERDES COLLEGE, widely known for the unique travel-study program in which its lower division students participate each year, has now successfully completed the trial period of its new upper division program in human relations and will expand the program this September.

In its lower division, the college offers liberal arts courses leading to the Associate in Arts or Associate in Fine Arts degree, in two years.

He's Having the Time of His Life

between Miss Libertee's profile and that of a certain Miss Marilyn Monroe has, he insists nothing to do with his preference.

Many antique clocks performed other functions than telling time. Some served as perpetual calendars while others contained astronomical works. Snow's 18th century French clock has a third hand which indicates the date up to 30 days. An ornate German table clock of the 16th century contains 10 dials, astronomical works showing the sunrise and sunset position, and the moon and planet locations at different times of the year.

JUST AS INTRIGUING are the clocks Snow has designed himself. There's the tickless clock; the backward clock with everything in reverse even the numerals are on the wrong side of the dial—and there's the castor oil clock, so called because it is actually castor oil that makes it work.

Snow's unusual 19th century watches include a two-dial number which prior to the adoption of standard time in 1883 enabled the traveler to tell at a glance both the time in his home town and at his place of destination. Another is the watch which was worn on the cuff of a nurse's uniform prior to the advent of the wrist watch. A timepiece which Snow has never seen duplicated is a six-dialed watch made at the beginning of Queen Victoria's reign. Watches of this type enabled sea captains who were sailing from Bombay, Shanghai, Calcutta, Hong Kong or Sydney to calculate the exact hour of the young sovereign's coronation according to London time.

THE VICTORIAN ERA also produced watches one-half inch in diameter which often adorned every buttonhole on many a Beau Brummel's waistcoat. It is doubtful however if any Beau Brummel could have worn more watches than Snow adorns himself with on occasion. For he can be found wearing a ring watch he designed himself, a belt buckle which took him hours to make, and watches in his lapel, on his tie clasp, his cuff links and even his cigarette lighter.

Snow was wearing all his paraphernalia recently when he and Mrs. Snow were presented to Vice President Nixon. The National Watch and Clock Collectors Assn. of which Charlie is a member was meeting in Washington, D. C., and they gave Mr. Nixon an alarm clock similar to the one Snow uses. They gifted Snow, too, with national recognition when they declared his museum to be the most outstanding on the west coast.

However, Snow has a competitor these days. One whose interest in clocks matches his own. But it's the kind of competition he welcomes. His 16-year-old son Stanley is already an expert in his Dad's business. To a man who loves time with the intensity of Charles Snow, nothing could be more rewarding.

esthetics, writing non-fiction, commercial aspects of creative writing, development of drama and the theater. Requirements for the degree include English, humanities, government, and a choice of language, science, psychology or sociology. The college welcomes inquiries or campus visitors, but suggests an advance appointment.

CLASSES for vocational nurse training will start Sept. 12 at Vocational Nurses School, 810 American Ave. Tuition is free, states Mrs. Carolyn Garland, school director. Affiliated with St. Mary's and Garland Medical Recovery Center for training, the school offers a one-year course which qualifies the student for the state license examination as vocational nurse.

Mrs. Garland, herself a registered nurse, states that the present demand for vocational nurses offers unlimited opportunity in this field.

RELAXATION as an aid to greater speed and accuracy in shorthand and typewriting is emphasized at Crain's Secretarial School, 532 Pine Ave. Stress is also placed on the development of personality, poise and business charm. Miss Crain's typewriting course includes instruction on the electric typewriter. Enrollments for fall are now being received.

A SPACIOUS new playground which permits many forms of outdoor activity has been added to Playmate Day School, 2650 Pacific Ave. Enrollments for the new fall term are now being received, according to Elbe Harris, director, who urges early enrollment. Kindergarten, first and second grades are taught. Kindergarten classes are held both morning and afternoon, with or without extended day care.

HUNTINGTON SCHOOL for Boys and Girls, 1416 E. Ocean Blvd., boasts one of the best small child playgrounds in Long Beach. A variety of devices are set in solid turf, adding to the enjoyment of the playground area. Parents may enroll their children for half-day care if desired.

The school enrolls children in kindergarten and first grade and strictly limits the enrollment to assure individual instruction for each of its 40 pupils. Mrs. Alice Watkins, for 26 years owner-operator of the city's largest private school, ended her retirement a year ago to assume direction of Huntington.

MORRIS MANOR SCHOOL was established about 20 years ago at 1130 Locust Ave., the same convenient location in use today. Parents have found the combination of good care, fine schooling under excellent teachers, a hot lunch daily, trained supervision until called for or delivered to their homes, is a service essential to the welfare of children ranging from kindergarten age through seventh grade. Ethel Morris, the founder, invites inspection of the school and says a brochure will be mailed on request.

THE MASTERS DEGREE course, instituted for the first time a year ago in the California College of Commerce, will open a new term in the evening school program Sept. 12. Two of the subjects in popular demand will be offered this term, one in statistical analysis and the other in advanced accounting principles and CPA coaching.

Three new instructors have also been added to the full-time staff, H. W. Smith and J. W. Flanders have taken posts in the accounting department, and Mrs. Lucille Hogue in the secretarial division. Registrations in the Masters degree course are rigidly screened and limited, with some seats still available. Early registration is urged.

Salads for Summer

By Mildred K. Flanary
Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CHANGING TIMES have seen a swing in favoritism toward salads among American males. Time was when salads were on the sissy side in the male view; now men are not only asking more and more for salads, but are doing a bit of salad tossing on their own.

This change holds cheer for home makers for it makes it much easier to plan attractive meals which please the whole family.

And salads are doubly attractive these warm, summery days.

When planning for more salads, though, be sure to choose the right salad for the right meal. If it's to be served as a vegetable, then a light salad will win approval. But when served as the feature dish of the meal, be sure the salad includes protein food. Diced cheese, slivered ham, cold beef, tuna, shrimp, crab, diced canned meat and salmon are the answers to your salad protein problem.

On the subject of salads, Dr. Dorothy (Mrs. Charles C.) Prince of 3721 Cerritos Ave., being an authority on salads, has sent along some easy-to-remember salad tips:

Combine or arrange salads just before serving for a fresh, crisp appearance.

Always chill canned fruits and drain them thoroughly before combining for salads. Drain on paper towels or in a sieve.

Arrange any salad on a chilled plate in an uncluttered manner, keeping it as simple as possible.

Watch for color texture, and flavor variety when combining salad ingredients.

Be sure to top a salad with the proper dressing.

For fruit salads, thin mayonnaise to any desired consistency with canned fruit syrup, or with sugar and half-and-half.

Mix cream cheese, blue cheese and salad dressing for a nippy topping.

Pineapple chunks right out of the can and still wet with syrup rolled in chopped nuts is an ideal topping. Roll balls of cream cheese in chopped nuts or coconut, too, for a topping.

Salad tips are offered today by Dr. Dorothy Prince, with special emphasis on a tasty fruit combination.

Dr. Prince's Manhattan Fruit Salad:

- 1/4 cup bottled lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 3 large oranges, peeled and cut into sections
- 2 bananas, peeled and sliced
- 1 avocado, peeled and cut into wedges
- 16 black grapes
- Salad greens
- Walnut halves

In a bowl, combine lemon juice and sugar. Add fruit; toss lightly and chill. Arrange chilled fruit on crisp salad greens. Sprinkle with walnut halves and serve with your favorite fruit salad dressing. Makes four servings.

Top fruit plates with a scoop of colorful sherbet.

Sprinkle paprika on cheese toppings; use pimiento strips with meats and vegetables; add sprigs of mint to fruit arrangements.

Garnish meat and vegetable salads with tomato wedges, radish roses, carrot curls and pickle fans.

A favorite salad with the Prince family is Manhattan fruit salad topped with celery seed fruit dressing. The salad recipe is featured today elsewhere on this page. The dressing recipe follows:

Celery Seed Fruit Dressing
Mix 1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon grated onion and 2 tablespoons vinegar. Add 1 cup salad oil slowly, beating constantly. Add 3 more tablespoons vinegar and 1 tablespoon celery seed. Continue beating until dressing is thick. Makes approximately 1 1/2 cups. A clove of garlic may be cut into small pieces and added if desired.

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"Is it cheapest to live in Mexico? Or is there a country in Europe that would cost less for a year or two?"

I THINK IF YOU got up country in Portugal or Spain or Austria, you could ease along on an average of $5 a day. I am not so sure you could do that in Mexico. More likely $10, but I am guessing this pretty wildly.

One advantage to a place like Austria is that you can eat in the least expensive places without keeling over with a strange bug. You'd have to eat in better places in Mexico. I wouldn't be too sure up country in Spain either. Portugal looks a little healthier.

The best way to handle these countries is to park yourself first in the large central town. Then let the tourist bureau work you out into the country from there.

I saw some charming Portuguese towns I could live in. More choice in Austria and least choice in Spain. But there are some good small towns in Mexico that are quite reasonable. You might take a look at Oaxaca, a day's drive south of Mexico City. I like this place.

"I hear one can retire in Tahiti in the South Seas for practically nothing..."

I JUST GOT the word on this from a man who lived there for some time. He says it's more expensive than the States. With prices based on 500 per cent duty on tobacco plus the shipping charges. So I guess we were both wrong. Because I thought so, too.

"I cannot find the article you wrote about a reasonably priced hotel in Hawaii..."

THE PRINCESS KAIULANI has just opened, a really beautiful hotel with just about everything you'd want. The rates start at $6 single and $7.50 double, European plan.

"About a trip abroad: How do you make boat reservations? How do you deal with the luggage?"

Do the whole thing through a travel agent and relax. They get their cut from the shipping line or the hotel or whatever service they book for you. This is so free that it would be a shame not to use it.

"Can you suggest anything for a two weeks vacation in Guatemala?"

SURE. YOU FLY this Pan American. A travel agent gets your ticket and spots you into a hotel, the Pan American is a good one. When you get to Guatemala City call up Arnold Hayter of the Hayter Travel Service. He'll book you safely out to Antigua and Chichicastenango and such. Antigua is worth a few days' stay.

Southland Magazine's roving correspondent will answer your questions on travel from his own experiences in making reservations, changing money, locating restaurants and battling foreign languages. Make the question specific. Write, don't phone. And don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. Massive Chimney Rock, feature of Utah's Escalante Land, rears 90-foot pinnacle skyward, dwarfing two onlookers.

In Utah's Escalante Land

IN THE 179 YEARS since the Declaration of Independence, one American frontier after another has tumbled before progress, but Utah's Escalante Land has remained virtually unchanged since its initial exploration in 1776.

While George Washington's Continental Army was fighting the British in New York state, Father Francisco Silvestre Velez de Escalante of Spain was making the first exploration of Kane County, Utah. In the near two centuries that followed few retraced his steps other than a handful of hardy Mormon pioneers and a smattering of adventurers.

The most extensive exploration since Father Escalante's trip came in 1949, when Jack Breed headed a jeep-equipped party sponsored by the National Geographic Society and the Explorers Club of New York.

A paradoxical feature of Escalante Land is that its beginnings are clearly visible from Inspiration Point in Bryce Canyon National Park, a recreation area outstanding for its system of paved roads and well manicured trails.

Less than 25 miles from Bryce Lodge unfolds the first wild beauty of Escalante Land, a maze of deep red rock fins, towers and pinnacles framed against 1,000-foot white sandstone cliffs.

ORIGINALLY CALLED Thorley's Pasture by local residents, the color-conscious Breed expedition renamed the area Kodachrome Flat. On the first red rocks of the area are carved dates and the names of pioneers of the past century.

A few miles south of Kodachrome Flat, towering 90 feet above the floor of Dry Valley is massive Chimney Rock, left standing when an inland sea drained and carried away less resistant material. Farther on is an unique double arch of creamy rock.

Named Grosvenor Arch in honor of Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, it is 152 feet in height and has a span of 99 feet.

In this rugged and starkly beautiful land, unmarked by civilization with the exception of an occasional trail and a few disintegrating cabins, it is easy to understand why the Escalante expedition of 1776 proved nothing, conquered nothing, and left no lasting trace.

Contour swimming pool and lanai roofed with turquoise plastic provide cool view from inside handsome home of C. W. Davidsons in Bellflower. Below, right, rumpus room that's the last word. The potted plant is on rollers.

TIME WAS WHEN people thought having a swimming pool necessarily meant having a vast area of land in which to put it. A case in point that proves "it ain't necessarily so," is the

C. W. Davidson home, 9924 E. Van Ruiten, Bellflower.

The Davidsons enjoy the year 'round pleasures of a pool that is so beautifully integrated into their 1,750-square-foot home that it seems as much a part of the plan as the living room!

Naturally, much thought went into the planning of the pool and the house. No "after-thought," the swimming pool was envisioned right from the start as a vital part of the dwelling itself.

There is no lawn whatsoever at the back of the house. Large potted plants as well as hanging-basket greenery add sufficient color and foliage to satisfy even the most enthusiastic horticulturist.

THE LIVING ROOM, rumpus room, guest room and den overlook the covered lanai and pool. The shimmering blue-green of the water seems magnified and reflected by the blue-green glow cast over the lanai, which is completely covered in colored corrugated plastic.

The effect from the living room — through gigantic plate glass doors — of heavy-blossomed plants growing in greenish shade is completely breath-taking.

Living room walls invite the cool turquoise into the house. Adding warmth and contrast in value are draperies and valance boxes of rich toast faille flecked with gold. Similarly warm in color is the rose-beige carpeting, nicely backgrounding the sofa and companion chair in deep green.

PALE YELLOW and light green predominate in the provincial kitchen. Natural birch cabinets have yellow plastic counters of the same sunny butter color used on the ceiling. Side-walls are enameled soft green.

Breakfasting is pleasant in the dinette, papered in a bright red, yellow and deep green farm scene. Double-hung cotton curtains in rich avocado green cotton pull across the window overlooking the front lawn. Natural birch valance boxes top the windows with interesting scalloped detail.

One of the features of Mrs. Davidson's kitchen — and a part of which she is most fond — is the very complete and functional pantry that is, actually a room in itself. Set completely apart from the preparation area of the kitchen by a door, the pantry is like an oversized closet with everything within fingertip's reach.

A WORK counter in here is a wonderfully handy place for Mrs. Davidson to prepare and arrange salads and desserts for company dinners. Out of the way and out of sight, the tucked-away service counter is a real hostess-saver when a big menu and a big guest list is in the offing.

Adjoining the kitchen through the handsome and complete service area is the rumpus room, an area 18x24 feet dedicated to leisure and fun.

Redwood beams and ceiling, a scuff-proof plastic floor and birch wainscoting set the casual scene. A complete bar circled with tall and deeply upholstered stools and a flagstone barbecue unit make planned as well as impromptu party giving a pleasure.

Above the wainscoting, walls are papered in a foliage motif. A window wall of glass is centered with doors that open to the patio and to the pool. The entire expanse may be drawn with deep red pleated draperies.

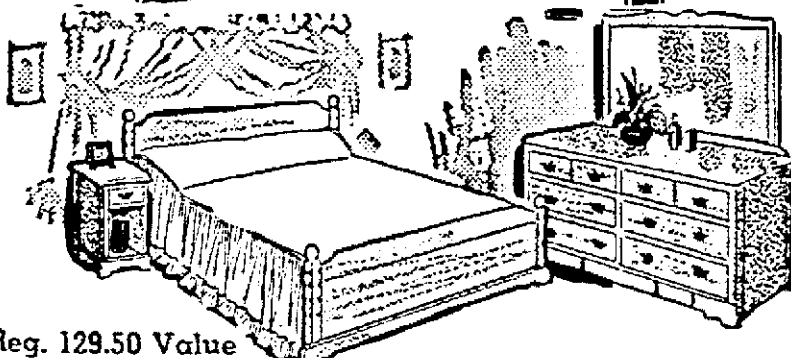

LOCATED OFF the rumpus room and thereby set quite apart from the main wing of the house is the guest bedroom and bath that open directly to the poolside. The guest accommodations were thus located so that both the Da-

ANTIZYME... A TOOTH PASTE THAT ACTUALLY STRENGTHENS TEETH!

Only Antizyme Tooth Paste Brings You
TWO-WAY PROTECTION AGAINST TOOTH DECAY
SAFE FLUORIDE-LIKE ACTION Plus ANTI-ENZYME
(STRENGTHENS TEETH) (STOPS MAJOR CAUSE OF DECAY)

Fluoride-like action and anti-enzyme work hand-in-glove to fight tooth decay 12 to 24 hours

Never before has any tooth paste offered you this two-way protection against tooth decay 12 to 24 hours after each brushing—
1. Safe fluoride-like action to strengthen teeth against decay. 2. Anti-enzyme action to stop the major cause of tooth decay.

This has been proved in 9 out of every 10 cases tested.

Pure white Antizyme's fluoride-like ingredient absolutely safe

The fluoride-like ingredient in Antizyme is found in many common foods. It is safe for children of all ages and in areas where drinking water is already fluoridated.

Mrs. Wilma J. Ford
2128 Ferryport, Chicago

"Not a single cavity in over 2 years"

Clinical Proof—Antizyme Stopped Tooth Decay

Large scale clinical tests in a leading university dental school showed significant reduction of tooth decay at the end of one year! ... People from all over the country report no new cavities at the end of one year, eighteen months, many for two years ... Here is one family—

"My children and I have been using Antizyme for more than two years. I haven't needed a single filling in all that time, and our dentist says that the children's teeth are now in excellent condition for the first time."

McAMIS has part-time work as a detainee guard on foreign ships. Mrs. McAmis, a college graduate, also is employed.

Says McAmis: "When not working or studying we occasionally make a trip to the desert. We have a cabin, which I built nine years ago, north of Joshua Tree. After I graduate, we are going to Arizona to work with — and I hope help — the Navajo Indians."

The GI program is estimated to have cost about $15 billions but statisticians have figured that by 1970 the men who took the training will have paid off the bill themselves. Already they are paying an extra billion dollars a year in income taxes, due to the higher level of their income!

Car Spotlight

Designated as a novel and handy approach to the problem of combining an easily installed spotlight and conveniently stored trouble lamp, Tel-A-Lite is a recent accessory development for motorists. The light is an exact duplicate of a telephone handset, made from the same molds, with 300-foot sealed beam light and reflector in the receiver end and a switch in the mouthpiece section. Heavy plastic is used, a retracting cord which stretches from retracted length of 18 inches to 10 feet on either side of the car gives mobility and a chrome bracket attaching to dashboard, instrument panel or radio grill offers handy stowage when not in use. Light may be used inside car, outside at either end of auto or as a spotlight to read house numbers, signs and for other night visual needs. Installation is simple.

The Rabbit Brothers

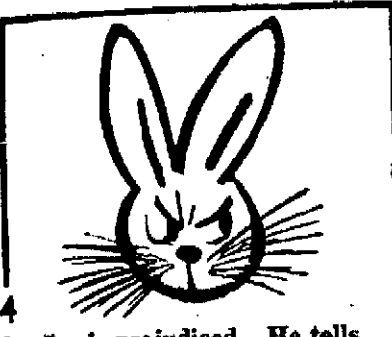

Joe and George are twin white rabbits in Rabbitville, U.S.A.

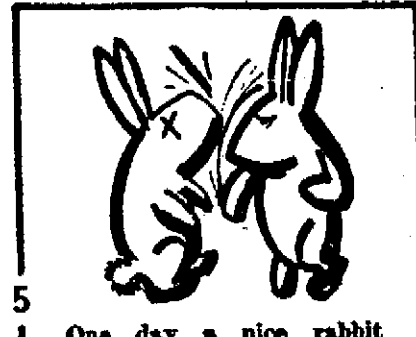

2 They read the same newspapers, the same magazines. They watch the same TV shows.

3 They are almost identical twins. But in some ways they are very different.

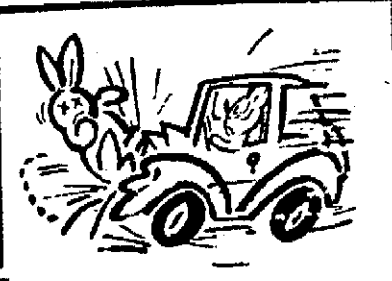

4 Joe is prejudiced. He tells unfriendly jokes about those whose color or religion is different from his.

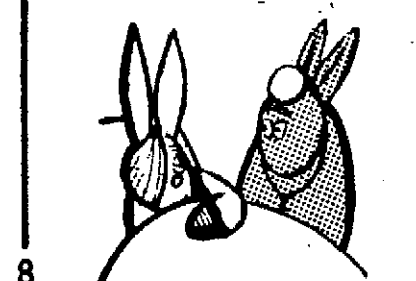

5 One day a nice rabbit hears Joe tell one of those stories. He punches Joe in the nose.

6 Now Joe just THINKS the jokes. When no one is looking he writes mean things about other rabbits on walls.

7 Joe crosses the street if he sees a gray or brown rabbit. One day he runs into the street too fast and is hit by a car.

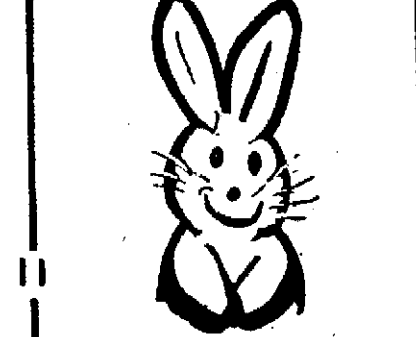

8 The rabbit who hit him was WHITE, just like Joe. The doctor who saved him was a BROWN rabbit.

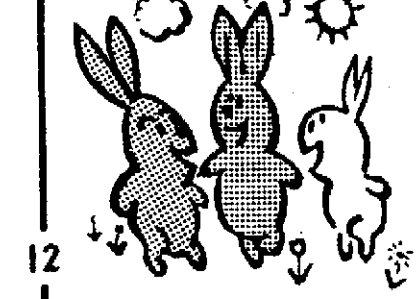

9 Joe did not learn a lesson from this. He still hated other kinds of rabbits.

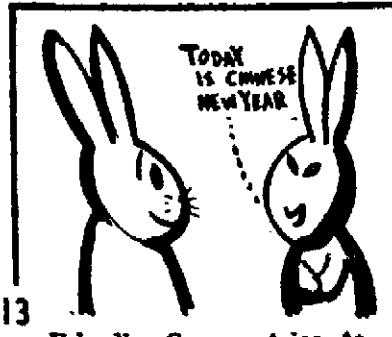

10 In fact, he even began to say things about other white rabbits.

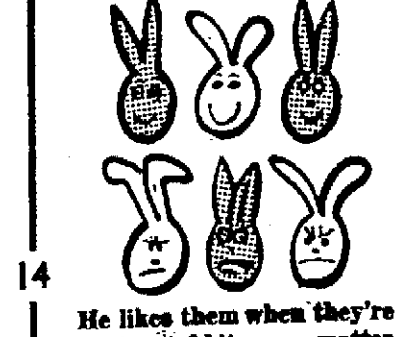

11 But let's take a look at George, Joe's twin brother.

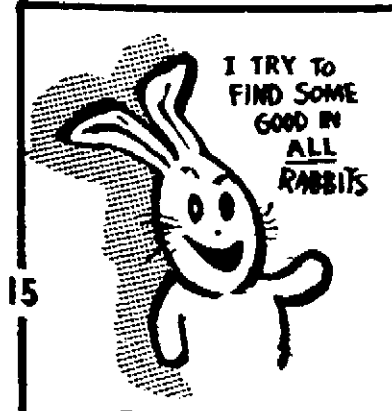

12 When George was growing up he had all kinds of rabbit friends.

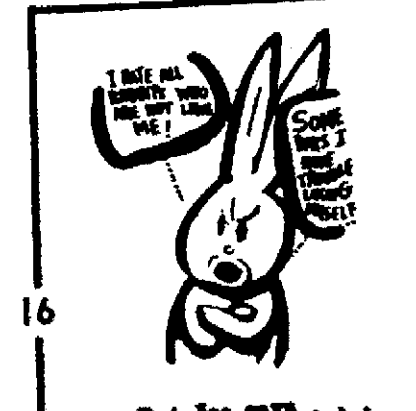

13 Friendly George tries to see some good in all rabbits. He learns a great deal, finds life interesting.

14 He likes them when they're GOOD rabbits—no matter what groups they belong to.

15 George says . . .

16 But Joe says . . .

Which rabbit are you?

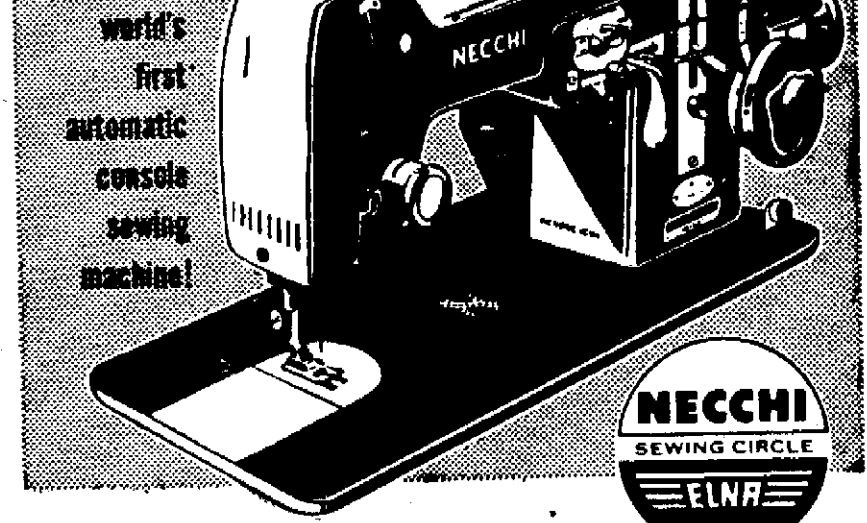

This sequence of drawings is from a booklet that presents children (and for that matter adults, too) a strong argument against bigotry. It is "The Rabbit Brothers," by Robert Kraus, a sort of editorial in cartoons that was inspired by George Washington's prayer for brotherly love. The booklet is published by the Anti-defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

Terrific response compels us to repeat this special offer . . . but don't be disappointed as supplies are limited.

BOOK REVIEWS

Merchant in Bad Luck

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

A SHADY LADY with a code of ethics, of whom her prosecutors say "morituri te salutamus" ("we who are about to die salute you"), is the heroine of "79 Park Avenue," a thoroughly fascinating new novel by Harold Robbins (Knopf, $3.50).

Contrary to the rule, most readers will find themselves sympathizing with this prostitute. For Maryann Flood, a good girl at heart — yearning for respectability and loyal to friends — is a merchant in bad luck. She's fully developed in her mid-teens, dividing her time between school and odd jobs. After her mother dies, she is raped by her stepfather, and is sent to a correctional home for attempting to kill him with a butcher knife.

Maryann's "career" begins when she gets her freedom, largely because of contacts she made in the home. She loses a chance to become the wife of a rich young man and, instead, is forced to become the mistress of a small-time gangster. Finally, she is blackmailed into becoming the "front" for a modeling agency that isn't.

The opening chapter finds her on trial with a boyhood sweetheart (who still loves her) as the DA's prosecutor. Succeeding chapters revert back to Maryann's life until they catch up with the next trial scene, and so on. The closing chapter, dynamically dramatic, reveals what finally happens to her. For there is anxiety on this point, even though she has long since convinced herself that she was born to be what she is, and has told the reader as much.

Robbins' "Never Love a Stranger" and "A Stone for Danny Fisher" were good, but this one is better.

SHORTER WORK HOURS: It is no longer a luxury for workers who have developed their creative talents to restrict their hours of work. In fact, it's a practical necessity if they are to do their best work. That's the theme of "How to Make Your Living in Four Hours a Day" (Harper, $2.50). Author William J. Reilly, Ph.D., of the National Institute of Straight Thinking, helps readers to better understand the operations of their own minds and he shows them how they can become sufficiently creative to drastically reduce work hours to advantage of both themselves and their boss.

SINNERS' FUN: "Laugh You Sinners" by Freddie Benham (Fell, $2.95) contains 217 pages of rollicking jokes with illustrations by Herb Hartig. The jokes are favorites of the "Circus Saints and Sinners," an organization which provides for old circus performers. The Saints are the retired performers, the Sinners anyone who has ever felt the urge to join a circus troupe. There are gags by such personalities as Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason, Jack Dempsey and California's Sen. William F. Knowland. —F.T.H.

LIN YUTANG is a noted philosopher and a novel of the future "Looking Beyond" (Prentice Hall, $4.95) is an experience for his old readers. The year is 2004 A.D. The characters are splendidly drawn. Eurydice, the heroine, is a most provocative young woman whose life on the imaginary island of Trainos is most enjoyable. Not that everything is easy—there are conflicts of social mannerisms—but if the theme of the book could be noted, it would be that of complete relaxation. This is a sparkling novel, one that is not easy to review. Read it for something wonderful.—G. L.

SOUTHERNER'S SOUTH: A collection of writings about places in the South, most of which have appeared over the years in the nation's better magazines, makes up "James Street's takes careful case work to place the right child in the right home, only 251 couples were able to adopt children through the agency during the past year.

ONE OUT of each four of the Home Society's children are members of a minority race or has a medical handicap that makes placement more difficult. Although over 85 per cent of the babies were born to unwed mothers, some have been given up by their own parents for economic or health reasons, or by order of the courts.

An important segment of the society's activity is the confidential service given the unwed mother, who may keep her baby or turn it over to the society as she wishes with the assurance that her baby's future home will be selected after months of exhaustive investigation.

Usual procedure for a couple wishing to adopt a child is to attend a group meeting where proceedings and requirements are explained.

AMONG THEIR requirements are a doctor's certificate that the parents are unable to have children of their own, although this does not mean that they must already be childless.

IT IS EMPHASIZED, always that not all applications can be accepted. For example, in the Protestant group there will be only one child available for every 20 applying and a wait of 11 to 13 months is usual.

Negro and Mexican couples or those willing to take a handicapped child find that they can have a baby within three or six months. Couples not accepted at the first may re-apply after six months.

Although most of the youngsters are under a year old, the society does place children for adoption until they are 12.

Licensed by the state to care and place children, the society boards the youngsters with selected foster parents who usually have children of their own at a cost of $50 to $60 a month and supplies their clothing from layettes made by volunteer women's sewing groups.

CASE WORKERS see the homes of prospective parents, have several consultations with both the man and his wife prior to the placement of the child and then assist them in the intervening months prior to the legal adoption proceedings in court.

The case worker assigned this area has been spending one or two days a week here. Under her supervision have been 18 youngsters in boarding homes. She has studied 23 couples prior to placement of children with them. She has provided services for 13 others awaiting legal adoption proceedings during the past year.

Funds from next fall's United Neighbors Community Chest campaign will be allocated this agency, as well as support given by the Sandlarks, local auxiliary devoted to augmenting the agency's funds.

Pool

vidsons and their visitors might enjoy complete privacy.

The patio and pool are visually invited into the heart of the house, integrated as they are into the U formed by the rumpus room and bedroom wings.

A pale pink cinderblock wall adds a warm element of color that contrasts with the abundant turquoise element instigated by the water, the plastic patio roofing and by the blue-green of the house's stucco walls.

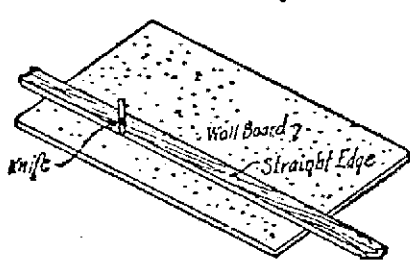

Giant tubs of heavy-blossomed deep pink hydrangeas nod in the background amidst smaller pots of fern and tropical greenery. The cement shoulder around the tear-drop contour pool extends to meet the house on three sides and the cinderblock fence at the back. Aside for the watering required by the potted plants, here is a maintenance-free yard.

THE MASTER bedroom, like the kitchen on the other side of the house, does not open to the pool. Instead, it enjoys a view of lawn and trees to the front.

The second bedroom, which Mr. Davidson utilizes as a den, has been fitted out like a very complete office. Along one wall a desk of natural birch with a wear-resistant plastic top has been installed. A second desk-drafting board, swivel leather-upholstered stools and adjustable overhead lighting make this birch-paneled room a pleasing solution to the problem of where the businessman can take his homework!

And, of course, when fatigue sets in, it is but a step out of doors to the inviting pool.

Tool Tips

Gypsum wallboard, widely used for walls and ceilings because of its economy in installation, can be neatly cut in this manner: Use a straight edge and score the board deeply with a sharp tool. Turn the board over and cut the other side in the same way. This will allow the board to snap apart and leave a clean edge on each side, says the American Builder.

Real Crazy! -- About Photography

By the Shutterbug

JERRY LEWIS, of the Martin and Lewis comedy team, is really crazy . . . about photography in general and home movies in particular.

Here are some serious thoughts from the zany comedian which he gave when asked what advice he'd pass along to photographers:

"All of us could do a much better job of preserving in motion, in color . . . yes, and in sound . . . the happy memories of today for the future. It is so important for us to make a record now of the people we love in characteristic action — the way they look, the things they say and do.

In less than 15 years, Jerry has come a long way from his first box camera and the 8-mm. movie camera which he bought on time because he didn't have money enough to buy it outright.

Today, 29 years old, he owns about every type of still camera on the market and has a fabulous amount invested in a complete 16-mm. sound-on-film system for his home productions.

In his Pacific Palisades home, Jerry has a photo studio with roll-away backgrounds and a complete darkroom setup for still and movie work. In addition, he has a cutting room, projection room and a library for the millions of feet of movies he has personally shot, edited, titled, scored and carefully catalogued.

A week end at Loch Sheldrake,

N. Y., gave veteran cameramen a pleasurable opportunity to observe at first hand the serious photo side of the madcap Lewis. Here, some 15 years ago when he first became interested in photography, he went to work as a bus boy in Brown's Hotel. Now he had returned as an international celebrity and more than 120 members of the press and film industry had gathered to preview the latest Martin and Lewis laugh-antics for Paramount's "You're Never Too Young." Because of his knowledge of photography, Jerry was co-director of the film.

Jerry proved to be a shutterbug's delight with all the amateur photographers present. He was stopped countless times to pose or hold a youngster and I didn't see anyone turned away. Once when he was caught in an area of deep shade, Jerry asked the fan what film and exposure he was using. It was slow film and just a snapshot camera, so Jerry cut a few capers and moved to a spot with better, more open lighting, then posed.

A PRINT COMPETITION featured the monthly meeting of Long Beach Professional Photographers Association held in Pacific Air Industries building. Prizes in portrait division: Elbert Dole, first; Simon Silverman, second; Edna Kinney, third; commercial division — Rudy Spika, first; H. A. Russell, second, and Lynn Hawkins, third. Judges were Tony Arntzen, Irene Feldt and Joseph Stimson.

PET PARADE

He's a Big Boy from Japan

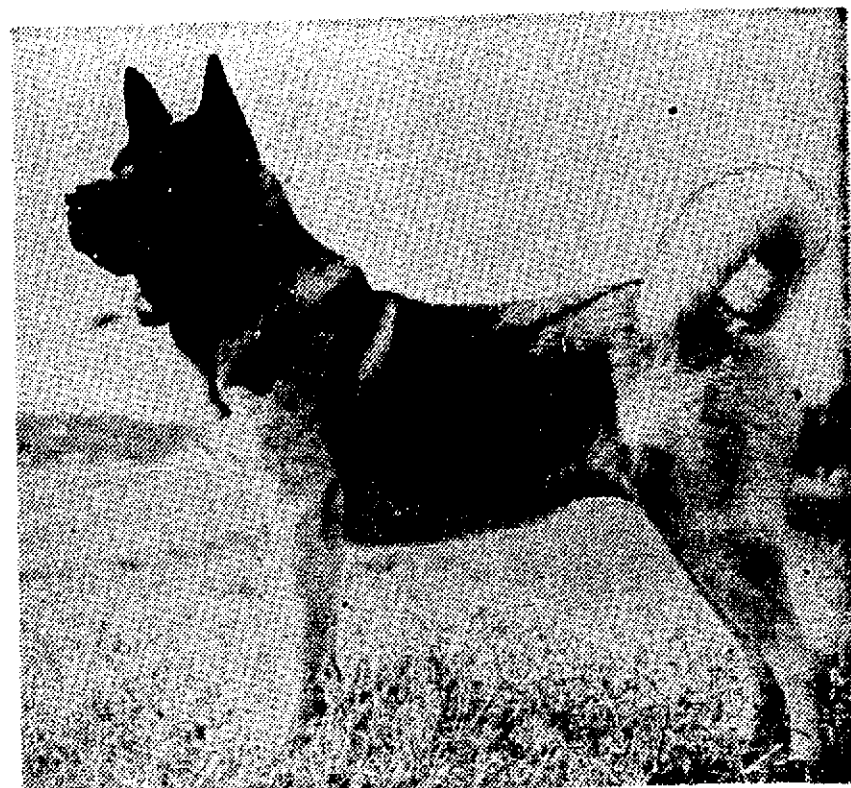

DOWN THROUGH the ages it has been the custom of the Orientals to place a high value on their dogs, often to the point of revering them in the imperial palaces and in the homes. Some dogs were eventually introduced to other countries, but the Japanese for centuries held back all of their big dogs and permitted only the smaller breeds to be released.

In the early 1920s, Japan finally released eight Akita Inu dogs to England, but apparently no special record was kept of them except that the British Kennel Club recognizes the breed under "Any Other Variety" in the official registration book.

The Akita lately has been appearing in the United States and been given an enthusiastic welcome. He is a big, powerful dog, a splendid swimmer with tough webbed feet, therefore able to work in water as well as on difficult terrain. In Japan he is classed as a working breed, but he is also good at some kinds of hunting and retrieving.

THIS DOG takes easily to obedience training. He was developed to hunt large boar and deer because of the lack of efficient firearms in Japan. He was and still is an important part of the Japanese religion, a symbol of good health.

The Akita has a gentle disposition, therefore he is good with children. And he is as beautiful as he is gentle. His waterproof coat is preferably silver-tipped dark gray, but brindle and cream is acceptable. The coat is his protection, for he can sleep buried in the snow, or he can tolerate hot, dry climates.

The Akita is the only large dog ever released for export from Japan. He is gentle, obedient and powerful.

By Eleanor Avery Price

In buying Akitas for export, only young dogs can be obtained and then only after much negotiation with the Japanese Veterinarian Association. The Akita Dog Association of America, 131 Wilton Pl., Los Angeles, has set its sights high, however, and hopes some day to have the breed accepted by the American Kennel Club.

To prevent a mixup of the breed, this association insists that all Akitas be protected with Identicode.

A GARDEN GROVE doctor and his wife have found respite from their duties in raising and showing cocker spaniel dogs and have brought fame to their kennels through their prize-winning dogs.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Erdahl, 10152 Chapman Ave., moved to this area after many years in Long Beach although the doctor still retains his office here.

While living in Lakewood, near Long Beach City College, the couple adopted the name Viking from the student body and all of their dogs now carry a first name of Viking. The couple also both are of Scandinavian descent.

Their most recent winner is Viking Wagaway, who was judged "Best in the Show" of the Maturity Cocker Show at the Mira Mar Hotel in Santa Monica.

Wagaway was born at the kennels and was bred from Ch. Viking Krulla in Ulla, also owned by the Erdahls. His sire is Ch. Elderwood Bangaway of Houston, Tex., holder of many national titles.

Waggy began winning when his handler, Norman Austin of Allison Park, Pa., took him to Kansas City, Mo., when he was less than 11 months old. He was judged "Best Puppy" from a field of 45 entries.

Viking Wagaway, shown by Dr. Henry Erdahl, is latest show dog raised by Dr. and Mrs. Erdahl to win prize.

HOW TO Dress Up Your Fireplace to Make It Room's Natural Center of Interest

YOUR FIREPLACE is a natural center of interest in your living room—so play it up! Give it plenty of eye appeal with striking accessories in a pleasing arrangement. These pointers will help: Choose decorative pieces that are personal, and decorative. Be sure they harmonize with the fireplace, fireplace wall, and the furnishings of the room.

Arrange your mantel accessories for a dramatic, inviting look. Don't be afraid to experiment with unusual accessories and arrangements—they can give your fireplace an individual touch that stamps it as yours.

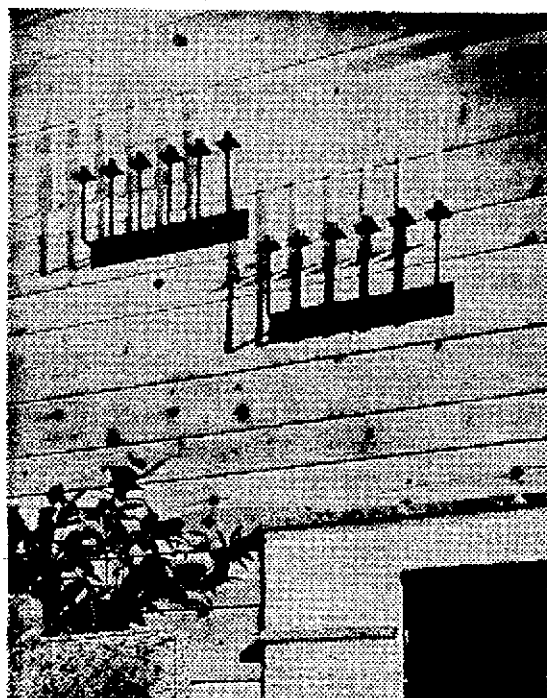

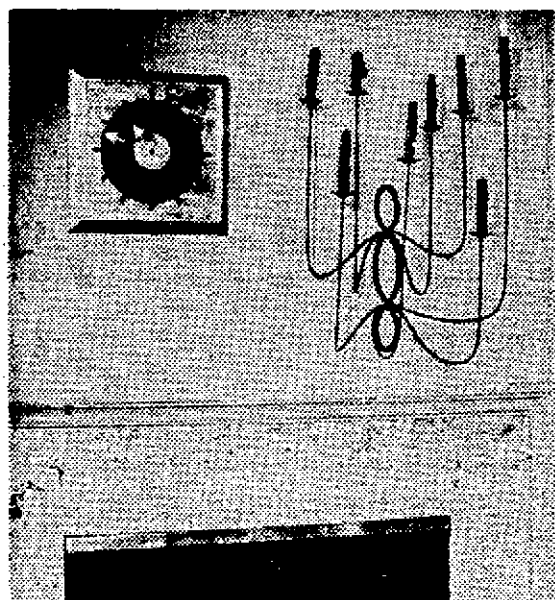

1. TO ACCENT a fireplace with an off-center opening, try an off-center arrangement like this. Ornamental plaques on right follow line of fireplace, balanced by the large pewter clock.

2. YOU'LL DISCOVER a symmetric mantel arrangement gives a quiet, restful feeling to a room. Center something large and interesting for drama. Add a pair of smaller accessories, placing one on either side to complete the arrangement. A large fireplace needs good-size decorations.

3. CHOOSE BOLD, simple-lined accessories to play up a fireplace wall in an informal room like this. Two black-metal sconces with white candles make a striking accent against the knotty-pine background. Staggered arrangement, repetition of rectangular shapes, dramatize the grouping.

4. CHOOSE UNUSUAL pieces to give your fireplace special impact. Two striking accessories, varied in size and shape, combine to make this simple but dramatic arrangement. The square, solid mass of the clock is balanced by the big, open curves of the iron candelabra.

GARDENS

For Those Borders

By Jack L. Mather

LOW GROWING ANNUAL plants are being used more and more prominently to outline walks and as border plants. The height of the background to be bordered in most cases decides the ultimate height of the border plant you choose.

The number of plants of border value today are many, so therefore let us consider at this time only. Alyssum, with heights of from two to eight inches gives a range that can fit into most gardens. Also of great value, although limited to one height, six to eight inches, is Ageratum. Both of these plants demand sunshine, but not full day sun. If these plants receive from four to six hours of direct sun per day they will thrive.

Ageratum with its dense green foliage and complete head of blue can be used as a border for most of the tall plants such as Asters, Zinnias and Marigolds. To get the most show and a continuous border it is best to space these plants about six inches apart.

ALYSSUM has two dwarf forms, Royal Carpet, to two inches, and Carpet of Snow, to four inches. Alyssum can be used as a border for phlox, verbenas, two modern alyssums are compact in growth with a solid mass of color.

The colors of the blue alyssum, and the purple and white of alyssum blend well into any garden arrangement and in most cases offer a color not found to any great degree in strains of the taller plants.

For a change from the usual in a flower bed area try a planting of alyssum enclosed in a border of Carpet of Snow alyssum. The blue of the alyssum in this case will strongly accentuate the extreme white of the alyssum.

Garden shrubs can also be made more colorful during their summer bloom period by a planting of either of these border plants. By this use the usual blank area at the base of shrubs can be hidden and will show the tall plants to their best advantage.

Low-growing and prolific-blooming alyssum is good to border garden areas.

POWER LAWN MOWER

Here's a brand-new kind of power mower, for any kind of grass. Here's the easy answer to a smooth, clean lawn, with all edges and borders perfectly trimmed. Here are more features than you'll find in any other mower:

Safety Tiny concealed blades pivot out of the way when they strike a solid object.

Smooth wide cut This mower leaves no wheel marks. Cut is 20 inches wide.

Cuts any height Cuts tall grass and weeds to height you select, from 1/2 to 2 inches.

Trims over edges Cuts over edges without digging, cuts on either side right up to walls. Won't scalp the lawn.

Picks up or matches Vacuum action throws clippings into catcher. Or catcher can be removed for mulching.

Dwarf Phlox Loves Sun

By Walter Finch

DWARF PHLOX should be included in your planning of any garden area this summer. This low-growing — to eight inches, hardy annual appears to be happy under all garden conditions. Direct sun, however, is a must.

No soil seems to be too poor for this plant. It is true, however, that the richer the soil the brighter the bloom.

If viewed from directly above, phlox seems to be only one bloom. This is due to the blooming habit of the plant. Flowers come in clusters of 10 to 20 per stem with several stems in bloom at one time.

Alyssum, ageratum or lobelia planted in front of phlox makes a solid layer of bloom in a riot of color. The colors range from white through red, apricot, blue and violet. Phlox colors are harmonious in any garden.

A big brother to the dwarf variety, tall phlox, grows to 20 inches. Here we have the same general plant with taller growth habits.

On planning your garden, with these plants in mind, take advantage of the two heights offered. Space the dwarf variety from six inches to eight inches apart and the tall ones from eight to 12 inches.

One other thought to keep in mind is the fact that the blooms go well in flower arrangements. The uses of a flower of this type are many as the monotony of single blooms is eliminated.

This pleasing plant with its contented and inviting growth habits can do much for your yard and home. Some of its output in cheer and good feeling will help bolster morale during the warm summer days to come.

Plant phlox in direct sun and other garden factors seem of little difference.

South" (Doubleday, $3.75). Here is a southerner's description of such states as Mississippi, central Florida, Georgia and Arkansas, and beloved cities like Houston and Dallas and Mobile. Each chapter is loaded with folklore and anecdotes. James Street Jr. wrote the introduction.

FRANK O'ROURKE continues his masterful story-telling in the just-published first edition Dell pocket-book western, "The Big Fifty." It is an action-packed yarn of the last days of the buffalo hunters and their beloved rifles, the big 50s. The characterization of the villain, Jan Schmidt, is most unusual in that he is not all black; on occasion he will steal the sympathy of the reader away from the hero, True Benton. Other Dell first edition pocket-books just out include John R. Humphreys' "The Dirty Shame" and Ian Gordon's "After Innocence." They sell for 25 cents each.—J. G.

ORIGINAL PAPERBACKS you'll like: "The Life of Davy Crockett," by Davy Crockett, to which is added the account of his death at the Alamo (Signet, $.35); "Hunger Mountain," a novel of violence in a small Oklahoma town, by William R. Scott (Dell, $.25).

News of Stamps

Two new stamps have been issued by North Borneo. The 4-cent purple shows hemp drying. The 15-c blue depicts a sailboat (prahu) at Sandakan. Each stamp bears a vignette portrait of Queen Elizabeth... from Belgium comes word of a new stamp for the 3rd Biennial Exhibition of Sculpture held at Antwerp. The 1.20 franc and 2 franc show "The Foolish Virgin" by Belgian Sculptor Rik Wouters... Argentina's "Aero commercial stamp" has been issued. It shows an aviator giving instructions to a student. In the background is a commercial plane in flight. The value is 1.50 pesos.

"I Stopped Smoking in 5 Days With BANTRON!"

Amazing New Formula Helps Break Smoking Habit in 5 Days Easily and Pleasantly!

"I would like to shout from the housetops how wonderful Bantron is to help you stop smoking, says Jesse S. Tucker, retired railroad man.

In a series of dramatic tests scientists proved that in 83% (4 out of 5) of the cases, Bantron helped men and women to stop smoking in 5 days. Clinically proved, Bantron is safe, has no unpleasant after-effects and is not habit forming. Does not affect your taste.

Bantron was discovered in the research laboratories of a great American university. It comes in tablet form. You just take 1 tablet with water after each meal.

If Bantron Brand Smoking Deterrent Tablets do not help you stop or cut down smoking within 5 days, send us the empty box and we will refund your money. At all drug stores. 5 day supply $1.00.

ROBERT F. CROW
Let's Be Neat
THE MARKS of a talented restaurateur are those extra little touches that make his guests happy all through the meal.

Robert F. Crow, owner and host at Crow's restaurant, Willow at Magnolia Ave., fits niftily into this category for two splendid touches featured at his dining emporium:

1—Crow knows that even the most fastidious guest spills something occasionally. So he provides his barbecue ribs and chicken-eating guests with magnificent paper bibs which bear this legend: "Eat Neat at Crow's." There's no telling how many natty suits and pretty dresses have escaped stains and spots, thanks to this policy. Of course, local cleaning establishments don't think so much of it — but, then, you can't please everybody.

2—Crow also supplies his guests with slick little finger bowls in which they may rinse off pinkies goosed up with barbecue sauce and other dandy ingredients. In the several years that Crow has proffered these bowls, only a few persons have eaten from them (mistaking them for soup, no doubt)—which goes to prove that the dining out public is growing wiser all the time.

CROW'S features superb Cantonese cuisine, in addition to American dishes. Although our "Meet Your Host" caricaturist
Dick Arnold cunningly presents
Mr. Crow with slanted eyes and chopsticks, allow me to reveal that he isn't Chinese at all — but is, instead, a Yankee with 16 years in the local restaurant and liquor business.

However, his top chef is Chinese. And this chef is a wizard in the Cantonese food department. Especially popular are his Chinese Family Style Dinners
($1.75 a person), which include succulent spare ribs, chop suey, egg foo yong, Cantonese fried shrimp, rice and tea. Crow's Special Mandarin Dinner ($2.50) includes enough food for half of Formosa. In addition to all the foregoing items, it provides chow mein, sweet and sour ribs and an egg roll. —TEDD THOMEY

Sec. Thomas Studies Navy Ban on Youth

Hundreds Protest
Refusal to Award
Landy Commission

WASHINGTON (UP)—Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas said Saturday he personally will make a "full and impartial" investigation of the Navy's refusal to give a reserve commission to a U. S. Merchant Marine Academy honor graduate whose mother once was a "kaffee klatsch" Communist.

Thomas disclosed he had taken charge of the case as midshipman Eugene W. Landy, 21, sent a telegram to the Navy Bureau of Personnel "respectfully" requesting that it reconsider its refusal.

Landy, preparing at his Bradley Beach, N. J., home to sail as a seaman aboard a tanker today, said he still had not been notified formally by the Navy that a commission had been denied him. All he had to act upon, he said, was a verbal report by one of his instructors at the Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy that "your commission will not be forthcoming."

THE YOUTH GRADUATED second in a class of 96 midshipmen, Friday.

Senators, Congressmen and the mayor of Bradley Beach interceded in Landy's behalf and telegrams and telephone calls poured into his widowed mother's home.

All the messages supported him "100 per cent," he said.

Upon sending off his wire to the Navy Department, Landy said, "As it stands now, I might receive notification of my commission before I receive notification of the refusal."

Thomas, in undertaking a review of the case, said he had no advance opinions and that he would wait until he had heard "both sides" before reaching any decision. He said Landy's decision to appeal had no bearing on the review, that he would have studied the case anyway. Officials have said the Navy did not question Landy's own personal loyalty.

Storm Delays Mrs. Nesbitt's Arrival Here

Wayne Nesbitt and his German immigrant wife, Antonie Helen, who was almost deported by the Canadian government last week, failed to get together on their first wedding anniversary Saturday, but were scheduled to meet early this morning at International Airport in Los Angeles.

American and Canadian governmental red tape was out in several directions last week to prevent Mrs. Nesbitt from being deported to her native Germany and she was allowed to cross over the Peace Bridge at Buffalo, N. Y., to get a plane to Los Angeles.

Her plane was to arrive at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, which would have had the couple re-united on their first wedding anniversary. However, the plane was forced down at Phoenix by storms in the area and was unable to take off until after midnight.

Her husband, who works as a technician at Veterans' Hospital here, went to meet 22-year-old Antonie at the airport.

Income Tax Quiz of Red 'Secret Angels' Called

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities has been armed with authority to examine income tax returns in a drive to uncover "secret angels" of the U. S. Communist Party.

An executive order issued by President Eisenhower Friday granted the authority which was requested by chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) two months ago. The committee has not had such powers since the days of the old Dies committee.

L.A.C. SAYS: The Beautiful Boom

Two significant actions have been taken by the government during the past week. The Veterans Administration and FHA have increased down payment requirements on homes. They have also shortened the period for repayment of loans. The Federal Reserve Board has tightened up on credit for member banks. In the current Business Week magazine an editorial warns that we may be in a dangerous period of a "too beautiful boom."

It is a thought-provoking article. When business is booming it is a good time to be cautious. When business is in the doldrums it is safe to talk of great growth to come. It is then we need confidence and enthusiasm.

'THIS IS YOUR MOTHER'

Uranium Prospector Slain in Claim Row

MOAB, Utah (UP)—Organization of vigilantes to "preserve law and order" was contemplated in Utah's uranium capital of Moab Saturday night after a bartender-prospector was murdered—possibly because of a dispute over a claim.

Thrice-married Ben Vandre, 39, was shot and killed while he crouched, pistol in hand, behind a pickup truck loaded with uranium-hunting equipment.

Sheriff John Stocks of Grand County said one "possible suspect" had been jailed but declined to release the man's name or reasons why he had been arrested.

Keith Barker, owner of the Wagon Wheel beer bar where Vandre worked in this southeastern Utah boom town, said "something will have to be done" to bolster law-enforcement in the area.

"THIS MURDER WAS too close to home," Barker declared. "Maybe we'll have to do like they did during the gold rush days—organize a vigilante committee to preserve law and order. But this is a modern day and we don't want to go back to 1875."

Stocks said that just before Vandre finished his night shift at the Wagon Wheel, he had an argument with two unidentified men. When Vandre left for his trailer-home, he told Barker that he expected trouble.

The sheriff said there was a possibility the argument, and the slaying, was connected with a summons that he recently served on Vandre. The action involved Vandre's sale of uranium claims to an exploration company—claims the sheriff said involved a question about the lack of title, a faulty title "or even claim jumping."

VANDRE APPARENTLY was preparing to go to bed in his trailer when he was called out. The sheriff said the shirtless bartender emerged, pistol in hand, and tried to hide behind his pickup which he had loaded with equipment for a weekend prospecting trip.

The slayer, using a pistol or rifle, fired a bullet that struck Vandre in the right side, passed

'Happy' Tops Tough Rival in Kentucky

Chandler Lead 9000
in Latest Count of
Seesawing Contest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Former Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, striving for a political comeback, and Bert T. Combs, a young mountaineer judge, were locked in a close battle Saturday night for Kentucky's Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Returns from 1,318 of the state's 4,074 precincts gave:

Chandler 102,960; Combs 93,891.

Chandler had hopped off to an early lead, only to see it overtaken by Combs as a big batch of returns came in from Louisville. The former judge of Kentucky's highest court had strong regular organization backing in the metropolis. Nearly one half of the 3rd District (Louisville and Jefferson County) precincts were yet to be reported.

THE EX-SENATOR then regained a slight lead.

Chandler ran well, as expected, in northern Kentucky, opposite Cincinnati, and in some rural areas. However, the tabulations included no report from the 7th District of East Kentucky, Combs' home area.

A third candidate, Jesse R. Cecil, trailed badly. Some counties were not keeping a running tab on his votes.

The Chandler-Combs contest was one of the hottest in the history of Kentucky politics.

IN THE QUIETER race for the Republican governor's nomination, returns from 1,018 precincts gave:

Former U. S. Dist. Atty. Edwin R. Denney 19,383 to 5,198 for James L. Clay, an attorney.

Denney was endorsed by John Sherman Cooper, ambassador to India and former Republican U. S. Senator from Kentucky.

State Rep. John Young Brown, former U. S. Representative who had lost to Cooper in 1946, nailed his bid for Democratic nomination for a State Senate seat.

Brown, a sales-tax advocate who strongly backed Combs, who, however, didn't commit himself to any specific tax program, had 3,459 votes to 5,551 for John C. Angell, a young lawyer, in the Lexington and Fayette County District with 45 of its 60 precincts counted.

Candidate Kicked and Slapped at Polls

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ollie Montgomery of Campbellsville, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, was roughed up at the polls Saturday.

Montgomery said he was slapped in the face and kicked in the side by an unidentified assailant. The candidate said he was talking to an organization worker when a man walked up to him and asked, "Who the hell are you?"

Then, after a few more words, Montgomery said, the man struck and kicked him.

He was taken to General Hospital, where his side was taped and he was released.

THE VICTIM, Harold N. Nelson, 3322 E. 8th St., had been hired by Veronica Daly, of the Raymond Ave. address, who said she found him, slumped on the ground, 10 minutes after he began work.

The body was taken to Holton & Son Mortuary.

Two Los Angeles men, G. Wright and G. Cooney, were rescued Saturday evening after their 14-foot outboard motor boat overturned nine miles southwest of Newport Harbor.

They were picked up, unharmed, by a near-by craft, the Lacy B. A. Coast Guard patrol boat was dispatched to take them aboard and tow their boat back to Newport Harbor.

'AVALON OR BUST' QUARTET GOES BUST

Deciding to leave the sea to the sailors, four seasick Marines dock Saturday night at Long Beach yacht anchorage with remnants of life raft they hoped would take them to Catalina Island. They had vowed to row to Avalon "or bust." The life raft "busted" after being taken in tow by rescue craft. Left to right are Cpl. Gary Bear, Cpl. Tony Pesce, Sgt. Dave Johnson and Pfc. 4 Marines Saved Trying to Paddle Raft Across Channel to Catalina

By BOB SANDERS

Four Marines learned the hard way Saturday that they weren't out to be sailors.

After 12 hours at sea, one of the Leathernecks came down with "exposure shakes" and his three buddies then decided to cancel their attempt to paddle across the Catalina channel in a rubber life raft.

The quartet checked out a 12-foot Navy raft from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station recreation department and set out about 4 a. m. to paddle their way from Newport Beach to Catalina Island.

"Everything went okay," said Sgt. Dave Johnson, 21, "until we hit the open water out of the channel. Then it started to get kind of choppy."

Johnson and his three companions, Cpl. Anthony Pesce, 20, Cpl. Gary Bear, 22, and his brother, Pfc. James Bear, 20, kept on paddling until 4:20 p.m.

Pesce then began to shake and complain about being cold.

"Since the rest of us were pretty warm," Johnson said, "we began to worry and decided to give it up."

THE COAST GUARD reported the raft was about 12 miles off

Hurricane Misses Populated Islands

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The weather bureau said late Saturday night Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands no longer are in danger from hurricane Connie.

The threat passed these U. S. islands an hour before midnight, the official report said.

The bureau bulletin said the eye of the hurricane, roaring across the open Atlantic north of here, had passed about 100 miles north of San Juan.

"Its movement is taking the center of the storm away from the islands," it said.

2,500 SLATED TO BE REWED AT OLD CHURCH

NASHUA, Iowa (UP)—About 2,500 couples who were wed at the Little Brown Church in the Vale were expected to repeat their vows here today as part of the church's centennial observance.

The Rev. Glenn L. Utterback, pastor, said all of the more than 25,000 couples who have been married at the famous church have been invited back for the ceremony.

About one-tenth are expected to be on hand, he said.

Sheriff's Men at Santa Ana Smash Gang

Scores of Armed Robberies Believed
Conducted by 'Mob'

By BOB BECKMAN

SANTA ANA—Jailing a Long Beach man as ring-leader and two others as suspected lieutenants, sheriff's investigators Saturday claimed breakup of an audacious robber band linked with a long series of Long Beach-area and Southland holdups.

Two of the men surrendered in response to a plea by the father of one of them.

Seized earlier were four other suspects. Another is hunted, believed to be the bandit who pistol-whipped Edward A. Allen of Los Alamitos so severely during a cafe holdup that 32 stitches were required to close head wounds.

THE THREE PLACED behind bars Saturday were Charles Bonds, 21, reputed bandit chief who gave his address as the Carmelitos housing area in Long Beach; Ray Pierce, 22, of 2364 Lewis Ave., Long Beach, and Andrew J. Enneman, 22, of 6881 Watson St., Cypress.

Arrested earlier were Steve Hazzard, 25, of 6628 San Luis St., Compton; Ronald Rideout, 19, and Jack Broshear, 22, both of 3703 Fairman St., Lakewood, and Michael Johnson, 19, of Guthrie, Okla.

Sheriff's investigators Dan Rios and Barney McKown said the group has been "almost positively identified" in connection with nine recent Orange County armed robberies and is suspected of a host more in both Orange and Los Angeles Counties.

CHIEF OF THE LIST OF crimes, Rios said, is the $3,000 robbery of Sam's Sea Food Spa.

Purse Found of Missing K.C. Woman

KANSAS CITY (UP)—Police Saturday found the purse of an attractive 34-year-old housewife missing since Thursday and said it may pave the way for a major break in the case.

The purse of Mrs. Wilma Allen, wife of automobile dealer William R. Allen Jr., was found on Highway 69 in nearby Johnson County, Kansas.

Officers said it had been identified by the family as Mrs. Allen's purse, a blue straw bag.

There was no indication that her only other personal effects, a pink scarf and silk stockings, also were found. The area in any case would have to be several miles from where her abandoned convertible was found in downtown Kansas City early Friday, spattered with blood and containing most of her clothing.

In addition, a resident of rural Wyandotte County, just west of Kansas City, Kan., told officers he heard a woman screaming "murder, help," in a car near his home Thursday night between 9 and 10 o'clock.

Fire Burns 175 Acres
Near Paso Robles

PASO ROBLES (AP)—Fanned by a hard wind, a brush fire estimated to cover 175 acres raged Saturday night despite the efforts of 70 fire fighters 20 miles north of here.

The fire started on the Jack ranch shortly after noon, covered 100 acres in an hour, and kept growing despite efforts of Monterey County and San Luis Obispo County foresters who were called in to help.

Yacht Racer Dies

HONOLULU, T. H. (UP)—Yachtsman J. A. Gurley, 60, of Newport Beach died Saturday of pneumonia contracted during lengthy exposure aboard the Sena drift in the recent transpacific yacht race. Gurley was hospitalized Friday.

FBI to Take Girl Stowaway Off Destroyer Here Today

A pretty 16-year-old Hawaiian girl will arrive here today aboard the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan after stowing away on the vessel at Hilo, Hawaii, last Sunday.

Joselyn Joan Pilapil, discovered in a stern compartment when the destroyer was at sea, left a note for her mother saying "Bill wants to take care of me and the baby."

Her mother, Mrs. Gloria Pilapil, said she had seen no indications that her daughter was going to have a baby.

The mother said she didn't know Bill but understood he worked "on one of the ships."

The Athabaskan was scheduled to arrive at 10 a.m. today at the Navy net pier at the Terminal Island Naval Base.

A reception committee from the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Los Angeles office will be on hand to greet the girl.

L.A.C. SAYS:

But when there is full employment, a spiraling wage influence and mounting credits, it is a good time to wonder if it has reached the danger point. The people who take this attitude may not grow rich from inflation, but they will be hurt less if the bubble breaks.

Just how high the present boom can rise is anyone's guess. There are no definite standards on which we can judge the present boom. It is now far above what so-called experts thought it could go. But our unexpected increase in population has thrown out of gear many of the ideas we had before. The tremendous advancement of electronics has opened an entirely new field for industrial expansion. The people are spending and going into debt as never before. At the same time the total savings of the people are at an all-time high.

At present, costs of production and prices are substantially in balance. The new wage increases may be absorbed by manufacturers and retailers. If they are not, then greater efficiency must be had if prices are to remain the same. Unless unions guarantee greater efficiency with fewer lost hours, due to labor troubles, there will be no lowered labor costs. If there are not lowered labor costs per unit then higher prices must come.

It is apparent the government is taking steps to combat further inflation. Its success in this endeavor will largely depend on how the people react. It will be recalled how such steps were taken during the postwar years when goods were scarce. The government called for higher down payments and short pay-off periods on consumer goods. The actions the past week may be only a start on a program of changes in merchandising and production.

Such actions naturally face opposition from industry and business concerns, which have more goods to sell than there are customers. This is the big difference between 1946-49 and the present. The same methods may not achieve the same results. But it is apparent inflation is feared by the government. It is also feared by millions of people who have seen the value of the dollar cut in half during the past 15 years. That is the thought-provoking point made in Business Week. It should interest every wage earner and particularly every person living on a fixed income.—L.A.C.

16278 S. Coast Hwy., Sunset Beach, last month. Rios said the gang apparently "moved into high gear" after striking at the Grove Sporting Goods Store in Garden Grove June 6. Five guns, all .38-caliber automatics, were taken. The guns were recovered in the mass arrest.

Moving from stickup to stickup without masks, the gang followed a busy schedule. Rios and his men were able to reconstruct the following:

June 9—Armed robbery at Joe's Cafe in Stanton. Loot: $200.
June 10—Armed robbery at Produce Market, Commonwealth and Dale Aves., Buena Park. Loot: $600.

June 30—Armed robbery at Los Alamitos Airport Cafe, Los Alamitos. Loot: $120.
July 6—Armed robbery at Young's Service Station, 18462 Huntington Beach Blvd., near Huntington Beach. Loot: $160.

July 8—Armed robbery at Hockett's Market, 5861 Westminster Blvd., Westminster. Loot: $200.

July 28—Armed robbery at Art and Vi's Cafe, 5952 Westminster Blvd., Westminster. Loot: $142.

July 29—In quick succession, armed robbery at Lincoln Drive in Theater, Cypress, in which $500 was taken; Gopher City Cafe, Moody St. at Orangewood Ave., Cypress, in which $200 was taken.

July 30—Taylor's Automobile Works, 6551 Westminster Blvd., Westminster. Loot: $142.

RIOS SAID THAT BONDS, Pierce and Enneman apparently spent the past week in Arizona "lying low."

Meanwhile, authorities in both counties were closing the ring of evidence. Rios said officers talked to Enneman's father, Joe, an El Monte dairyman.

The elder Enneman promised to "bring my son to you" when he saw him again.

Saturday noon, young Enneman, Pierce and Bonds appeared at the Enneman farm. Enneman listened to his father's plea to give himself up and agreed it was a good idea. Bonds was convinced too. The pair was brought to the sheriff's station here by the worried father.

PIERCE, WHO HAD refused to accompany his buddies, was arrested shortly afterward at the dairy farm. Although three through his body and lodged in the plywood trailer.

Friends said Vandere, who had lived in Moab for a year, had twice been married to Margie Jones in Moab, but they recently separated again. He also reportedly had a former wife and two children in Salt Lake City. It was the first fatal shooting since the uranium rush started a few years ago to the Colorado Plateau, which now ranks second only to the Belgian Congo in production of uranium for the Western world's nuclear arsenal.

Jail Escapee Shot, Arrested in Texas
AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Carroll McKinney, an escaped fugitive from the Glenwood Springs, Colo., jail, was wounded and under heavy guard Saturday night in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Capt. C. E. Travis of the Potter County sheriff's department said McKinney, 20, told officers he was shot accidentally by two companions. He was dumped out in front of the hospital with wounds in the left shoulder and forearm.

Bonds, whose cockiness and constant chatter marked the booking session at the county jail, shouted at Rios: "What took you so long to find us out?"

Russ Fleet Reported Off Norway Coast

TROMSOE, Norway (AP)—A Soviet fleet was sighted off the coast of Northern Norway Saturday.

A British trawler which arrived at the port of Vardoe reported that it had observed several Soviet naval units, including light and heavy cruisers, four destroyers and a great number of smaller and faster vessels immediately before the trawler left the fishing banks off the coast of Finland.

The master of the trawler also said that a large fleet of Soviet Russian trawlers took part in the fishing off the Finland banks.

In Oslo, military authorities did not put any special significance in the reports from Tromsø. They said the Russians normally would start their naval maneuvers in the Arctic Sea at this time of year and that they had a right to do so.

Russia Sweet and Sour on Relations With West

By RICHARD K. KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—There was a tinge of bitterness in Soviet relations with the West Saturday. Western ambassadors were preparing to accept the invitation of Premier Nikolai Bulganin to visit his country villa Sunday and bring the wives and kiddies for an afternoon luncheon, swimming and romping on the grass. But meantime the Soviet press and Tass took up again a flurry over the Soviet attitude toward President Eisenhower's blueprint plan for arms inspection. The premier was quoted as telling the Supreme Soviet (parliament) that some foreign newspapers "are trying quite wrongly to make it seem as if the Soviet government was rejecting" Eisenhower's proposals, made July 21 at the Geneva summit conference.

In the Supreme Soviet session at the Kremlin, translators appeared to understand Bulganin to say "the foreign press misunderstood" his references Thursday to the Eisenhower plan as a Soviet rejection.

THE SOVIET LEADERS also were apparently distressed to learn that Western reporters in the Kremlin galleries recorded the fact parliament members laughed when Bulganin said both the United States and Soviet Russia "comprise vast areas on which, if it were desired, one could hide anything one wanted to." Aerial photography of military installations, as proposed by Eisenhower, "cannot provide the expected results," Bulganin said he told the United States in the Geneva talks.

Laughter is rare in the Kremlin. And Eisenhower's quick comeback in a news conference in Washington Thursday—when he said he did not think the Soviet Union had closed the doors on the U. S. disarmament proposals—apparently awakened the Soviet chiefs to the alertness of world opinion on such a delicate subject as disarmament, which is no laughing matter. The U. S. Embassy said Ambassador Charles P. Bohlen planned to attend Bulganin's Sunday party, taking Mrs. Bohlen and their oldest daughter. C. C. Parrott, British chargé d'affaires, plans to take his family. Virtually everybody else invited on an ambassadorial or ministerial level is going. Westerners noted, meantime, the velvet carpet treatment for two groups of Yugoslavs now touring the country. A Yugoslav parliamentary delegation is getting the best of everything.

Hundreds Die in Red Prison, Say Returnees

VOESLAU, Austria (AP)—Seventy-three Austrian prisoners sent home by the Russians Saturday reported hundreds of slave laborers were killed in a fight with Soviet troops last year.

The Austrians said the clashes occurred in camps of the Karaganda region of Central Asia after thousands of the laborers, including Russians, rioted against living conditions they deemed unbearable. The laborers were reported finally beaten by Soviet tanks and guns.

The returning Austrians also said the Russians are speeding up preparations for the release of most of their German and Japanese prisoners.

Pony Takes Bite of Flowers Held by British Queen

BRECON, Wales (AP)—A committee of loyal Welshmen, bowing low, gave visiting Queen Elizabeth a gorgeous bouquet of carnations and jasmine Saturday. A 9-year-old pony named Owain Glyndwr reached over and took a bite out of the flowers, which the Queen held in the bend of her elbow.

The Queen didn't seem to be alarmed and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, walked over and rubbed Owain Glyndwr's ears. He was uncomfortable.

Russia Aims for Tourists ---Bulganin

MOSCOW (AP)—Tourists—the foreign kind—have become front-page news in the Soviet Union for the first time since World War II.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin told the Supreme Soviet this week he personally is going to promote the tourist business in the interest of East-West relations.

FEUDING IN WEST VIRGINIA

Shotguns, Slabs, Fists Fly in Family Duel

PINEVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—It all started when the McMills and the Browns ran into each other and decided to see "which one could get whipped." Their fists gave way to wood slabs and rocks and finally shotguns. There were two casualties on each side. That was Friday.

The whole lot of them, 11 in all—seven McMills, three Browns, plus an AWOL Marine—spent the night in Sheriff Paul Goode's Wyoming county jail.

Saturday in Magistrate Jack Tizzino's court, each was fined $10 for "fighting." The hearing lasted three hours and drew 300 neighbors.

The state agreed to drop felony charges—shooting a gun across a state highway—after the families agreed to keep to their sides of the Jesse-Ravenscliff Rd. They live about 200 yards apart, on either side of the road here in the mountains near the southern tip of West Virginia.

All the Browns paid their fines and got out of jail.

GEORGE McMILLON, Floyd McMillon and Donald McMillon, 18, couldn't pay and had to stay in jail along with the Dove brothers, Carl, 22, and Oran, 20. They live with their grandpa, Bill, the 83-year-old head of the McMills.

Others of the feuding who got out, with approximate ages, included Alderson McMillon, 60; James Brown, 11; Homer McMillon, 40, and Geraldine McMillon, 22.

Deputy Sheriff Dennis Acord Jr. told the judge Floyd McMillon had been drinking and apparently set off the fuse. "Carl Dove and Theodore Brown were standing in the road with Floyd," Acord said. "Floyd was egging them up to fight and see which one would get whipped. They started into it and everybody else came in."

First they just used their fists, he said. Then they turned to wooden slabs left along the road from logging operations. Some threw rocks and there was a shotgun on each side of the road.

THEODORE BROWN, 23, and his 18-year-old wife were early casualties, each having been hit with shotgun pellets. Floyd McMillon had eight to 10 shotgun pellets under his skin.

But Sheriff Goode said the all started when the McMills and the Browns ran into each other and decided to see "which one could get whipped." Their fists gave way to wood slabs and rocks and finally shotguns. There were two casualties on each side. That was Friday.

Early reports had George McMillon with a broken jaw. But Deputy Acord said "he just got a good whippin'—black eye and busted nose."

Acord said Acy Cox, the Marine, turned out to be AWOL from a camp somewhere and was picked up by military authorities.

"That's the third time I've caught him AWOL," Acord said. Grandfather McMillon complained it was the first time he'd ever been in jail.

"Give me back 50 years," he said, "and I could whip the whole damned bunch."

Blind Lawyer Wins Award From Vets

NEW YORK (AP)—The Blinded Veterans Assn. Saturday presented its 1955 achievement award to a 37-year-old former Marine who has become a lawyer and a member of the Texas House of Representatives since he was blinded at Tarawa in World War II.

Criss Cole, Houston, Tex., received the award and $100 at the closing banquet of the association's 10th annual convention.

Cole was blinded in 1943. After being released from a hospital, he married Joanne Spica, studied law and was admitted to the bar. He won election to the Texas Legislature without a campaign or financial backing last year.

Despite the fact he is blind, Cole enjoys fishing and horseback riding and takes his two young sons on picnics and to the zoo.

Standard Oil Pact Questioned in Argentina

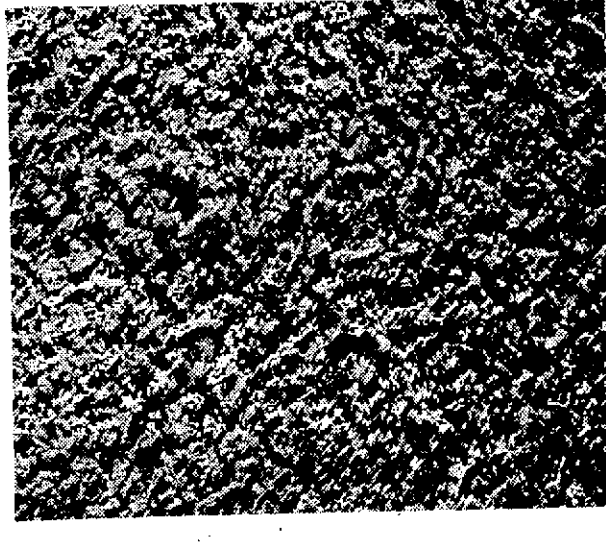

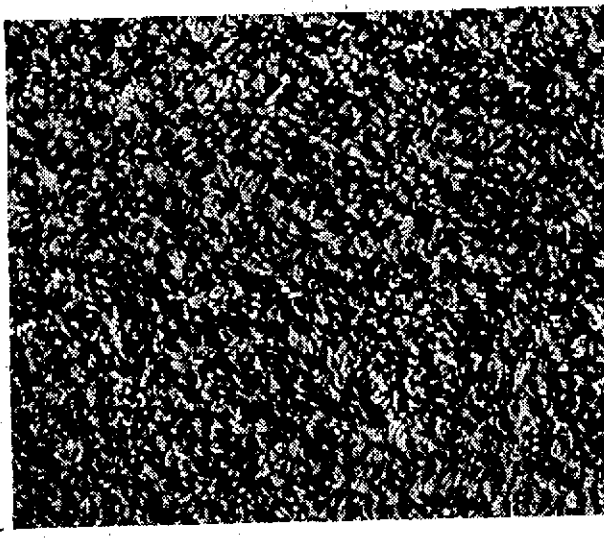

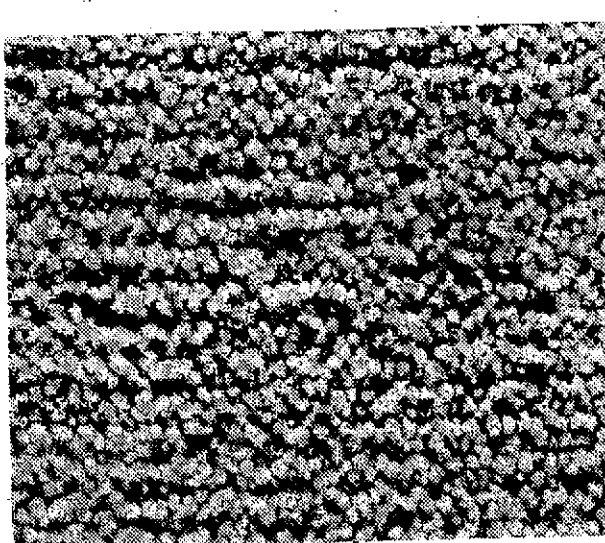

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A radical (opposition) congressman Saturday demanded confirmation or denial of reports the government has signed a contract giving Standard Oil of New Jersey a 40-year development concession in Neuquen Province.

Rodolfo Weidmann asked whether it is true the government is keeping the deal quiet until Congress has acted on the concession known to have been granted Standard Oil of California for oil exploration in Santa Cruz Province.

Boatmen OK $40 a Ton Cut in Tuna Price

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

SAN PEDRO—Owners of purse seine boats here Saturday agreed to take a $40 per ton cut in tuna prices, but the issue remained in doubt with other elements of the harbor's troubled fishing fleet.

Mason Case, manager of the San Pedro Fishermen's Cooperative Assn., that represents the 150 purse seine boats said the price was agreed to "reluctantly" at a meeting of the boat owners Saturday afternoon.

This decision, however, far from settles the purse seine fleet's tuna problem since at least one of the two unions whose men work on the boats appeared reluctant to accept wages based on the lower prices.

"We just can't make a living that way," stated Anthony Sokolich, secretary of the ILWU fishermen's union. "It would mean that our men are taking a $450 per trip cut since last year. That's too big a nut to crack. We have a contract effective until Jan. 1 and we expect it to remain in force."

MEANWHILE OPERATORS of hundreds of small troll boats that fish for albacore met Saturday night without reaching a decision.

Peter Repovich, head of the California Commercial Fishermen's Assn., which represents the troll boat operators in this area, said most of the members will journey to San Diego today for a mass meeting of all the Southern California albacore fishermen.

Case was pessimistic about the chances of many of the purse fleet sailing in the near future.

"We were forced into accepting the price cut by other segments of the industry," said Case, apparently referring to a settlement by boat operators in San Diego earlier in the week.

"It is doubtful if many of our men can continue to make a living under the new price structure."

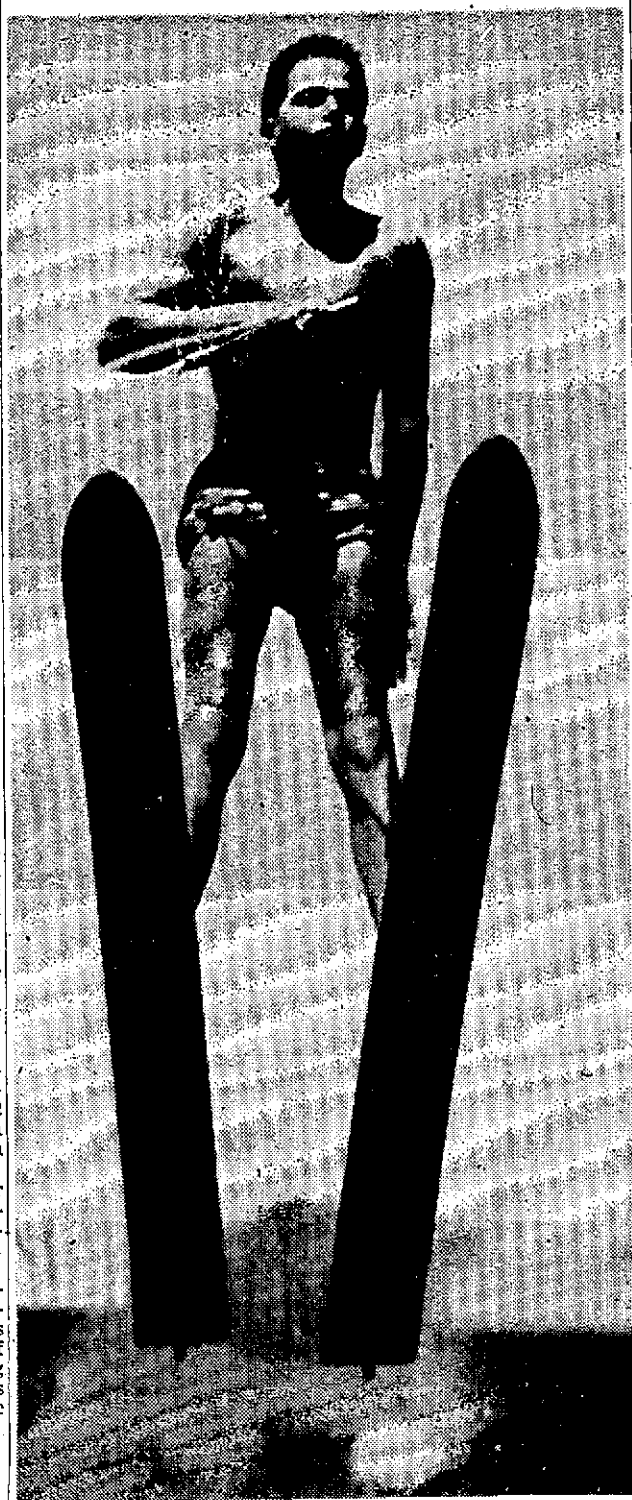

CASE AND REPOVICH bitterly assailed the State Department for its opposition to efforts to impose a quota on the flood of Japanese tuna that is cutting into the American fishermen's market and causing the price cuts.

Repovich said the canners were not giving his men a "fair shake," under the impression that they are not well organized.

"They want us to sell our fish for less than yellow fin, considering the better yield and quality of our product."

He said the albacore fishermen were considering the possibility of taking "legal steps" against the U. S. government but would not elaborate on this.

Recent winner of Pacific Coast junior skiing championship, Chucky Stearns, 16, of Long Beach, has entered Aqua Fair competition slated here Friday through Sunday. Chucky set a record in leap of 77 feet 6 inches at Seattle last week end.

Long Beach will become the water sports capital of the Southland in the second annual Aqua Fair this week, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Spectacular events, in which sportsmen of all ages and from all areas of Southern California will participate, will include a fishing derby, water ski races, sailing regatta, model boat competition, diving meet, water ski shows and an outboard motor race. Events will be free to the public.

The schedule:

TODAY
12:01 a.m. to 8 p.m.—King Neptune Fishing Derby in the Pacific Ocean. Anglers leave from Pierpoint Sport Fishing Landing.

Food Preservation

CHICAGO (AP)—Argonne National Laboratory Saturday began experiments to determine the feasibility of preserving food by bombarding it with radioactive gamma rays.

The facility uses highly radioactive uranium fuel elements. One of the first users of the new facility will be the army quartermaster corps.

Boat Loses Prop, Pair Drift Hour

A Long Beach man and his companion floated helplessly Saturday evening in their disabled 20-foot speedboat in the Los Angeles River Flood Control Channel for nearly an hour before their rescue by a passing craft.

Nelson Thomas, 39, of 170 Gordon St., told authorities he bought the boat Wednesday for $2,000 and decided to give it a "speed test" Saturday in the channel.

With him was a friend, Hans Haller, 43, of Los Angeles.

The boat, traveling at a "pretty good clip," hit shallow water south of Sixth St., scraping over a submerged mud bank which tore off the propeller and caused a bad leak around the shaft housing.

The two men used a wadded up shirt to slow the leak.

They drifted in the channel until Joe Lefay, 18, of Los Angeles in his 12-foot outboard motor boat, the Nutshell, happened by and towed them back to the Golden Ave. boat launching ramp.

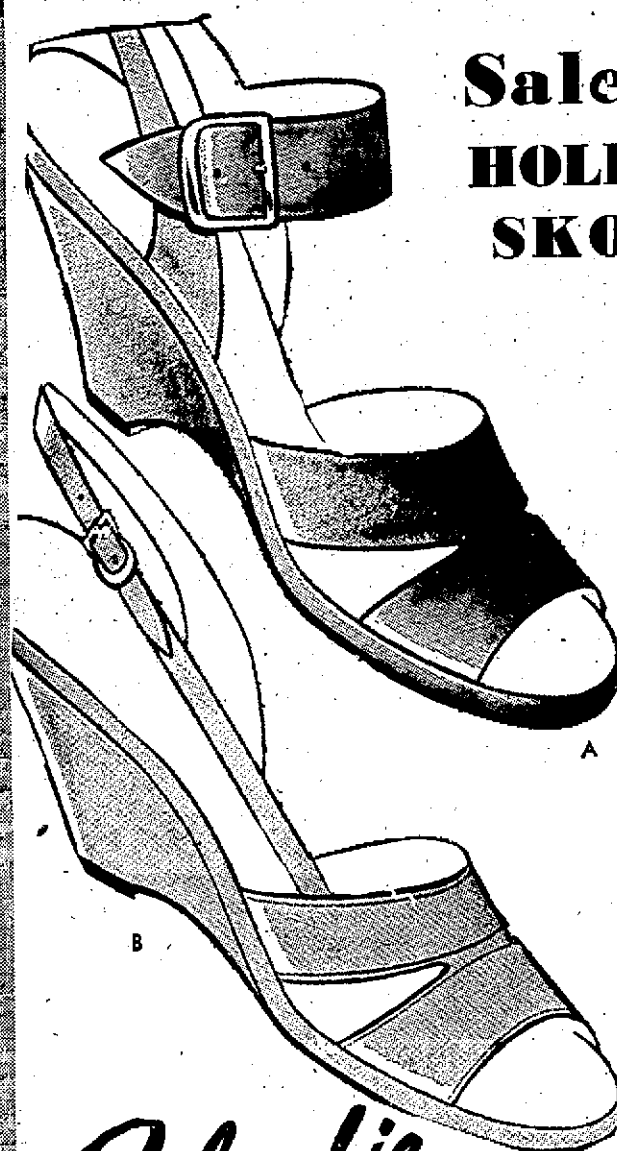

Whittier Wife Killed, Husband Hurt in Crash

NORWALK—A Whittier woman was killed and her husband critically injured Saturday afternoon when their car collided with another auto at Artesia Blvd. and Carmonita Rd.

Mrs. Christine Petty, 54, of 13239 Leffingwell Rd., was dead on arrival at Carobol Hospital. Her husband, Charles A. Petty, 56, suffered grave internal injuries.

California Highway Patrol officers said the car driven by Petty collided with one operated by Wayne W. Stevens, 31, of 330 Cummings Lane, Long Beach. Stevens was treated for contusions and abrasions.

Governors to Confer on Road Safety

CHICAGO (AP)—Highway safety and problems of road-building are expected to highlight discussions at the 47th annual governors' conference opening here Tuesday.

At the latest count 46 state governors—25 Democrats and 21 Republicans—are scheduled to attend, along with the governors of Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

Aides said Democratic Govs. Orville Friesman of Minnesota and Hugh White of Mississippi definitely will not attend. Republican Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts is scheduled to attend, but may be held by a legislative session.

Conference officials had hoped President Eisenhower would be able to come to address the meeting on Thursday, but the Chief Executive said he had no plans to make the trip.

Chief item on the agenda will be a discussion of highway safety.

Esperanto Appeal

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP)—The world's Esperanto enthusiasts appealed to all governments Saturday to teach the international language in their schools.

The appeal came on a motion passed by the Esperanto congress meeting here. It was backed by 1,700 delegates from 36 nations.

HAPPY'S OPPONENT CASTS BALLOT

Sweet Adelines Slate Songfest Here Sept. 10

LONG BEACH—When they open their mouths, these girls mean melody and the "Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc."

The Sweet Adelines, Inc., of Long Beach, comprising 38 harmony-minded lassies, will be playing hostess at the Lafayette Hotel Sept. 10 for the South-Western District Region 11 Convention of Adelines.

Choral groups from Phoenix and Tucson will compete in a tonsil-tattle with such California groups as San Diego, Bakersfield, Downey, Pasadena, Arcadia and Riverside.

"DARK HORSE" winner of the first event, held last year, which makes them ineligible to compete this year, the local chorus is under the direction of Bob Moffitt, one of the original Gaylords of the popular men's quartet, who has much radio, television, vaudeville and movie experience.

As hostess chapter, the Long Beach Sweet Adelines will have Georgia Orman of Santa Monica as mistress of ceremonies for programs to be held at Poly High School, where sing-offs will begin at 8 p.m.

HEADQUARTERS will be the Lafayette Hotel for general meetings, with a Saturday night banquet and a Sunday morning breakfast for all participants, according to Mrs. Iris Hultz of Lomita, press chairman for the group.

Guest artists to appear on the program are "The Four Bits of Harmony," "The Crown City Four," and other top talent.

Members from Lomita are Mmes. Mimi Blakesley, Winoni Tait, Iris Hultz, Gazella Scott, Fern McCann, Charlotte Warren and Elva Decker, Wilmingtonites are Sylvia Shideler and Olea Brown.

U.S. Plans to Save Boston-Area Shrines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government will begin a study soon to determine whether to launch a program to preserve outstanding historic shrines in and around Boston.

The first step will be for a seven-man group, to be known as the Boston Historic Sites Commission, to start cataloging important sites. Members of the commission still are to be chosen.

Hunt for Sutton Informer Killer Leads to Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, (AP)—A three-year global search for the slayer of the Brooklyn, N. Y., pants salesman who "fingered" bank robber Willie (The Actor) Sutton centered on Australia Saturday with a report that the "key" man in the case has taken refuge in the Sydney underworld.

Special detectives, prepared to cope with a dangerous criminal, searched for a swarthy, scar-faced, heavily-armed waterfront hoodlum believed to be John (Chappy) Mazziotta, 39, described by New York police as their city's "No. 1 criminal."

Mazziotta is wanted in the still unsolved slaying of 24-year-old Arnold Schuster, who was shot down from ambush on a sidewalk near his Brooklyn home March 8, 1952, 10 days after he had tipped police off to Sutton's whereabouts.

Sutton was in jail the night Schuster was killed and disclaimed any knowledge of the slaying.

But police, after a thorough investigation, determined that Mazziotta was the last man known to have handled the stolen .38 caliber army revolver that killed Schuster.

"If Mazziotta didn't kill Schuster, he knows who did," one New York detective said.

Shortly after police put Mazziotta's name at the top of their suspect list, they began a global search for him. More than 60,000 circulars were sent to police throughout the world in the spring of 1952. An additional 40,000 were circulated in the summer of 1953.

Thousands of Red Police Seek 5 Poles

BERLIN (AP)—"Several thousand" Communist police have been thrown into a gigantic search for five Polish air force men who deserted 10 days ago and are attempting to escape to the west, a West Berlin intelligence organization reported Saturday.

The "Investigation Committee of Free Jurists" said the Poles fled a Polish air base near Stettin armed with sub-machine guns.

DOC SAID: 'DIET OR DIE'
As a 555-pound circus fat lady, Mrs. Celesta Geyer was billed as "Dolly Dimples." Then the doctor issued a warning. Mrs. Geyer lost 410 pounds in a year. Now she's Madam Celest, palmist, in Orlando, Fla., and has written a book about her startling slenderizing. —(AP Photo)

CON STARTS ALARM BY SLEEPING

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — A sleepy prisoner caused a false escape alarm at the state prison Friday night. The alarm was broadcast when 22-year-old Emmett Hickley of Fallon failed to report for the customary bed check. But it developed that Hickley already had fallen asleep-out in the prison yard.

Space Flights Reality, Says Science Group Head

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Every-body has stopped kidding about space flights, the American president of the Sixth International Astronautical Congress said Saturday. "This is the first time I have attended an astronautical congress without reporters asking 'What do you think of flying saucers?'" said Frederick Durant III, a rocket researcher and executive with the Cambridge, Mass., firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc. Durant said this absence of flying saucer ribbing and jocular references to space men in general gratifies him. Durant said this is proof that the public now takes space flight plans seriously and no longer regards them as on the level of science fiction. He said Massachusetts Institute of Technology is even carrying in its fall catalog history's first listing of a special course in "orbital vehicles." Durant said "tremendous development has already started" first of all boosted by President Eisenhower's recent announce-ment of the satellite project, but then by this congress. "It has meant a great step forward and certainly has been the most successful so far in the history of the federation," he said. The congress ended Saturday. Besides MIT, space flight research is being carried out at California Institute of Technology, Princeton University's Forrestal research center, Purdue University, and "a great many other universities," Durant said. The satellite project would now be carried out as a "tri-nautics" program with Army, Navy and Air Force participating, he said. "A very important thing," he added, "is the clear statement from Washington that technical information about the satellite itself, as well as of its orbital path, will be released in sufficient time to all those interested in the orbital program." Russia's Prof. Leonid Ivanovich Sedov of the University of Moscow agreed with Durant that the coming years would see swift progress in research on astro-nautics.

Escapes Under Shade, Now Fights Extradition

DOTHAN, Ala. (AP)—Probably the only prisoner to escape a prison work gang by sitting under a shade tree is fighting extradition from his jail cell at Dothan.

John Lloyd Bedsole, 34, of Dothan, says he didn't escape from a group of prisoners repairing a Florida highway. He says Florida authorities lost their jurisdiction over him when the prisoners crossed briefly over into Alabama.

Bedsole, serving a six-month sentence for highway drunkenness, said the guards worked the group of prisoners up to the Alabama line and called a rest period. They selected a shade tree which happened to be just across the state line.

When the rest period was up, Bedsole refused to budge. He told the guards they couldn't touch him.

The guards notified County Commissioner T. W. Patrick of Malone, Fla., who threatened to charge Bedsole with theft of his prison uniform if he didn't return.

Bedsole said the only thing he had that belonged to Florida was his shoes. He tossed them across the state line. The guards didn't take Bedsole back.

Baby Picket Action Fails

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—A "diaper" picket line of 500 babies appeared Saturday to have failed in its attempt to keep a favorite doctor from leaving here.

Directors of Grandview Clinic declined to release Dr. Everett Gustafson from a contract clause which prohibits him from practicing here within three years of his resignation. He resigned July 1.

A number of babies, aged 1 to 3, carried signs in a picket line Thursday, advertising that "We Want Gus" and "Clinic Unfair to Dr. Gus."

Mothers who signed a petition indicated they would let the matter drop.

CITY OFFICIAL SHOWS UP IN SHORTS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jasper R. Vettori, first associate prosecuting attorney emboldened by an official plug for Bermuda shorts, showed up in a pair of them today at his office.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker recently suggested to the police chief that traffic policemen be outfitted with Bermuda shorts for summer duty—a proposal most of the traffic cops gave a cool reception.

Vettori, resplendent in shorts and colorful sports shirt, explained his attire by saying it was hot and "the police department wanted some public official to break the ice."

Police Quiz Abbott Again on Slaying

OAKLAND (AP)—Berkeley police briefly resumed their questioning of Burton Abbott Saturday but refused to tell what information they were seeking.

Charles O'Meara, Berkeley police inspector, said only that "I talked to him for half an hour but he refused to tell me what I wanted to know. It was strictly a one-way conversation. He said his attorneys had told him to answer no questions."

Abbott, a 27-year-old University of California student, is charged with kidnapping and murdering Stephanie Bryant, 14.

Flood Hits Albuquerque; 500 Homeless

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A one-inch downpour sent flash floods "running through the windows" of homes in northeast Albuquerque Saturday for the fourth time in 10 days.

Police said Saturday's floods were the worst of the series. Some 500 persons or more were chased from their homes.

The raging floodwater boiled down from the nearby Sandia Mountains, swept down Bear Canyon and then coursed a half-mile wide route through residential areas for some two miles.

One whole section of about 15 square blocks was isolated as city authorities called out personnel from two military bases.

EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT NOW

Holly McMenamin, 6, gives her mother, Mrs. J. Thomas Taggart, a big hug Saturday after Holly flew to Oklahoma City from Philadelphia. The girl has been the object of a bitter court fight between her mother and father, James McMenamin, who are divorced. After Holly was taken to Philadelphia last Wednesday by her father, a charge of child-stealing was filed against him, but officials later said the charge would be dropped.—(AP Wirephoto)

Buried Gold Stirs Two Texas Cities

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Police officials in at least two Texas cities alerted squads Saturday night to prevent possible digging for buried gold in a cemetery and a churchyard.

There was no sign of treasure hunters after an aged Mexican spinster in California disclosed details of where Pancho Villa, the Mexican revolutionary leader and bandit, supposedly buried $1,500,000 worth of gold coins in Texas.

She named an old cemetery at Corpus Christi, "beside a high wall" that runs around a church in San Antonio, areas around Robstown and Roma, Tex., and on a ranch near a town she called Cienita. There is no Cienita, Tex., listed.

The woman is Dolores Vasquez, 76, who lives at Brawley, Calif., near El Centro. She said she was a nurse in Villa's army.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S office at El Centro took a deposition from the elderly woman.

She said one cache is in "the oldest cemetery in Corpus Christi." There is a cemetery there known as Old Bayview which dates back to Civil War days.

Corpus Christi police kept a patrol car cruising in the area of the old cemetery. San Antonio police also were alerted but said there was no rush to dig yet.

Policeman Routs 3 Youths Who Attacked Him in Alley

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A his two companions had consumed "five or six beers apiece" too fast on the draw Saturday for three beer-drinking youths who attacked him in a dark alley without provocation.

The patrolman, 23-year-old John J. Lynch, was attacked by three youths who had been drinking beer in Lansing taverns for more than three hours.

As Lynch was rushed by the three, he drew his service pistol and felled two of them with bullets. The third ran but was soon caught.

Lynch critically wounded Morris Melton of Lansing with a shot that struck him in the left side. Donald McClellan, also of Lansing, was hospitalized in fair condition with a bullet wound in the stomach and left wrist.

The patrolman's third attacker was identified as a soldier, Donald R. Melton, a cousin of Morris Melton who was home on furlough. The soldier fled the scene but was arrested later. He had been shot through the left forearm.

The soldier said that he and

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Lloyd E. Milano, 18, an employee of San Rafael Ferry, was killed early Saturday by a California Highway Patrol car which was hurrying to the scene of an accident. Patrolman Adolpho Siri, 34, said he was unable to avoid hitting Milano, who ran in front of his vehicle.

Guild Hopes Early End of TV Dispute

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Screen Actors Guild said Saturday it hoped that producers of most television filmed shows would agree to confer early this week to settle the strike by 10,000 guild members.

The members went on strike early Friday against the producers mainly over payment to actors of second showings of TV films in which they appear.

Will Susan Learn to Read?

Sight-Sound System Supported in Survey

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP News Features Writer

This fall another tremendous crop of youngsters—some 3,600,000—will be planted in the nation's first grade.

In no time at all, they are sure, they will be able to read.

But all over the country there are critics who insist they won't. They say that modern reading theories are on the wrong track, that other basic studies have been neglected and that the high school graduate of today is far behind graduates of 30 years ago.

A few sample criticisms:

A New York editor: "My nephew's a smart boy, a high school graduate with two years

G-H-O-Y-I SPELLS FISH? YES, MA'AM

George Bernard Shaw was a caustic critic of spelling absurdities in the English language.

He once announced that "fish" could be spelled g-h-o-y-i.

Here is how the great author's reasoning went:

Pronounce the "gh" as in "enough," the "o" as in "women," the "i" as in "nation."

And fish it is.

in the Coast Guard. I wish you could have seen the letter he wrote me. Good Lord, he's illiterate!

An electronics supervisor: "We had a skyrocket here. I mean, he was one of the best. But on written reports he couldn't spell the simplest words. Take 'electronic engineer,' which is what he is. I suppose it's too much to expect him to spell 'electronic,' but wouldn't you think a college man could spell 'engineer'?"

Mostly today's criticism seems to center about the way reading is, or isn't, taught.

As one parent puts it: "Show my child a strange word, and even though it's a simple one, she has no idea how to pronounce it. We haven't had that word yet," she says.

THIS YEAR more than 10 billion dollars will be spent on elementary and high school education in this country.

Are we getting our money's worth? Or is this a pedagogical swindle in which we are alarmingly shortchanged?

To get some answers, Associated Press reporters have interviewed college presidents, psychologists, grade school teachers, parents, remedial reading instructors and assorted experts from coast to coast.

Their opinions on today's schools vary from "terrible" to "splendid." But the majority—from such cities as Chicago, Atlanta, Denver, Louisville, Seattle and a dozen others—insists that today's youngsters read better, and understand much more, than their parents did.

To get an idea of the school's viewpoint, let's take the case of Susan, a going-on-6-year-old resident of Fairfax County, Va.

Susan has merry blue eyes, a pony tail and two missing front teeth. She can hang by her knees, sing all the verses of "Davy Crockett" and print her name in the S-A-S-N or N-A-S-U-S. "Sometimes I print it backwards," she explains, "because I like it better that way."

Fairfax is a part rural, part metropolitan county across the river from Washington. It appears to have a typical school system with all the current problems: overcrowding, difficulty in finding topflight teachers and a constantly shifting population. Like most schools today, it tries to steer a course between the progressive and fundamental styles of instruction.

WHAT'S IN STORE for bright-eyed Susan?

How quickly she starts to read will depend on what educators call "reading readiness." They compare this with learning to walk. Some learn to walk at 11 months and others at 20 months, but the early walker won't necessarily be the better one.

Right off, we run into criticism. Some contend that this is a scholastic boondoggle, that a child goes to school to learn to read, so why not cut out the pretty blocks stuff and start teaching him?

Be E. M. Day, for 29 years a teacher and elementary school principal in Fairfax, insists that hurrying a child in his reading can be a major blunder.

"Time after time," he says, "we find that a youngster has been forced to read too soon. He gets off on the wrong foot and becomes discouraged. I'd say it is one of the main reasons for failure."

It will take a series of tests to show when Susan is ready to read.

Is she ready physically? Has she seen, heard and done things that will give her a better understanding of the words she is given? Can she follow directions? If the answer to these and similar questions is yes, she soon should have a reading vocabulary of 50 or more words, words she can see and recognize.

By this time she should have caught on to the fact that letters and sounds often go together, that "Susan" and "she" both begin with an "s."

Susan now is ready for a more serious application of phonics, or speech sounds, and we are ready to look at one of the bitterest disputes in the whole reading problem.

A HIGHLY VOCAL school of thought insists that phonics should be stressed far more in teaching children to read.

Its most recent spokesman has been Dr. Rudolf Flesch, author of "Why Johnny Can't Read." Said Flesch:

"The teaching of reading—all over the United States, in all the schools, in all textbooks—is totally wrong and flies in the face of all logic and common sense."

To this the educators, almost to a man, not only cry, "Not guilty!" but in return accuse Flesch of misrepresenting the facts.

Far from ignoring phonics, teachers say they are an essential part of every school reading program right now.

About a century ago a shift was made in teaching reading. Children were given phonograms, or combinations of letters like "th," "ck," "st," "ba," "ca," "da," to sound out. Often many weeks would be spent in drilling on those unrelated phonograms before any serious attempt was made to teach reading.

But once the reading began, it was thought, the child would go more rapidly. If he hit a strange word, all he had to do was to sound it out.

Almost everyone in this country who is more than 35 years old was trained under this system.

In the 1920s it was decided sounding out words made slow readers, often readers who did not comprehend what they read.

So educators began turning to sight reading, or, if you prefer Flesch's viewpoint, "word guessing."

Here the children were introduced gradually to 50 or 100 basic words, to be recognized on sight, before any training in phonics was given.

Under this system, it was believed, a youngster would read faster, and would more readily pick up a strange word from its context in the sentence.

Some schoolmen say it may be that sight reading was carried too far. But now, they say, nearly all schools use a blend of phonics and sight reading.

BUT WHY NOT stress phonics? Suppose the youngsters do read more slowly, wouldn't they be more sure of themselves? And wouldn't they spell better?

Most educators say no. And high on their list of reasons is the disorderly English language itself.

Its words are a glorious hodge-podge of Teutonic, Latin, Greek and heaven knows what origin. Anyone trying to walk the straight phonetic line soon runs into words pronounced alike and spelled differently: "there" and "their," "one" and "won," "to," "two" and "too."

In the major school systems checked by the Associated Press, all schools use the same ingredients, phonics and sight reading. The difference is in how much of each ingredient to put in—and when.

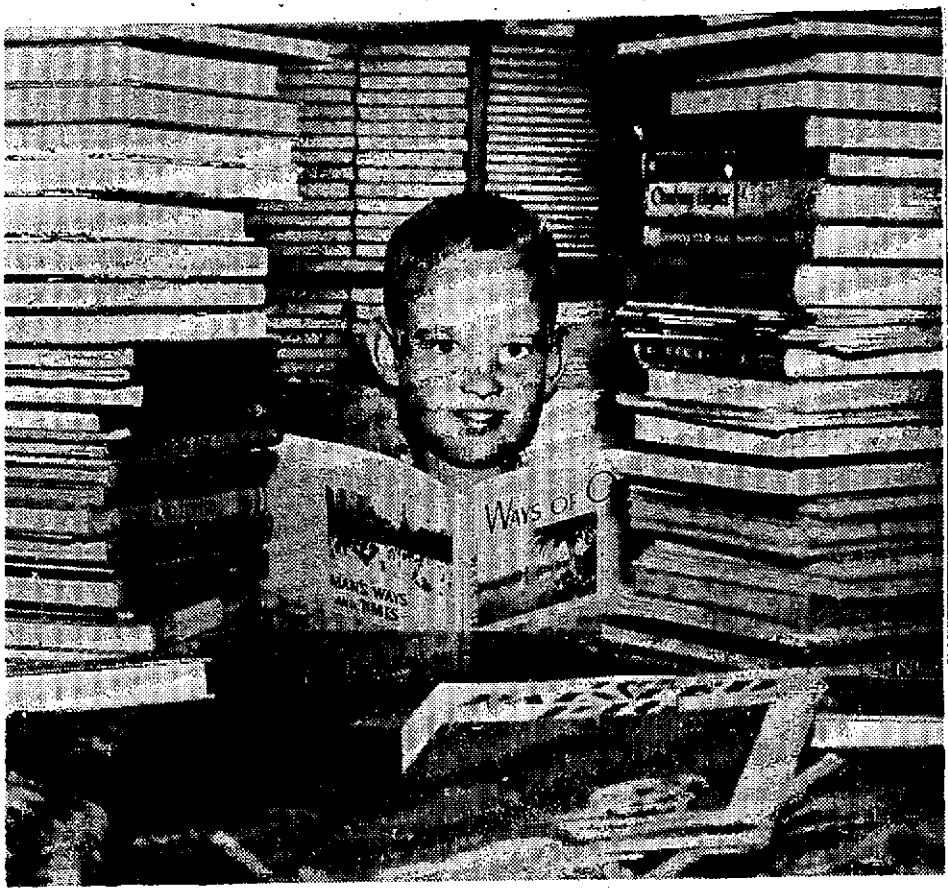

The Los Angeles recipe, as given by Ellis Jarvis, deputy superintendent:

"Reading is taught by a sight-phonetic method. However, we feel that phonetics is merely a tool in the teaching of reading. The sight method receives the emphasis, although both are used."

"Boston," says its superintendent, Dennis C. Haley, "basically follows the phonetic system, with some sight thrown in when it is felt it can be used. Certain words can be grasped by sight, but the fundamental method is the traditional phonetic."

All these disputes, though, fly far over the heads of Susan and her 3,599,999 fellow first graders. If all goes well, at the end of the school year Susan should be figuring out words for herself.

Not all children will do so well. Many will have trouble in the first grade. Others—and Susan

BILLY'S HERE SOMEWHERE

Bill Johnston, 9, of 1933 Fandwood Ave. eyes some of the books he'll read next school year as a fourth grader at Minnie Gant School. Long Beach Unified School District, Supt. Douglas A. Newcomb reports, stresses both phonetics and sight reading in its "middle course" program. "Reading is the most important of the basic skills," Newcomb says. "That is the reason we emphasize mastery of reading skills in our schools."—(Staff Photo) may be among them—will falter along about the fourth grade. Some will show weaknesses when they reach high school, others even in college.

CRITICS OF TODAY'S SCHOOLS point to these failures as evidence that training in fundamentals, and particularly in reading, is inadequate. Many of them believe the schools did the job better in the good old days.

"The schools ain't what they used to be," Will Rogers once said, "and probably never was."

Defenders of the present system agree with Rogers. They say it's easy to forget that a generation ago only the better students finished high school.

The National Education Assn. says:

"Many studies show that the present-day groups average as high, and usually higher, on the same tests given at the same grade levels as the pupils of 30 or more years ago."

Yet there are failures, and some dismal ones.

Because Fairfax County has its share, a special remedial reading program has been set up under the chairmanship of Juanita S. Murrow.

Take the baffling case of Johnny.

"He has upchucked every single morning," Mrs. Murrow said. "I don't know what the problem is. I do know that even over the phone his mother appears strained and worried."

"Obviously this is too much for us to solve. I don't know whether he can't read because he's disturbed mentally, or whether he upchucks because he isn't able to read."

THIS BRINGS US to a curious fact: Far more boys than girls have trouble reading.

"In my remedial reading classes this summer," Mrs. Murrow said, "I had 28 boys and only two girls. I don't know why. Certainly little boys are as smart, maybe smarter, than little girls. But they have so many important things to take care of. They just don't have time to fool around with reading."

Nearly every expert, and almost every teacher, stresses the part the home plays in helping, or hindering, a child in learning to read.

Many experts say children who are read to regularly, in homes where reading is a part of daily living, rarely have trouble.

How many reading failures are there? No one knows for sure. A Chicago high school principal estimates that 15 per cent

she understands her work and she really loves her boys and girls, those boys and girls are going to learn to read."

CAN HE HEAR?

5 Pointers on Reading

WASHINGTON (AP)—For parents anxious for their youngsters to read, and read well, here are a few suggestions from a remedial reading teacher, Juanita S. Murrow:

1. Make sure he has good vision and good hearing. Hearing defects, especially, are often overlooked.
2. Get him to bed early. "Youngsters are always coming to school half asleep."
3. Get him up in time so that he can have a good breakfast and get off to school without being rushed.
4. Teach him to enjoy literature. "I'm a great believer in reading to children. All types of reading. Nursery rhymes, stories, factual pieces."
5. Give him the best home environment possible. "A child," Mrs. Murrow says, "should feel secure and loved."

Farmers Warned to Be Careful

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Farmers were cautioned by the State Agriculture Department Saturday to follow directions on the labels of pesticides they apply to food crops.

Failure to do so, said Allen B. Lemmon, chief of the department's chemistry bureau, may injure human beings or livestock.

Insects might also go unharmed, he said, and plants may be damaged.

Lemmon cautioned particularly against using heavier than recommended strengths, repeating applications more often than recommended and applying closer to harvest time than advised.

DR. CHAN SAYS: NO LONGER MUST YOU SUFFER FROM High Blood Pressure — Eczema Diabetes — Bad Heart — Asthma

For the past two generations, the offices of Dr. Chan, D.C., located at 928 American Avenue, have had outstanding results in treating chronic ailments such as ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS, RHEUMATISM, HIGH OR LOW BLOOD PRESSURE, HEART TROUBLE, STOMACH OR LIVER DISORDERS, KIDNEY OR BLADDER AILMENTS OR A GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION. Men and women from all walks of life come to take these treatments because other methods of healing have failed to help them. Many have spent a fortune in seeking cure before they try this simple, effective natural method of Dr. Chan. Our patients tell us that they wish they had known of our wonderful treatments sooner so that their suffering could have been avoided.

READ THESE AMAZING TESTIMONIALS!

Dear Mr. Chan: "The day I came to your office with my mother and brother I was about to give up hope of getting rid of my asthma attacks. I spent hundreds of dollars for shots and pills but yet found no results. After reading your advertisement, I took you for my last resort, and was surprised to find that . . . responded wonderfully. After the first treatment I was able to breathe normally and could sleep better for the first time in months. Now I am feeling fine and hoping others will benefit from my experience with Dr. Chan's Natural Method." signed Mrs. Vivian Murray.

To Whom It May Concern: "Five years ago I was badly afflicted with neuritis on my shoulders and extremities. My hands and knees were so badly swollen that I could hardly use them. I wasn't able to raise my arms above the shoulders. I was told by several doctors that they have done all they could for me and that . . . no longer will be able to work again. Finally a friend referred me to try Dr. Chan's Herbal Therapy. After the first week . . . felt much improved and the fourth week found me walking much easier with the pain in my shoulders disappearing; my hands returned to normal and I had use of them once more. . . cannot too highly recommend Dr. Chan to anyone who is ill." signed, E. H. Irving.

NEW DUDS FOR AIRMAN SCHMIDT

Airman 2/C Daniel C. Schmidt, of Redding, Calif., adjusts belt of new suntan uniform at Hong Kong Jockey Club after crossing border to freedom. His wife, Una, 20, remarried while he was a prisoner, thinking he was dead. Air Force released this picture Saturday.—(AP Wirephoto)

Freed AF Colonel Tells of Torture, Breaks Down

TOKYO (Sunday) (AP)—Col. John Knox Arnold Jr. today said Chinese Reds had subjected him to "persuasion that civilized people simply do not know about" in efforts to make him confess to spy charges.

Arnold broke down at a news conference and Air Force officers asked newsmen not to pursue questions as to what had happened to him.

Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn, Missoula, Mont., navigator of the B-29 which was on the leaflet-dropping mission to North Korea when it was downed Jan. 12, 1953, said the plane was at least 40 miles south of the Yalu River when it was shot down.

The 11 U.S. fliers freed by Red China from 32 months of imprisonment Saturday began placing their first transpacific telephone calls to loved ones over free circuits provided by the Red Cross.

Saturday night, they had a party.

But most of all, the 11 are looking forward to departure by plane either late Tuesday or Wednesday for a joyous reunion with relatives and loved ones at Travis Air Force Base, north of San Francisco.

One such reunion will be under strange circumstances. Mrs. Una Schmidt-Fine has said she will be on hand to greet Airman 2-C Daniel C. Schmidt, 22, of Redding, Calif., and talk over their "problem." The problem is that she has a 24-year-old son by Schmidt and another husband, Alford Fine, a California logger, whom she wed in the belief Schmidt was dead.

Schmidt attempted to phone his wife today at the Cisco Grove, Calif., address he had clipped from a newspaper but was unable to locate her there.

Schmidt did succeed, however, in reaching his mother, Mrs. Ray Peters, at 1328 Southwest 3rd, St. Portland, Ore. The Red Cross which arranged the call, said Mrs. Peters apparently was surrounded by newsmen when she took the call.

Saturday night's party was one reuniting the fliers with old Air Force and other friends in the Tokyo area.

THE AIR FORCE Saturday started them through rigorous medical and dental examinations, a process expected to require three days.

Despite long months of captivity they were described as "all completely okay physically" by an Air Force medical source.

"They are in amazing condition, although one appears shaken mentally," he added. The source wouldn't elaborate.

10 Dead, Five Near Death in Span Plunge

SEOUL (Sunday) (AP)—A 2½-ton army truck carrying 20 U.S. soldiers to Kimp'o Airport for a gay holiday trip to Japan hurtled through a bridge rail Saturday, dropped 40 feet onto its canvas top and burst into flames.

Ten soldiers died, some in the gasoline-soaked pyre ignited by an exploding tank.

Five were reported in "dangerous" condition and four others were listed as "serious."

The 121st Evacuation Hospital said one of the injured soldiers was scarcely breathing and might die today.

One escaped injury and another was hurt only slightly. These two were believed to be the driver and a hitchhiker who had been picked up just before the truck turned onto the narrow Yangwha bridge between Seoul and Kimp'o.

They were riding in the cab. The 19 soldiers, all with the 24th Division, were riding on benches in the truck bed.

NO CHINESE HELD BY U.S.

Seek Showdown on Reds' Charges

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is demanding a showdown with Red China on its charge that "several thousand" Chinese students in this country have been barred from going home.

U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, who is conferring with Red China's diplomats at Geneva, has asked the Peiping regime to provide a list of the names of any students "being detained."

Johnson acted on instructions from the State Department in an effort to speed up negotiations at Geneva on getting Red China to release 40 American civilians.

President Eisenhower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Johnson have denied categorically that any Chinese are held in the United States against their will. This has not stopped Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, of his Geneva negotiator, Wang Ping-nam, from repeating the complaints.

SO FAR, INFORMANTS said Saturday, Wang has not given Johnson a single name during the Geneva talks to prove the charges. But he may produce a long list when the talks are resumed next week.

The State Department took the position that the talks are in such a delicate stage that it should not comment on them at this time. But the administration is known to be hopeful that the deadlock on Chinese students can be broken soon and release of the 40 civilians realized.

This government will go over any list, provided by Wang to show its sincerity.

Officials believe the Reds are holding up release of the American civilians in hopes of finding some face-saving device on the student issue. The Reds also are believed stalling in hopes of bargaining now for higher-level talks later between Dulles and Chou En-lai. The Red game is viewed here as aimed at eventual U. S. diplomatic recognition and reported Saturday.

taking over Nationalist China's United Nations seat.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT has no comment on reports that Red China considers that it has control over all Chinese nationals in the United States, regardless of whether they are American citizens. But such a claim never will be accepted.

The student problem developed out of Communist seizure of the China mainland and Red China's entry into the Korean War. About 5,000 students were in the United States when the Reds took over. Only 124 were at any time prevented from leaving the United States.

The United States announced on April 2 that the list had been pared to around 80-odd and that 76 of those were free to go home immediately. The remaining few were quickly cleared for departure but about 40 still are in the United States. Some are reported to have changed their minds while others are making final arrangements to leave.

The Reds, according to Geneva reports, are insisting the whole problem be turned over to a third power for investigation.

Nationalist China has denounced any such plan as a sinister attempt by Red China to win some kind of U. S. recognition.

Army Officer Killed

LUNA, N. M. (UP)—Army Lt. James Finnerty, 21, of Glendale, Calif., was killed Friday when his car swerved off U. S. Highway 260 and overturned five miles west of here, authorities reported Saturday.

FUN IN LONG BEACH... East German Version

COUPLES IN CHAINS, YET

Long Beach 'Slaves' Shown in Red Fake

By PAUL FRAME

Apparently stirred by our favorable publicity in the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant, Russian propagandists have singled out Long Beach for attack in an East German newspaper.

A clipping out of the newspaper published in Ostendorf-Siedlung on the river Saale shows a picture of two couples chained together and running in a circle while a crowd looks on.

The clipping was sent to Ida Schedler, 2284 American Ave., by her sister, Mrs. Oswald Wanke, resident of the German town.

A CAPTION with the picture recounts how the sated people in the "luxurious bathing resort" (luxusbadeortes) of Long Beach "in Kalifornien" are amused as unemployed married couples, in chains, engage in "walkathon" races for "a few dollars to retain the semblance of humans."

Overcoats worn by spectators and other clothing of the pictured spectators seem quite foreign to Long Beach. Even the "contestants" have a distinct un-American look.

THE CHAINED RACES, it is suspected, may be a project of the Recreation Department at Ostendorf-Siedlung.

Mrs. Schedler said she hopes to straighten out her sister regarding Long Beach, but doubts she can get the true story by the censors in East Germany.

Mrs. Schedler has lived in the United States since 1925, and in Long Beach two years.

OPEN DEER SEASON WITH A BANG

Just a few hours after the deer season opened Saturday, Daniel F. Talbot (right), of the Long Beach Rod & Gun Club, and George L. Hutchinson bagged this buck in southern Orange County. It was the 10th year in a row that they returned to Long Beach with the first deer of the season, they reported.

Korea Withdrawal Given Study by U.S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top United States policy-makers are expected to take a new look soon at the possibility of withdrawing American forces from South Korea. If this is decided upon, they would be pulled back to Japan and other forward bases in the Pacific.

Several recent developments have combined to strengthen speculation within the Defense and State Departments that withdrawal may prove possible in the months ahead. But the issue is controversial and is sure to be fully debated in the joint chiefs of staff and the national security council when it is actively raised.

The developments bearing on the situation are these:

1. INCREASING EVIDENCE

Including the current American-Red Chinese talks at Geneva—that Red China is cooperating with Russia's policy of easing East-West tensions. The prospects of war in the Formosa area have declined steadily in recent months. The dangers of some new military aggression by the Reds in the Korea area are rated very low. The Far Eastern front from Indochina through Korea seems to be stabilizing.

2. The introduction of a new personality into the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, reportedly a vigorous advocate of redeployment of U. S. forces in the Korea-Japan area, replaced Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway recently. The idea of getting its troops out of Korea has long appealed to the Army command, though the Navy and Air Force have tended to favor retention of the bases forward of Japan.

Taylor may pursue the Army purpose, in changing world conditions, more actively than Ridgway felt able to do.

3. THE GROWING STRENGTH and effectiveness of the Republic of Korea army. ROK forces total 20 divisions, with a 10-division reserve. This is a force of about 660,000 men and one of the four or five largest military forces in the world.

By contrast, United States Army strength in Korea is said to be now under 100,000. Stationed there are the 7th and 24th Army divisions, in under-strength condition. Marine and Air Force units are also assigned to the area.

The United States has been training and supplying the Allied South Korean force since the end of the Korean war two years ago. The present state of its development actually may be used as an argument both for and against the withdrawal of American forces.

Rhee Denies Intention of Using Force

SEOUL (Sunday) (AP)—President Syngman Rhee again has promised the United Nations command that his South Korean soldiers will avoid any incidents which might provoke a rekindling of the flames of war in Korea.

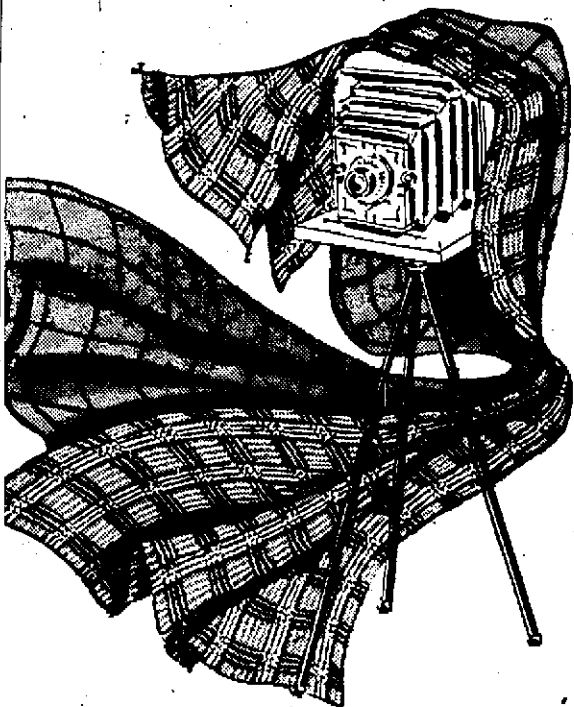

"I did not mean to use force when I said (last Monday) we would take over places the Communists hold south of the 38th Parallel," Rhee said in an interview today.

"Gen. Lemnitzer was here Thursday and I told him the same thing I am telling you. I do not say we will never use force, but for now we have no idea of using force."

THE U. N. COMMANDER-in-chief, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, rushed here from Tokyo to call on Rhee and find out what was behind his statement last week asserting the Communists would have to leave any ground they hold south of the 38th Parallel. The Reds occupy the city of Kaesong and the nearby Ongjin Peninsula.

Atom Peace Talks Due, Stir Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federation of American Scientists expressed hope Saturday that the atom-for-peace conference opening in Geneva Monday will help spur a "worldwide reduction in armaments."

It also said in a statement that the unprecedented international meeting appears to be "breaking the deadlock" over the international exchange of atomic information.

The federation's observations came as the Atomic Energy Commission announced that this country's participation in the meeting will be greater than at any other scientific conference in history.

SEVENTY-TWO NATIONS, including Russia, are sending their top atomic scientists and exhibits to the meeting which was inspired by President Eisenhower's original atom-for-peace proposal and is sponsored by the United Nations.

The purpose is to exchange information and to make plans for harnessing the atom to peaceful rather than warlike purposes.

The federation labeled the conference a "landmark in international cooperation" and said it is "proud of the part played by the United States in initiating the program."

The federation is a nationwide organization of more than 2,000 scientists in all fields. Some of the greats in the atomic world are members.

IT SAID THE exchange of information at Geneva "should lead to incalculable benefits for the people of the whole world as well as our own nation."

Earlier, Dr. George Weil, technical adviser to the 183-man official American delegation, told some of the more than 600 newsmen gathered here that:

"Any information not directly connected with military questions has been declassified. (But) We certainly hope to learn as much as we give. We expect to learn a lot."

AIN'T NOBODY GONNA DRIVE THROUGH

No Horses for T.R., Says Rough Rider

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (AP)—Stripped of their horses, sabres and pistols and shunted aside by the regular army, the Rough Riders stormed San Juan Hill on foot because Col. Teddy Roosevelt would not let them languish while history was being made, a Spanish American War veteran recalled Saturday.

Roosevelt had recruited and trained the First U.S. Volunteer Cavalry at San Antonio, Tex., in six whirlwind weeks and rushed them to Cuba seeking action. But when the assault began on the Spanish blackhouse the Rough Riders were in a reserve position along "bloody bend" in the San Juan River.

Dick Shanafelt of Lawrence, Kan., one of the 18 Rough Riders gathered here for their annual tale-swapping reunion, recalled that Colonel Roosevelt was in no mood to sit by and watch the regular army hog all the glory. "I recall that Teddy remarked that he could not find anyone who had the authority to order an advance, and that the Rough Riders were not to stand around while others fought," Shanafelt said.

"We saw the 22nd Infantry advance a short distance down the line, and I recall Teddy saying 'We're not going to be left down here.'"

Billy McGinty, the spy president of the Rough Riders, confirmed that Roosevelt took it upon himself to order his men into the battle.

When the already famous Riders stole from the 22nd Infantry in 1898 was paid for in blood and gore. A third of the regiment—and 42 per cent of Roosevelt's officers—was killed or wounded during the Cuban campaign.

The Rough Riders have pledged that the annual reunions will be held "to the last man"—although only a few of the surviving veterans show up each year. The reunion is held in Las Vegas because 40 per cent of the First U.S. Volunteer Cavalry was recruited in New Mexico.

Ike Signs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed into law Saturday a bill extending from three to five years the terms of the directors of the subversive activities control board. The SACB now has five members, four men and one woman.

Ford Plans Prizes for Atomic Devices

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Times in a copyrighted story said Saturday night the Ford Motor Co. is considering a plan to set up a one-million-dollar fund for prizes for men who develop peacetime uses for atomic energy.

The Times said the prizes would be similar to the Nobel prize for science.

It said it was possible that formal announcement of the plan would be made at the International Conference on Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy opening to the Monday at Geneva, Switzerland. Available Ford officials in Detroit had no comment. The Times said it had reached Ernest R. Breech, chairman of the board of the Ford Motor Co., by telephone at his vacation retreat, and that Breech had confirmed such a plan was being formulated.

Nebraska's Heat Hatches Out Eggs

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP)—It was hot enough to hatch eggs in Falls City this week, even though it may not have been hot enough to fry them on sidewalks. About a week ago, Alvin Bahr Jr. sold off 30 hens but did not collect their eggs from their nests. Mrs. Bahr was attracted to the henhouse by "peeps" and eggs after the hen was taken off.

Cadillac

CAD
TOM

Figures He's Waited Long Enough!

The long-striding, fast-moving man you see in this picture has made the right decision at the right time!

For the past year or so, he has been thinking about a Cadillac—and he has finally made up his mind.

He is through with compromise and doubt and wonder. This time, he is going after the real thing!

And how lucky he is that he made that decision today! For wonderful news of a special nature is waiting for him.

He'll find, for instance, that Cadillac ownership is far more practical now than ever before. He'll learn, in fact, that the lowest-priced Cadillac can be purchased for little more than he might expect to pay for a goodly number of the so-called medium-price cars.

He'll also find that his dealer—because of a low used-car inventory—is in a position to offer him a very generous allowance on his present car.

And he'll discover that, because of Cadillac's greatly increased production during the current year, he can take title to his new Cadillac after a surprisingly short waiting period.

And all these special inducements, of course, are in addition to the other great

Cadillac virtues—such as legendary dependability and long life... remarkable economy of upkeep and operation... and traditionally higher resale value.

All in all, he's walking in on the motor car opportunity of a lifetime!

And how about you? Have you been postponing your dreams of a Cadillac?

If so, there's no reason to wait any longer. Come on in and see us. Let us put you behind the wheel of a Cadillac... and give you the whole, wonderful story of the "car of cars." We think you, too, will decide that you've waited long enough!

Minister Tells of Airmen Prayer Before Hiroshima

By THE REV. WM. B. DOWNEY
(As Told to the United Press)

MILWAUKEE (UP)—The briefing session was held the night of Aug. 5, 1945, in a quiet hut. As usual, we ended the session with a short prayer.

It was a special one I wrote on the back of an envelope, and it said among other things: "We pray Thee that the end of the war may come soon, and that once more we may know peace on earth."

I went down to the control

tower and watched Col. Paul W. Tibbets Jr. and his men take off at about 1 a.m., Aug. 6, 1945.

The bomb was dropped that morning. It was a very successful mission. The bomb went off where they wanted it to. They killed a lot of people.

There was quite a celebration on Tinian that night. Then the men began to talk about the moral implications of the bombing. They were wondering about killing all those people.

There were an estimated 78,000 people killed and 37,400 injured. Smoke and dust hung over Hiroshima for four days so that photography planes couldn't take pictures.

What could I tell them? My attitude toward the bombing then and now is that all war is wrong. I don't think you can qualitatively say that one part is more wrong than the other part. All war is a denial of God. Of course it's wrong to kill 78,000 people with an atomic bomb. The issue is, what is the alternative?

The reason we are faced with this terrible evil is that man wants to be God. That is the ultimate definition of sin.

The solution is the same as for all sin... a new life, a new birth in the grace of God.

What science has done is neither good nor bad. We are good or bad. Consequently, our future is still within the context of our moral and religious decisions.

It hasn't been illustrated to me in my study of the western civilization that man has improved much, and I don't see how he can deal with the problem of finality.

I'm pessimistic about our future. I see little hope for our time. I don't believe in a Utopia. But I believe in the possibility of men becoming Christians.

Veterans Invited to Take Potluck

World War I veterans are invited to a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the banquet room of Veterans Memorial Bldg. and a meeting of Barracks 154. Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. at 8 p.m. in Hall 3 of Veterans Memorial Bldg. Jim Butler will preside.

The last meeting of the Barracks had an attendance of 109 and 39 new members joined, according to Oscar C. Holand, publicity chairman.

17 Italians to Testify in Murder Case

NOVARA, Italy (AP)—Seventeen Italians will leave Tuesday for the United States to testify in a reopened investigation of the wartime cloak and dagger slaying of Maj. William Holohan, a qualified source said Saturday.

Two of the Italians in the group were co-defendants in a local trial growing out of the case. Lt. Aldo Icardi of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Sgt. Carl Lo Dolce of Rochester, N.Y., are accused of having killed Maj. Holohan, their superior officer in an O.S.S. unit. Both have denied the charge.

Killed in Fall

MILL VALLEY (AP)—George W. Stevenson, 77, was killed Saturday as a falling gave way on a small footbridge and he fell 10 feet to a rocky creek bed near Muir Woods. His head struck a rock.

Belshe Wins Seal Beach 4-Mile Swim

Cheered on by the shouts of 1,500 onlookers, Buddy Belshe of Huntington Beach Saturday afternoon took first place in Seal Beach's second annual four-mile rough water swim. His time was 1 hour, 29 minutes, 25 seconds.

Second place in the men's open, age 16 to 35, went to Dick Rowland of Del Mar. Bob Niet-hold took third.

First place in the women's open was won by Linda Preston in 1 hour, 53 minutes, 25 seconds. Second place was divided between Maryann Ward and Carol Chaplin. After them came Gerry Smith, Amy Hiland and Yvonne Sharp.

NAMES OF THE MAN and woman who finish first each year will be engraved on the Ernie Pyle perpetual trophy given this year by the Monterey Oil Co. and the Texas Co.

Alfred Guch took first in the men's class, 35 to 45, in 2 hours, 14 minutes, 17 seconds. Rex Finney took second and W. S. McDonnell, third.

In the men's class, 45 and over, Tom Lind won first, in 2 hours, 19 minutes, 57 seconds, with second and third places going to Charles Day and Wilfred Slater, respectively.

Swimmers, AAU athletes, assembled at 9:30 a.m. at the flagpole at Seal Beach Pier at the end of Main St. for the swim, sponsored by the Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce and sanctioned by SPAAAU.

THE COURSE WAS from the beach west of the pier to and around the Monterey-Texas island, 1 1/2 miles off shore, to and around the marker east of the pier and back to the starting point.

A number of prizes was awarded.

The 10th annual fish fry sponsored by the Seal Beach Lions Club was held all day in the Seal Beach Pier sun room, with rides for the youngsters, games and entertainment.

Navy Pushes Supplies to Arctic Bases

SEATTLE (UP)—Ships of an Arctic armada are pushing towards waters in which the Navy says "no ship has ever been before."

They are carrying a vast array of supplies for military bases and radar installations all across the north from Alaska to Greenland.

The Navy, releasing new details on the supply project Saturday, described the supply mission for the radar network across the top of the continent as a "dramatic race with melting ice." The supply line involves 117 ships on both Pacific and Atlantic coast routes.

Their destinations range from Greenland to western and northern Alaska.

The 117-ship fleets include eight ice breakers. Many of the vessels have been provided with special fittings to meet the menace of Arctic ice. Those that go east of Point Barrow, northernmost tip of North America, the Navy said, must stage a race against time to get unloaded and headed homeward before ice closes tightly around them. Part of the fleet was pushing past Barrow in the past week.

An air arm has been set up to aid the Navy's military sea seek passages for ships and to warn of dangers ahead. Plans have been made to evacuate crews by air from any ships which become trapped by the ice. Helicopters have been assigned to the ice.

Boston's Polio Epidemic on Downgrade

BOSTON (UP)—Boston's polio epidemic showed signs of leveling off Saturday with only 11 new cases reported. But the shortage of nurses to care for acute cases was critical.

"The picture looks bright," said Dr. Frederick F. Maloof, assistant city health commissioner. He said the 11 cases were "quite a drop" from 26 cases reported Friday.

There have been 24 deaths in Massachusetts, nine of them in Boston.

Maloof said if new cases could be kept to 15 a day it would mean a break in the siege. The city now has a total of 312 cases out of 758 for the state. The case load at this time last year was less than 100.

FOR ALL NEW ENGLAND the total passed the 1,000 mark, but outside Massachusetts there were no sharp increases over last year and nothing approaching an epidemic New England had about 220 cases at this time last year.

Boston already was in a mild epidemic and was due to reach a full-fledged epidemic momentarily with a total of 320 cases, or the equivalent of 40 cases per 100,000 population.

Health officials have reported that only 19 of 160,000 Massachusetts children vaccinated against polio have been stricken.

Hard of Hearing

According to the Basic Diagnostic office, it is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, "We have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else."

Once they try this new and proven method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases folks are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple. It consists of three steps and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition a special treatment is given, if the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given and if it is a bone condition, the tympanic-oscillations treatment is given.

"I have been wearing a hearing aid for a period of three years, after receiving only three treatments I was able to discard my hearing aid. I highly recommend Tympanic-Oscillations to anyone now wearing a mechanical device."

Mrs. A.C. (Letter in our files)

To all readers of The Independent Press-Telegram, the Basic Diagnostic Office will give the first treatment for only $3.00. The address is 927 E. Broadway in Long Beach. Phone 64-6203. In Huntington Park at 2836 E. Florence.

GOP Victory in '56 Seen by Knowland

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate party leaders disagreed sharply Saturday on whether the session which ended this week proved that the country benefits or is harmed by divided political control of the White House and Congress.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, fired an opening gun in the GOP campaign to regain congressional supremacy by contending that "a reelected Republican administration would be seriously handicapped if the Democrats controlled Congress" after 1956.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said the session that ended last Wednesday was one of "unity and achievement" and added: "It is put to rest the fears of those who had so little confidence in the American system they thought it would not work unless both the Congress and Executive were controlled by the same political party."

Knowland and Johnson agreed that Congress had done a good job in the field of foreign policy. Both praised Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for his share in shaping international policies.

Knowland told reporters that in the domestic field the session's record was "satisfactory as far as it went." But he said the Democratic-controlled legislature had rejected, ignored or altered "key pieces" of President Eisenhower's program.

"In order to pin down the responsibility it is important that the party which controls the White House after 1956 has a majority in Congress," he declared. "I think that President Eisenhower or whoever is President will face difficult problems if Congress and the administration are not working together."

Knowland expressed confidence that Eisenhower "or whoever is the Republican nominee" would win in next year's presidential contest and carry his party to control of both houses.

Johnson, still in a hospital after a heart attack, made no political predictions in a statement which said Congress had attained national unity on foreign affairs, with "the voices of discord" reduced to a whisper.

Bonneville Power Probe Seen Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Possible investigation of government power policies affecting the Bonneville and Hell's Canyon areas of the Pacific Northwest was suggested Saturday as a follow-up to a probe of the Dixon-Yates contract.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who has headed a senatorial study of the Dixon-Yates plan for feeding private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA), suggested a look into Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) policies.

Scientist Sees Medical Security in U.S. Future

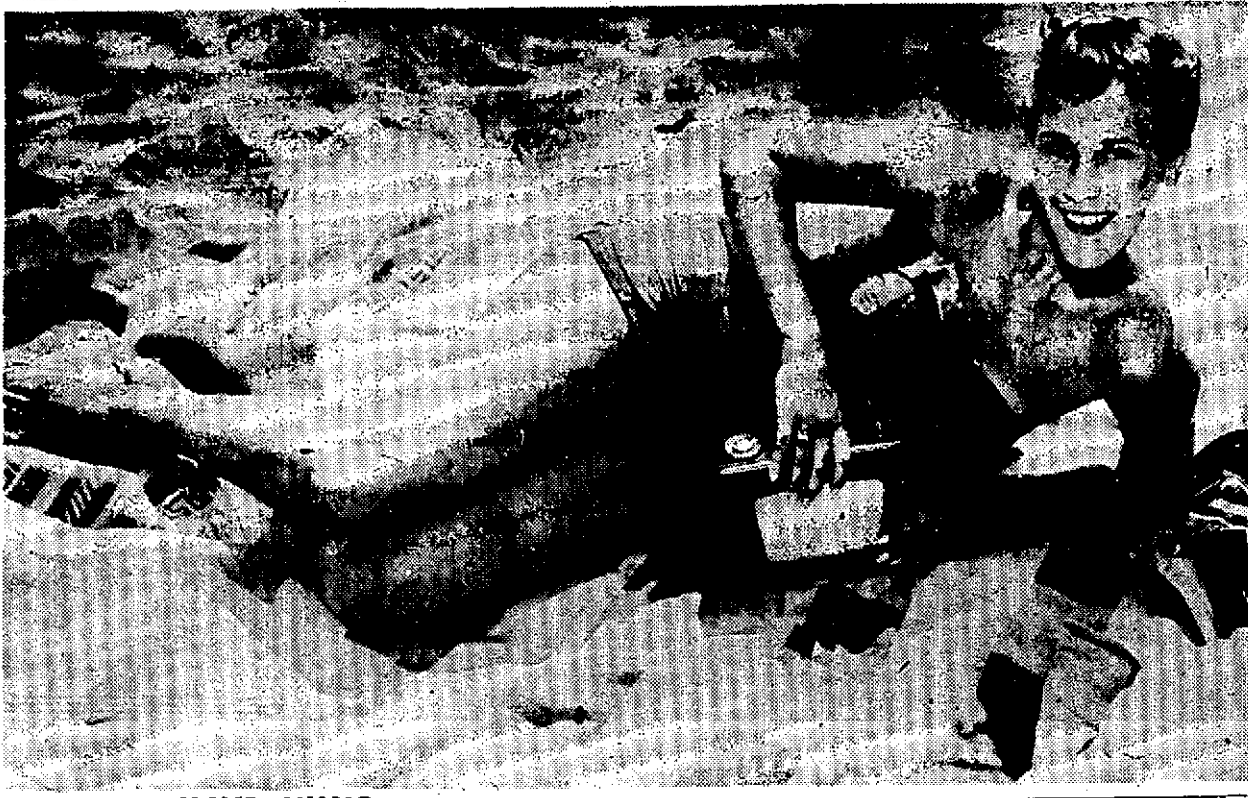

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of Columbia University's medical school said Saturday that "medical security in some form is coming in America, just as social security has been established."

Dr. Willard C. Rappleye, dean of the university's faculty of medicine, said in his annual report that the American people are "determined that the results of modern scientific knowledge be made available to the entire population."

Rappleye said more than 103,000,000 Americans now have some type of voluntary prepayment hospital and medical care insurance.

Big Italian Theft

BOLZANO, Italy (AP)—Thieves spirited 35 valuable paintings out of picturesque Englar Castle near here. The owner, Count Bruno Khuen, told authorities the loss is "millions of lire" but that it is impossible to set an exact value.

SHE SHALL HAVE MUSIC...

Home in Huntington Beach, up in Long Beach... it's all the same to 16-year-old Beverly Sweeney as long as the tunes keep rolling out of the portable radio. Beverly was visiting the local strand when I. P. T. Photographer John Neagle found her catching up on tan and the hit parade.

'Defense a Mess,' Says Symington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said Saturday the operation of the Defense Department is "the biggest mess that I have ever seen in the 10 years that I have been in Washington."

Interviewed on the CBS radio program "Capitol Clockroom," he accused the administration of being "unwilling or unable to give the American people all the truth which would be necessary to have the right military establishment."

As a result, he said, "the Soviets have more intercontinental bombers of a modern type, than we have altogether." He demanded to know "why is it, for the tremendous amount of money we are spending, we are getting relatively little aircraft production."

Symington, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a former Air Force Secretary, said Russia has about 175 Army divisions while the United States has 15 divisions planned for next year.

U.S. Farmers Stop Being Polite to Russ

STALINGRAD (AP)—Members of the visiting farm delegation from the United States have begun to discard politeness and speak out on what they consider are some of the faults of Soviet agriculture.

Until now they have been reluctant to voice criticism because of the hospitality they have been shown.

Apparently they have seen plenty of evidence of Soviet backwardness. Even reports by Tass, the official news agency, have begun to mention some of the Americans' critical comments.

SOVIET AGRICULTURE. Official newspaper of the ministry of agriculture, reported that the American delegation visited the Stalin farm in the Rostov-on-Don region and was told by the farm chairman "we have an amateur theatrical circle, football team, movies, etc."

But, the report said, Charles Hearst of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, came back with a question about what happens on the collective farm when the machine tractor stations fall down on their quota of work.

"In cases like that we simply don't accept their work," the farm chairman replied.

But Hearst's question, "Who gets fired, who gets fired?" went unanswered.

ASA CLARK of Pullman, Wash., found wheat being cleaned on a threshing floor and asked why this was not done with combines.

Clark commented that the Soviet Union was wasting much human labor and should improve its machines.

John Steddon of Granger, Iowa, also commented that the Russians had a long way to go in farm mechanization.

Russ Farmers Mingle With U.S. Cowboys

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP)—Three visiting Russians, wearing western-style leather thong "bolo" ties, caught some of the flavor of the old West Saturday as they mingled with calf-branding cowboys and 2,000 Indians.

The rope-twirling cowboys really caught the eye of Petr Badmindra, and he insisted on trying his hand at swinging a lariat. He declined, however, to actually try to rope a calf.

The Russians flew here to witness a pow-wow of 2,000 Indians—decked out in their tribal finery—from the United States, Canada and Mexico.

They paused to talk with 97-year-old Dewey Beard, believed to be last surviving Sioux brave of the battle of the Little Big Horn—better known as "Custer's Last Stand." Like the Russians, the aging Sioux warrior spoke through an interpreter.

The three Russians were up at the crack of dawn as they wound up an overnight visit to the huge, 173,000-acre Keeline ranch near Gillette, Wyo.

AFTER packing away a hearty breakfast of hot cakes, bacon and eggs—washed down with hot coffee—they were given a demonstration of calf roping and branding.

As usual the Russians fired a barrage of questions, jotted down copious notes.

The ranch reception seemed pleasant but it was in direct contrast to the inhospitable attitude expressed by Joseph J. Keeline, owner of the huge ranch, who was in Denver for a trap-shooting contest.

Keeline told newsmen the visit of the Russians to his ranch wasn't his idea and added that he was "not sorry I wasn't there to greet them."

He said officials of the Keeline organization had called him to ask if it would be all right for the Russians to visit the ranch. He said at first he said no, but then told them to talk to his sons. The sons okayed the visit.

Joseph Keeline Jr. showed the Russians around the ranch and his wife commented that the Russians "were very, very polite and seemed very happy with the opportunity to visit here."

"I thought they are all very nice," she added.

THE RUSSIANS whizzed through the rolling Minnesota farmlands in their air-conditioned bus, bound for Minneapolis-St. Paul for a full-scale Sunday holiday in the land of 10,000 lakes.

The Russians, apparently looking forward to a day of rest, made only brief stops on farms along the way.

They were scheduled to take the day off today. However, a few of the Russians expressed an interest in getting in some fishing on their day off.

The Russian delegation, scattered to the four winds in the past few days, will re-group in the Twin Cities today, with the three Keeline ranch visitors flying in from Wyoming, and the leader of the delegation, Vladimir Matskevich, coming in from Texas.

Newsman's Plane Crashes in Wyoming

GILLETTE, Wyo. (AP)—A light plane carrying Tass reporter Michael Lepornik and two other newsmen covering the American tour of Russian farm experts hit a fence while trying to take off from a ranch 40 miles south of here Saturday and crash-landed. No one was hurt.

Filipino Chief Backs U.S. Pact With Islands

MANILA (AP)—President Ramon Magsaysay lashed out today against "men of little faith" who refuse to recognize the beneficial effect of Philippine-American friendship. Magsaysay said in ceremonies marking the acceptance of four jet trainers at "men of little faith" who "Only those with unyielding prejudices and narrow national-ism refuse to recognize the benefit of Philippine-American friendship."

Solon Hits Misuse of Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Price Daniel of a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Narcotics urged Saturday that facilities of federal narcotics hospitals be used to fight the "socially contagious" narcotics habit.

The Texas Democrat made the suggestion to H. Chapman Rose, chairman of the government's inter-departmental committee on narcotics. He said statistics from the surgeon general's office show that more than 500 people have voluntarily applied but have no hope for immediate treatment in hospitals at Lexington, Ky., and Fort Worth, Tex.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH Service, meanwhile, announced it has appointed a narcotics specialist to gather information on the problems of drug addiction in states and localities. Dr. Kenneth W. Chapman, a health service psychiatrist, was named to the newly-created post and will work through health service regional offices providing advice on rehabilitation of addicts.

Daniel said bed space at Fort Worth was made available to 518 mental patients last year compared with 297 narcotic addicts. He said the Lexington hospital accommodated 110 mental patients while it had a waiting list of "several hundred addicts."

"It is obvious," he wrote Rose, "that if arrangements were made for treatment of these mental patients at other institutions, and if the narcotics hospitals were used primarily for the purpose for which they were established, all of the more than 500 drug addicts now on the waiting list could be hospitalized immediately."

Italian Scientists Honor Fermi

COMO, Italy (AP) — On the shores of Lake Como where he taught only a year ago, fellow scientists Saturday honored the memory of the late Enrico Fermi.

His widow, Laura Fermi, watched in silence as officials unveiled a memorial stone to the Italian-born physicist.

"Here in Varenna," said an inscription, "Enrico Fermi disclosed... those last secrets of the atom for which he already had become immortal."

Illegal Boycotts by Unions Increase, NLRB Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board Saturday reported a record number of illegal secondary boycott charges against unions during the second quarter of 1955.

Of 500 charges of unfair labor practices against unions filed with the board in the April-June period, 139 involved alleged illegal secondary boycotts. The previous record was 94 such charges filed during the second quarter of 1954.

L.A. Called Easy on Drunk Drivers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Not enough Los Angeles drunk-driving suspects are being convicted, an official of the National Safety Council claimed Saturday.

Paul F. Hill, field service department manager, said convictions here are 12 per cent lower than those of other major cities.

"I recommend a closer search for and more frequent convictions of intoxicated drivers," Hill said.

Mazey Tells of Offer to Drop Charge

DETROIT (AP)—Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO United Auto Workers, said Saturday the Department of Justice offered to drop indictments against the union if he would deny the UAW spent general funds for political purposes.

Mazey told the Wayne County (Detroit) CIO Council convention he turned down the offer. He said he admitted to the FBI and a federal grand jury that the UAW had paid for radio and TV programs on which union-supported candidates for federal offices made appearances.

The UAW has been indicted by a federal grand jury on four counts of violating the corrupt practices act in using union funds illegally for political purposes.

"We will not be intimidated," Mazey said. "We are going to win this fight. The fact that we did an effective job is the reason we have this little difficulty at the moment."

"We took the position from the beginning that we had nothing to hide," Mazey said.

Army Plans Fall Training for Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has proposed to start the new six-month Reserve training program in October with an initial class of about 10,000 teenage trainees, a Defense Department manpower official disclosed Saturday.

The overall plan is to train about 100,000 of the teen-age volunteers during the coming year.

The six-month training program is a new type military service inaugurated in the reserve plan approved by the last Congress. Under the program, the youths will be given six months active training duty followed by 7½ years compulsory duty in the ready reserve.

Maj. Gen. John B. Murphy, military assistant in the office of assistant defense secretary for manpower, said the Army has proposed to start the six-month training program this fall, probably in October.

Reds Underline Ike's Triumph at Geneva

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER was the hands-down winner of the title of peace-maker at the recent summit conference in Geneva.

The Russians themselves have now underlined his victory.

In the closing hours of the conference Mr. Eisenhower calmly tossed a bombshell amid the Russian delegation, and the reverberations were felt around the world in public opinion.

He suggested that Russia and the United States exchange maps showing military installations and permit mutual aerial inspection of each other's territory.

This proposal left the Russians, who have said so much about peace and the easing of tensions, sitting with a stunned, confused look on their faces.

They had no immediate reply, and it was obvious they had been caught off guard by this dramatic challenge to prove good faith. For the time being they withheld answer.

Meanwhile, the world savored a new hope. One of the two big nations holding in their hands the power for cataclysmic destruction had advanced a plan which, if accepted, could profoundly change the supercharged atmosphere of international tension.

What would be the reply of the other great power?

Two replies came this week. The first—nothing doing.

Since the answer was no, one wondered why the Russian leaders bothered to make any answer at all. They should have hoped that in absence of further comment the episode might fade from the public's conscience. Their woefully inadequate reply only emphasized how badly they were outscored.

Under Mr. Eisenhower's plan, said Premier Bulganin in his report to the Deputies to the Supreme Soviet, anybody wishing to hide anything could do it very easily because "both countries have limitless territories on which one could hide anything."

That, of course, deliberately missed the entire point.

Mr. Eisenhower made it clear that his plan could not be considered a conclusive, airtight solution. It was offered as an initial step, a significant gesture, a means of testing the possibility of future accords.

Mr. Bulganin's second reply, in which he said his first really hadn't been a rejection of the plan, which is still "under consideration," seemed an effort to recoup. He just left the matter dangling.

So the impression that stands is:

The President of the United States offered to show Russia our blueprints, if Russia would show us her blueprints. Object: Better understanding and world peace.

And Russia tempered an outright refusal with doubletalk that expressed hope but, as usual, offered nothing concrete to prove her object is also peace.

Without Ike, Republican Future Would Be Dismal

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is scorching hot in the nation's capital but the President's remarks to a delegation of Ohio well wishers about his age and "the strain of the Presidency" have many top Republicans shivering with fright.

The President will be 65 years old in October and would be 70 in the final year of a second term.

In speaking of the "physical erosion" of a man in the Presidency, Eisenhower said that no President has ever reached his 70th year in the White House.

Ike mentioned that "duty" is an extremely important word in the Army, but added that he favored giving younger men an opportunity to solve the problems of the nation.

Quite naturally, Republican leaders hate to hear that kind of talk. But the irrepressible Sen. George Bender of Ohio was equal to the occasion.

Said Bender: I thought I detected some sort of emanation from the man (Eisenhower) that convinced me he'll run again.

"I have faith," he added, "in God and Eisenhower." The Senator from Ohio, who will face a tough campaign for reelection next year, was expressing the feelings of virtually every Republican member of Congress.

Without Ike, the Republican party faces a dismal future.

There are, of course, younger men in the G. O. P. with real ability. At the moment, however, none of them, including Vice President Nixon, seem equipped for the Presidency.

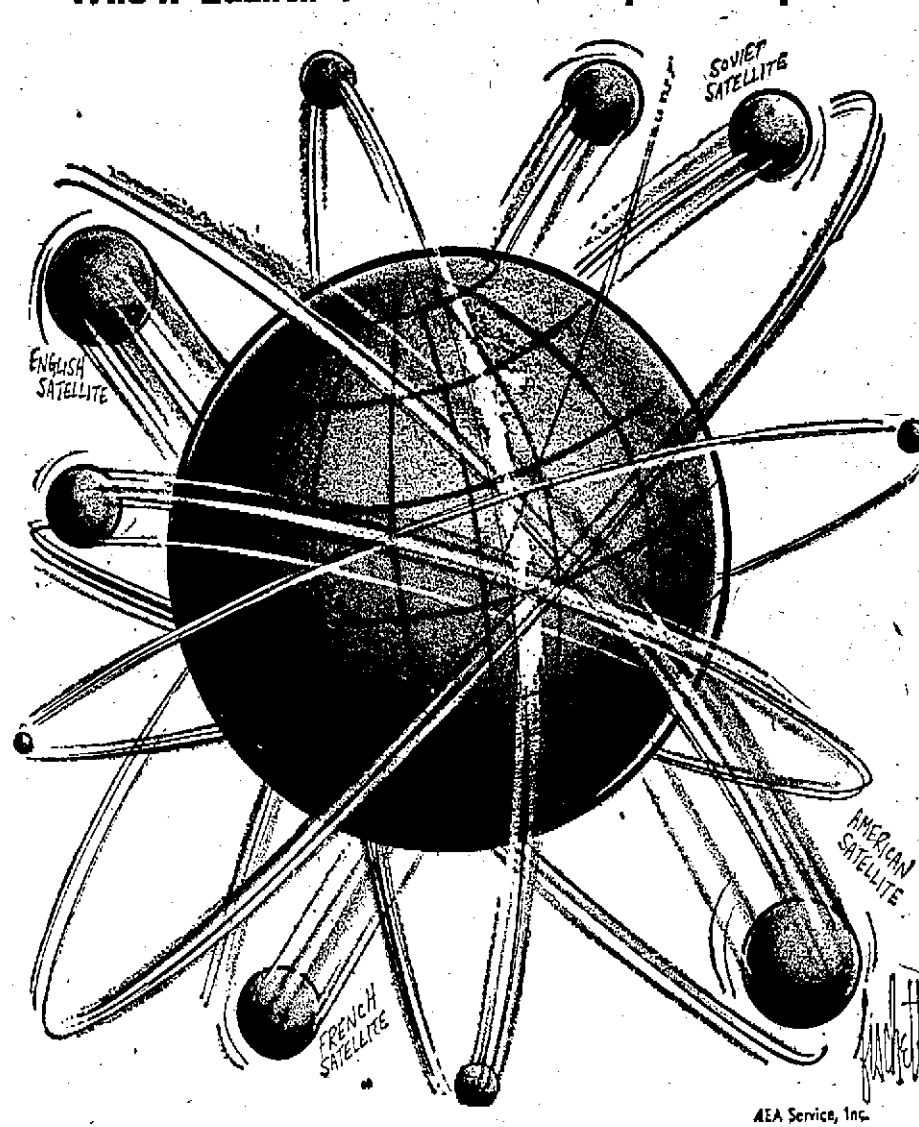

I hold a higher opinion of Nixon than do many of my associates. He is the hardest working Vice President within my memory and is completely devoted to Eisenhower.

PERHAPS LATER

While Nixon has shown some evidence of immaturity in his comment on foreign affairs, his potential for growth is very high. In another four years, perhaps... Well, why speculate?

In a 20-minute appointment

Ike's Forecast of Political 'Cold War' Borne Out by Demo Congress' Record

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's prediction before last year's Congressional elections that, if the Democratic Party were given control of Congress, "a cold war of partisan politics" could ensue has been borne out by the record.

Though Mr. Eisenhower did not refer to the speech of October 8, 1954, delivered at Denver, urging the American people to elect a Republican Congress, the President at his press conference on Thursday of this week made almost the identical points in revealing his disappointment over the Democratic party's behavior.

There has been an impression that Mr. Eisenhower in his Denver address had reference to a "cold war" solely in foreign affairs. Actually his fears concerned almost entirely a "cold war" in the field of domestic legislation. The President said:

"We must continue to foster the growth of a free economy to provide more jobs and higher living standards."

"We must continue our efforts to cut the cost of government, so we can cut taxes still more."

"We must continue each year to improve our peacetime farm program."

"We must have a vast new highway program."

"We must expand our foreign trade and American investment abroad. We must expand markets for America's farms and factories, if we are to keep prosperity within our own land."

"We must write into law a national water resources program."

"We must help our people meet their critical health and medical needs while repudiating socialization of medicine."

"We must find ways to encourage communities to provide the schools, health and medical facilities for their children."

"We must build a new and effective reserve program for our armed forces."

"We must begin to unravel the confused relations between the federal, state and local governments, and make still more improvements in the organization of the federal government."

"We must drive through partisan obstructions to achieve statehood for Hawaii, to lower the voting age in federal elections, and to make our promised changes in the labor-man-

His Will Be Done

God does not ask your sacrifice... Beyond your strength to cope... He only wants your willingness... With all your faith and hope... He only wants you on His side... To spread His gospel true... That you will do to others as... You'd have them do to you... He begs you for your charity... The goods upon your shelf... To help your needy neighbor and... Forget about yourself... And every kindly act you do... Is one more candle lit... Before the throne of God where He... Will bless and cherish it... He is your God, Who does not care... How rich you are today... But only how you strive to live... According to His way.

branch and the majority party of the Congress are members of the same political party. The unsurpassed record of the 83rd Congress (Republican-controlled in both houses) is shining evidence of this truth. Moreover, in no other way can Americans hold one party and one group of people responsible either for success or lack of success.

PROPHETCY TRUE

The Denver prophecy came true. America has had an irresponsible government. This means that the American people are unable today to fix the responsibility upon either major political party for the whole governmental operation.

In our system of government, progress is made when the leaders of the executive branch and the majority party of the Congress are members of the same political party. The unsurpassed record of the 83rd Congress (Republican-controlled in both houses) is shining evidence of this truth. Moreover, in no other way can Americans hold one party and one group of people responsible either for success or lack of success.

Man-Made 'Moon' Designed Originally to Balk Enemy Guided Missile Attack

WASHINGTON—Real fact about the new man-made satellite which will whirl around the earth's surface is that it was designed originally to protect the United States from enemy guided missiles.

Chief worry of American defense planners today is not so much the long-range bombers which might fly here from Moscow, but guided missiles launched from the Soviet secret air bases near the Franz Josef Islands in the Arctic.

The United States has now developed a guided missile which can fly so accurately that it can hit within 10 miles of Moscow. It goes at the amazing speed of 4,000 feet a second, or over 3,000 miles an hour—in other words, at the rate of New York-to-Moscow in about two hours.

While it can't be ascertained for sure, it is believed that the Russians have the same type of guided missile—and they could be ahead of us.

So far, there's no way to stop these missiles once they are launched. The speed is much too great. It might be possible to stop them during the first 100 miles after they are launched, when they are gathering speed. But once they are streaking through the stratosphere at 3,000 miles an hour, nothing is fast enough to intercept them.

However, the "Minimum Orbital Unmanned Satellite of Earth," or "Mouse" for short, was devised with the idea that delicate electrical instruments inside might be able to detect guided missiles immediately after they were launched and fire a shotgun blast before the missiles gather speed.

The man-made satellites are by no means perfected to do all these things as yet. But this gives some indication of how complicated the new look to be in the future, and why the new look on the faces of Soviet representatives at the summit conference may be the most hopeful thing that has happened in this generation—if the smiles don't change to scowls.

WHAT'S A GOOD DEMOCRAT?

Congressman George Miller of California got a lot of ribbing as the lone Democrat traveling with President Eisenhower on his plane to San Francisco. But he managed to hold his own. At one point, FOA boss Harold Stassen asked Eisenhower in a booming voice heard all over the place:

"Mr. President, what do you think constitutes a good Democrat?"

"Well, I would say that a good Democrat," replied Ike, "is one who has seen the light and is about to be taken over by the Republicans."

To which Miller retorted:

PEARSON

When Adam Clayton Powell, New York's Negro Congressman, went to the Bandung conference of Asian-African countries, the State Department had its fingers very much crossed. In fact, it opposed the trip.

Later, it was embarrassed when Powell scored a rousing propaganda victory against the Communists by telling the yellow and brown races that there was no real racial discrimination in the United States, and that the great majority of American people were not racially prejudiced.

The State Department had warned Congressman Powell to stay away from American embassies during his Bandung trip, and their faces were very red after the job he did for the U. S. A.

This summer Powell is taking another trip, this time to the Near East, where he will try to do what Ralph Bunche did, and mediate between Egypt's Premier Nasser and Ben Gurion of Israel. This time the State Department has sent word to all American embassies in the Near East that Powell is to get the full VIP treatment when he passes through.

INVITATION TO PUERTO RICANS?

Congressman Pete Rodino of New Jersey is a good public servant, but he ought to be more careful about the lives of fellow Congressmen.

Ever since a band of Puerto Ricans opened up on the House of Representatives in March, 1954, strict control has been ordered of visitors to the House gallery. Congressmen may issue visitors' passes, but these must be numbered. A complete record is also supposed to be kept of the name and complete address of each visitor. Under the new security regulations, these visitors' green passes must be handed out directly by the Congressman's office and cannot even be delivered by page or sent in the mail.

Congressman Rodino, however, has completely disregarded the regulations and indiscreetly mailed out batches of green passes to voters in his district. With each pass went a cordial little note from the Congressman reading:

"Just thought you might have a chance to use the enclosed member's pass to see Congress in action. When you do, stop in to say hello. Signed: Pete W. Rodino."

Wrong Emphasis?

TO THE EDITOR:

The importance in community, national and international affairs of the headline of your Sunday (July 31) edition escapes me—namely, "Compton Boy Wins Soap Box Derby."

Coverage of this "important" event occupied in pictures and story a large section of the front page and of page three, with no less than five dramatic photographs of various scenes of the Soap Box Derby.

Congratulations to the winner, but the relative importance of this victory is disproportionate to the space it occupied.

I don't believe the sole mission of a newspaper is to sell newspapers. Will Rogers' famous statement that "All I know is what I read in the newspapers" would be a confession of ignorance these days.

Although I am sure my opinion would be in the minority, I believe that news of sports events should be in the sports section—only. Apparently the sports section is bursting its pages with news since so much is found on the front page.

Sport as we know it in the United States is big business, but is it good business? Is it of greater benefit to our society than an equal amount of time and money devoted to other aims?

In view of the fact that very serious social and economic problems must be answered both on a national and an international scale, is it more important to be an outstanding athlete or an outstanding scientist, educator, or public official? When I learn that the latest atomic bomb is 500 times more powerful than the ones dropped on Japan, I think there is no doubt as to the answer.

However, an intelligent citizen must answer these questions for himself, and I think a purpose of the daily newspaper should be to provide information so that a reasoned decision can be made.

J. R. SHEEHAN.
(Editor's Note: We agree with reader Sheehan that "very serious social and economic problems must be answered." For one of the social problems, juvenile delinquency, we think that the Soap Box Derby is one answer. We feel newspapers ought to devote space to the peaceful pursuits of young America as well as to such topics as the atomic bomb. It is our unpleasant duty to publish many stories about social and economic ills so that the public may be informed. We feel fortunate to live in a country that permits us not only to print the news of our defects but also permits us to keep our youth in sports and out of labor camps.)

So Young, Too

TO THE EDITOR:

I note that we're right in the middle of the tourist season and that means one thing—cars speeding through town plastered with windshield stickers.

Speaking of stickers, some drivers aren't content with just a few, such as: I Visited Beautiful Yosemite, the 1939 New York World's Fair, or I Didn't Get Caught on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. They need thousands, they assert, to feel important.

Did I ever tell you about the stickiest sticker of them all? Well Joe, it seems, could never sleep at night because every time he'd think about it, those great big two- and three-inch gaps on some of his windows kept getting bigger and bigger in his mind. Actually he was all stewed up about nothing.

I asked Joe one day which one he liked best. "I guess it's a toss-up," he replied, "between that one about Drive Safely—And Live and the I Stopped at Navajo Jim's Rat-Snake Hospital on Hwy. 66 sticker. I liked them both so well that I stuck them in my direct line of vision."

Joe, as many will recall, was the one who used to hang out the front door when he drove. You know, Mr. Editor, you can't hardly find that kind no more. And Joe was so young, too!

How Old Is Too Old for United States President?

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has touched on a political problem that bobs up almost every four years.

How old is too old for a U. S. President?

Eisenhower obviously has been studying his history books. For he reminded a group of Ohio Republicans, headed by Sen. George Bender that this country never has had a 70-year-old President. And if Eisenhower runs—and wins—again, he will be 70 three months before his second term ends.

Old age, of course, can be a problem for anyone. But to a politician it can be a haunting spectre. For he often reaches national prominence at an age when most of us reach for our Social Security checks.

Then, having at last built himself up to the point he feels he is sure presidential timber, some of his advisors cut him down with "Sorry, Pops, but you're too old."

Normally this is kept behind the scenes. But the 1952 conventions offer an illustration of the role age can play in politics.

Vice President Alben Barkley hankered to be promoted to Harry Truman's place in the White House. But apparently he had heard rumors that, at 74, he was too decrepit for the job.

Every other candidate, Republican and Democrat, rode in from the airport or railroad station. But Barkley insisted on walking from the train to his convention headquarters.

"I used to walk this same route," Barkley said as he marched along the seven blocks, "when I didn't have the price of a taxicab." And then he added: "Of course, that was back during a Republican administration."

Well, he might as well have taken a cab, now that he could afford it. For some labor unions decided they could not support him, because in the words of Jack Kroll, Director of the CIO's Political Action Committee:

"I have the utmost respect, admiration and affection for Vice President Barkley. It's a matter of extreme and sincere regret that we're not able to support him because of his age."

LEWIS DISAGREED

Barkley withdrew from the race, even though he knew that all organized labor didn't agree with Kroll. For example: John L. Lewis, at 72, went all out in support of Barkley, at 74.

Two years later Kentucky voters seemed to agree with Lewis' view that there was plenty of bounce in Barkley yet. They gave him a six-year term in the Senate.

Psychologists say we tend to put our trust in persons in our own age brackets. If that is true, as this nation has more and more older voters, we may have more politicians lasting longer.

If Eisenhower studies his political history closely, he saw that six Presidents took the oath while in their forties, seven were in their sixties, and the rest—and by far the most popular age—were in their fifties.

TREND?

But he may also have noticed a curious fact about our most recent inaugurations: Franklin D. Roosevelt, almost 63; Harry Truman, 65, President Eisenhower, 62.

It could be a trend.

Truman Book of Memoirs on Sale in Fall

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Former President Truman, through a publishing house spokesman, announced Saturday that the first of two volumes of his memoirs would go on sale Nov. 2.

The title of the 608-page, 320,000-word first volume is "Year of Decisions."

Timothy Seldes, a senior editor of Doubleday & Co., of New York, said the two volumes would sell at $5 each, or at $8.50 for both if ordered as a set. The second volume, Seldes said, is tentatively scheduled for publication in February, 1956.

Under the contract agreement for publication of Truman's memoirs, the former chief executive will receive no royalty on the sale of any copies of the books.

The publishing contract calls for serial publication in Life magazine, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York Times, as well as in volume form. For the entire publication Truman receives a total of $600,000.

SELDES SAID TRUMAN would make only one appearance in connection with publication of the first volume. That will be at a publication day party for him at the Hotel Muehlebach here on Nov. 2. He said there would be a special Kansas City edition to be distributed to local book-sellers. The first volume, Truman

Bombardiers of 452nd Slate Reunion Here

The annual reunion of the 452nd Light Bombardment Wing, first Air Force Reserve unit to get into combat in the Korean War, will be held next Saturday at 8 p. m. in the non-commissioned officers club of Long Beach Air Force Base.

The wing, which trained one week each month at Long Beach Municipal Airport as an Air Force Reserve unit, was called to active duty Aug. 10, 1950.

Its Douglas B26 light bombers flew their first mission on Oct. 26, 1950—only 77 days after the reservists were ordered back to active duty.

THE REUNION will be an informal dance, according to Capt. Weck Morgan, AFRes, who is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Several hundred former members of the wing, some of them still on active duty with the Air Force, are expected to gather for the reunion. Among them will be Brig. Gen. Luther W. Sweetser Jr., AFRes, who commanded the 452nd at the time of its recall.

THE 452nd served 21 months in Japan and Korea, participating in high and low altitude bombing and strafing attacks against the Communists.

It was deactivated in May, 1952, but subsequently was re-

Iturbi Featured in Pop Concert

Jose Iturbi will be featured in film in the Patio Pop concert at Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St., Thursday at 8:15 p. m. He will demonstrate the playing of the harpsichord, in addition to playing Liszt's Eleventh Hungarian Rhapsody and Fantasia Impromptu by Chopin on the piano.

Excerpts from "Naughty Marietta" with Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald will also be on the program. "Be Gone Dull Care," which portrays boogie-woogie in fluid lines, will be the final film shown. The program is free.

800 Air Reservists Enter Summer Camp Here Today

"H" hour for 800 Southern California Air Reservists of the 452nd Bomb Wing, Tactical, comes at 8 a. m. today when "Operation Wingspread," their annual two-week summer encampment, gets under way at their home station, the Long Beach Air Force Base.

The 452nd, commanded by Col. John P. Allison, will be one of 24 flying wings which will participate in "Operation Wingspread" at 25 air bases in 15 states across the nation.

Included will be nine fighter-bomber, two tactical bombardment and 13 troop-carrier wings.

THE 77TH AIR DEPOT Wing, also stationed at Long Beach Air Force Base, will begin its summer encampment Aug. 15 at Norton Air Force Base, San Bernardino.

The 77th, commanded by Col. Clarence Schmid, does specialty work in the field of Air Force supply and maintenance.

Approximately 1,600 men will take part in the operation.

Swimming Tournament Heads Events

Biggest event on the summer playground program schedule this week is the all-city swimming meet at Colorado Lagoon Saturday, starting at 10 a. m.

As a companion feature, the Recreation Department will stage the citywide lifesaving championships.

Landwise, playground attention will be centered on the all-area boys' basketball competition, Monday through Friday.

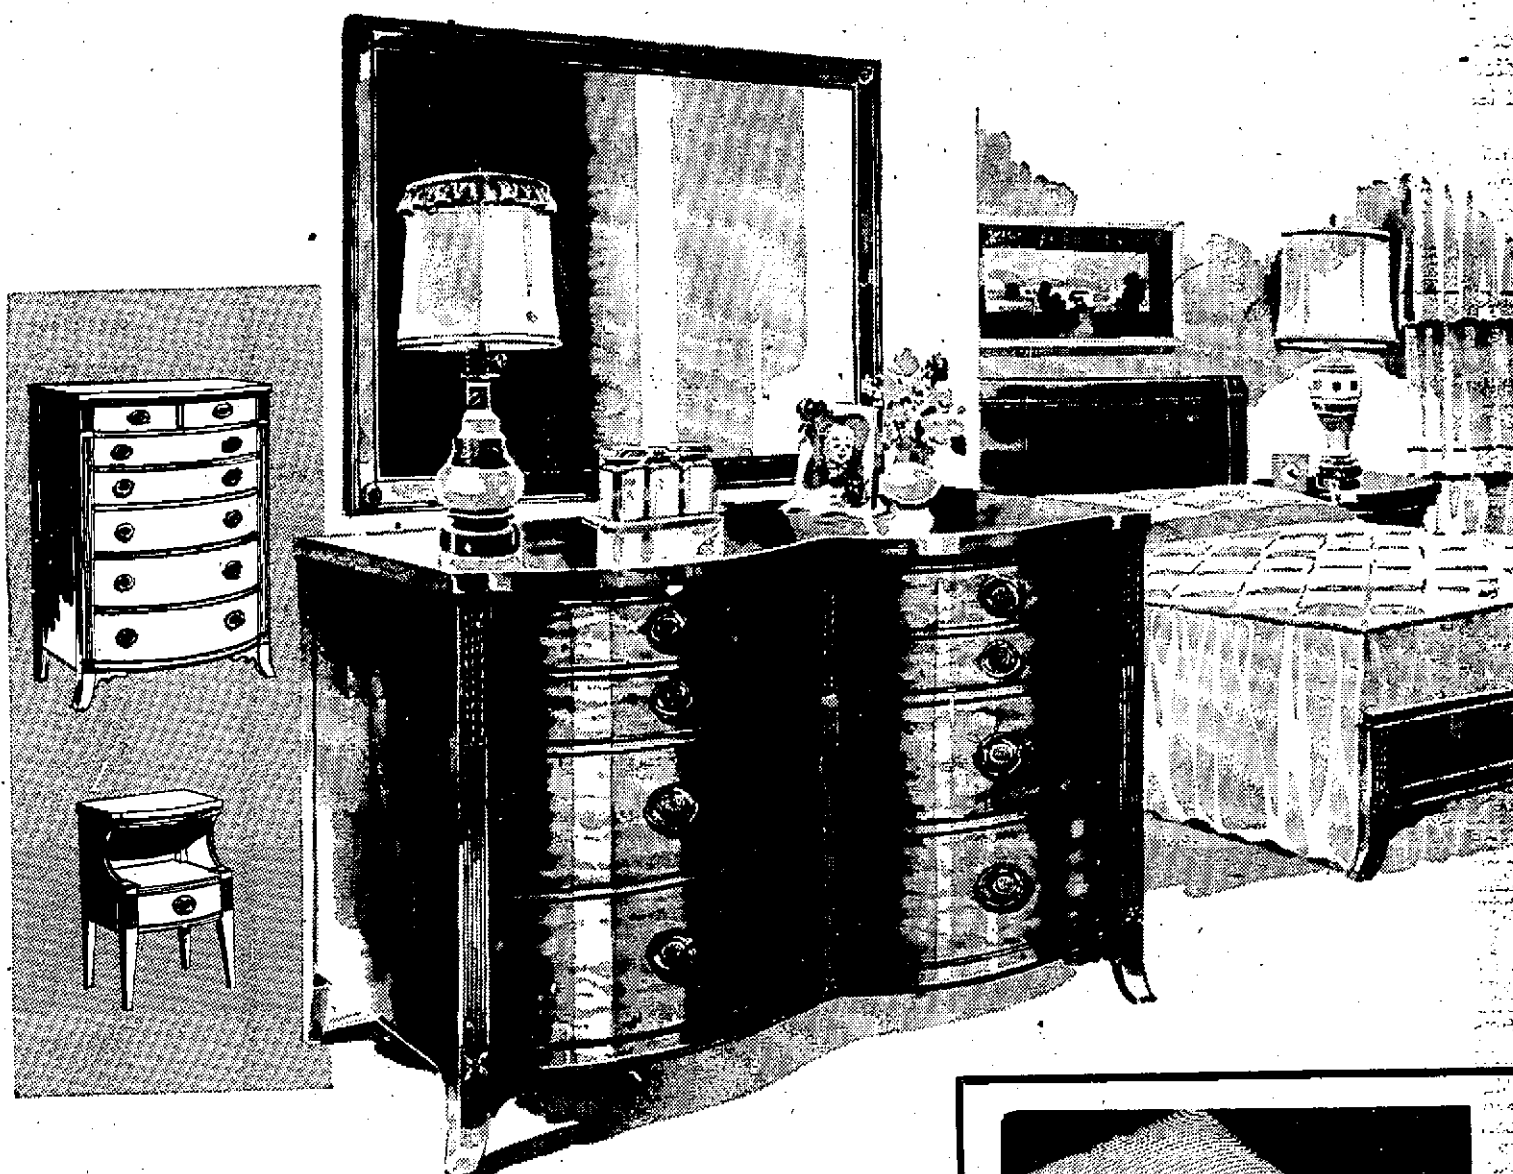

Playground girls also have three important events scheduled for the week ahead. On Tuesday at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p. m., Recreation Park will be scene of the East District girls' playday.

Thursday finds the citywide girls' table tennis playoffs at Washington School gymnasium. Friday, at 1 p. m., girls' volleyball teams will compete for the city title at Washington school courts.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the annual mid-summer model boat regatta will be held at Colorado Lagoon.

Virginia Country Club sweepstakes low net honors Saturday went to Dave Lewis, who carded a 78 and tacked on a 13 handicap for a neat 65. Two strokes back was L. M. Foto, 79-12-67.

There was a five-way tie for third at 68 among Tom McCarty, 77-8; Sol Deble, 75-7; W. B. Stannard, 98-30; Del Walker, 70-2; and Ralph Caneer, 76-8. Cliff Menig was fourth with a 77-8-69.

Blind bogey number was 79 and winners were Jack Barrington, William Dickinson, George Green, Fred Burrell, Adm. (ret.) Charles Gilliam, Paul McBride, Henry Shriver, Pete Drake and Gerald Secord.

LONGEST hole-in-one scored so far this year was reported by Chicago sporting goods firm last week. The company is conducting a nation-wide hole-in-one contest.

Milton (Swede) Erickson of Granite Falls, Minn., used his driver to ace a 311-yarder at the Granite Falls Golf Club. The fairway is on a dogleg to a green located in a valley, with the hole completely blind from the tee.

BILL ELGIN won low gross for boys with a 30 in last week's Junior Sweepstakes at the South Course, conducted by George Lake. Girls' winners were Laurie Baker and Mary Abbott, who tied with 49s. There were 139 boys and 28 girls entered. Other winners:

SLO-MO-SHUN IV WEST HOPE

12 Vie in Gold Cup Classic

SEATTLE (UPI)—Slo-Mo-Shun IV, queen of speedboats and holder of the world speed record for propeller driven craft, was Stan Sayres' only hope Saturday to retain the coveted Gold Cup for which 12 unlimited hydroplanes were scheduled to race for today.

Sayres' two-boat "navy," which has kept the cup in Seattle for five years, was reduced to one Friday when the defending champion, Slo-Mo-Shun V, bounced out of the water and did a backward somersault during her qualifying trials.

Daredevil driver Lou Fagol, a Kent, Ohio, bus making firm president, bailed out just as the craft started to kite and miraculously lived to tell about it. Doctors say he is in surprisingly good shape. He reportedly has a punctured lung, broken ribs and muscle injuries.

Slo-Mo IV, which Sayres affectionately calls his "old lady," took the cup away from Detroit in the 1949 race on the Detroit River. Later it set a speed record for a measured mile at 178 miles an hour.

The Detroit contingent was counting heavily on Joe Schenck's two boats, the Gale IV and Gale V, driven by Schenck's son, Lee, and Wild Bill Cantrell.

A dark-horse entry was orchestra leader Guy Lombardo's Tempo VII, which was second only to Slo-Mo IV in the qualifying trials. Slo-Mo qualified in 117.391 mph. Tempo VII made it in 116.8 mph.

Seattle also has two other entrants—Miss Thriftway and Rebel Sub—both designed by Ted Jones who also designed the Slo-Mos.

Two drivers were ruled out of the competition by their colleagues who charged the pair "lacked experience and would be a hazard to the race." They were Ray Crawford, co-owner of the Zephyr Fury, and Lt. Col. Ross Schlee, who Jones had picked to drive his Rebel Sub.

The drivers' committee late Saturday voted to ban the straight-away "flying start."

The HOT CORNER

by VERN STEPHENS

HOLLYWOOD—The best thing to happen to baseball in many years is the race for the pennant in the American League. The best shot in the arm for the national pastime since the moving of some of the franchises to different cities is the battle of five teams for the flag.

With the attendance off in nearly all cities this is just what they need to build it back to its old form of about five years ago. Baseball attendance has been going down gradually and sure up to par. So the owners couldn't have asked for a better miracle than this to build back attendance.

Any one of the five teams could get a hot streak started and win the pennant. The teams are pretty evenly matched as far as hitting and pitching go. It will just depend upon which team starts a prolonged win streak.

Cleveland could do it if Al Rosen and Bobby Avila would live up to expectations, but right now they are far below par. New York could do it if Whitey Ford and Bob Grim start pitching regularly and well again. The White Sox could pitch on top if Minnie Minoso and Jim Busby hike their batting averages and if pitcher Dick Donovan can recover quickly from his appendicitis operation.

The Red Sox also would have a good chance if Ted Williams regains the pace he set when he returned to the lineup in May.

And don't count out the Tigers. They have a young ball club and if some of their pitchers could keep up with the batters they would be tough, too.

BY THE END OF THIS WEEK the Coast League could have a race pretty much like the American League with a few wins and losses in the right places. It, too, is going to be a good race right down to the wire.

One thing that makes it tougher in this league than in the majors is when a key player is hurt. The PCL clubs just don't have capable replacements because the player limit is four under that of the majors. (The majors have a 25 player limit per club, the PCL 21).

Even with a key injury, say in the infield or outfield, the PCL manager must maintain his pitching staff at full strength because the league plays more games in a shorter season. So an injury makes it tougher on the manager out here.

Shea, Giammalva in Finals

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. (UPI)—Sam Giammalva of Houston, Texas, and Gil Shea of Los Angeles Saturday gained the final round of the men's singles division in the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Giammalva, who beat Davis Cup star Vic Seixas of Philadelphia on Friday, scored his second straight upset in the tournament by surprising the top-seeded foreign star, Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, 9-7, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Barbara Breit of North Hollywood whipped Althea Gibson of New York, 7-5, 8-6, and Barbara Davidson of Milwaukee upset Darlene Hard of Milwaukee, 5-7, 6-3, 8-6, to gain the women's finals.

Coaltown to Paris
NEW YORK (UPI)—Coaltown, the speed horse who teamed with the mighty Citation to give Calumet fans one of the greatest open two punches in racing, was flown to Paris Saturday for breeding purposes.

MODERN GOLF

By DALE ANDREASON
(Golf Instructor)

The first and most natural movement in starting the club down from the backswing is with the right shoulder or right hand. Here again we have a natural impulse or action that is wrong. The correct movement in the down swing should be, for the beginner, a pulling action with the left arm that pulls the right shoulder and right hand down to the hitting area.

For an experienced player the first move on the down swing should be the unwinding of the left hip. Let no one tell you that golf is a natural game.

In checking the top doctors, teachers and players in the country the consensus was that it is the most unnatural game that we play. That is why it is extremely important to learn the correct movements in a golf swing. This can be taught to you only by a qualified PGA professional. Remember, practice never makes perfect unless it is correct practice. So get the right information and then practice this religiously.

In talking to and playing with Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Byron Nelson I have definitely reached the conclusion that these men are great and have been great basically because they all have a definite pattern of action that they follow that fits their own particular mannerisms. They have practiced correctly for many years until it has become a muscle memory pattern.

HOLY CROSS MENTOR QUILTS

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—Lester H. (Buster) Sheary, resigned Saturday as basketball coach at Holy Cross College in a salary dispute.

Sheary has coached the Crusaders since the spring of 1948 and in seven seasons his teams won 155 games while losing only 36.

His teams were in tournaments in six of the seven seasons and in 1954 Holy Cross won the Sugar Bowl and National Invitational Tournament championships.

Courtney in 149.2 880; Blair Doubles

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI)—Tom Courtney of Fordham beat three of Europe's best middle-distance runners Saturday to set a Scottish all-comers record of 1:49.2 for the half-mile run, and Dick Blair of Kansas won two sprint races in the Glasgow Rangers track meet.

However, Courtney and his three crack rivals, Brian Hewson and Derek Johnson of England and Audun Boysen of Norway, failed in their efforts to push to a new world record for the 880.

In the mile run, Bobby Seaman of Los Angeles finished a disappointing third. The race was won by Gunnar Nielsen of Denmark in 4:00.4. The time also set a Scottish all-comers record but fell far short of the four-minute mile which the crowd of 40,000 fans had hoped for.

Courtney put on a burst of speed in the final 300 yards to beat Hewson by a stride. Hewson was clocked in 1:49.3.

Len Wood, running 4:09.8, was second in the mile while Seaman was third in a slow 4:13.4.

Blair twice clocked 11.4 in winning the 120-yard invitation handicap race. In the finals he beat England's Brian Shenton by a stride. Blair later won the 220 in 21.8.

Derek Ibbotson of England won the two-mile in 8:56.2.

Brovia Fails With Redlegs; Back to Oaks

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The Cincinnati Redlegs Saturday night resold outfielder Joe Brovia to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League.

Brovia was purchased from Oakland on June 29 but failed to meet the major league test. In 18 appearances at the plate, he produced only two hits.

Santa Monica Loses

SAN BERNARDINO (AP)—Richard, Wash., Pony League baseball team defeated Santa Monica, 6-3, in the first game of the Western regional playoffs Saturday.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

This is the Sunday to shed tears for the U. S. Coast Guard. Because of the terrific albacore run, everything that floats will be out fishing for longfins and it's going to take considerable looking and helping to herd all the boats back into safe anchorages tonight.

As is usual when the longfins start running within striking distance, a certain kind of fever hits the ocean anglers and no doctor can do anything about it. For the record, I might add that I know a number of doctors who succumb to the same ailment. Only a longfin or two in the home freezer will cure it—that is, until the albacore run is finished.

Albacore were everywhere Thursday and Friday—off the east and west ends of Catalina Island, on the 14-mile bank, fairly close in down the coast, racing round the Coronados. The landings here had their biggest totals in two or three years and there didn't seem to be any end in sight, in view of the fact that more fish are moving this way from Mexican waters.

It will be hard to find a fishing boat inside the harbor today. Landings reported a terrific business for all sports fishing craft and owners of private boats were taking out their own parties. Some of those boats shouldn't leave calm water, but when albacore are running caution often is forgotten.

JACK WARD, who handles skiffs and outboards at Pierpoint Landing and a friend, Roy Wickline, put out in a 14-footer Thursday night, ran the channel to Catalina and slept until almost dawn. Then they headed for the east end of the island. They caught six albacore in short order and headed back to Long Beach before the chop set in.

Jack was back before noon launching skiffs for other anglers.

Incidentally, outside breakwater fishing from skiffs has picked up with opaleyes topping all fish on the stringers.

Nothing, however, can detract from albacore fishing this week end, no matter where you fish. Every landing from San Diego northward even as far as Malibu is sending forth "albacore specials."

It's quite possible that today's totals may fall far below those of the last several days. When thousands of boats churn the ocean to foam, albacore have a habit of sounding and waiting until the Sunday panic is over.

DOVE CORRECTION: We read the Department of Fish and Game bulletin too hurriedly and said that dove hunting will open at noon Sept. 3. That is incorrect. The season opens at one-half hour before sunrise that day. For years the DF&G has decreed that the noon opening on the first day be adhered to, but the change was made to the earlier start, effective this season. The season runs through Oct. 2, with the same hours each day, one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S fabulous fishing left Mr. and Mrs. Marvin J. Dunne, 4424 Long Beach Blvd., gasping in astonishment. Fishing there is far more terrific than they had imagined it could be.

The Dunes are back home after traveling 5,000 miles by air and water to the interior of that Canadian province.

Most of their trips fanned out from Moose Horn Lodge at South Bank, B. C., and the biggest haul was made at Ucha Lake. "Ucha" means "big fish" in Indian, and it proved just that.

Dunne landed a 13-pound lake trout, and lost another that broke a 30-pound-test line. His wife Ruth, landed a 6½-pound lake trout, and lost six other large ones that kept her busy re-stocking with 30-pound-test lines.

JR. GOLF FINAL
Sooner Dunn Edges Seanor
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (CP)—William Dunn of Duncan, Okla., shot even par to beat William Seanor of Bakersfield, Calif., 3 and 2, in a battle of 17-year-olds for the USGA National Junior golf championship Saturday.

The 6-foot-5 power hitter threaded the needle with his approach and never let Seanor take the lead. He left himself mostly short putts and three-putted only the last two holes.

Dunn had been outnumbered by Californians 3 to 1 going into the semifinal round. He defeated Dick Foote of Santa Ana, 3 and 1, and Seanor beat Phil Rodgers of San Diego, 2 and 1, in morning matches.

Beavers Win Homer Battle
SAN FRANCISCO (U.P.)—The Portland Beavers defeated the San Francisco Seals 5-4 Saturday afternoon in the Pacific Coast League series four games to one in a slugfest game featured by five home runs which accounted for all but one run.

Don Eggett's pinch homer over the leftfield wall behind Luis Marquez's single in the eighth inning drove in the tying and go-ahead runs off Bill Bradford (8-3) after the Seals had scored all their runs in the fourth inning on four homers by Wayne Belardi, Walt Judnich and Mike Baxes.

Jalopy Drivers Launch 'Claiming' Races at Gardena
Joltin' jalopies perambulate over Gardena Stadium's fast quarter-mile clay oval today in their usual weekly sessions of crashwall crunching and fender fracturing starting at 2:30 p.m. A 30-lap feature tops the motorized mayhem which begins with the 1 p.m. qualifying runs.

Competition has been so keen at the 139th and Western oval that few drivers have chalked up more than one win all season. Inverted starts prevail, which equalized the competition by handicapping the faster qualifying cars into the rear starting berths.

Brand-new feature is the novice claiming race for new drivers over 21 years of age. They may run any type car equipped with steel tops and roll-bars, while pilots must don crash helmets and safety belts. Top value of cars is placed at $99, each being subject to claim by anyone posting that amount. This assures equal competition much like turf claiming races.

Top jalopy leadfoots include Andy Anderson, Rip Erickson, Bob Simmons, Dick Barry, Rex Schendley of Lakewood, Termit Snyder, Ray Douglas, Fred Russell of Long Beach, Ed Van Eyk, Jim Klessig, Clyde Smith and Dave James.

Local Jalopy Races to Resume Sept. 4
Jalopy races at Veterans Memorial Stadium will resume Sept. 4. The local oval will be "dark" for the next four Sundays while the Roller Derby holds forth.

Only a wrestling match between two ichthyologists in the submerged diving bell on the pike could be more curious than the main bout lined up for Municipal Auditorium Thursday night.

It's going to pit George (Great) Scott against the Stern brothers—Ray and Bobby.

At least, that's what local promoter Louie Miller hopes. The Sterns are agreeable, which is completely understandable. But Scott doesn't like the odds. And no one can blame him.

Frankly, Scott is as scared as any wrestler has ever been about an upcoming match. So frightened that he headed for the nearest exit when told he had to meet the two Sterns before he could get any other bouts here.

This hit Scott where it hurts most—in the wallet. So he'll probably go through with all this foolishness, realizing it's folly to do to promoters what is perfectly all right to do to referees and opponents.

In other bouts, Dutch (El Diablo) Heffner goes against Luther Lindsey, George Dusette meets Dr. Lee Grable and Mickey Gold opposes Judo Jack Terry. Reserved seat tickets go on sale Monday at the Union Cigar Store, Ocean and Pine.

MEET SENORITA AVA

LONDON—"I even think in Spanish now," Ava Gardner said. The Senorita from the Carolinas had no roses in her teeth as she said it. She was relaxing in her fancy flat here, explaining her farewell to Hollywood and her eager shopping for a permanent villa in Madrid.

voice when she told me she would not miss much of Hollywood—Frank Sinatra included.

"That filthy press back home—I've really got a beef against them!" she said.

But, dear bosses o'mine, relax, she didn't mean you; she referred to the scandal magazines. "All my things are being shipped from Hollywood to Spain," Ava continued. "I want to get down to the fair in Valencia, and from there I'll go to Madrid and buy a house. Metro has no picture for me to do right now, anyway."

"Are you ever going to pick up that divorce from Frank?" I asked her.

"Oh, I may some time," she shrugged.

Just a year ago now she was living on a mountain near Lake Tahoe, Nev., serving her 6-weeks residence to get a divorce from Frank. This roving, raving reporter pursued her there and met her bullfighter guest, Miguel Something or Other. Her divorce was just days off.

But—a dispute about divorce expenses developed—and Ava went on a divorce strike. And she's still on it.

Frank is a terrific actor and he is one of the greatest charm boys who ever lived. Nobody can turn it on like Frank—or turn it off, either.

she added, quickly.

Ava no longer wears her wedding ring. She has been rumored sweethearting with an English peer and a titled Spanish diplomat. She was seen a few times at a Spanish restaurant in Kensington Gardens. The British speak well of her; one said, "She's not just an actress—she goes out with lords and earls."

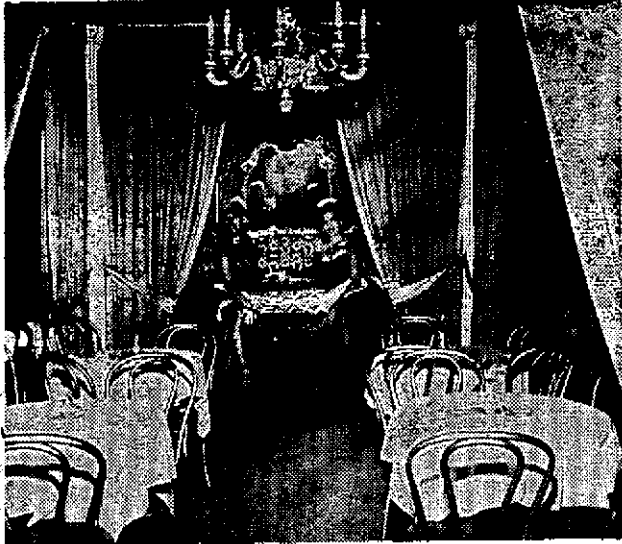

Which isn't bad for a little gal from the cotton fields.

In all this chatter about love, I almost forgot her work. George Cukor, who directed her, in "Bhowani Junction," just finished, told me this is the best she's ever done—and around the set at her studio they forecast an Oscar for her.

Ava's still one of the most beautiful girls in the world, and as for her animal appeal—well,

When she was idly talking to Cukor for a moment, a man nearby exclaimed, "Look. She even stands sexy!"

CHANDELIER ADDS ROOM

Carrying out the same French motif as the rest of Chandelier, Ernie Glaser has opened the Renaissance Room, an addition. The new addition will be for group dinners and afternoon parties and lunches. This shows a section of the room looking toward the piano bar. A water fountain with colored lights is in front of the setting. Glaser obtained another imported chandelier for the new room.

Gene Krupa's Gum Chewing Stealing Scenes in Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Many a Hollywood actor has stolen scenes chewing the scenery—Gene Krupa does it chewing gum. The drummer many consider the jazz era's greatest is playing himself in "The Benny Goodman Story." As all jazz addicts know, the chicle is as much a part of Krupa's terrific heat as are his sticks.

Krupa has a big part in the movie—as he did in the original Goodman band—and he chews the gum both with and without the music.

He participates in 27 dramatic scenes—and chews gum in every one of them.

"I key my gum chewing to the scene," says the aged musician. "Fast-chewing for the exciting scenes, slow for the more relaxed stuff."

Steve Allen, television's sardonic wit who is playing the title role, says this of Krupa's scene-stealing prop:

"After this picture, Krupa will be known as the Noel Coward of the cud."

None of the other musicians from the original band, all playing themselves, have such scene-stealing gimmicks as Krupa's. "But," comments Harry James,

Coward Cast in American Film

LONDON (AP)—Noel Coward is going to play a role in an American-produced motion picture for the first time since "The Soudra."

"My first role in almost 20 years in an American movie is the part of Roland Smythe-Pigot in Jules Verne's 80 Days Around the World," he said. "It should be tremendously interesting, for there's no such role in the book."

There's no such book, for that matter. Verne called his work "Around the World in 80 Days."

Mike Todd, the American producer, observed: "There's no bullfight in the book either and we've hired a whole Spanish town to put one in."

Just Call Heem Loo-ees Bah-ya

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—The head of the only Swiss-style government in the Western Hemisphere, President Luis Batlle Berres, is expected to encounter some name pronunciation trouble on his visit to Washington Dec. 5-7.

His name sounds Loo-ees Bah-ya Bah-r-r-ras. He is head of the nine-man National Council that serves as the executive power in Uruguay.

Thelma Ritter's Son in Scene With Her

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In "The Proud and the Profane," now locationing in the Virgin Islands, Thelma Ritter portrays the boss-lady of a group of Red Cross women.

In one scene, Thelma says goodbye to a batch of Marine raiders as they leave for a landing. She pats one Marine on the shoulder and says, "Good luck, son."

The sentence says more than it reads, because the boy is her own son, Tony Moran, making his movie debut.

Newlyweds Flocking to U.S. Capital

WASHINGTON (UP) — The nation's capital is giving Niagara Falls a good run for the honeymoon trade.

Honeymooners are trooping here from the Far North and the Deep South—and all across the continent. And they've boosted the capital city into the top bracket of honeymoon towns.

WASHINGTON, whose tropic-like heat drives the natives out of town, hasn't daunted the newlyweds. They've found it's one of the nation's most air-conditioned cities.

Although the capital just steamed through its hottest July on record, the Board of Trade reports it did its brisk tourist business, with a "tremendous jump" in the honeymoon trade.

The newlyweds begin to arrive with the opening of the first cherry blossom in the spring. They stroll hand-in-hand along the tidal basin, walk through the parks, paddle up the Potomac in canoes and take in historic sites. And, as one long-time resident remarked, "just about all of it's free."

A Board of Trade spokesman said "This year's crop of honeymooners is a practical lot." They don't ask for vine-covered cottages along the river, flowers, champagne or soft music.

Prospective bridegrooms write for comfortable, convenient accommodations at modest rates. And the board writes back that Washington has the answer.

HOTELS REPORT they've had "more honeymooners this year than ever before." Some offer special rates and almost all, if they're forewarned—send flowers to the newlyweds.

One hotel goes all out and offers special rates on a bridal suite decorated in soft pastels. It features dinner and dancing, with a floor show under the stars.

SHE'LL CATCH HIM!

French star Brigitte Aubert is featured prominently in Paramount's "To Catch a Thief." Stars of the film are Cary Grant and Grace Kelly, but Brigitte is a good bet to trap the thief.

Singer Peggy King Plans for Divorce

NEW YORK (UP)—Peggy King, singing star of the George Gobel television show, announced Saturday she has separated from her trumpet-playing husband. She said the breakup was "just one of those show business things."

The tiny, 23-year-old singer said she and "Knobby" Lee, 27, a member of Liberace's TV and touring orchestra, separated four months ago after more than two years of marriage.

George Gobel Reveals Secrets of Life at a Film Studio, So There You Are

(Editor's Note: In the following article written especially for the Sunday Independent, Press-Telegram, George Gobel, TV's Great Stone Face, tells about life on the Cribbage Set at Paramount Studios.)

By GEORGE GOBEL

I thought you might like to know what I'm doing this summer. Besides playing golf, that is. What I'm doing is I'm making a moving picture. I'm not making it myself, of course. I'm getting a little help from an outfit called Paramount Pictures. Does that name mean anything to you?

Anyway, Paramount supplies the cameras and the sets and the technicians. They also supply the producer, the director, and the script. I supply the cards.

See, what happens when the producer and the director and the technicians get into a hassle on the set, there's usually no room for me. So I go off to one side and play cribbage with my stand-in.

My stand-in is like me in every respect except one. He plays a lot better game of cribbage.

OH... BY THE WAY... The name of this picture is... was... that is... well, we don't have a name yet, if you want to know the name. We're still looking at titles. But you know who's in it? Mitzi Gaynor and David Niven.

Now ordinarily you would think that a beautiful girl like Mitzi would be bound to go for

GEORGE GOBEL
Sixty Points Behind

this suave Niven dude. Such is not the case.

The way we've got this swindle, or this picture, worked out, Mitzi makes a pitch for me. This makes me the romantic lead, a fact which doesn't shock me so much as it does my wife Alice. And it's not that Alice doesn't consider me romantic. It's just that if there's any leading to be done around our house, romantic or otherwise, Alice is the one who is going to do it.

I'm more the "romantic follow" type. At home, that is. In the studio I lead. In fact, down here they call me "the crew cut Napoleon."

ONE THING I should mention. This picture, which we hope will turn out to be a comedy, is being made in VistaVision which is Paramount's answer to Davy Crockett. VistaVision is a pretty technical process, but I can explain it to you in a few words.

VistaVision is a combined, synchro-coordinated... well, it's more like a super-focused, negatively exposed turbo... see, the way it works, the cameraman has to keep one foot on the clutch at all times.

I gotta go now. It looks like there's going to be another hassle on the set, and I'm 60 points behind on my cribbage game. I'll drop you another line in a few weeks. 'Til then, this is your old friend Lonesome George who is secretly developing a revolutionary movie technique for the very small screens.

It's called Micro-Scope.

BY A NOSE!

Tape Marks Trail to Robbery Suspect

NEW YORK (UP)—A mosquito helped police catch a youth wanted in a Bronx station holdup.

Levis Nedd, 18, was arrested after an alarm went out for a man with adhesive tape on his nose.

Nedd said he put the tape on his nose to cover up a bad mosquito bite.

Fewer Married Couples Now Live With In-Laws

WASHINGTON (UP) — Fewer and fewer married couples are living with their in-laws, the Census Bureau reported today.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) summed up the feeling of most Congressmen when he told a reporter that "the low down payment for houses has helped more couples to live alone and like it."

The Census Bureau said its statistics show that the war-born practice of married couples living with their in-laws has become outmoded. It based the statement on preliminary surveys. A definite figure on the trend will be issued next week.

JOE SEDENSKY of Elyria, O., was visiting Washington with his wife when a reporter cornered him in the Capitol and asked his reaction to the Census Bureau's statement.

"No two families can live under the same roof," he said as his pretty wife nodded in agreement. "In this case, it's better to go it alone."

Rep. Oliver Bolton (R-O.) said he's something of an expert on the subject because he and his wife lived with mother when they first were married. Mother is Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, also a House member from Ohio.

"We were getting pushed around like all service people just after the war," Bolton said.

"But laws permitting veterans to get low cost housing without much cash has helped immeasurably."

The young Boltons are on their own now.

MR. AND MRS. B. A. Rohn of Fort Wayne, Ind., said they lived with their in-laws as long as they could put up with it. Rohn said "We had to build a house to get out... and, you know, I like my in-laws."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haynes of De Kalb, Ill., said "No house is big enough for two families. More jobs, more houses and more money has cured the in-law problem."

Review, Parade to Honor Talbott

WASHINGTON (UP)—Harold E. Talbott, the retiring Air Force secretary, will be honored with an aerial review and parade at Bolling Air Force Base here next Thursday.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, will be host at the ceremonies.

Talbott resigned effective Aug. 13, after a Senate investigation of his outside business activities.

N. Y. Asks U. S. Help in Drought

WASHINGTON (AP)—A searing August sun burned pastures through the Midwest and East last week, but government drought officials reported only one plea for federal aid—from New York.

Weather Bureau reports through Aug. 1 said Missouri pastures needed rain to save the shriveling grass. Great Plains pastures were suffering under heat and dryness. In Kansas, pastures were "fading rapidly" and "stock water shortages again becoming critical."

In New York, where pastures also were failing under the heat wave, Gov. Averell Harriman asked the Agriculture Department to survey conditions in six counties. The study was to determine the area's eligibility for federal drought emergency loans.

THE GOVERNMENT'S feed subsidy program for drought-stricken farmers and ranchers was dropped July 31. But emergency loans to qualified farmers hit by drought remain available in affected areas of 19 states—New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Mississippi, South Carolina, Kentucky, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Missouri, Alabama, North Carolina, Virginia, Arkansas, Louisiana, Georgia, Tennessee and Illinois.

"Most of the Southwestern and Plains areas hardest hit by drought and dust bowl conditions last spring and early summer had 'come back' with later rains, an Agriculture Department official said.

Harvey A. Dahl, a drought relief specialist, said only sections of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas remained on the feed subsidy list when that program was dropped July 31. At the peak of the drought last spring, feed subsidies were going to farmers and ranchers in more than 1,000 counties in 19 states—a third of the nation's agricultural counties.

Despite one of the hottest Julys on record, hay crops have been good in most parts of the country and a big feed grain crop is forecast.

THIS SUMMER'S heat wave, whatever the records say, doesn't seem as bad as last year's to Dahl, who has made dozens of drought area inspections. He recalled a trip to Missouri last summer when "the temperature hit 119 degrees and we found them putting ice on the incubators to hatch baby chicks."

Some corn had been damaged beyond recovery in Kansas and Nebraska by heat up to Aug. 1. But in most other areas, despite a growing need for water, the crop was reported in generally good condition up to last week.

Stut-Stut-Stutters Help Understanding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Stuttering, under some conditions, is easier to understand than normal speech, Dr. John J. Dreher says. He describes "bounce block" stuttering as best for transmitting through noise.

A "bounce block" stutter is one in which the sound of the first consonant is repeated, such as "wuh-one, tuh-two."

Research by Dr. Dreher at the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Ohio State University shows that if noise interference is high, as in aircraft communications, a radio message comes through better with the "bounce block" stutter method.

Dr. Dreher says further research will be done to determine if a "double bounce block" such as "tuh-tuh-two" gives better intelligibility than the single "bounce."

He says individuals from Japan, India and Hungary, as well as Americans, were used in the tests, and all found the stuttered words easier to understand. First tests used only numbers; later tests employed lists of words most frequently used in CAA control tower operations.

He says the "bounce block" stutter method was used because "it appears the initial sound in a word is very critical to its identification. Repeating the entire word is time-consuming for the speaker and doesn't improve intelligibility much. When a listener makes an error in understanding a word, he tends to repeat the mistake on the second attempt."

PREMATURE BIRTH CLUES DISCOVERED

DENVER (AP)—Clues that may make it possible to predict a premature birth long in advance, or perhaps prevent it, are found by Drs. E. Stewart Taylor, Paul D. Bruns and Rudolph M. Anker, and Vera E. Droese, University of Colorado Medical Center.

They find that a deficiency of sex hormone and early activity of the uterus during pregnancy may indicate premature birth. Both conditions were detected early in pregnancy among some women who later had premature infants, but not found in women delivering full-term babies.

"While we know there have been tremendous strides forward in medical care during the last 20 years, no one has ever fully documented these changes," reports George Bugbee, president of the Health Information Foundation.

Dame Sitwell Becomes Catholic

LONDON (AP)—Dame Edith Sitwell, poet and author, announced Saturday that she has been received into the Roman Catholic Church.

"I have taken this step," she said, "because I want the discipline, the fire and the authority of the church. I am hopelessly unworthy of it but I hope to become worthy."

Last year, she was made a Dame of the Order of the British Empire—equivalent to a knighthood.

Iowans Set Program for Golden Picnic

It will be a golden anniversary for the Hawkeyes, who are more numerous than cornstalks in these parts.

The 50th annual Iowa summer picnic, largest outing of the season, will be Saturday in Recreation Park, under the joint auspices of the Iowa Associations of Long Beach and Southern California.

State Sen. Richard Richards will speak on "The Tidewater Question." He will be introduced by Malcolm Epley, "Beach Combing" columnist of the Independent Press-Telegram.

Marshall Craig, formerly of Allison, will be master of ceremonies.

COUNTY AND COLLEGE registration will begin in the morning. At 12:15 p. m., the Municipal Band, directed by Eugene LaBarre, will play a concert featuring numbers by Iowa composers.

These will include march, "Auto Triumphant," T. Fred Henry (Des Moines); novelty, "Old Settlers on Parade," C. W. Dalbey (Council Bluffs); march, "Land of Plenty," C. L. Barnhouse (Oskaloosa); melody, "A La King," Karl L. King (Fort Dodge); "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," Meredith Willson (Mason City); march, "Iowa Band Law," George W. Landers (Clarinda).

I thanked him, went back to school that fall, got interested in journalism, and never made anything that looked like a decent fraction of a million.

The lumber industry, somehow, muddled along without me.

IT HAS had its ups and downs, but it has been the basic element of the industrial economy of the Pacific Northwest and a big section of Northern California for a century.

For a time, it looked as if the lumber industry might play itself out by wastefully using up all of its raw material, the standing timber. A logged-off area used to present a dismal picture of wreckage and destruction. After the loggers had been through, the land was abandoned and permitted to go back to the county via tax foreclosures.

But a quarter of a century or so ago wiser policies and practices were established. To conserve the timber, the young growth being left to form the basis of a new timber crop.

Handled properly, timber is a renewable resource. We know now we'll always have new lumber for the nation's construction activity. We'll have it for those tens of thousands of houses that continue to spring up all over Southern California.

SOME years ago the forest conservationists introduced the "tree farm" program. Traveling through forest country, you frequently see signs announcing a tree farm area.

A tree farm is privately owned land managed for maximum use. It may range in size from a small woodlot to a vast industrial forest. The idea is to carry out a carefully planned program that will provide for periodic tree harvests.

Woodlot and forest owners who agree to such a program receive tree farm certification from the national forest conservation organization that functions as sponsor.

Some western land is better suited to growing timber than any other crop. Given proper protection from fire, bugs and other enemies, trees take care of themselves and work for their owners night and day. Eventually, they're ready to be sawed into lumber for the nation's markets.

All over the U.S., tree farmers are using woodlot earnings to pay off mortgages, build new houses, send children to college, buy new cars and make new investments.

Next time you see a tree farm sign, you'll know it's a symbol of intelligent use of a basic natural resource.

IN THE years since I quit that sawmill job and went back to school, a lot of millions have been made and lost in the lumber industry.

One fellow, a grade school classmate of mine, made his in an interesting way.

Years ago, using what small financing he could scrape up, he began buying that cut-over land the timber men were abandoning. He bought it from the county for a few cents an acre and, as time ran on, he accumulated huge areas of the seemingly worthless land.

Then came the rise in the lumber markets and the increasing demand for any kind of lumber in the war years. Species that had been left on the land as worthless by the first loggers suddenly became highly valuable. Other trees that were small at the time of the first cutting grew big enough to provide sawlogs.

The land he had bought at a few cents an acre brought him immense returns. He became a timber baron on the leavings of a previous generation of timber barons.

Universe Girls Take Over U-I

CONTRACTS are presented to four Universe Pageant dazzlers by Robert Palmer, casting director who doubles as pageant judge. He's encircled by Miss Universe (left), Miss Ceylon, Miss El Salvador and Miss United States.

FEMININE STARS at Universal-International moved over, to make room for Miss Universe Pageant winners and runners-up last week. Signed to long-term contracts were Miss Universe, Hillevi Rombin; her runners-up, Miss El Salvador, Maribel Arrieta, and Miss Ceylon, Maureen Hingert, and Miss U. S. A., Carlene King Johnson. A score of pageant beauties appeared in a film short, but the four lovelies in these pictures appeared to be the best bets for film careers. By week's end everybody from Rock Hudson to the script girl knew the pageant beauties had taken over at U-I.

ROMANTIC duet is played by Miss Universe with Steve Allen, star of "The Benny Goodman Story." She's cast as Goodman admirer in her first featured role.

Ceramic Hobby Exhibit Closes 5-Day Run Today

"Ceramics In Motion," the $5,000,000 California Ceramic Hobby Show, will conclude its five-day run at Municipal Auditorium today from noon until 11 p. m.

Featured will be actual production of ceramics, from simple work to lace dolls.

INCLUDED are pottery throwing on the wheel, copper enameling, gold etching, hand sculpture, firing in the kiln and hand decorating.

Grant Beach, noted teacher, will bring the entire ceramics department of his School of Arts and Crafts for demonstrations. Exotic models in costume will pose for those working in clay sculpture and rare pieces from the school's gallery will be shown, including the works of Rick and the Gen. William Mitchell, are due here Friday with Shoji Hamada, Margaret Montgomery and other leading ceramists.

Library Youth Council to Eye Science Fiction

Why do people read science fiction? How did it begin? Is it just a fad or does it have real value?

These are a few of the questions that will be discussed at a meeting of the Library Youth Council Thursday at 7 p. m. in Bay Shore Branch Library, 5390 East 2nd St.

Discussion will be spearheaded by a panel made up of three members of the council and Judson Voyles, Bay Shore librarian and a science fiction fan of long standing.

The program was planned by Mrs. Doris Watts, Long Beach Public Library's Coordinator of Work with Young People. It is open to high school and college age.

Marine Seriously Hurt, 8 Others Injured in 3 Auto Collisions

BUENA PARK—One Marine was critically injured, another suffered major injuries and seven other persons were hurt in three accidents here Saturday.

Raymond C. Zietler, 19, stationed at Camp Pendleton, was reported dead in St. Joseph's Hospital, Orange.

He was one of eight persons hurt in two accidents within an hour near the Manchester Blvd. Artesia Ave. intersection.

THE SECOND seriously injured Marine was Joseph W. Young, 20, of 1512 W. Cedar St., Anaheim, who is stationed at El Toro Marine Air Base. He was taken to El Toro's dispensary, then was transferred to Corona Naval Hospital after his car collided with a gasoline truck on Lincoln Ave. near Hansen St. E. N. Evenson, 33, of 1010 S. Magnolia St., Fullerton, the truck driver, was not hurt. Zietler was injured when the one operated by Benjamin E. 6.8—a major shock.

Property Tax Rate Cut Seen for Lakewood

The City of Lakewood's 1955-56 budget will exceed by $307,000 last year's budget of $981,260, but the property tax rate will be cut one cent, City Administrator Robert T. Andersen predicted Saturday.

The city administrator said his proposed budget would require a general property tax rate of 28 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The trick of cutting the tax rate while hiking the budget, he explained, is possible because of unexpended reserves carried over from 1954-55, plus anticipated increases in revenue.

Lakewood City Council will hold a public hearing on the budget at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the council chambers, 5062 Faculty Ave.

THE PROPOSED 28-cent tax rate, based on the city's estimated $40,000,000 assessed valuation, would yield revenue of $112,000.

The remainder of the $534,500 anticipated revenue would come principally from state and county allocations, license fees and sales tax receipts.

Sales tax receipts in Andersen's proposed budget total $35,000 and include only the month of April, 1956, when the tax must go into effect.

On sales taxes, Andersen stated: "If a sales tax ordinance is adopted by the city prior to April 1, 1956, the revenues will be increased accordingly and the development of our park and recreational facilities will be expedited. This potential revenue for the period from Oct. 1, 1955 to April 1, 1956 has not been included in estimated revenues, but it is estimated to be approximately $200,000."

A CITY SALES TAX will not be introduced Tuesday, and it is not "physically or practically possible" to adopt a sales tax and have it go into effect prior to Oct. 15, city officials said.

Introduction of a sales tax this fall was proposed by the city as an alternative to a proposed property tax increase by the Lakewood Park, Recreation and Parkway District to expedite development of three city parks.

PRINCIPAL REASONS for the $307,000 boost in this year's proposed budget are added police protection in the amount of $50,000; an additional contribution of $90,000, to the street lighting maintenance district; and a $170,000 increase in capital and street construction projects, Andersen said.

Capital projects include $83,000 for site acquisitions and preliminary plans and surveys for a city-county administration building and community auditorium.

Other capital projects include $47,000 from the general fund for developments at Mayfair Park, including a youth building, lighting for the softball diamond, picnic tables and shelters.

Also included in the total budget are $47,000 for park and recreational facilities development and $58,000 for the operation of Mayfair Park, and swimming pool, and the city's contribution to the Camp Hi-Hill program of the Long Beach Unified School District.

Andersen said the city is in a sound financial position, and predicted the property tax rate will be reduced again in fiscal 1956-57 because of an expected sales tax revenue of $425,000.

BENDS VICTIM CG Rushes Diver to Decompression Cell

A 24-year-old Santa Monica diver, stricken with the "bends" while diving off Santa Barbara, was rushed Saturday night by a Coast Guard plane to a San Diego decompression chamber.

In sick bay aboard a submarine tender, his condition was listed as critical.

Long Beach Coast Guard headquarters, which directed rescue operations, identified the victim as James McElroy.

Officers said McElroy, using shallow water equipment, had been diving to 150-foot depths, for several days from the converted minesweeper, La Busca, six miles south of Santa Barbara.

HE GOT BIRD

Now L.B. Man Wants to Know What to Do

Joe Anakin, 5320 E. Broadway, got the bird Saturday afternoon. Now it looks like he's stuck with it.

Joe found the bird—apparently only a few days old—in his patio. He figures it must have fallen from a nest in a tree, but he can't find any nests in nearby trees.

Now he's appealing for someone to take it off his hands or tell him what to do with it.

"I know from nothing about birds," Anakin said, "and I don't like the way the cat looks at the little guy."

Joe tried to feed the little chirper some worms, but the bird refused to take them in that form.

"I guess he wants 'em chewed up," Joe said, "and I draw the line at that."

Caltech Reports Big Earthquake in Pacific

PASADENA (AP)—The California Institute of Technology recorded Saturday a strong earthquake which seismologists said occurred deep in the earth in the Southwest Pacific.

Seismologist Charles Richter said the tremor probably was in the vicinity of the Fiji Islands, and its epicenter was 250 miles below the earth's surface. The quake registered a magnitude of 6.8—a major shock.

Big Merger Wins OK of Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Justice has given its blessing to a proposed $130,000,000 merger involving some operations of Radio Corporation of America, Sears-Roebuck and Co. and two large appliance manufacturers, it was announced Saturday.

Assistant Attorney General Stanley N. Barnes, chief of the department's anti-trust section, said an extensive study proved that the transaction will have no major impact on competitors in the markets involved.

The department has an anti-trust suit pending against RCA charging the huge concern with monopolizing the radio-television patent licensing business. But current deal involves different fields and will work this way:

The Whirlpool Corp. of America, manufacturers of a home laundry equipment line, and the Seegar Co., manufacturers of refrigerators and freezers, will pool their assets. RCA and Sears then will acquire part of this company, with RCA contributing its entire stove and air-conditioner lines.

SEARS already owns stock in both Whirlpool and Seegar, but plans for the merger state that Sears and RCA together will have less than 50 per cent control in the firm.

Plans for the merger were made public recently by Whirlpool in a letter to stockholders. Whirlpool officials later told the United Press that all parties to the agreement had sought Justice Department approval. Barnes was then asked about the anti-trust implications.

He said that all aspects of the deal were considered. First, the department gave weight to the prospect that participation by Sears and RCA jointly "might develop into something like the DuPont and General Motors combine in the white goods line."

"This was no serious cause for concern, he said.

"Further, we received assurances from RCA that it will not use its position to supply Sears with its radio, television or phonograph products."

"He said that since Sears and RCA both have stove lines now, the department also took up the possibility that competition between the two would be eliminated."

"WE FOUND RCA stove line in poor health," he said, "and that both companies are comparatively small in this field. The move will have little impact on the 11 other major producers who certainly are strong and healthy enough to buck the competition."

Barnes said distribution angles also were considered very carefully.

"We found that there are 1,648 distributors handling white goods lines and 2,250 handling either white goods or television products—either of which line could be expanded," he said.

He explained further that independent washing machine manufacturers have been having their troubles for many years. He pointed out that of 26 such manufacturers existing in 1940, only four are left in the field.

"THE OTHERS had to sell out or diversify and get into an integrated operation," he said. "This move will give a small stove and a smaller white line company a chance to tie up with a strong corporation and tie into RCA's TV distribution system."

Most competition to the new company will come from other big companies "like GM or General Electric," he said.

"This is 'not one without its problems,' he said, 'but we finally concluded to give our consent to it.'"

Officials of Whirlpool said they have not yet tried to pinpoint a target date for completion of the merger, pending stockholder approval. They said employees for the new company will be selected "principally from the merging businesses and from Sears and RCA."

Headquarters for the operation "probably" will be St. Joseph, Mich., Whirlpool's headquarters.

Bryce Canyon Bringing 650 Sailors Home

The destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon will return to Long Beach next Thursday, bringing home 650 men and a new commanding officer. The ship has been in the Far East six months.

New skipper of the Bryce Canyon is Capt. James W. Davis of Oceanside. He relieved Capt. Mann Hamm July 19 while the ship was in Yokosuka, Japan.

Thirty-seven Long Beach men and 15 from immediately adjacent communities are aboard the ship.

THE BRYCE CANYON sailed from Long Beach Feb. 25. It provided repair and tender services to destroyers of the 7th Fleet at Sasebo, Japan, and at Yokosuka and Sasebo, Japan. The ship also visited Hong Kong, Manila and Kobe.

The tender is expected to remain in the Long Beach area until next spring.

Late Sleuth's Son Kills Wife, Baby

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—A bespectacled, pipe-smoking school teacher whose father once was the head of Scotland Yard's murder squad walked into a police station Saturday and confessed to an old friend that he had bludgeoned his wife and year-old daughter to death.

Shocked detectives, who knew both the schoolteacher and his father, then rushed to a newly-built bungalow in nearby Orpington where Frederick James Chapman, 32, taught school. They smashed in the door and found the bodies of his wife, Irene, 30, and their daughter, Elaine, lying in a blood-spattered bathtub.

Police quoted Chapman as saying: "I did it about 8 p.m. the night before last. That would be Thursday, August 4."

"I used a hammer. I hit the baby about three times. I think I hit Irene twice. I turned on the water in the bath."

If Chapman had a motive, police did not reveal it. He was arraigned on murder charges.

Chapman told his story to Brighton Detective Superintendent Philip Burney, an old friend who only last week walked with Chapman in the mourning procession at the cremation service for Chapman's father, William.

The elder Chapman, one of England's leading detectives, headed the homicide squad in Scotland Yard until his death two weeks ago.

Chapman was pale when he appeared at the arraignment in Bromley. He spoke only in low whispers.

Burney stood beside him at the arraignment. He showed no emotion as he discussed Chapman's confession. He said he questioned Chapman at the Brighton police station early Saturday, and then took him to London for further questioning.

"There Chapman said, 'I would like to tell you what happened,'" Burney said. "He then agreed to make a written statement."

"At 2:35 p.m. on August 6th Chapman was charged at Catford Police Station with the murder of his wife and daughter," Burney said. "The charge was read over to him and he was cautioned. He made no reply."

Burney asked that Chapman be jailed pending preliminary hearing Aug. 15. A clerk asked whether Chapman objected.

"No," the schoolmaster replied.

Arrest of 'Life' Man's Attacker Asked

NEW YORK (AP)—Life magazine said Saturday it will file a criminal assault charge against a gambling syndicate member who roughed up a Life correspondent assigned to do a story on vice in Galveston, Texas.

Edmund T. Hennelly, a spokesman for the magazine said the charge would be filed Monday in Galveston against Anthony Ferritta, director of the city's notorious Maceo syndicate.

Ferritta has admitted striking Henry (Hank) Suydam, chief of the Life bureau in Dallas, Tex. The incident occurred Thursday when Suydam and photographer Joe Scherschel took pictures at an alleged gambling casino.

Andrew Heiskell, publisher of Life, appealed to Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas to step into the case, which he described as "an affront to the American public and a flagrant violation of freedom of the press."

Heiskell demanded that the mayor and city attorney of Galveston provide Suydam with police protection when he returns to Galveston Monday for the filing of the charge.

Suydam and Scherschel had spent a week in the island resort city secretly snapping photos of Galveston vice spots and gambling clubs.

Suydam, later sporting a bruised cheek, said he and Scherschel fled from three men after they took pictures of the Turf Club, operated by the notorious Maceo syndicate. Suydam said he later was knocked down by Ferritta, syndicate director in Galveston.

Heiskell said he told Gov. Shivers in a wire that "this assault took place while the correspondent was on assignment."

"It was taken to Galveston authorities," the wire continued, "but, knowing your feeling about freedom of the press, we're quite sure you will want to take whatever steps are in your power to see there are no further occurrences of this nature in the state of Texas."

Heiskell said "Life's Houston attorney, John McCullough, will handle filing of the charges."

Heiskell fired curt telegrams to Galveston officials Friday night protesting the assault as constituting "an affront to the American public and a flagrant violation of freedom of the press."

Suydam said he got slapped in the lobby of a beachfront hotel Thursday night. He said Ferritta and two other men followed him and Scherschel upstairs with the film.

The men wanted to know where the film was and when he declined to tell he was backhanded, he said.

Ferritta, who said he did the slapping, said he followed Suydam and Scherschel because he became suspicious of their action. Galveston Detective W. J. Whitburn said he could do nothing until a complaint was filed.

Mayor George Roy Clough, who won election on the platform of a wide-open but controlled town in which supervised gambling and prostitution would be permitted, said he had received a telegram from Suydam which asked him to file charges against Ferritta. Clough said he had turned the telegram over to City Attorney Jimmy Phipps.

20 Killed in N. Africa Border Crash

ALGIERS (AP)—Twenty persons were killed and six wounded in clashes between French forces and North African natives, French authorities announced Saturday.

Twelve khaki-clad soldiers of the rebel "Army of God" were killed just over the Tunisian border by colonial infantry. One French soldier was killed and five wounded.

The rebels had crossed the border to stir up trouble, authorities said.

In another clash Thursday in Algiers, seven more rebels were killed and an officer of the sixth battalion of Alpine Chasseurs was wounded.

Professional Men of Argentina Hit Peron Law

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Doctors, dentists, engineers and lawyers Saturday demanded repeal of the law under which the government seized control of their professional societies soon after Juan D. Peron became president.

National organizations representing the four professions joined forces with the Buenos Aires Bar Assn. in charging that the law "curtails the constitutional right of free association . . . and denied the fundamental principle of self-government."

The engineers also charged in a separate statement that nine years of official control have wrecked their professional association, "once the pride of Argentina and its members."

POLICE CHIEF RAPS CLUB ATMOSPHERE

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—If there was a "night club atmosphere," as Police Chief John Reynolds put it, at police headquarters here, it was shattered Saturday in the wake of an order from Reynolds.

Reynolds directed his men to keep their feet off the headquarters office desk and not to listen to radio music.

He said the ruling was prompted by two visits during the week by Mayor John J. Grogan. Reynolds said each time Grogan found the desk officer slumped in his chair listening to radio music.

HUNGRY Get-Up Wins Counterspy Him a Meal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The man in Union Square, Saturday, wore black slacks and a black and pink sports shirt. His manner was furtive.

His pockets were filled with microfilm, envelopes with "top secret" stamped on them, a tear gas gun the size of a fountain pen. To Patrolman Don Murphy, the man showed cards and credentials identifying him as an agent of Central Intelligence Agency.

"Don't let anybody see them," the man said. "I'm after some secret documents that were stolen from another agent here last week."

He said his name was Richard Ernest Grayson and that he was staying at the YMCA. He refused to elaborate further. The police called Rear Adm. (Ret) M. C. Cheek, local head of the CIA here. Cheek took one look at Grayson and his get-up.

"If one of our agents ever showed up in an outfit like that," Cheek said, "We'd fire him."

Rice Hulls Use in Bricks Found to Resist A-Rays

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A Louisiana State University agriculture engineer has found that rice hulls can be made into a lightweight, low-cost brick which may prove to be valuable in defense against atomic attack because it absorbs radiation.

Some 90,000 tons of rice hulls are now burned or dumped as waste each year.

Assistant professor John H. Hough discovered that when burned rice hulls turn into a mineral state that is 84.5 percent silica. The ash flakes are porous and contain numerous non-connecting cells which make it a good insulator.

A small tool shed, which could serve as shelter from radiation, has been built on the Louisiana civil defense agency.

"This type of structure may solve the problem of finding economical, durable and effective shelters against radiological fallout," said state civil defense director Francis A. Woolfley.

Hough said the new brick, with burned rice hulls used as a substitute for sand, actually will gain in strength over a period of years and tend to become like soft sandstone.

The bricks are lighter and probably better insulator than adobe bricks, but not comparable in strength, Hough said.

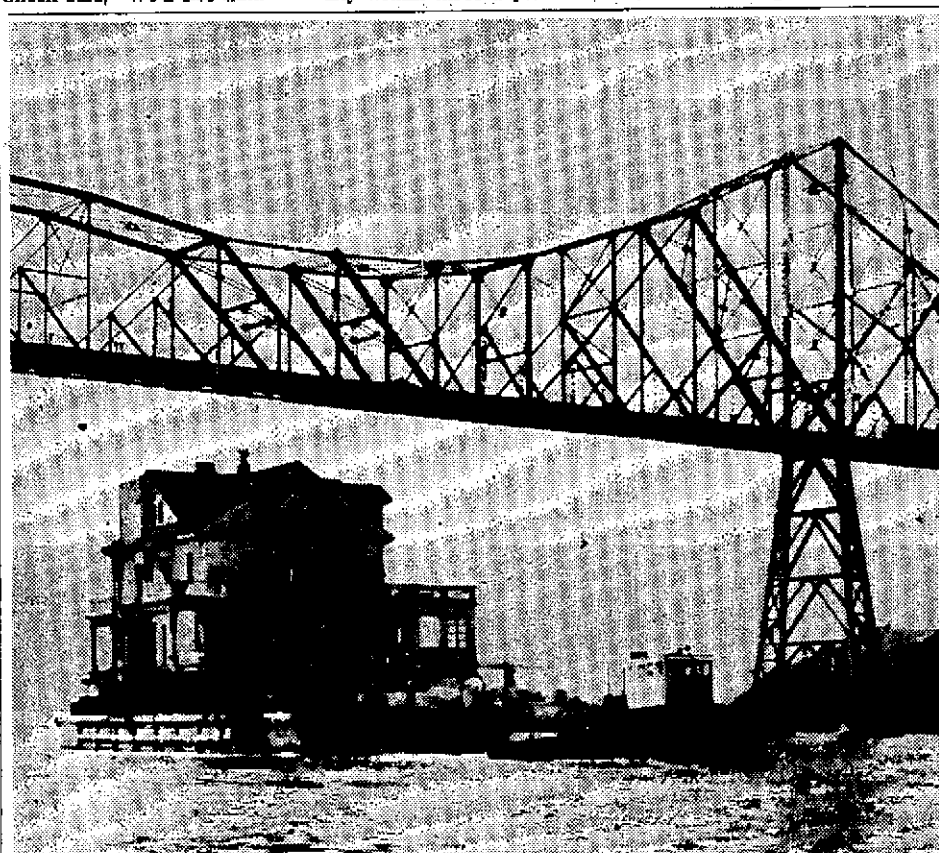

He estimated that the "soil-ash" brick could be made by a farmer for as little as five cents each, if he had the brick forms, mixers, and rice hulls.

The bricks are made of equal parts of ash and soil and some emulsified asphalt with water added, poured into forms and dried before being exposed to the sun for curing.

Voyagers on Junk Due in This Week

TAIPEI (AP)—U. S. Vice Consul Calvin E. Mehler, hopes the 30-ton junk carrying him and five Chinese crewmen across the Pacific will reach San Francisco early this week.

A radio message received from Mehler Friday said the junk Free China, which left here 110 days ago on a voyage that has been persistently dogged by trouble, would reach the California city within three days.

Thermal Oil Recovery in Field Tests

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An experiment with a new method of recovering heavy crude oil in California has shifted to a commercial oil field after being conducted in a laboratory the past eight years.

The test will be the first attempt to extract heavy oils from a commercial field by a thermal recovery process. This method was developed in Texas by Magnolia Petroleum Co., as a joint research effort of Socony Mobile Oil Co. and its affiliates, Magnolia and General Petroleum.

General Petroleum has just started the experiment in the South Belridge field, northwest of Bakersfield in Kern County. The project is expected to take 2 1/2 to 3 years and cost about a million dollars.

The purpose, GP says, is to see if thermal recovery, also known as in-place combustion, is feasible from both engineering and economic angles as a secondary way to recover low gravity crude which has resisted gas or water injection, or other means.

IN LAB TESTS of thermal recovery, Magnolia engineers found that the heat generated by burning a small amount of heavy residual oil underground in a reservoir lowers the viscosity of the remaining oil so that the latter can be recovered when pushed toward producing wells.

What actually is done, the company explained, is this: The heavy oil is ignited electrically after the oil sands have been permeated by air, pumped into the zone, through an injection well. The combustion rate is regulated by the amount of air injected.

No usable oil is expended in the thermal recovery process. That oil is pushed ahead of the burning front after their viscosities have been changed, with only the residual oil actually burning.

THE GP EXPERIMENT is being carried on in the upper portion of the Tulare oil zone and at a depth of about 700 feet, producing 13 degree gravity crude.

This zone is similar to other California producing zones which contain large amounts of heavier crude oils at the end of primary production.

The field test will use a 5-well pattern, with four production wells centered on one injection well. The production wells will be 330 feet apart. There are also four observation wells.

If the thermal recovery method succeeds here, GP said, other tests may lead to production of unestimated but apparently large amounts of oil heretofore held to be unrecoverable.

Other firms connected with the field experiment are Continental Oil, Esso Research and Engineering, Gulf Oil, Honolulu Oil, Ohio Oil, Shell Development, Sunray Mid-Continent, Texas, Tide Water Associated Oil and Union Oil Companies.

Ike Won't Interfere in Washington Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House Saturday labeled as false reports that President Eisenhower might be considering a proposal to end the long Washington transit strike by agreeing to veto a bill to revoke the Capital Transit Co. franchise and corporate charter.

"The President of the United States does not make any agreements with anyone as to how he shall perform his constitutional duties," press secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters.

CHICAGO (AP)—Three things happened to make Saturday a big occasion for 31-year-old Mrs. Bessie Samet.

It was her birthday. It was her 11th wedding anniversary, and she received a letter from Queen Elizabeth of Britain.

The letter was acknowledgment of a poem, "Sonnet to a Great Lady," which Mrs. Samet had written and sent to her.

Drug Given Blame as 2 Children Die

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Following the death of two children and the serious illness of five others, warnings were broadcast in Lisbon Saturday against further use of a penicillin-type drug produced in Portuguese laboratories.

The broadcasts were aimed at physicians and druggists. Don't inject any more "Lipocine," said the announcements. The laboratory which manufactures the product said the drug had been made and sold since October 1954, with excellent results.

U.S. Crops Urged to Crack Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. gently need," Kerr said in an interview. "If these stocks of food, feed and fiber are handled properly they can end international tensions and make for peace."

Other senators, including Stennis (D-Miss), Russell (D-Ga) and Young (R-ND) have suggested that U. S. farm surpluses might be sold or traded to Iron Curtain countries if the Communist world demonstrates it is sincere about ending the cold war and expanding peaceful trade.

Truck Plunges, Driver Saved by Fast Leap

HILLSBOROUGH (AP)—Jacob Reitz, 39, of Fresno, jumped to safety as his six-wheel dump truck plunged off a 50-foot embankment on Crystal Springs Road Saturday.

He said the vehicle went out of control when the dirt load shifted. Before Reitz jumped, the truck snapped off 50 feet of heavy timber fence and clipped off a utility pole. The pole landed on a following car driven by Carl Alex Wilcsinsky, 25, of San Mateo.

When Wilcsinsky stopped his car it was struck from the rear by another dump truck driven by Wallace J. Carter, 51, of Pismo Beach. The pileup halted traffic for an hour.

CAMP IN CANADA

Local Scouts Leave Soon for Jamboree

Three Long Beach Explorer Scouts and one adult leader will represent this city at the 8th World Jamboree of Boy Scouts, convening in Niagara-on-the-Lake, Canada, Aug. 18 for an 11-day period.

The local Scouts will leave Monday night for Los Angeles and depart by train Tuesday morning for Salt Lake City, where a two-day practice camp will be set up.

The itinerary of the western Scouts, comprising five full troops of 33 boys each, plus three adult leaders in each troop, will take them from Salt Lake through Chicago, New York and Washington, D. C., before arrival at the quaint Canadian town, which is near Niagara Falls and Lake Ontario.

DR. DON MARKHAM is the adult leader who will be Scoutmaster of one of the troops. He will have as assistants Calvin Detwiler of Hollywood and Weston F. Sprague of Whittier.

Dr. Markham, commissioner of the Long Beach Area Council, will be the official movie photographer for Long Beach and Region 12, BSA. He is taking 4,000 feet of 16-mm. film and will dub in sound track later. When finished, the motion picture will be shown to thousands of Long Beach Scouts.

In his troop will be California, Arizona, Utah and Hawaii boys. The boys from this area are Robert Smith, Compton; Evert Brown Downey; Emil Ponso Jr.; Lynwood; Bradley Peck; Richard Terbush, Douglas Sprague and Sanford Weldon, all of Whittier. The Long Beach boys are Jerry Jacobs, 14 (Post 101), 4300 California Ave.; Bill Bennett, 15 (Post 48), 4101 Chestnut Ave., and Johnny Sessions, 14 (Post 66), 5105 Harvey Way.

Bennett and Sessions are Eagle Scouts and Jacobs is well on his way toward that high honor.

SIX HAWAIIAN BOYS are scheduled to reach here tonight, via airliner from Honolulu. They will join Dr. Markham's troop Monday evening.

Canada is expected 10,000 Scouts and adult leaders at the jamboree. One thousand of those will be flown across the Atlantic from England, making it the biggest airlift in Scouting history. Canada has invited 47 countries of the British Commonwealth and 57 other nations to send delegates to the jamboree.

GOING TO WORLD JAMBOREE

Three Long Beach Explorer Scouts check their itinerary with Dr. Don Markham as they prepare to leave Monday for the 8th World Jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Canada. GOLD!

Railroad Century Saluted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Blood-tingling cries of "Gold!" still echoed through the Mother Lode foothills of the Sierra.

River steamers and sailboats, plying the Sacramento River from San Francisco, dumped passengers and supplies on the busy river docks.

Stages and freight wagons rumbled through the streets on their way to bustling mining camps—Red Dog, Whiskey Bar, Rough and Ready, Yankee Jim's and Murderer's Bar.

Sutter's Fort, once a community of several hundred whites, Indians and half-breeds, had become the thriving little city of Sacramento.

AGAINST THAT backdrop, Col. Charles Wilson launched the first railroad project in California and 100 years ago next Tuesday the Sacramento Valley Railroad Co. (SVRR) laid its first rails of a 23-mile line to nearby Folsom.

Beset by financial difficulties and competition, the SVRR several years later was taken over by the Central Pacific Railroad, parent of today's far-flung Southern Pacific.

On Tuesday, the Southern Pacific observes the 100th anniversary of its first line in the West, forerunner of the historic railroad days of the "Big Four"—Leland Stanford, Collis P. Huntington, Charles Crocker and Mark Hopkins.

The centennial celebration at the SP station here will include a "train to rail" pageant. There will be Pony Express riders, an old stage coach and reenactment of historic episodes of early railroad days.

A HIGH POINT will be arrival of a "pioneer" train pulled by one of the old diamond stacked locomotives. The train will include an early day coach, complete with its pot-bellied stove, oil lamps and passengers in top hats and bustles.

On exhibition will be some of the West's most historic old locomotives and cars as well as modern railroad equipment.

An anniversary dinner will honor Theodore Dehone Judah, the young chief engineer who built the Sacramento-Folsom line and later surveyed the route for the first transcontinental railroad, over the High Sierra via Donner Pass.

Lakewood Dogs Entertain Tots

Fifty dogs and their handlers, all of the Lakewood Obedience Club, entertained young patients at the Children's Orthopedic Hospital, Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon. The dogs demonstrated obedience from the basic "sit!" and "down!" to advanced "education" when they follow complicated instructions by hand signals alone.

Events included relay races over six hurdles, and maneuvers to music by a drill team of 16 dogs and their handlers.

Robert Davis emceed the show.

HIRAM'S MARKET STARTED

Councilwoman Ruth Bach is assisted by Leon Silverman, one of the owners, in breaking ground for the new $2,000,000 Hiram's Market at Palo Verde Ave. and Spring St. It is designed as the largest in the Southland, the developers say. Left to right are Louis Armet, architect; Mickey Moss and Hy Harris of Hiram's; Councilwoman Bach, Hy Harris and Silverman of the market company; Don Metz, Aldon Co., developer; Harvey Harris and Phil Harris of Hiram's; Bill Woodrow, Aldon Co.; Bill Lieberman, architect, and Irving Moss, Hiram's.

Work Starts on Hiram's Market

Ground was broken Friday morning for the new Hiram's Market at Spring St. and Palo Verde Ave., which will be the largest such store in the Southland and one of the largest in the state, the Aldon Construction Co., developers, announced.

Costing $2,000,000, the store will have 51,500 square feet of floor space. Construction will be done by Zimmer-Lieberman, Los Angeles. All of the latest conveniences for shopping will be incorporated, according to the owners, Phil Harris, Irving Moss, Leon Silverman and Nat Moss. This will be the fourth supermarket for the firm. The first was opened in August, 1939, in

"Be in your new home before school opens," is assured buyers in the popular 25th unit of Los Altos, Rodney Whaley, executive vice president of the Los Altos Realty, Inc., stressed as he announced only a limited number of homes remain on the market. Located on Palo Verde Ave., just north of Anaheim St., the homes adjoin the exclusive La Marina Estates sites which L. S. Whaley & Sons are offering for highly restricted residential construction. They are also across the street from the fast-growing new Long Beach State College. Close by is a grade school and only a short distance away is the new high school, now under construction.

Embodying most of the outstanding features of other Whaley built homes in Los Altos, the 25th unit offers a wide selection from which the buyers may select their new home. Built-in ranges, ovens, beautiful fireplaces, glass walls to the patio areas and each with two baths, are but some of the many features of this newest unit. A complete fire alarm system is offered.

WITH CONSTRUCTION nearly completed on the big new Walker's Department Store in the Los Altos Shopping Center, Bellflower Ave. and Stearns St., and many other stores now being erected, property values in the area are showing a marked upward swing, reported Dave Davenport, general sales manager of Los Altos Realty, Inc. "With the new center open we will offer Los Altos residents the complete, planned community, unequalled anywhere else," emphasized Davenport. "When Mr. Whaley started his developments in the area he set aside much acreage for parks, churches and schools. We now have some of the outstanding grade and junior high schools in the Southland and soon will have a big new high school. The city has started developing the parks and we already have fine churches throughout the area."

"With the shopping center opening Los Altos will become one of the best-known communities in the nation because of the planning and development. Recent sales of homes two and three years old in Los Altos show a marked upward trend in values, largely because of the development of the center."

Unit 25 may be reached by driving out Pacific Coast Hwy. to the Junction of 7th St., east on 7th a short block to Bellflower Blvd., north on Bellflower to Anaheim St. and east to Palo Verde. Or from the north, visitors may drive east on Spring or Stearns St. to Palo Verde and south to the model homes.

Walker-Lee's Sales Soar

Walker & Lee's 1955 real estate sales to date triple those of last year. Figures released reveal this realty firm sold over 3,000 homes in the first 6 months of this year, with a volume of $38,786,167 compared to 1954's sales for the same period of 1,124 homes valued at $12,904,358.

"The fact that Walker & Lee is tripling last year's sales volume is indicative of the home building industry is setting in Southern California," said Frank Hart, general sales manager of the realty firm. "Sales in Orange County continue at a fabulous rate, and indications are that there will be no let up in 1955," Hart continued.

Walker & Lee, Inc. has gained national recognition as specialists in merchandising new homes and subdivision acreage. The firm maintains offices in Lakewood and Orange County and serves many of the Southland's top builders.

Linda Lyle Estates for Luxury Living

"Convenience" has been the key-word in the planning of Linda Lyle Estates, according to builder James F. Riggsby.

Linda Lyle Estates received wide publicity as an all-electric community, but electric living is only one of many attractions to be found in the homes.

Riggsby said, "We took it for granted that our buyers would expect such things as sliding glass doors, fireplaces, select hardwood floors, complete insulation and patios. We went further, though, and tried to think of features that some people might not specifically ask for, but would be glad to have after they moved in. That's why we have included infra-red ceiling heaters in the bathrooms, vent-hood equipped with lights and fans over the ranges, professional landscaping, easy-to-clean GE textolite moulded drainboards and handy breakfast bars."

Storage space has been emphasized as well, with revolvador closets, walk-in kitchen pantries, oversized garages and attics. Linda Lyle Estates are set in an orange grove on the western outskirts of Fullerton. Schools, churches and a complete shopping center are nearby. The homes are on Cypress St., one hundred yards north of East Chapman Ave.

Five basic floor plans for 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes are offered from $20,000 to $24,000. Among the many extras included in the purchase price of each home are six General Electric built-in appliances in color: Range, refrigerator (hanging wall refrigerator in some homes), oven, garbage disposer, dishwasher and combination washer-dryer. A General Electric water heater is also included in the purchase price, and so is a GE weathertron that heats, cools and air-conditions without burning fuel of any kind.

Two B. of A. Men Promoted

Two Long Beach bank officers, Ralph K. Seiersen and Rene A. Brosseau, have been promoted by action of Bank of America's board of directors. Jesse W. Tapp, chairman, announced. Seiersen, who is at the bank's Long Beach main office, receives the title of vice president and trust officer. Brosseau, at First and Pine branch, has been promoted to an assistant vice president.

Seiersen, 600 Flint Ave., is a member of the Elks and Exchange clubs and the Chamber of Commerce. Brosseau, 825 Golden Ave., is a member of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Lions club, and was active in last year's Red Cross drive.

Quality Is Stressed in Pembroke Village

Good sales response at Pembroke Village unit 5 in Garden Grove indicates that today's home buyer is willing to make a reasonable down payment for a quality home, reports Bruch Bartleson, sales director for Pembroke Village, builders and developers of this unique and popular unit featuring rustic architecture for country living.

This newest unit of Pembroke Village continues emphasis on custom details, Bartleson related, and there are several new features in the three or four-bedroom, two-bath Hanson and Hintz homes.

Compartmentalized baths with sliding doors make it possible for five people to conveniently use the facilities in complete privacy, and the bathrooms are equipped with fans and Pullman lavatories.

Albert Walker, Ric Owen Win Realty Board Honors

Albert E. Walker, who first became interested in real estate when dragging a surveyor's chain at the age of 12, is the Realtor of the Week, honored by the Long Beach Board.

A native of Arkansas, Walker aided his grandfather in surveying land for his renters.

He was a salesman for a large fixture concern in the east from 1923 to 1943.

"I learned the definition of money at an early age," he says. "Money is a commodity that will buy everything except health and happiness and a universal passport to everywhere except heaven."

His next move was to learn how to acquire money, he continues.

"I found the basis of all wealth is real estate and decided to make realty my business."

"Having come to Long Beach and worked in the shipyards from 1943 until 1947, I studied real estate and passed the examination in July, 1947. I opened an office on East Broadway. Then in January of 1950 I moved from that office to my present location at 1827 Harbor Ave."

With him is an associate broker, Mrs. Thelma Chigaras.

Mr. Walker and his wife, May, are charter members of the Truett Memorial Baptist Church where he serves as the eldest active deacon. Their home is at 1245 Loma Vista Dr.

E. W. (RIC) OWEN, the salesman of the week, is one of the most traveled persons in Long Beach.

He came to California from the Great Lakes region as a lad. While working his way through the University of California, Berkeley, travel books gave him a yearning to see the world. With $50 in his pocket he took a leave of absence. First he purchased a $30 used car and headed east. After 6 months he reached the coast, having worked his way along.

Then the next 15 years saw him cover most of the world, 75 countries in all.

"I did this selling," he explains. "Selling goodwill, education, entertainment, films, literature and advertising. I recall how it was in Mexico, cane in Cuba, salt water to Capetown, big game in Africa, heat in Arabia, curry in India, tea in Ceylon, temples in Siam, rubber in Malaya, opium in Saigon, the wall in China and Geisha girls in Japan. Those are some memories."

"I finally returned home to complete my education and graduate from Berkeley and then took off to tour North and South America. I returned to New York to start a lecture tour just as gas rationing started."

His tour plans halted, Owen went into war work in the Pentagon and then came to Long Beach for war work.

With his knowledge of the world he decided to teach geography in the public schools and did so for 5 years. Then he returned to selling. He signed up with Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., 408 E. First St.

He recently was awarded a trophy by the Long Beach Sales Executive Club because of his selling ability.

"I think I have seen the world and I can proudly say that Long Beach has more today and promises more tomorrow than any other area."

Owen, unmarried, lives at 1236 Atlantic Ave.

Office Moved

Carl and Kathryn Wland announced they had moved their realty office from 2441 E. 10th St. to larger quarters at 3226 E. Broadway.

Village Home Fair Draws Big Response

Although many of the roads in the area are still in the new pavement stage, the preview showing of the Anaheim Village Home Fair in West Anaheim last week met with overwhelming response, the sales agent, Walker & Lee, reported.

Buyers from the Long Beach area were especially enthusiastic over the near location and the wide variety of floor plans and the choice of conventional and modern exteriors.

The builders, Griffith Bros., also stressed that buyers who act quickly can still buy on the veteran, no-down terms and easy 30-year payments. "Home Fair is one of the newest home sites that will have these easy terms while the homes in our first unit remain for sale," a spokesman for the builders said.

The Anaheim Village homes feature the Blue Ribbon kitchens that have built-in range and oven, washer-dryer, dishwasher and disposal in a choice of decorator colors.

To visit Anaheim Village Home Fair go straight out Lincoln (Carson) to Euclid and turn right at the signal to the homes.

New Records at City Library

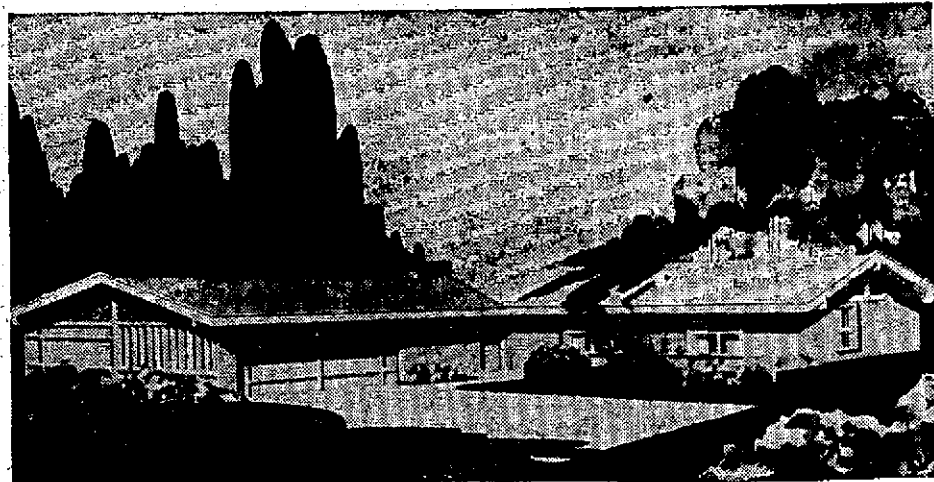

The Public Library suggests that you listen to "Symphonies Under the Stars" in your own patio, if you are unable to get to the Hollywood Bowl as often as you like. Suggested new lps to choose from are:

"The Art of Josef Lehevine" (selections from Chopin, Debussy, etc.); Franck, "Symphony in D Minor" (Parey conducting); Holst, "The Planets" (Sargent conducting); Mahler, "Symphony No. 8 in E Major"; Rimsky-Korsakov, "Symphony No. 2" (Ansermet conducting); and Shostakovich, "Symphony No. 1" with "The Golden Age."

IN ANAHEIM VILLAGE

This home is typical of the variety of contemporary and provincial stylings being offered at the Anaheim Village Homes Fair where the three and four-bedroom homes are still available to vets for no down payment, sales agents Walker & Lee stated.

IN CHAMPION PARK

Wide choice of stylings, as exemplified above, gives custom-built appearances to 148 three and four-bedroom, two-bath home community at Champion Park, located at East and North Sts., Anaheim.

'Wetback' Arrests Show Big Drop

EL CENTRO (UP)—Arrests of Mexican "wetbacks" were far under last year's total through July, the U. S. Border Patrol announced.

Average daily arrests during the month were 54 for a total of 1,645 or 24 per cent under those made in July, 1954, when 202 illegal entrants were apprehended.

Builders to Wear Loud, Wierd Shirts

Members of the Builders' Exchange of Long Beach, who attend the dinner meeting Monday evening at Lafayette Hotel, are invited to wear colorful sport shirts.

Chuck Stovall, manager of the Exchange, said most men have received shirts as gifts which they consider too loud and wierd to wear in public. "Here's their chance to wear them," he explained.

Speaker at the dinner will be Al Sparis, former All-American and pro gulf player. He will discuss proselytizing players.

George Jagerson is program chairman for the month.

Report Heavy Sales for Champion Park

Heavy sales increases were reported by the Arnold Construction Co., builders of Champion Park at North and East Sts. in Anaheim, following announcement that nothing-down terms for veterans and small down payments for non-vets, will continue for a limited time, despite the recent government ruling restricting such terms on future developments.

The three-model homes, with contemporary, maple and modern furnishings, have drawn large crowds, including many buyers, from all parts of the Southland, it was reported.

"Noteworthy in Champion Park Homes," he said, "are the nine different scientifically designed floor plans to meet individual needs, and the avoidance of 'tract appearance' by giving buyers a choice from among 18 different exteriors."

"Living rooms," he added, "have sliding walls of glass opening onto terraces, with built-in brick barbecues, while draperies for the wide expanse of glass walls come with the homes in a choice of six colors."

Terms for vets are nothing down but costs and impounds with monthly payments from $66.70 for principal and interest. Non-vets may buy on low FHA terms.

Other features of the new homes include built-in range and ovens, 70,000 to 75,000 BTU thermostat-controlled heating, 40 to 50-gallon gas water heaters, ceramic tile pullman tops in both baths, stall showers in some models, natural birch kitchen cabinets, Waste King garbage pulverizers, wide overhangs, redwood fencing, front and side lawns and shrubs, and two-car garages with extra storage space.

To Resume Dredging on Colorado River

NEEDLES (UP)—Dredging operations on the Colorado River here will be resumed by the Bureau of Reclamation as soon as full crews can be obtained.

Paul A. Oliver, project engineer, said the dredging will start downstream from Needles. The channel will be cleared as far as Topock, about 10 miles to the south.

The project will cost $1,214,000, Oliver said.

Pay Hiked

LONDON (UP)—A half million British civil service employees were granted 5 per cent pay raises totaling 15 million pounds (42 million dollars) a year.

GEORGE LOEB
Will Manage Local Store

Franklin's Will Open in Center

The opening of the new Franklin's in Lakewood Center early next month will mark the first step in expansion of the 170-store chain into Southern California.

Franklin's, operating its women's and children's ready-to-wear stores in many cities of the southwest and western states, will open about Sept. 1 at 5028 Pepperwood Ave.

Manager of the local store will be George Loeb, who comes here from Franklin's in Houston, Tex. Loeb has managed local units of the chain for the past six years.

He and his wife, Shirley, have settled in Los Altos, residing at 6828 Driscoll St. with their two children, Randy, 5, and Sandy, 16 months.

The new Franklin store, located in the mall unit south of the May Co., will cover 7,500 square feet. Four shopping window displays will face each side of the mall, with entrance to the store from both sides.

The shop will feature leading brand names, and will stock complete lines of women's and children's apparel.

"Our policy will be to strive for customer satisfaction and convenience in a friendly atmosphere," Loeb said.

Record Pace in Dwelling Construction

At the present pace of home building, an all-time record for construction of new dwelling units will be set this year in Los Angeles and Orange Counties, it was announced yesterday by the Home Builders Institute, trade association of large home builders and allied industries.

Unless the present pace slows, new dwelling units started during 1955 will total 121,900 in the two Southland counties. Previous high figure was chalked up in 1950 when 102,766 units were started.

Included in the figures are single family homes and multiple family structures already completed or started and units planned for construction starts during the next five months, it was stated.

Of the projected total for the two counties, 94,000 units are expected to rise in Los Angeles County while Orange County will be the scene for 27,900 new dwelling unit starts. Highest previous figures for the two counties, individually were 96,501 units in Los Angeles County in 1950, and 18,411 in Orange County in 1954. In 1950, Orange County had only 6,265 dwelling unit starts.

NEED FOR even more homes were pointed out by HBI President Walter W. Keusder who said, "When we consider that 18,000 persons are moving into Los Angeles County each month, representing a current annual population increase by removal from other areas of 216,000 persons, it becomes evident that the 94,000 units expected to be started this year are not too many."

Of the 94,000 Los Angeles County units, 69,000 are expected to be single family residences, as compared to 78,025 in 1950. In Orange County, 27,000 of the 27,900 dwelling units forecast for 1955 are expected to be single family homes.

The Los Angeles County picture is already being effected, he said, by the increasing cost of land.

No Immediate Effect Seen on Stiffer Housing Terms

By ROBERT F. MORISON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Effects of the stiffer government guaranteed housing loan requirements are not likely to be felt for some time.

Officials of both the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration are watching the market to see what happens to new home building once the reduction in maximum loan maturity from 30 to 25 years and the 2 per cent hike in down payments is felt.

One government official said no "significant decline" is expected. Probably only after the current house building season is over can any estimate of the effect be made, he said.

He thought January would be a good indicator month. Officials explained that the move was not directed against the volume of new building — top administration officials have said they see no evidence of overbuilding — but rather to forestall inflationary trends. Prices "have been creeping up" the past few months in various items used in construction. Although these rises have been largely absorbed, officials said, "that can't go on indefinitely."

THE NATIONAL Association of Home Builders disagreed with the government's move and flatly predicted an annual cut of 100,000 new units in housing starts next year once the present backlog of mortgages already approved is gone through. The NAHB fixed the value of these units at $1,000,000.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, too, condemned the move and said the government's "expressed fear of future shortages in certain building materials . . . is likely to have the effect of an invitation to hoarding building materials and boosting their prices."

Albert M. Cole, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, which handles the FHA home loan program, has estimated new housing starts this year at between 1,200,000 and 1,300,000. The record year was 1950 when 1,396,000 new starts were made.

Earlier this year, new home building ran at an annual rate of about 1,400,000 but has tapered off since.

In June, FHA and VA reported that record highs had been reached in new home loan approvals. For VA it was 39,500 and for FHA 32,000. But both agencies reported that applications for new loans were down in June from earlier this year.

THE VA, which industry officials expect to be harder hit, reports that in 1954 the average down payment was $1,100 on some 407,000 loans guaranteed. Two out of every 5 new home loans were guaranteed on a no-down-payment basis. One-third were approved on new homes for 26 to 30 year maturity. The VA also said the 30-year loans were being traded at increasing discounts before they were dropped. But an industry official predicted that banks would soon start selling the 25-year loans at a discount too.

The VA and FHA regulations do not reflect the actual market terms which a buyer may get. They are, it is stressed, merely the most liberal terms the government will approve. The buyer may have to put more money down and pay off his mortgage in a shorter time.

For a $15,000 home, the FHA said, a buyer will now have to put down about $2,300 and pay $75.73 a month, including principal and interest, for 25 years. Under previous terms, he would have to make a 5 per cent minimum down payment of about $2,000 on the same house and pay $71.20 for 30 years.

FOR THE SAME home, the VA said, a GI buyer must now pay 2 per cent, or $300, down and $81.70 a month, including principal and interest, for 25 years. Before the change, the buyer could, if the lending agency was willing, put nothing down and pay $76.05 a month, including interest and principal, for 30 years.

Typical conventional loan terms, according to the U.S. Savings and Loan League, are now 20 per cent down and, in the case of the hypothetical $15,000 home, pay $79.20 a month, including interest and principal, for 20 to 25 years.

POPULAR WITH BUYERS

Villa de Flores in Santa Ana reports heavy sales as the new unit offers luxury homes from $14,500 with no down except costs and impounds to vets.

Villa de Flores Reports Near Half Million Sales

Featuring all-electric kitchens that include built-in, comfort-level, range tops and electric dishwashers, Villa de Flores, Brainerd Construction Co.'s development of 108 custom-styled three-bedroom-and-a-den and four-bedroom residences on Flower St. in Santa Ana, today enters its fifth week of sales activity. Sales already have topped the $½ million mark, and nearing the $½ million record, according to officials of Walker and Lee, agents.

Priced from $14,500 and $15,400, qualified veterans are still moving in on terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs, it was stated, with monthly payments ranging from $75.52. Convenient FHA terms are also still available for non-veteran buyers, sales agents further explained. Furnished exhibit homes, open daily to 9 p. m. are reached from Long Beach in approximately 20 minutes by driving east on Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) which becomes Memory Lane in Santa Ana, to Flower St., turn left on Flower to Orange St. and Villa de Flores. In addition to the built-in all-electric kitchens that also feature copperized range hood in which is concealed exhaust fan of light, and large ash hardwood cabinets, other luxury appointments are floor-to-ceiling real log-burning fireplaces; sliding glass doors; genuine plaster walls; oak floors; forced air heating; deep, walk-in wardrobe closets; steel casements; cedar shingle roofs; Rockwool insulation.

Large and convenient separate service porches with rough-in for washer-dryer and stub-in for 220 volts; asphalt concrete driveways and concrete walks; and big, two-car garages with 300 cubic feet of storage area are other features.

Imperial Estates, Norwalk, Advance Showing Today

Upon receipt yesterday of their Certificate of Reasonable Value from the officials of D. & E. Corporation, builder-developers of Imperial Estates in Norwalk, announced the first advance showing of homes in Unit 9 for this week-end.

Frank Chandler of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, declared that all residences in this newest section will be fully priced at $12,050, and are to be available to qualified veterans for no down payment except impounds and closing costs. Monthly terms, including principal and interest, will be $61.06.

Chandler urged all veterans interested in these quality homes on the easy terms to act without delay, adding that D. & E. Corporation has built more than a thousand well-known homes in the Norwalk area, and all have been sold before actual completion. Community's model homes.

Five Builders Offer East Anaheim Homes

Hailed as the newest in fine residential locations in Southern California, Anaheim's choice East Side is proving a popular homestead for many buyers.

This part of Anaheim, it was stressed, is well established with schools, churches, playgrounds and shopping centers already part of the smog-free community.

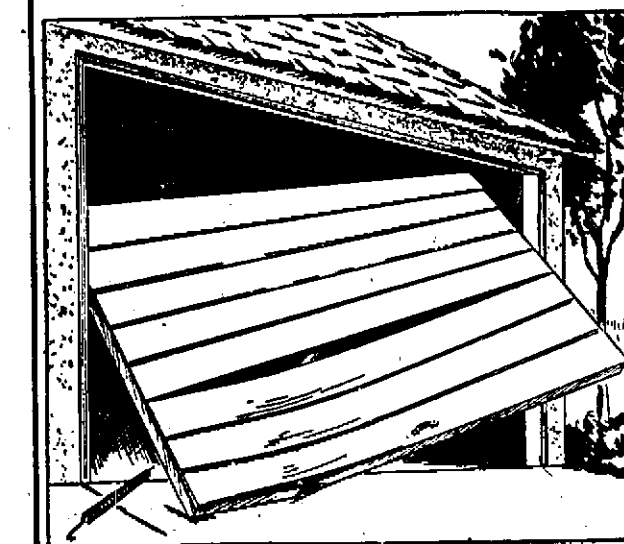

The location puts buyers close to beaches, and to main roads that lead to freeways yet is away from the industrial sections and noise of the freeway sites. Five home builders will feature open houses in the area this

Placentia Park Holding First Showing of New Unit

Placentia Park, one of five select oak floors over wood sub new home locations in the choice East Side residential section of Anaheim, will hold its feature showing this weekend.

The spacious 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes are available to buyers in a wide variety of 18 different exterior elevations and a range of floor plans. The variety, plus the quality construction and the low price of $13,910 has made the Placentia Park homes some of Anaheim's most popular, the sales agent, the Center Realty Co., said.

The choice of plans, exterior styling, the curved streets and ideal location coupled with sound construction that includes

Speakers to Discuss Realty Listings

Two speakers are on the program for the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors at Lafayette Hotel. Perry Johnson will discuss "Information a Listing Should Contain." Morris Holmquist will talk on "How to Obtain a Good Listing."

President E. T. Moore announced he will make his quarterly report at the meeting and no other business will be considered. John Bohan is program chairman.

AMONG MANY MODELS

This is typical of a Placentia Park home, just one of 505 different homes and floor plans all offered this week end and all within a few blocks of each other in the established residential East Side of Anaheim. The Placentia Park Homes, Bonded Homes, Chelsea Park Estates, Anaheim Gardens and Sun Estates all still offer veterans no-down-payment terms.

Still 'No Down' for Chapman-Magnolia

In spite of the recent governmental edict, officials of Ajax Construction Co., developers of Chapman-Magnolia Park, Garden Grove, announced the final unit of 3-bedroom-and-a-den and 4-bedroom homes, will still be available, to qualified veterans for no down payment, no impounds and no closing costs. Priced from $11,600, monthly payments for veterans will continue to be from $61.41, it was also noted, and all payments include principal as well as interest.

To inspect the development's two furnished model homes, open from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. every day, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Highway 30 (Grand Ave. to Buena Park); turn right and drive south to Chapman Ave.; left on Chapman to models.

Country-life features of these prestige homes themed as "distinctive rustic," are interiors where wall space, windows and use of floor area make effective and restful decoration and furnishing both simple and inexpensive, it was explained. Imaginative use of modern wall textures, finishes and color stylings help spur individual decorating talents, too, it was pointed out.

Other popular features are built-in gas ovens and range tops in a virtual rainbow of colors and hues, complete with automatic timing device and controls; spacious built-in breakfast nooks and large picture windows.

DOLLAR-FREE TO VETS

Chapman-Magnolia Park, Garden Grove, still offers vets homes such as this without any down payment, not even impounds or closing costs.

Car Speedometer Clubs Must Pay State Liquor Tax

BOSTON (AP)—When the policeman says you were speeding and you insist you weren't, chances are you're both right—because your speedometer probably is wrong.

That's the opinion of Robert S. Kretschmar, executive secretary of the American Automobile Assn., in Massachusetts. "On newer cars," he said, "more than 50 per cent of those checked had speedometers that were 'slow.'"

Kretschmar advised motorists to have their speedometers checked at least once a year because "even the most accurate of them begin to get 'fast' or 'slow' after 15,000 or 18,000 miles."

TOPEKA (AP)—A request from the armed forces that liquor purchases for officers and non-commissioned officers clubs be exempt from the Kansas liquor gallonage tax, has been turned down.

The state liquor control director, Charles W. Pratt, said the tax amounts to about $20,000 a year.

LIVING PACKAGE HOME

This attractive home is one of the distinguished contemporary designs at Verano House and Garden in Garden Grove featuring the complete indoor-outdoor living "package" developed by the Tobin Co. Included are complete landscaping, sprinklers, concrete patio with overhead trellis and large planter. Homes have three or four bedrooms.

'Package Plan' Aids Verano Home Buyer

Week ends formerly required for home buyers to condition new homes are saved for family activities with the indoor-outdoor living "package" featured at Verano House & Garden, new Tobin home development in Garden Grove.

Featuring complete landscaping, installed sprinkler system, redwood fencing and concrete patio with overhead trellis and large planter, Verano 3 and 4-bedroom homes are ready for complete enjoyment when the home buyer moves in, according to W. J. Bortner, vice president of the Tobin Company, developers of this conveniently located suburban community.

The outdoor living facilities are a part of the complete living package, valued at $1135.55, included in the price of these 1½ and 2-baths advanced homes, which can be purchased by veterans for no down payment, except impounds and closing costs. The 3-bedroom homes are priced at $10,995, with veterans' monthly payments, including principal and interest, of $59. Terms for models are full price, $12,595 and monthly payments, $66, according to the Pioneer Land Co., sales agents.

Interior features included in the living package are spacious kitchens, two big dining areas, Columbia steel kitchen cabinets with sliding glass doors and panoramic sand color, Westinghouse food waste disposers, kitchen vent fan, oversized electric bath heaters, Owens-Corning insulation, finger-tip heating with General thermostat controls, Dishmaster and Laminart counter tops.

With the last 85 homes completed in a garden-like surrounding, Lampson Plaza announced that veterans still may purchase the large 4-bedroom 2-bath homes for nothing down and monthly payments including principal and interest are only $62.58.

Purchase price of the homes is $12,155.

Designed to be within the average budget, Lampson Plaza homes offer high-grade construction in a fine new community, the builders stress.

Some of the many features include: Fireplaces, Waste King pulverator, knotty pine cabinets, ceramic tile in the kitchens, plastered walls and ceilings, insulation, genuine hardwood on raised and vented sub-floors.

Large double garages are connected. Clothes poles, incinerators, shades and screens all are installed. Roomy cupboards, closets and wardrobes are offered in each model.

Non-vets are offered FHA terms.

To visit Lampson Plaza view-ers drive east on 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to West St., then left one quarter of a mile to the homes. Those using the Santa Ana Freeway turn south on Harbor Blvd., to Lampson, then turn right to the homes.

Refrigerated Homes Termed 'Hot' Buys

"Real cool, yet the hottest home value in Orange County" is the way Henry C. Cox, builder, describes his new Lifetime Modern Refrigerated Homes. 100% air conditioned by Weather-sphere.

Large, quality-minded crowds are confirming Cox's opinion as they inspect the furnished model homes at Brookhurst and Chapman, Garden Grove.

Terms are no down to qualified veterans, followed by monthly payments as low as $73.32 (including both principal and interest).

The ultra-modern "ground hug-ging" architecture of these new homes is characterized by glass gables and four foot overhangs, shading sliding glass walls and aluminum framed sliding win-dows. Lighting is noiseless Touch-Plate.

Meal preparation is virtually automatic in the Lifetime Modern kitchens that offer the finest of nationally known built-in equipment, including range and oven, disposal and exhaust fans. Lavishly spacious, Lifetime Modern Refrigerated Homes offer 3 or 4 bedrooms, plus a den, a dining room and breakfast nook, a roomy pantry, and 2 lav-ishly tiled baths.

Luxury Homes Only Few Minutes Away From Long Beach Industry

Easy accessibility to the Long Beach industrial and business areas is an important asset of "Luxury Homes," the completely new tract of contemporary homes in Garden Grove.

New freeways and modern highways take the "Luxury Home" resident to metropolitan Long Beach, as well as surrounding townships, in a matter of minutes.

Acclaimed the "moderate priced" home with the "luxury priced" features, these homes are outstanding examples of fine architecture and design.

Incorporated in each residence are more than 44 extra features adding to a comfort and livability time.

unmatched by all others in the same price range.

ments for these 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes are as low as $63.88 per month for principal and interest. Four model homes are on display at Brookhurst Ave. and Bell Rd. in Garden Grove.

Ultra-modern accessories such as the built-in oven and range top, handy garbage disposal, cozy built-in breakfast nook, and unusually large closets are included to meet the needs and desires of growing families.

An emphasis is also placed on outdoor living, with a huge backyard area enclosed with decorative redwood fencing provided every home. Front landscaping is also included with attractive California shrubbery featured.

Plan Luxury Own-Your-Own

Brokers E. F. Barton and John E. Lenz announce the sale of the northeast corner of Ocean Blvd. and Junipero Ave. to Richard E. and Alice E. Barton.

The buyers, who have been ac-tive builders of own your own apartments, will improve this 100'x150' corner with the first privately financed multi-story Class A, steel and concrete, own-your-own constructed in Long Beach in 25 years.

Plans being drawn call for luxury 2-bedroom 2-bath apartments with more than 1250 square feet and 1-bedroom and den apartments 800 to 1,000 square feet. All units will have ultra modern built-in kitchens and a pantry.

All apartments, because of the selected corner location, will have unobstructed views of the Ocean and its strand and also Bixby Park. Garage parking for all apartments will be in the sub-basement and elevator service to all levels will be provided. Con-struction is scheduled to start at

By NEIL MacNEIL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's slums are under the most massive attack in history.

Private industry has joined the government to correct housing ills in cities all over the country. Untold billions of dollars are being poured into slum clearance. Neighborhood rehabilitation, housing code enforcement, and new construction.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has launched a blight elimination program under the slogan: "No slums by 1960."

The National Association of Home Builders, with 33,000 members, hopes to set up housing service centers in 50 cities before Jan. 1 to lead the attack on local housing eye-sores.

Eventually the NAHB plans to have such a center in every major American community.

Lending institutions—notably the U. S. Savings & Loan League—are seeking national legislation to permit them to take an active role in the war against slums.

NAHB president Henry G. Waltemade said that the realtors' program to eliminate slums by 1960 is both "practical and attainable." He said this has been demonstrated by such programs in Los Angeles, New Orleans, Pasadena, Calif., Kansas City, Mo., and Charlotte, N. C.

He also cited Chicago, New York, Cincinnati, Corpus Christi, Tex., Detroit, Durham, N. C., Philadelphia, Portland, Me., and San Francisco as making "impressive headway" in similar programs.

"THESE COMMUNITIES are now wiping out unsafe and insanitary housing conditions at an annual rate that will make them free of health, safety and sanitary hazards in housing within five years," Waltemade said.

"This doesn't mean, of course, that we expect perfection in urban environment by 1960. It does mean that any city that determines to do it can be without slum-breeding filth, squalor and dangers to health and safety... by 1960."

The NAREB estimates, on the basis of U. S. census figures, that as much as $12,000,000,000 a year may now be going into home improvements and repairs. Many of these repairs are ordered by housing code enforcement officials—but many others are voluntary.

Morton Sabar, chief of the NAHB rehabilitation department, said several major industries may join in the fight to eliminate slums. He said some are urging establishment of housing service centers to lead the attack in local communities.

THESE CENTERS have already been established in Louisville, Ky., and Richmond, Va.

Others are being formed in Washington, D. C., and Baltimore. Each would have a joint operating committee of builders, realtors, lenders, and civic leaders to advise the full-time permanent staff of the center.

U. S. Savings & Loan president J. Howard Edgerton recently said that the lack of "enabling legislation" has so far prevented lenders from contributing their "know-how" to the cause of slum elimination.

"Incredible as it may seem," he said, "the opportunity to assume part of the job of redevelopment has been withheld from our institutions, despite the fact that our institutions do the biggest home financing job and know more about housing than any other group of lenders."

He urged that lenders be allowed to invest up to 5 per cent of assets in financing land acquisition and development in construction and sale of houses in cleared slum areas.

Saber said the federal government could not carry the job of urban redevelopment all alone. He said this generally requires long advance planning and neglects the immediate need of neighborhood improvement.

MODERN STYLING

Forward Homes in Garden Grove feature boldly modern styling in three and four-bedroom, two-bathroom homes. Due to completion of financing arrangements, these homes are still available to veterans on no cash down terms with 30-year loans.

Vets Still Offered Terms of No Down

Veterans may still buy a Forward Home in Garden Grove also reflect the modern trend to functional design, with "no cash" down terms, according to the Contracting Engineers Co., developers of this new community of boldly modern 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bathroom homes, because financing arrangements were completed before the order limiting loans to 25 years.

With 30-year loans requiring monthly payments from $63.15, including principal and interest, veterans may move into Forward Homes without a penny down, the Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, announced. The full price of these distinguished dwellings, designed by Smith and Williams, A.L.A., winners of the 1954 National Award of Merit and National Association of Home Builders Award, is from $12,455.

The tasteful decorating of Forward Homes models highlighted the grand opening of this conveniently located development last week. Model homes were furnished by Wilders. The appointment of these

Blue Bell 'Bargain' for Vets

To promote the sale of their luxurious 4-bedroom homes in Garden Grove, the builders of Blue Bell Manor are offering a 10-day special.

Veterans can move in for only $199 which includes impounds—a saving of nearly $200. Occupancy is immediate upon lenders approval according to Sam Wishnow, an officer of Monogram Home Builders, developers of the tract.

Blue Bell Manor is proving a favorite because of its close relationship to the beaches, Disneyland, and its ready access to the freeway and all major thoroughfares.

Conventional loans are available for non-veterans with only $1,995 as the down payment. Blue Bell Manor is reached by way of the Santa Ana Freeway, east to Euclid, south on Euclid to Chapman, east to West St. and then north to the tract.

These 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath luxury homes have four basic floor plans with choice of exterior and interior designs providing ample choice for prospective buyers to find self-expression in the home of their dreams.

A very limited number of these houses are available for immediate occupancy upon lenders approval. They are in the first unit and are on choice locations. The opening of the second unit provides the prospective home owner with a complete selection of homesites and floor plans.

Board Ends Hearings on Tax Boosts

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The State Board of Equalization has completed two weeks of hearings on proposals to increase tax assessments in 19 California counties.

Since July 25 each county has been allotted a half-day to make a protest.

The objections have followed a pattern. The counties have argued that the board's computations were inaccurate and that the board's sampling methods were inadequate.

FIVE COUNTIES—Merced, San Benito, Riverside, Shasta and Colusa—won their cases. The board, after last minute readjustments in each case, ruled that assessments within those counties were within five per cent of the 25 per cent or market value goal set by the board.

The remaining 14 counties await a decision Aug. 15, the last date for the board to "equalize" assessments among counties.

"Equalization" means simply that the board wants each county to assess property at the same percentage of market value as all other counties.

AS THE FIRST STEP to bringing this about, the board proposed to up the assessment ratio in 19 counties where it found, by special sampling, that the assessment was below 20 per cent market value.

The last time the board exercised this power and duty to "equalize" assessments was in 1935. A majority of the counties went through an upgrading that left many county assessors and local taxpayers mad at the board.

IN SANTA ANA

This is one of the many models offered in Fairview Ranchos, Santa Ana. All lawns are growing and landscaping completed before occupancy. Terms still are nothing down for veterans.

Fairview Ranchos Landscaping Included; No Down to Vets

Fairview Ranchos, new D. & E. Corp. community at Fairview Ave. and Bristol St. on Santa Ana's "Miracle Mile" are still available to qualified veterans at nothing down except costs of impounds. Monthly payments are from $65.11, principal and interest, according to spokesmen for Pioneer Land Co., sales agents. Homes are priced from $12,850, it was noted.

Gardens and lawns are growing and Fairview Ranchos' landscaping includes five basic areas—lawns, ground cover, patio garden, play area and service yard. More than 1,500 square feet of lawn is planted, front and rear, with sprinklers installed. Shrubs in profusion decorate the sites. Centered in the rear garden area is a 120-square-foot concrete patio with decorative redwood dividers, and an attractive redwood planter box and seat that faces the patio. A garden light increases night enjoyment of the garden. The rear area is also floodlit with two lights, it was explained.

Surrounding the entire garden area is a 5-foot high redwood basket-weave fence.

Fairview Ranchos can be reached via the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor Blvd.; right on Harbor Blvd. to Edinger St., left on Edinger to Bristol, then left to trio of models furnished by C. Tony Pereira, and color-schemed by Mel Grau. Exhibit homes are open daily.

Offered are three basic floor plans with either front or rear living rooms, and 23 exterior designs.

"Happiness kitchens" feature double sinks with colored ceramic tile drainboards; garbage disposers; copperized range hood with concealed exhaust fan; natural-finish wood kitchen cabinets with hammered copperized hardware; a "convert-table" dining nook, semiautomatic dishwasher.

Service porches, which are separate in some models, have built-in laundry trays; 40-gallon water heaters, and inlaid linoleum flooring.

Printing Group to Meet Tuesday

Earl Grey, owner of a Los Angeles bookbinding company, will give a trade talk at a meeting of Harbor Area Club of Printing House Craftsmen at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday in Vivian Laird's restaurant. James H. Mahoney of Green's, Inc., will be chairman.

Glen Dell Park Features Central Hall Plan Homes

Homes built around the center hall plan, and offering either front or rear living rooms, 2 bathrooms, attached or detached 2-car garages, 23 exteriors, and a variety of decorative redwood trim as well as other custom exterior appointments, are current attractions at the third and final unit of Glen Dell Park, in suburban Garden Grove, according to officials of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents.

Still available to qualified veterans for nothing down except impounds and closing costs, and on monthly terms that range from $58.75, including principal and interest, development's mortgage-payment insurance protection policy, with premiums paid for one year, which is given each buyer at no added cost, continues to draw potential buyers from many Southern California communities, builders say.

Structurally, Glen Dell Park homes, like all D. & E. Corp. projects, offer conventional construction, which features such time-tested building techniques as genuine oak hardwood floors laid over diagonal sub-floors, genuine lath and plaster walls, and separate service porches.

Greatly expediting occupancy of completed homes in Unit No. 1, Pioneer officials further explained, is the escrow-processing desk right on the premises. Staffed with escrow-trained clerks, veterans' applications for loans are taken at the time of purchase, and processing begun almost immediately. This assures complete processing in 14 days or less, it was noted.

Veterans' Administration recent ruling abolishing no-downpayment veterans' housing loans, and boosting required down payments on FHA-insured homes, will positively have no effect on existing financing arrangements at Glen Dell Park, it was explained.

Glen Dell Park is reached from Los Angeles via the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor Blvd.; right on Harbor to Chapman Ave.; right on Chapman to West St.; right on West St. to three furnished model homes.

Richfield Shows Net Income Gain

Richfield Oil Corp. reports net income after all charges for the first six months of 1955 of $14,635,379, equivalent to $3.66 per share. This compares with net income of $12,393,626, equivalent to $3.10 per share for the first six months of last year.

Sales and other operating revenue for the first six months of 1955 amounted to $123,746,840, compared with $102,259,736 for the corresponding period of last year. Cost of sales and operating expenses were placed at $84,817,937, as compared with $66,856,817 for the first six months of last year. Provision for depreciation, depletion, dry hole losses and abandonments aggregated $14,837,579, compared with $14,172,850 for the first six months of last year, leaving operating profit of $24,091,324 for the first six months of 1955.

Net income after all charges, including provision for federal income taxes of $8,350,000, amounted to $14,635,379.

LARGE HOMES OFFERED

Delhi Gardens, Santa Ana, are all designed for the growing family and still can be purchased by vets for no down payment. This is one of the models.

Delhi Gardens Home for Growing Family

When Cliff Olsten, one of the southland's foremost figures in his field, designed Delhi Gardens, he did so with the modern home-maker in mind. Realizing that today's young wives have, on the average, at least two more children than their mothers, officials of Godfrey Development Co. built four-bedroom, three-bedroom and a den-and-a-family-room homes on Delhi Road and Lowell Street in the new "miracle mile" section of southwest Santa Ana.

"And so there could be no 'dead' areas, all floor plans had to be scientifically 'zoned' to blend convenience with beauty, and flexible function with delightful livability," Olsten explained. "Special attention was given the kitchens and the family room, since most family activity centers about these two areas," he pointed out.

Designer Olsten called in his talented wife, Mary, and they developed the "Mary Olsten Kitchen" and family room, both of which have won national acclaim for homes in Delhi Gardens. Kitchens feature built-in range tops, wall ovens and garbage disposers. They also have 50-gallon water heaters, natural-finished birch kitchen cabinets, formica-topped drainboards with covered splashers, "no drip" edges, "dyna-vent" range hood with exhaust fan and light, wall switches and appliance plug-in.

Adjoining the kitchen, and set off from the living room by book cases, the family room centers everyday family living. Priced from $12,999, and still requiring no down payment of qualified veterans except usual costs and impounds; low monthly payments range from $66.94 and include principal and interest, spokesmen for Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, pointed out.

To see this new residential community, home seekers take the Santa Ana Freeway to Main St. in Santa Ana; turn right on Main St. to Delhi Rd. and right on Delhi Rd. to model homes at Lowell St. open from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

NEW BUS DISPLAYED

After five years of experimental road tests, this new Trailways Vista-Liner has been adopted. It is shown during a visit here for display purposes. Filtered air is conditioned for coolness in summer and warmth in winter. The skylights provide more vision for the traveler on cross-country runs.

Low Terms to Vets in Excelsior Village

Low monthly terms are still offered at Excelsior Village in spite of the new restrictions placed on veteran financing which will increase down payments and monthly payments, Coleman explained.

Motor Vehicle Output Drops

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's automotive reports estimated last week's motor vehicle output at 144,569 cars and 22,815 trucks. The previous week 161,370 cars and 26,136 trucks were built and in the same 1954 week 105,421 cars and 15,516 trucks were completed.

Ward's said the decline is in line with August scheduling. This, it added, calls for 611,000 cars and 98,000 trucks.

Indians Lose Suit Over Oil Wells

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Federal Judge Eugene Rice has ruled the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian tribes have no valid claim to more than a half dozen oil wells in the Red River between Oklahoma and Texas.

The wells, on the William Seay tracts in Jefferson County, Okla., are owned by several oil companies and were drilled since 1930. Through a treaty made in the 1880s, the Indians claimed, they were given title to the river bed.

All the wells are offset to others on the Texas side.

Don Coleman, sales agent announced.

Vets may still buy the large family-sized homes for monthly payments as low as $64.39, including principal and interest, Coleman explained.

In a completely planned community, the 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes include built-in range and oven, washer-dryer, forced air heat and the new Fire-Belle alarm system. One bedroom, with an outside entry may be converted for use as a den, it was pointed out.

A shopping center covering 42 acres and a centrally located school will be a part of Excelsior Village upon completion of the development, Coleman added, pointing out the curved streets, curbs and street lights as added safety features.

From Long Beach, visitors may see Excelsior Village by driving out Westminster Blvd. to Brookhurst Ave. or out Garden Grove Blvd. to Brookhurst Ave. Turn south on Brookhurst Ave. through Garden Grove to the furnished models.

Moore Realty in Banner Month

With a total volume of over $930,000 for July, Moore Realty had the best month in the history of the company. Seventy properties were sold, including home resales and income property.

E. T. Moore said he has over 125 selective listings now which can be sold with possession before school starts in September.

ALARM SYSTEM

The new Fire-Belle alarm system is one of the extra safety features of Excelsior Village, the Orange County completely planned community where the homes are still available on low monthly terms.

New May Homes on Two Sites

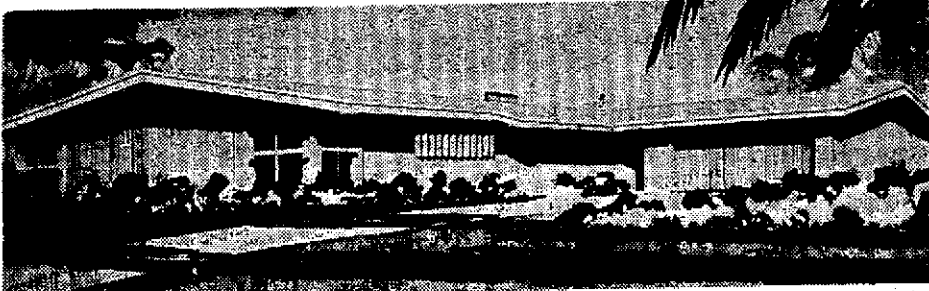

Two choice locations are available to buyers of the award-winning Cliff May designed homes, and they are still offered to vets for no down payment except closing costs and impounds, it was announced this week.

The 3 and 4-bedroom contemporary ranch style homes are located in Tustin and Anaheim with the Tustin homes situated on large estate-sized lots in a restricted suburban area but near schools and shopping center. They range in price from $13,800 to $16,500.

The Anaheim site is near the Freeway with shopping and other community centers near by, and are located on extra large lots. However, it was pointed out, that only 15 of these homes remain to be sold.

All the homes include fireplace, forced air heat, built-in range and oven, full floor to ceiling windows, and master bedroom "suite" with its own bath. Both developments feature the award winning built-around-the-patio plan.

To see the Anaheim location, drive out Lincoln (Carson) to the Santa Ana Freeway. Turn right on the Freeway to Ball Rd., then right again on Ball Rd. to the furnished models. To see the Tustin ranch estates, stay on the Santa Ana Freeway through Irvine.

HAVE ALL-ELECTRIC KITCHEN

Shown above is an artist's conception of one of 169 three and four-bedroom, two-bath Signature Homes now rising in Buena Park at Hansen and Crescent Ave., near Knott's Berry Farms. Priced at approximately $14,000 on VA terms with no down payment for vets, the new homes feature color-matched all-electric kitchens.

New Midwood Unit in Preview Showing

Preview showing begins today for Midwood Construction Co.'s new 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath Signature Homes rising in Buena Park at Hansen and Crescent Aves.

Priced at approximately $14,000, the new homes, it was stated, are the first in their price range to feature color-matched all-electric kitchens.

Terms for the new homes will be nothing down for vets, except for nominal costs and impounds on long term VA-guaranteed loans.

Included in the price and terms are color-matched built-in General Electric ranges, ovens, combination automatic clothes washer-dryers, automatic pre-rinsing dishwashers and garbage disposals. The built-in range, it was noted, has pushbutton controls while the eye-level oven is clock-controlled.

"The appliances are all built-in as part of the house and make this offering of 169 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes not only one of the last 'no down payment' opportunities for vets, but the best in our opinion," it was stated by Jerome Snyder and Max Levine, who head the Midwood Construction Co.

"These homes will sell fast because of their superior Buena Park location near Knott's Berry Farm, their quality construction, their all-electric color-matched kitchens and their no down payment terms," the builders stated, pointing out that 220 Signature Homes offered recently in North Long Beach were sold in one week-end.

Other kitchen features which will be displayed in five model homes—all exquisitely furnished by Lloyd's of Long Beach—include natural finish birch cabinets, ceramic tile counters, electric fan over range, and Forentine pattern linoleum for floor-cleaning ease.

The homes have wood-burning fireplaces, forced air heating, Pre-View aluminum sliding windows and Panaview sliding glass doors.

N.L.B. Realty Club Will Hear Butler.

Members of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club will hear Howard Butler at the meeting Thursday noon at Mayo's Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave. His subject will be "New Changes in Real Estate Laws." Ruby Peterson is program chairman. Earl Altenburger will preside.

The coast-to-coast informal opening of the new 16-million-dollar Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills will take place today, and at 8 p. m. (4) the "Variety Hour" originates from the new hostelry with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy as TV hosts and Hedda Hopper as assistant.

Hedda will have one portion of the show and present a flock of movie folks doing impromptu acts in the Ball Room. The Vagabonds are set and ringside guests will include Rudy Calhoun, Irene Dunn, Audrey Murphy, Merle Oberon, Celeste Holm and Walt Disney, plus other Conrad Hilton.

The cameras will tour a portion of the big new hotel to show the TV viewers what they can expect if they visit the place. This week there'll be more about the new hotel; the official opening for business is set for Friday.

TOAST—Ed Sullivan takes his show to Stratford, Conn., and there you'll get a look at the annual American Shakespeare Festival. "Toasts of the Town" (2) at 8 p. m. will have scenes from various of the Bard's works done by such fine actors as Raymond Massey, Jack Palance, Hurd Hatfield and Christopher Plummer. Also on board but non-Shakespearean are Eartha Kitt, Mandy Patinkin, the Four Corners and an English comedian named Max Bygraves.

DRAMA—A young American veteran, studying art in Paris on his GI Bill, suspects he has little talent but refuses to admit it. He meets an American girl who tells him the truth about himself and urges him to go home and find a more useful life. He falls in love with his severest critic and Philco TV Playhouse tells the rest (4) at 9 p. m. with John Cassavetes starring. . . . More romance on "Cameo Theater" (10) at 10 p. m. with the tale of a young man bent on success before marriage who meets a girl with the same ideas. Cupid rears his head and the climax comes when the man makes up his mind. Gene Reynolds stars. . . . Four people on a train, stranded in the mountains by a snowslide, resolve their problems during "Appointment with Adventure" (2) at 10 p. m. Gloria DeHaven is starred. . . . A romance is told in the "Whispering" story of redistribution. A young man, revolting because his demanding uncle has been named his guardian, decides to do away with the uncle by removing the latter's supply of life-giving digitalis but lives to regret it (11) at 10 p. m. . . . Fred MacMurray stars as a young writer who goes to Vermont, meets and falls in love with a girl, but tries to dissuade her from marriage with a fictitious wife in New York. He returns home, the girl follows and MacMurray tries a subterfuge on the "G. E. Theater" (2) at 9 p. m.

Van Heflin, busy completing a film for the motion picture theaters from the TV original drama "Patterns," has been offered a co-starring role opposite Orson Welles in one of the 90-minute shows Welles is doing for CBS-TV next fall. Heflin will have to find time to go to England for the film, because the original "boy wonder" Welles is shooting his TV shows over in Europe.

NBC-TV will shoot the works against the other networks with 75 large scale one-shot productions on tap for the 1955-56 TV season.

Warner Brothers, going all out for their new Warner Brothers Presents television show, signed Bing Crosby's French discovery, Nicole Maurey, for a star role in the second "Casablanca" episode now being filmed on the studio lot. This should be one of the more interesting new video series.

Another new series that's getting attention ahead of time is Jane Wyman's Fireside Theater dramas. After much thought, the popular movie actress has decided to star in a drama of homicide to kick off the new series on NBC August 30th. Miss Wyman plays a woman who's a key witness in a killing. Your key to better viewing in a new TV set is CBS-TV. It's on display now in our TV showroom, at PENNY-OWSLEY MUSIC CO. OF LONG BEACH, 4334 Atlantic Blvd. Phone LB. 40-7406.

Junior League Projects
Fill Need in Community

By ELAINE RISINGER

Interest enough to care, persistence enough for action and successful enough to accomplish—this is the Junior League story, a study in community service.

For the league's more than 240 members, the cultural and philanthropic progress of the city is no mere dream, but a working every day goal. And their influence reaches out to aid many citizens.

Nearly 24 years ago, Mmes. William Whent, Francis Settle, H. Milton Van Dyke, John Lounsbury, Glen Carpenter, Ansel Olson, Joseph Tierman and Betty Crawford, formed the Long Beach Junior League. These were busy days when plans for large projects were still in the nebulous stage. But as the original octet was joined by friends, these ideas gave way to action and the league spearheaded the way for civic betterment.

Since those early months, the scope of the Junior League of Long Beach (the original group affiliated with the Association of Junior Leagues of America in February 1948) has been amazing.

Members tackle jobs others avoid. They speak of committee appointments, placement and meetings as career girls discuss their jobs. For in a sense, being an active Junior Leaguer is just about as time consuming.

But let's look at what those hours of conferences actually accomplish for the community. Here is where Mrs. Franklin Waters, charming new president of the league, and her officers and chairmen lay the groundwork for such events as the yearly rummage sale which nets thousands of dollars each year. And every cent of the money is turned back to the city through the league's own special projects.

They also review the 22,000 hours of volunteer service given by 124 active members at hospitals and other agencies throughout town, plus the many days spent working on their committee responsibilities. Mrs. Waters explains:

Thousands of children smile more brightly now due to the efforts of the Children's Dental Health Center for underprivileged youngsters, sponsored by the league. And many local residents have learned to live more useful lives because of their work through the Community Volunteer Office, organized by the league and now jointly supported with the Community Chest. Members and provisionals also form the clerical staffs at these offices.

Their sphere of concern reaches to the Municipal Art Center, where they assist with the cultural development of citizens and to the Juvenile Bureau, which receives financial aid to purchase articles for the children. Mrs. Waters says:

In all these projects the national association is ready to assist this league, as it does the other 182 member groups with advice and organization, she adds.

As president of this growing organization, Mrs. Waters knows possibly more than any other, the continual need for good provisionals. Here are the league leaders of tomorrow when the now active members pass into sustaining status. Here also are future city leaders, who will step into community roles as Red Cross captains, Community Chest canvassers and civic board members. And good provisionals training to prepare them for their jobs is essential.

The word placement is a vital part of a Junior Leaguer's vocabulary. Provisionals learn this all too fast. For when they accept a membership invitation they also accept a weekly duty of service to the community.

This spring 28 young women began a year of training to prepare themselves for active participation in the league. Under the guidance of Mrs. Robert Sully, chairman of provisional training, and her committee, they will study the local league and its national governing body and discern its projects through work.

They, along with transfers, will learn more about their city, its resources and what is offered residents during an interesting orientation course.

Charge California
Women Are 'Lax'

By JEANINE STILES

Women of California—Unite! Roll up your sleeves and sharpen those wits. Our cause needs defending.

California has been placed in the category of "sluggish and lax in the promotion of women," with only about one-third the number of women in "top level" positions as in the State of New York, according to a recent survey conducted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Washington, D. C.

Accepting the challenge on a state level with the creation of a new division—Status of Women—is Mrs. Gerald Whitaker, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. L. E. Sinclair, owner and operator of one of the largest ranches in Imperial Valley, has been chosen to spearhead the drive for a unified plan of action on the part of California's women for elimination of weaknesses in existing promotional processes.

Outstanding weaknesses, the survey claims, now "retarding" the professional progress of women can be confined to two: men do not want women in public affairs, and secondly, women do not support women.

In a quick survey of several local prominent citizens, male

Gay Round of Pre-Nuptial Courtesies
Keeps Joan Hunter, Fiance in a Whirl

Pink to please the ladies and rich maroon in deference to the men, set the theme for colorful decorations as Miss Joanne Kerr entertained Saturday evening in her 18 Neopolitan Lane West home with a buffet dinner and kitchen shower honoring Joan Hunter and Bruce Purvine who will be married Aug. 26 at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Centering the buffet table was a white bell tree, gaily adorned with kitchen utensils, easily recognizable as knives, forks, cups and egg beaters beneath their coats of pink and glitter. The tree was flanked by spiraled pink candles, maroon bows and more glistening utensils.

Kitchen gifts for the popular pair were placed on a table guarded by a pair of lovebirds perched outside their birdhouse

of pink net. A large maroon heart of pipe cleaners provided background for an arrangement of carnations which graced the piano. Greeting the 30 couples as they arrived for cocktails preceding dinner and an evening of dancing were festoons of white wedding bells with maroon streamers, jauntily placed on the front door of the Kerr home.

Pink was chosen as central color for still another party feting the bride-elect when Mrs. Emmet Sullivan hosted a delightful brunch at Virginia Country Club which placed Joan high atop "Cloud Nine." Other party guests, via place cards and decor, also found themselves way up in shocking pink clouds. Shattered pink carnations, and blue bachelor buttons were scattered on white ribbon the length of the brunch table.

Guests at the party all were long time friends of the bride-elect and of her mother, Mrs. John K. Hunter. Presented to the lovely honoree were a dozen place mats with matching napkins of Brussels lace, imported from Belgium for the occasion. Accompanying the gift was a large greeting card, adorned with pink clouds, and bearing signatures of the guests, interspersed with colorful and beautifully painted bachelor buttons.

Still in the offing for the happy pair is a cocktail and dinner party Friday to be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Volney McCutchan in their new home at 3801 Walnut Ave. Young friends of the engaged couple will gather about the patio picnic table for the buffet supper, with garden flowers and tropicals in their natural habitat as decor.

Mrs. Allan McMillan (Marlene Mottell) was complimented with a post-nuptial miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. A. L. Jacobus in her 3749 Line Ave. home.

A pink and white theme was followed in party decor with the use of attractive arrangements of white stock and pink carnations. A wedding cake, with a miniature bride and bridegroom as top piece, centered the refreshment table. Mrs. R. W. Shirey Jr. served the cake and Mrs. Eunice Shamblin poured.

Included on the guest list were Mmes. Rhea Allen, Amy Arnold, Arthur L. Arnold, Don Ashley, E. L. Baldwin, Grace Bartlett, Herbert von A. Burkart, Euphemia Campbell, Van

Using daisies as the floral theme for the Tuesday garden party by St. Bartholomew Altar Society are, from left, Mmes. Gerald Green, Charles F. Lawing and E. F. Girling Sr. The public is invited to attend the party at the Tom Stevens home, 5372 Appian Way, beginning at 1 o'clock. Proceeds will go toward the school building fund. Mrs. Lawing is president of Ladies of August Guild of the Altar Society.

Wild Waves

By IOLA MASTERSON

There have been three and there will be more before cold weather sets in. The "three" were outdoor barbecue parties which spread from the terrace to the patio and back again at Betty and Stillman Loveren's home and, at each, guests hovered over the barbecue pit like they were godfathers to the steaks on the grill.

At the last of the outdoor affairs lucky sniffers of gourmet-scented air were Peggy and Dr. Houston Fairley, Marian and Bob Ritzer, Florence and Sam Magill, Virginia and Floyd Todd, "Bird" and Verne Garten, Cecile and "Hap" Appleton and Ola and Don Murphy. The Peeks, Marnette and Lon, were unable to be present. Assisting their mother and dad with great aplomb and plenty of know-how were Linda and George.

Anglers! Here's a challenge. See if you can dream up a better fish story than this. Only requisite is that you keep it reasonably honest, even if unbelievable. Six Long Beach people caught 16 salmon on one day's fishing trip, the combined weight of same totaling 160 pounds! And nobody had their toe on the scale at the "weigh in." The big catch was made in Monterey Bay waters. Rod and reelers were Lawrence Kaylor, who brought in a 22 pounder; Rex Kaylor, who boated an 18 pounder, and Elaine Kaylor. Bernice and Lloyd Lancont and Clifford Wavell, who accounted for the 120-pound balance.

They shall remain nameless—against our natural instincts! It seems a prominent bakery executive of this fair city was about to celebrate his birthday so friend wife, ever mindful of this boy's happiness, decided to make him a cake with her own two little hands, the first she ever baked in their 25 years of marriage. She bought prepared cake mix and prepared icing and went to work with a will—if little knowledge. Well, along came the guests for the big celebration and, with the first cut of the cake, it became obvious this would never do. That was when Mr. Baker hid himself off, complete with Mona Lisa smile, to his bakery and fetched home a cake for his own party.

When a man, who has been moping around a house recuperating from whatever ails him, starts eyeing his golf clubs and singing to his wife, "You're the flag in my golf cup, you're the tee in my cap," then you know the crisis is over. And Bob Lee-tee has been singing that to Irma! Even although he's still bound to a pair of pesky crutches, he's a man who is getting ready. An accident five months ago has confined him to the role of spectator ever since but when he starts to play again he, at least, would be pretty shrewd about how many strokes we gave him!

The $64,000 dollar question in Markie and Chili Scott's home right now is: Will Dad Get 'Em? The $16,000 question has long since been answered when it became apparent that the other three children were definite victims of daughter Eleanor's mumps. Now back to the big question—

Splashing, munching and laughter were the sounds of gaiety at Audrey and Murray Moore's new Garden Grove home and the other night when Audrey's Sandilark sisters and their husbands housewarmed the new manse. The Moore's pool was well initiated and there were delicious buffet morsels to eat when anyone felt like climbing from the cool, clear water. Shirley and Howard Jones and Gloria and Paul Crandie were party instigators.

When you're 2½ years old it's darn hard to decide which doll you love the most, so little Melinda Muchmore just made up her mind to take all 21 of them on her two-week vacation with mom and pop, Virginia and Don Muchmore and 4-month-old sister, Marcy. They are in the midst of holidays in a bay front home at Balboa Island, guests of Virginia's parents, Neil and Louis Gunn. Also present for the 14 days are Marjorie and Randy Whitney and their little six-month cutie, Barbara. Hectic? Only when the formula is late!

Blueprint of activity is the announcement sent by Mary and Doc Don Truitt telling their friends they've moved their pots, pans and television to their new home at 5701 Seaside Wk. from their former digs on Redondo.

Most practice bailing water Navy man Bob Hatcher ever had was in his own basement, we understand. Seems his hot water heater got tired of the monotony of it all and just dumped its load of boiling H2O on the floor. Jean assisted in the two-man bucket brigade.

Bearers of glad tidings were Leta and Bob Place when they returned from their trip to Europe—especially as far as Fran Farmer Guthrie's friends were concerned. Bob and Leta, you see, brought home first-hand news of Fran and Navy captain husband, Bill Guthrie, who are currently stationed in Paris. Fran has fixed up their lovely Parisienne apartment to perfection and they are thoroughly enjoying life in the gay French capital, the returnees report.

Exciting moments were a dime a dozen during Kay and Bob Gorboull's just completed vacation. They began it by going with Charles Day and his wife, Em, to Lake Mead where Charlie, as you remember, managed to make the first successful nonstop swim over and back of the lake. Bob manned one accompanying lifeboat and Kay the other for the record-breaking swim. Then, this successfully accomplished, they played in Las Vegas before traveling on to Canada where they were audience to Calgary's famous Stampede. On to Lethbridge to tend to affairs of a farm Bob owns then back via Reno.

'Ol rockin' chair is gonna have Joyce Berry for awhile—and at that it will seem good in comparison to the hospital bed she's now occupying while she recovers from a severe attack of virus pneumonia.

Perfectly relaxed and perfectly wonderful was the little dinner party Liz and Lloyd Patterson had week ago last night when they entertained quietly for "Aud" and Gordon Robbins, Murile and Glenn Scott and Roy Brown. They missed having Eleanor B., who is traveling in Europe with her mother.

Multiply three couples by their children, put them all in a great big rambling house on Catalina for their vacation and voilà! Merriment! It happened to Dorothy and Ed Grisinger, Marguerite and Harvey White and Mary Jane and Chuck Walker. Ed and Chuck only managed the weekends, what with business chores and all.

New friends are like fresh air but old friends are the breath of life! All ready to enjoy the latter are Jess and Hale Young, who will greet Mrs. May Dickie of Ft. Worth, Texas, when she arrives Tuesday for as long a visit as the Youngs can manage to keep her here. Jess and May have continued a friendship through the years that their mothers began before them!

Summer rain in the desert became a torrential downpour Tuesday at Joshua Tree and probably elsewhere but it was at J. T. that Judge Percy and Marce Hight and daughter, Mabel, watched the skies open up. They went to the sand and sage spa Monday, returning late Wednesday—glad the roads hadn't been washed out from beneath them!

We Welcome

It's Outdoor Life for Pinskers

By JEAN B. MOORE

For more years than he can count on both hands Dr. Leon J. Pinsker has talked about coming to California to live. One day in 1955 he and his wife, Selma, made the final decision. In March they became full fledged Californians, living in a ranch style home at 3137 Shipway Ave. and getting out of doors for work or fun at the slightest provocation.

The Lakewood dentist and his wife were both born in Philadelphia and both were graduated from Temple University. Dr. Pinsker was a member of the Alpha Omega dental fraternity there.

During World War II Dr. Pinsker served the Third Army as regimental dental surgeon in the European Theater, and for more than a year Selma was able to join him in Frankfurt, Germany.

Practicing his profession in Philadelphia after the service, Dr. Pinsker engaged in post-graduate work in New York and for the past four years was on the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania's school of dentistry. He was chairman of the clinical conference department and instituted several new courses. He also presented dental clinics before various dental groups and lectured before service organizations.

Upon receiving her BA degree from Temple, Selma went on for her master's in social work from the University of Pennsylvania. For several years she did case work in a children's institution in Philadelphia.

Photography is a consuming hobby of the little Pinskers' dad. They are his favorite subjects now, although he first trained the lens on scenes in Europe.

Donna, the eldest, is 7 and operates her own camera. Some of her pictures are better than his, her daddy admits. She will be a second grader at Cubberley School and probably will be showing her classmates some of the pictures she took this summer.

All three—Donna, Anne, 3½ and Robert, 1½—seem to have an innate sense of rhythm. Hearing music, they will dance to it in perfect time and sing on key, too.

Apparently their appreciation of music is inherited from their mother. Selma enjoys playing the piano and often in Philadelphia could be found teaching her children the rudiments of playing and appreciating.

Other interests have developed for the family since moving to California. In addition to joining the Sponsors Club of the City of Hope Hospital, Leon is taking golf lessons, while Selma is brushing up on bridge. Robert's too little to be more than a spectator, but he sometimes goes along when his big sisters take their swimming lessons.

Dorsey-Londeree Names Joined in Nevada Service

Miss Jo Ann Londeree, assistant cashier and escrow officer of the Bank of Belmont Shore, and Alfred Dorsey, general contractor and builder of Gardena, were married in a double-ring ceremony at the Little Church of the West, Las Vegas, Nev., July 22, at 9 p. m. Dr. Donald R. Coyle read the ceremony.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Peters of 2434 Chestnut Ave., Long Beach.

Miss Londeree is affiliated with the Long Beach Escrow Association, the National Association of Bank Women, Altruza Service Club and Harbor Chapter Women's Committee of the American Institute of Banking.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey vacationed for a week in Las Vegas and are now at home to their many friends at 825 Terraine Ave.

State Women Face Challenge

and female, a few other weaknesses were advanced, in addition to some personal views on the subject in general.

Dr. Lois Swanson, associate dean of students at Long Beach State College, feels that more women do not achieve top-flight positions because "they, by choice, concentrate for years on their family responsibilities and often do not pick up their professional careers until after their children are grown."

"Other factors," she continued, "of which there are many, include the subtle lack in many women of the drive to succeed as men have. Men know they will be working under competition and will be supporting families. And some women do not grow up to their intelligence because of the feeling they might 'suffer' in the eyes of the men."

Pointing out, however, that the day of the "aggressive Rights for Women enthusiasts" is past, Dr. Swanson also stressed the fact that so has the period passed when women have to reject their femininity to compete with men.

"It is important that large organizations all set policies for people to get promotions and recognition on their real ability regardless of sex, nationality or religion," she said. "Toward this goal, women's groups can see that channels are kept open for superior women to rise in status. They must be vocal about it."

Since modern girls are thinking about two roles at once, mother and careerist, Dr. Swanson feels that girls today need a great deal more maturity and preparation than during grandmother's time when a woman was expected to fill only one role.

"The girl who thinks she does not have to have as good a preparation to compete with men is just fooling herself—she has to have better!" Dr. Swanson warned.

Education, librarianship and nutrition were three fields named by the dean as offering excellent opportunities for women, "without the competition of a large number of men."

This competition was given by George Toll, manager of the California Department of Employment in Long Beach, as a major reason why he feels there are not more women in top-level jobs locally.

"The supply of male labor in Long Beach has always been a little above average," he explained. "The number of salaried women in top positions in Long Beach is not below the national average, but it is not above, either."

While large plants and corporations were named by him as probably offering the best opportunities for women administrators, the engineering field, in his estimation, also presents a wide vista for advancement.

"There is a terrific shortage in this field," he stressed, "and there are not many women engineers."

A little darker picture was painted by Mrs. Lucille Swigert, secretary to the manufacturing supervisor, BJ Service, Inc., who feels that opportunities for women in key Long Beach positions are "not too good." She blamed industry for this condition.

"It has not grown up enough nor is there the proper variety of industry here," she said. "I think Long Beach has just been going through growing pains. It has been an orange grove area for so long that lots of people still think it should stay that way. This type of thinking has held industry back."

Major oil companies and refineries, legal offices and aircraft factories were mentioned by Mrs. Swigert as "doing well by their women."

To improve conditions for advancement of women, the secretary suggested women

pay more attention to educational courses. As a means to this end, the Desk and Derrick Club of Long Beach, comprised of women in all phases of the oil business and of which Mrs. Swigert is program chairman, is sponsoring a course at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division.

Scheduled to begin in September, the course will be taught by people actually in the oil business and will include such things as accounting principles for oil companies, technical oil terms and other specialized phases of the business. Though the program's infant beginning is with this single course, Mrs. Swigert indicated that expansion plans are under way for early 1956. The eventual aim of the organizers is for a series of such courses to be college accredited on a national scale.

A Chamber of Commerce spokesman raised the pertinent question as to what basis the survey used for classifying jobs "top level"—by salary, by title or by importance of duties—and how the surveyors treated self-employed women in key professions.

Since the characters of the areas being compared—New York and California—are so diverse, the spokesman did not feel the accusation of "sluggish" is justified for California women.

"We must look at the outside factors influencing the total number of women in 'top level' jobs," he said. "The climatic and recreational advantages alone are a difference between the two areas—if there really is a difference."

"In California we have a more family and home type of atmosphere with more emphasis on casual living where women are not as eager to get out and work. But this does not mean women should not work. If they can handle the job, then they can be equal to any man and should be paid and recognized commensurably for it."

He also observed that with diversification of eastern plants to the west coast and the resulting transfer of many veteran employees, opportunities for California women are cut even further.

Mrs. Margie Cate, inspector with the Long Beach Juvenile Bureau, agreed, however, with the survey's conclusion that California women are lax in promoting their own sex to key positions.

President of the California State Peace Officers Assn. and a member of Pilot Club, Mrs. Cate has recently returned from an eastern tour in which she visited top women peace officers in Chicago, Washington, D. C., Detroit, and New York. As a result of her observations made during the trip, she concluded that "in the east, people seem to make their jobs their lives."

"Here we have so many hobbies, travel opportunities and other distracting influences that we lack the desire to drive ahead," she explained.

Opposing Mrs. Cate's view is that of Mrs. Helen Smith, insurance woman, who feels that advancement opportunities for women in Long Beach are good in fields of professions. Naming specifically the fields of medicine, law, education and government, Mrs. Smith believes that advancement to top positions is available, and has been obtained, in all four.

"For example," she said, "out of nine city council members, one is a woman. That's a pretty good percentage."

So there you have the opinion of six fellow citizens.

What do YOU say? And what are you going to do about it?

Jean Lawing Is Lovely Bride

Exquisitely detailed Chantilly lace over satin formed the bridal gown of Miss Jean Lawing, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lawing, 525 Flint Ave., when she became the bride of Charles Vernon Stableford of Kingman, Ariz., on Saturday morning.

Nuptial mass uniting the popular young couple was solemnized by Rev. Thomas Kennedy at St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church. The double-ring ceremony, read by candlelight, was witnessed by 350 guests.

The wedding gown was fashioned with a tiered flounce of old ivory Chantilly lace which began low on the torso and extended into a chapel length train. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline, and a headpiece of tiny seed pearl blossoms held in place an heirloom lace veil imported from Brussels. The bride carried a handkerchief matching her veil, and a single orchid with Stephanotis whose simplicity pointed up the rich beauty of her gown.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride walked down the center aisle which was beautifully marked with streamers of blue tulle and clustered pink carnations. Foral altar arrangements were of white larkspur, gladioli, stock and carnations, with here and there a touch of pink and blue.

Attending as maid of honor was Miss Susan Kirstie of Long Beach, long time school friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were former classmates of the bride at Flintridge Academy, Misses Marian Haddad, Dion Maeth and Mary Flanagan, all of Westwood. The attendants were gowned in floor length ice blue crystalline with long tulle gloves. The maid of honor wore a headpiece of blue veiling under a coronet of pink carnations and blue forget-me-nots, with the same flowers repeated in her bow shaped bouquet. The bridesmaid's headpieces also were of blue veiling with pink carnation coronets, and they carried bow-shaped arrangements of pink carnations.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Richard Stableford of Kingman, Ariz., to serve him as best man, and guests were escorted to their seats by Phil Kay, Richard Meadows and Charles Anthony Gillespie of Long Beach. Wayne Charles Metcalf, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

A delightful reception followed at Pacific Coast Club where Ed Thornberry played for dancing in the Sunnyside Room. The bride's mother chose for the occasion, char coal Chantilly lace over ice blue taffeta with a hat of ice blue sequins, and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. P. E. Keller of Kingman, Ariz., was gowned in pale coral crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. John Meadows was reception hostess, assisted by Misses Robert Agnew, Charles Kirstie, Edward DeFreitas, Harold Reed, William Whately and Miss Mayme Barry. The bride's sister, Mrs. Lory Metcalf, was in charge of the guest book.

Following a honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara, the newlyweds will make their home at 2248 Blake St., Berkeley, where both will further their education at the University of California.

The youthful bride was graduated from Flintridge Sacred Heart Academy, and this fall will be in her junior year at Berkeley where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority. Her bridegroom received his early education in Arizona, and attended Arizona State College at Flagstaff. His fraternity affiliation is Delta Sigma Phi, and he also is a member of Sigma Xi, Blue Key, and Phi Eta Sigma. He will do graduate work toward a Ph.D. degree this fall.

Dana Russell Honoree at Bridal Fete

The lovely home of Mrs. Peter D. Zarifes, 4315 Olive Ave., was setting recently for a personal bridal shower complementing Miss Dana Russell who will become the bride of Doyle Edson on Aug. 12 at First Baptist Church.

The Zarifes home was decorated with dainty yellow umbrellas and yellow gladioli. Center of interest was a round table holding gifts for the honoree, with a large yellow umbrella suspended above.

The honoree is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Russell, 2135 Oregon Ave. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Dr. and Mrs. Winfield Edson, 3939 Locust Ave., who have just returned from an extended tour of Europe and the Holy Land in time for the wedding.

Co-hostesses were Misses Helen Zarifes and Signe Gissberg who will be bridesmaids in the wedding. Assisting were Mrs. Peter D. Zarifes and Mrs. James Sullos. Guests were close friends of the honoree, Misses Sarah Bingham, Cynthia Decker, Meriel Mills, Leona Porterfield, Olivann Rumph, Kay Russell, Beverly Steele, Cynthia White, Misses Kent Bingham, James Decker, Raymond Fox, R. W. Richmond, and Robert Walker.

A friendship meeting is scheduled at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Mottell's Garden Room. College of Regents will meet at 11 a. m. Saturday in the home of Mrs. Thelma Russell, 2448 Montair Ave., and a friendship breakfast is slated at 9:30 p. m. Sunday at Compton Hall.

Canadian Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil D. Staley of Compton are back after a two-week vacation which included Canada, Lake Tahoe and Yosemite Park. The entire family enjoyed every moment of it.

Bridal Whirl Surrounds Miss Howell

Rounding out the party whirl surrounding bride-elect Miss Shirley Howell was the kitchen shower given by Mrs. Russell Hodges in her home at 3210 Lemon Ave. Miss Howell and Roger T. Williams will be married August 20.

Pink and white were carried out in the decorative scheme. Mrs. Foster G. Strong and Mrs. J. Paul Walker in serving.

Bidden were Mmes. J. R. Howell, mother of the honoree; Calvin Ash, William Schwab, John Webster, Leo Jackson, Harold Harding, Ray Power, A. E. Lucero, Charles Schill, Vern Dennis, Thomas Jones, Don Singletary, Roland Rousse, Emmett White, Jerry Kill, Greg LaShell, Donald Dodge, Bobbie Sinyard, Mildred Moran, Bonnie Trueblood, Misses Frances Brown, Luann Barnett, Evelyn McKechnie, Jeri Kalous, Janet Anderson, Jeanmarie Powell, Reba Dale Larrimore, Ruth Linne, Shirley Wight, Betty Olson, Lela Stanwood and Donna Hill.

August Date for Wedding

A surprise announcement heralding the approaching marriage of Miss Martha Inez Roberta Ganen to Lemuel Dominguez was made recently at a luncheon given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Dodge of Los Altos.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Ganen, 2012 E. Seventh St. and R. S. Ganen of Mesa, Ariz., is a graduate of Wilson High School and Long Beach City College. Her fiancé, son of Rev. and Mrs. Alfonso Dominguez, 1350 Redondo Ave., attended Long Beach State College.

The young couple's wedding date will be August 21 when they will speak their vows at 2:30 in the afternoon at Belmont Heights Methodist Church.

Sharon Lanai O'Bergh

Wedding Plans Revealed on Bride-elect's Birthday

A surprise birthday party was given additional dash and verve with the announcement of the honoree's engagement. The bride-elect is Miss Rita Rae Fergerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fergerson, 5208 Calderwood Ave., who told of her betrothal to Ronald Lee Sisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sisler, 3518 Baltic Ave., when she was entertained by her fiancé's parents on the occasion of her birthday.

Miss Fergerson is a graduate of Wilson High School and attended Long Beach State College. The bridegroom-elect is a graduate of Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. He is currently completing his education at Long Beach State College where he is a member of Sigma Epsilon. No date has been set for the wedding.

Auxiliary Session

Ladies Auxiliary 70, of the Plumbers Local 494, will meet Monday at 8 p. m. at 1246 Locust Ave. Mrs. Mary Lee Daniels, new president, will conduct the meeting, and Mrs. Betty Garrels is in charge of the program.

Summer Interests of Business Women Varied

By ANNE GILCHRIST

"Pilot Stages a Convention" was the theme of the highly informative program presented at the Wednesday night business meeting of the Long Beach Pilots at Hotel Lafayette.

With the 34th annual convention of Pilot International just concluded in Los Angeles, Ruth Tay, local president who served as official delegate from her club, worked out this special program to present to all members of the club the entire story.

Reporting to the membership were Pilots Mildred Moris speaking on "Behind the Scenes"; Margery Procter, "The Stage Is Set"; Margaret Fenwick, "Dramatist's Persona"; Margaret Darby, "A Director Speaks"; Edith Klein, "Special Funds"; Peggy Finley, "Convention Publicity Highlights"; Virginia Rogers, "Finance"; Hazel Blair, "The Lines Inspire Us" and Ruth Toy, "We See Stars." Each speaker brought out the unusual, interesting human interest angles and incidents of the convention together with the important Pilot information gained there.

Long Beach Pilots attending convention sessions at the Hotel Statler in Los Angeles last week included: Mildred Moris, Ruth Tay, Peggy Finley, Elayne Moxley, Helen Andrews, Eleanor Boyd, Hazel Blair, Frances Catchpole, Gladys Chapman, Margaret Darby, Marguerite Dougherty, Margaret Fenwick, Lucy Harvey, Edith Klein, LaVey Louk, Virginia Linabury, Gladys McMullen, Martha McRae, Antionette Oster, Vern Preston, Margery Procter, Mildred Robinson, Mary Lou Hightstone, Virginia Rogers, Myrna Russell, Marion Tripeny, and Nina Boyle.

Highlight of the convention was the election and installation of the 1955-56 officers and directors of Pilot International. Mrs. Edith McBride Cameron, Gainesville, Fla., was installed as president. Miss Jean Conacher, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, was installed as President-elect of Pilot International. She will be the first member of a foreign Pilot Club to hold the office of president.

Women Accountants

A new year begins for the Long Beach chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants Wednesday when the members gather at the Lafayette Hotel at 7 p. m. for the first meeting of their new club year. Angeline Elmore, newly installed president, will preside. Bernice Becker, program chairman of the evening, will introduce speaker Nile Bunch, a past president of the Society of California Accountants. His topic will be, "Internal Accounting."

Tillie M. Bolte, Anna Dietrich, Lucille B. Gray and Dorothy Kreuter will be welcomed as new members.

The July board meeting, preparatory to the Wednesday meeting, occurred at the lovely Palos Verdes Estates home of the club's vice president, Doris Deardon, who served buffet dinner before business discussion. During the evening's discussion the following members were approved to committee chairmanship: Bernice Becker, awards; Dean Stuart, bulletin; Mary Schultz, education; Vera Thamer, finance; Ann Murawski, legislation; Doris Deardon, program; Kate Dell Lanham, public relations; Estelle Cannon Davis, publicity; Beulah Gee, research; and Evelyn Borton, yearbook.

Executives' Secretaries

The pungent and tantalizing odors of steaks being broiled over charcoal waited over Ruth Dye's section of the peninsula Thursday night as she entertained the board of directors of Executives' Secretaries at a patio barbecue dinner before the inevitable business session. Joining the board were specially invited E/S members Sybil McEwen, national vice-president, Lucille Jagerson and Vi Dovey, all members of the club's advisory committee.

With Dorothy Kane Oleson presiding, members voted two new members. Members approved were Mrs. Gloria Granich on staff with International Business Machines and Mrs. Betty Abraham with Pacific Forge, Inc.

Yesterday members and guests of Executives' Secretaries were invited to an informal and delightful all-day swimming party at the home of member Margaret Stinson in Garden Grove. Between pool splashing delicious refreshments were served from the poolside buffet.

Others of the group traveled to San Diego Friday to attend that city's E/S Firm Night, sponsored by Union Title Insurance and Guarantee Co.

with Pearl Avitt, president of the San Diego Club, official hostess. The party was given at the fashionable Kona Kai Club and those from Long Beach in attendance were Sybil McEwen, Flo Courte, Mary Kay Kelly, Lorraine McDonough, Maxine Bohl and Ouida Flack.

Women's Transportation Club

The informality of summer was suitably saluted by the Women's Transportation Club when they were guests in the home of member Helen Ackerman, 1435 Santa Cruz St., in San Pedro for a leisurely patio supper. With President Annette Saunders and Eunice Crawford assisting the hostess, barbecued ribs were brought, golden brown, to the table accompanied by other big platters of good, good outdoor eating type food. No wonder little or no business was conducted. Time for that come cool weather!

Vacations

With the first warm breath of spring until the leaves turn brown in autumn vacations are much a part of the interesting news of business and professional women. Among those noted this week is one which Elsie Aitken, popular legal secretary, is currently enjoying. She left Monday by plane with her sister, Mrs. Henry Anderson of San Diego, for Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada to visit another sister. She will be gone a month.

Alta Larson returned to work last week after a month away from office routine during which time she visited her daughter, and son-in-law, Rosamary and Jerry Diehl on their ranch in Magic Valley, Idaho. Naturally, her greatest thrill was meeting for the first time her eight months old grandson, Curtis, and re-acquainting herself with her other little two year grandson, Michael.

Glad cries of "welcome back" rang through the floors at Buffums' when Mildred Miner returned to work Tuesday after an absence of three weeks while she recuperated from surgery. Mrs. Miner is a buyer at the department store.

Among eyes that shone this week were those of Mrs. Dale C. Teach (she is the former Ethel Richards and taught at LBCC) when they arrived back in Long Beach from Harrison, Ark. to make their home once again in the Southland. While searching for a place to live they are staying with Ethel's sister and mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Richards and Connie Richards, 141 Pomona Ave.

The days are flying by at a snail's pace for Agnes Herbst (Millie and Severson) who has almost worn her passport out from handling as she awaits departure date for a flight to Europe, beginning Sept. 16. First she flies to Chicago where she will meet a friend (most fortunately in the travel agency business) and from there the two head straight for Paris. For the next month they will make the "grand tour" of European countries and cities cramming each day full of new sights and sounds on a first trip abroad.

One of the most satisfying vacations they've ever had has just ended for Corinne and Russ Broecker who, with 6-year-old daughter, Candy, traveled to Nebraska where Candy saw her grandfather and 95-year-old great grandfather for the first time. Then on to South Dakota to visit Corinne's relatives and friends and home via the famed Black Hills, the Badlands, Colorado Springs, Santa Fe, N. M. and Las Vegas. In Colorado Springs and New Mexico they visited a host of friends from Russ' Army days.

The daily grind after vacation began Monday for Lillian and Floyd Ancheta. For two weeks they roamed and explored the Pacific Coast and southwest, visiting the Oregon Caves, Crater Lake, Las Vegas, Phoenix and many a spot in between. Most vivid memory of Phoenix was the flash floods they encountered there when traffic was halted while a 50-foot wall of water tore across the highways. In Las Vegas they managed to be present when the recent tremendous rains inundated that pleasure city, short circuiting electricity and plunging the downtown section into darkness, the first time in many years lights haven't blazed in that city.

Cohostesses at Shower

Pretty pink and white flowers adorned tables at Lakewood Country Club Tuesday when Miss Lillian Wright was honored at a bridal luncheon. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Francis A. McNeese, Thomas W. Smith and Paul E. Pauls.

Miss Wright, an airline hostess, is the bride-elect of Robert Booth of Los Angeles.

Bidden were Mrs. William S. Hemphill, Jane Warden, Sam P. Wright, Charles B. Vana, Sam J. Wright, Horace Warden, Edward Zinner, Neal Hamilton, Robert J. Wright, Harry E. Petro, George Miller, Warren Ferguson, Sanford Baker, Miss Betty J. Wright, Barbara Barkdell, Betty Fowler and Mary Compton.

Mrs. Charles W. Streighttiff

Streighttiff-Wright Vows Solemnized

Her mother's bridal veil of rosepoint lace lent a sentimental touch to the wedding of Patricia Ann Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace W. Wright, 5354 Harvey Way, to Lt. (j.g.) Charles William Streighttiff.

The young couple exchanged nuptial vows July 31 before the Rev. Hiram B. Crosby in afternoon services at St. Thomas of Canterbury Church, Lakewood.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of antique embroidered organdy and carried dainty white pompon chrysanthemums atop a white prayer book.

Preceding her down the aisle were the bride's attendants, matron of honor Mrs. Lute Holley of San Marino and bridesmaids Mrs. Stevens Wright and Miss Winifred Lawley. They wore ballerina-length gowns fashioned of peacock blue crystalline. Blue and white blossoms in their bouquets were repeated in their flower tiaras. The bride's godchild, little Miss Catherine Dedrick, was flower girl.

Ens. Lucien H. Case of Cleveland, Ohio, was best man with Joseph McCloskey and Stevens Wright, a brother of the bride, seating the 150 wedding guests.

Greeting their guests at a church reception, the newlyweds were assisted by Misses Peggy Norcross, Pat King, Joan Smith and Mrs. Walter Stiles.

The bride is a graduate of Santa Monica High School and attended Long Beach City College. Upon her marriage, she relinquishes membership in Spinsters. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Streighttiff of Huntington, Pa., was graduated from Columbia University. He is affiliated with Phi Kappa Psi.

Following a trip through Northern California, the couple will live in San Diego where the bridegroom is stationed with the Navy.

Luncheon at Allen Center

Hibiscus and magnolias centered quartet tables at the luncheon given a few days ago by Group JE of Ebell Club at Officers Club, Allen Center.

Attending were Mrs. Lloyd A. Baird, Bethel Brant, Ray Davis, John Faris, Don Gordon, David Hodges, C. A. Jack, Quentin Klenk, L. G. Leacheur, Lyman W. Lough, James W. Maddux, Russell Maurer, James Manion, Harold Montgomery, James R. Nelson, William A. Nesbitt, George Pearson, Harry Ridings, Harold Schiffer, Robert Sturgeon and Miss Margaret Wackerle. Bridge and canasta followed the luncheon.

Calvary Shrine
Calvary White Shrine 25 Social Club will stage a noon luncheon and card party Wednesday at Linden Hall, Linden and Broadway.

Party to Set Pace for Races

Kickoff to International Championship Races for the Penguin Class Dinghy Association will be a cocktail party for 150 guests Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Exley Jr., 5490 The Toledo following registration.

Among the guests will be Long Beach fleet members and those who qualified for participation in the races through their own fleets in the U. S., Canada and Hawaii. The lovely Bay front home of the Exleys will set a fitting mood for the days ahead, as guests enjoy a social evening surrounded by styro-foam penguins in a variety of shapes, sizes and poses. A black and white theme will be stressed throughout decor planned by Misses Molly Haines and Sherry Hosson.

Assisting the Exleys will be Fleet Capt. S. B. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas, and Messrs. and Mrs. Britt Carlou, Arthur Glasier, and Joe McQuilkin.

Forty boats are expected to participate in the races with two scheduled on Friday and three on Saturday. Assisting in the races will be committee members, Llewellyn Bixby Jr., Richard Russell and George Chapman. Committee boats will be furnished by George Hart Jr. and Lee Thompson Jr. Trophies will be presented to winners during a dinner-dance Saturday evening at Lafayette Hotel with Mrs. Arthur Glasier as chairman, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman.

Miss Nancy Allen

Engagement Told at Party

Names of the engaged couple on streamers extending from a pink net heart served to announce the betrothal of Nancy D. Allen to Lt. Sterling H. Lee of the Air Force during a surprise announcement party at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Allen, 2411 Earl Ave.

An all pink theme was stressed in party decor and refreshments, with names of the betrothed pair repeated on miniature streamers on nut-cups. Party guests were Misses Dan Carney, Veda Lee, Ray Malmberg, Robert Bledsol, Robert Reece, Misses Marilyn Tower, Zoe McCurdy, Margaret Beal, Shirley Hughes, Sally Honer, Carolyn Pew and Marvieve McGookin.

The bride-elect was graduated from Polytechnic High School where she was recipient of the Howard Hicks Memorial Scholarship. Now in her junior year at Occidental College, she is a member of Tiger Tap, sophomore honorary service organization, and president of Lambda Delta Sigma. Her fiancé, son of Mrs. Veda Lee, 1010 E. 71st St., was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. He is stationed at Luke Air Force Base in Arizona as a jet pilot.

Prenuptial Parties Compliment Bride-Elect

Caught up in the giddy whirl of prenuptial courtesies, Mary Jane Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon J. Williams, 232 LeVerne Ave., continues to be guest of honor at many bridal showers given by her friends throughout this area.

The bride-elect, who will exchange marriage vows with Ray Patrick Gaffney, son of Mrs. William Gaffney of South Pasadena, on Aug. 20 in St. Bartholomew's Church, will be complimented Aug. 8 when 25 cheerful well-wishers gather in the Peninsula home of Mrs. Roy Woodbury, 12nd Pl., for a kitchen shower. Hostesses will be Misses Doris Mann, Lillian Behrens of Whittier and Margaret Condie.

Mrs. Charles F. Degele, with Mrs. A. R. Dresser and

Mrs. Sydney Goldbaum of Hollywood, will hostess a china and miscellaneous shower on Aug. 12 in the Degele home, 925 Terraine Ave.

Honored at a personal shower Aug. 13 in the South Pasadena home of Mrs. C. V. Gaffney will be the future bride and Mrs. Roberta Huttenlock, house guest of the Williams', who journeyed from Chicago especially for the wedding ceremonies.

A gaily decorated mantelpiece centered by a ceramic bride and bridegroom added to the attractive setting for shower gifts brought by friends of Miss Williams to a recent tea hostessed by Mrs. James McGowan of Rolling Hills.

Twenty of her fellow June nursing school graduates of the Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles honored the bride-elect at a linen shower recently in the Beverly Hills home of Mrs. Richard K. Hexter. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Gaffney, mothers of the engaged couple, presided at the tea table which was exquisitely decorated with an arrangement of pink carnations flanked by silver candle holders on a pink and silver tablecloth. Gifts to the honoree were placed beneath a white ruffled parasol trimmed with pink roses. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Hexter were her daughter, Miss Ellen Morris, and Mrs. Juanette Imhoff.

Crowds Flock to Renoir Exhibition

By VERA WILLIAMS
(Independent Press-Telegram Art Editor)

Long Beach art exhibits: Workshop Studio Gallery, 127 E. 1st St.; Paintings and sketches by local artists headed by Ben Messick and Karl Seethaler.

Jergins Arcade: Camera Club show.
Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.: California Designed Show.

Pacific Coast Club Gallery, 850 E. Ocean Blvd.: Art Assn. show.

Long Beach Branch Los Angeles County Medical Assn., 814 Pine Ave.: Margie Cate show.

Lafayette Hotel Art Gallery, Broadway and Linden Ave.: Spectrum Club show.

Pauline's Art Mart, 5916 E. 2nd St.: Paintings by artists of Long Beach and vicinity.

Bank of Belmont Shore, 5354 E. 2nd St.: Seascapes by 12 local artists.

Everett Boyette's, 5907 E. 2nd St.: Richard V. Johnson show.

Long Beach Academy of Art, Britannia Gardens, 1st St. and Seaside Ave.: Work by Karl Seethaler and pupils.

Naples School of Music, 5612 E. 2nd St.: William J. Bartko show.

More than 2,500 persons today are expected to see the Renoir exhibition in the Los Angeles County Museum, Exposition Park. The exhibition, drawing the greatest crowds to the Museum since the Berlin Masterpieces in early 1949, is seen by an average of 1,000 persons week days and 2,000 persons on Sundays. Today is expected to be one of the largest Sundays in the showing, which ends Aug. 21.

Assembled and catalogued by the Museum staff, the four million dollar exhibition includes 200 pieces of art by Pierre Auguste Renoir, 1841-1919. French landscape and figure painter, the last of the old masters. Shown are 91 oils, 30 drawings including pastels and pencil, crayon and charcoal sketches; 55 prints, including etchings and lithographs, and 18 pieces of sculpture. Eighty-one lenders made the show possible.

"It's a pleasant, cozy experience going to the Renoir show," reports an enthusiastic visitor. "Colors are bright and warm, the people are real, the work is pretty. Renoir wanted it pretty and it is."

Individuals and groups from all walks of life daily visit the showing, studying the paintings, prints and sculpture in the galleries, enjoying the Renoir color movie shown daily at 11:30, 1:30, 3:30 and again on Thursday evenings, at 7:30 and 8:30. Costumes of the period are displayed in the costume gallery and the historical department has on display contemporary documents and pictures of Renoir's time. With attendance figures climbing, Dr. Brown, chief curator of art, suggests that those intending to visit the exhibition plan to come early in the day when crowds are lightest.

The Museum is closed Monday, open daily from 10 to 5, and Thursday nights until 9. A moderate charge is made to adults and children for admission to the Renoir exhibition.

It's that time again! The Municipal Art Center is throwing open its doors to the art talent of Long Beach and vicinity for the annual non-juried exhibition Aug. 23-Sept. 18. Any adult resident of the area is welcome to enter a painting, print or drawing. Entries should comply with the following rules:

1. Pictures must be framed, and tightly wired, ready for hanging. 2. Maximum size for accepted items is three by four feet. 3. Entries must be clearly labeled, typed or printed, with the entrant's name and address, and either the price or "not for sale." All work must be entirely original.

Entries will be accepted at the Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., Friday, Aug. 19, from 9 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30.

"Gonna Be Gone South of the Border for Two Weeks, Aug. 8 to 22," say gay yellow, cactus-trimmed cards issued by Bud Overholzer, owner of a studio and art gallery, 127 E. 1st St. He will be at Estero Beach, just below Ensenada, and hopes to do some painting. Although the gallery will be closed for two weeks, persons (including the exhibiting artists) who wish to see the exhibit may do so. Mrs. Bettie Nissley, member of the sketch group, has the key. She is at 1211 Electric Ave., Seal Beach. Sea pictures by 12 local artists—Richard V. Johnson, William Bartko, Charles E. Smith, F. DeMain Saunders, Don Miles, Peter Lore, Karl Albert, Angel Espoy, Darrow Durham, George Miller, Chico Aguello and Bob Peck—are shown in the Bank of Belmont Shore.

OIL IS THE TOPIC

Putting the story of black gold on a blackboard will be a steady occurrence this fall as a new course of study, the first of its kind in the world as far as is known, begins at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division to specifically train women desiring to enter the oil industry as secretaries, accountants or office personnel. Discussing the exciting new course, which will begin with speed reading classes, are from left, Mrs. Ruth Purdy, teacher of the first study section; Lucille Swigert of the Desk and Derrick Club, which is sponsoring the course, and the club's president, Jean Kasper. Accredited teachers as well as oil industry men will teach the various classes.—(Staff photo.)

Oil Industry Training for Women to Begin in Fall

Noting a lack of training, primarily technical, among women seeking employment in the oil industry, members of Desk and Derrick Club, composed of those women now employed in companies affiliated with the petroleum field, decided to correct the condition. Meetings with members of the Long Beach School system and with men in the oil industry followed and now the women are ready to announce a concentrated course of study to begin this fall.

Dr. M. H. Hubbell, associate dean of the Business Division of Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division, was consulted and with Desk and Derrick's president, Jean Kasper, and Lucille Swigert assisting, have scheduled a full scale course to be given at City College's B & TD Division beginning Sept. 15. The course will be given in three phases, the first two to be taught by regular certified California teachers and the third by qualified men in the oil industry.

The first phase will be preparatory and will be on speed reading and vocabulary building to be taught by Mrs. Ruth Purdy, the speed reading expert who has received much publicity for her unusual and valuable course. This will run one night a week for eight weeks. A great proportion of the speed training will be in the special vocabulary of oil refinery, chemical, oil tool and oil well servicing phraseology. The second phase of the certified course will be office procedure consisting of office relations dealing with such things as psychology, personnel problems, office manners and the like plus a review of business English, letter writing, telephone techniques and related subjects.

The final phase of the course will be technical. This will include stenographic, secretarial and clerical as its pertains to the technical part of the oil industry—with specific training planned to give broad background knowledge in the chemical field of oil work, geology, exploration, production, manufacturing and similar subjects.

As a student completes each category and passes the examination she will be given a certificate which states that she is a Certified Technical Office Worker, a Certified Technical Accountant or a Certified Secretary.

The course will be open to anyone who has a satisfactory background of general secretarial, accounting or clerical training. It is the first of its kind, as far as is known, in the world to specifically train personnel for oil industry office work. Inquiries for registration may be made at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division on Pacific Coast Highway. Or letters or cards addressed to Anne Gilchrist, care of the Independent Press-Telegram Society Dept., will be forwarded to Desk and Derrick Club.

Latimers Arrive for Party, Son's Wedding

With the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Payton Latimer by plane Friday from Memphis, Tenn., a last minute pre-nuptial flurry has enmeshed Miss Nancy Green. It is the Latimers' first trip to California, and despite its many attractions, the principal one that brought them west is the wedding Saturday evening of their son, Lt. (j.g.) Robert W. Latimer, to Miss Green.

In the tradition of Southern California's way of life, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Green, 3949 Myrtle Ave., entertained Saturday night at a barbecue dinner honoring the Tennesseeans and the future bride couple. The Latimers were introduced that night to the host of relatives of the bride-elect residing in the Southland.

Continuing the round of courtesies complimenting the bride-to-be and her fiancé, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Crossley will welcome guests at a cocktail party and kitchen shower today in their home in Tujunga. Assisting them in the party plans are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Murrel and Miss Barbara Sanders. All the hostesses are Gamma Phi Beta sorority sisters from UCLA of the future Mrs. Latimer.

On Monday, friends of the bride couple and their parents will be guests at a barbecue in the Downey home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brewer.

Tending to final details for her wedding will occupy Miss Green on Tuesday and Wednesday, but she plans to complete them in time to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Latimer and her fiancé on a sightseeing tour of the Los Angeles area. They will be joined on some of the excursions by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Green, Nancy's parents. After the wedding rehearsal on Thursday evening, the bride party will arrive at the Pacific Coast Club for a buffet dinner, followed by dancing.

Emblem Club Events Set

Mrs. Anne Gelder will be hostess at a 10 a. m. meeting Tuesday of Long Beach Emblem Club 106 Sewing Section, in her 131 E. Bort St. home with Mrs. Emily Birnie as co-hostess.

A dinner and board meeting is scheduled at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday in the home of the president, Mrs. Gertrude Landsworth, 1247 E. Tenth St. A canasta party is planned at 12:30 p. m. Thursday at Linden Hall with Mrs. Katherine Harmon as chairman, assisted by Mmes. Gwen Burnham, Adeline Decker, Hassel Davis, and Margaret Beck. Choraleons will rehearse at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Pearl Rausch, 5856 Orange Ave.

August Date Set for Jorlind Party

Aug. 13 has been set as the date for the annual beach party of Jorlind Club at Huntington Beach State Park. Starting at 7 p. m., the evening's gala activities will be highlighted by swimming, volleyball and other games.

Plans for the event were completed at a recent business session of the group at the home of Mrs. A. G. McGraw, 1325 E. 55th St. During the evening, Mrs. Forrest Clark, social welfare chairman, gave an expenditure report on the club's revolving fund to aid patients of the Seaside Hospital Medical Clinic. A demonstration of the making and arrangement of corsages was given by the hostess, Mrs. McGraw.

Elderbloom Club

Program and social hour will follow the 1:30 p. m. business meeting when Elderbloom Club meets Tuesday in the YWCA.

MEMBERSHIP TEA

Money for the scholarship fund will be raised Friday at 1 p. m. when Patrons of City College entertain at a membership tea in the garden of the Joseph Reed home, 2335 Cedar Ave. This event has been set to welcome new members and to renew old memberships. Above, planning flower arrangements for the party, are from left, Mrs. Irwin Mozingo, president; Mrs. Reed, hostess of the tea; Mrs. Lida Self, hospitality chairman, and Mrs. Rebecca Loy, membership chairman. Last year the patrons gave four scholarships to City College students.—(Staff photo.)

Compliment Mrs. Depew

Mrs. Gene E. Depew was complimented at an anticipation shower recently given by Mrs. Hubert McCague and Mrs. Charles N. Depew Jr. in the latter's home, 6124 E. Conant St. Baby booties in pink and blue decorated the sheet cake which centered the refreshment table.

Bidden were Mmes. Matilda Thiel, Albert Goodman, Claire Einwalter, Herbert Reef, Jo Neilan, H. L. Spencer, Anthony Brandelli, Albert Brandelli, Sylvia Einwalter, Robert Talkington, Warren Newman, Richard Brandelli, Ann Depew, Catherine Wolter, Juanita Huck, James McConnell Jr., James McConnell, Violet Alford, Misses Shirley Brandelli, Roxie Einwalter, Remilda Einwalter and Corrine Brandelli.

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. John James Gibbons of 2276 San Vicente Ave., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Corinne Audrey, to Lewis Barton White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Franklin White of Apple Valley. The bride-elect is a graduate of Wilson High School and attended City College. He is a Poly High School graduate and is a student at City College.

Ladies of Elks

Ladies of the Elks will meet Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. in the ladies lounge, Elks Club.

Secretaries Trek to San Pedro for Meeting

Lovely San Pedro Hacienda Hotel was setting for the August dinner meeting of the Queen Beach chapter of National Secretaries' Assoc. The dining room where the meeting took place overlooks the beautiful pool and offers a panoramic view of Long Beach Harbor and the skyline, leaving nothing to be desired for atmosphere, according to the secretaries.

President Marie Wells read a commendation which was proudly received by Neva Blust from J. C. Woolfel, commanding officer of the U. S. Naval Station, praising her for her "intense interest in and devotion to the many and varied duties which have been assigned to her" during Woolfel's command. The commendation was just as proudly heard by Mrs. Blust's sister secretaries.

President Marie was elected as the chapter's delegate to the regional convention of National Secretaries to take place in Los Angeles in October.

Immediate past president Jeanne Hissner gave a report on the recent state convention in Santa Monica. Members celebrating birthdays in August were recipients of clever "Do It Yourself" travel kits, originated and designed by Alice O'Hara.

Evening's guests included Gloria Bores, Rea DiMuro, Ramona Finch, Dorothy Gahry, Virginia Oryzek, Medley Thielman, Virginia Underwood and Betty Willcoxon. Door awards were presented to Cal Holmes, Erma Pasque, Elma Braid, Edna Sellers and Glea Robinson.

Pleasant excitement at the meeting was created when it was noted that Preston Foster and other members of the cast of TV's "Waterfront" program were dining at the Hacienda at the same time.

Noble Grands to Meet Wednesday

Mrs. Ruth Gray will be hostess in her 3737 E. 15th St. home at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday to members of the Past Noble Grands Club with Kirstine Peterson, president, in charge. The Sewing and Social Club will meet at 12:30 p. m. Friday at Town Hall with Emma Stivers as hostess. Ethel Casterton will preside and plans will be completed for an October bazaar. Card playing will conclude activities.

Nuptial Mass Unites Couple

Holy Innocent's Catholic Church was the scene of the recent nuptial mass uniting Paulette Katona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Katona of St. Louis, Mo., and Carl W. Kelnek, son of Mrs. H. A. Ellsworth of 4620 Faculty Ave.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was gown in ice blue net over taffeta fashioned with white brocade inserts. She carried white roses and stephanotis centered by a white orchid.

In the entourage were Mrs. C. E. Kemp, sister of the bridegroom, matron of honor; Edna Monroe, bridesmaid; Raymond E. Kelnek, brother of the bridegroom, best man, and Howard B. Doty and Charles E. Kemp, ushers.

A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The wedding cake was cut by the couple with the sword of Maj. M. A. Ellsworth, USMC, retired, stepfather of the bridegroom.

The newlyweds will reside in Long Beach after a honeymoon at the Catalina Guest Ranch.

The bride attended schools in St. Louis, Mo. Her husband, a graduate of St. Anthony's High School, served two years in the Navy. The bride's parents flew here to attend the ceremony.

Club Selects Hat Theme

Accent will be on hats when the Realtors Wives Club meets for luncheon and a program Wednesday at 11:30 a. m. in the Solarium of Lakewood Country Club.

Mrs. Ruth Williams, television personality, will demonstrate how to fashion hats from such improbable things as popcorn and scraps of material, and will explain how she became interested in her novel hobby.

Furthering the hat theme, table decorations will be small hats filled with flowers, the work of Mrs. Ted Skasko, Cliff Wall and W. C. Whittemore.

Arrangements for the card party to follow the program are being made by Mrs. Howard Reed, assisted by Mrs. P. Hayward and Mrs. W. M. Sutton.

Mrs. Joseph F. Reed will preside.

Sea Folk Turn to Land-Lubber Activity

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Winding up their summer activities with a gay farewell-to-summertime luncheon party at noon Wednesday the popular Wives of Navy Doctors' Club members will gather at the Officers Club, Allen Center, to make plans for a big fall season.

Mrs. Will Stidger will be senior hostess and reservations may be made with Mrs. Joseph Kelly of 19 Paloma Ave.

Many of the members will be returning from vacations, but hospitality chairman, Mrs. William Lawler, has left to enjoy August in San Francisco while her husband, Dr. Lawler, is with his ship in that area.

Mrs. W. Jackson Galbraith has returned after several months in the east seeing friends and relatives in Tennessee, Rhode Island, Ohio and New York.

Fleet Officers Wives Club members will meet Thursday at 12:30 p. m. at Allen Center for luncheon. Mrs. Dale Collins, assisted by the wives of officers attached to the USS Manchester, will welcome the many guests and members.

"The Dance" will be the theme of this summertime party, with dancers from Arthur Murray Studio presenting a program.

On Sept. 10 in Denver, Colo., June Scanlon and Lt. Thomas Evans, executive officer of the USS Cobb, will listen to wedding bells together.

Pretty card from those Florida fans, Comdr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn, who are fishing and seeing the sights down near Largo. They parked their trailer, USS Retired, on the banks of Lake Seminole.

Last Thursday Mrs. J. M. Clement was a most charming hostess at a dessert bridge party for a group of friends at her home here.

Mrs. Philip Ruth entertained recently at a lovely buffet supper party and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, who are here from Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hupp and Stanley Rutkowski.

Mrs. James Meola and sons were recent house guests of Capt. C. W. Fielder, commanding officer of the Naval Air Station and Mrs. Fielder up in Monterey.

The Nautical Club will hold a board meeting at the Officers Club, Allen Center, on Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. It was announced by the president, Mrs. Philip Ruth.

Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Clement are looking forward to the arrival shortly of their son, Midshipman James Markland Clement Jr., who will be home for three weeks' leave from the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Darrell Hanscom have as their house guest, Mrs. Hanscom's cousin, Pfc. J. Ernest Gosselin from Camp Irvine.

Among the distinguished newcomers to the service set here are Capt. and Mrs. Frank Parker and daughter, Cynthia Louise from the University of Wisconsin; and son Frank who just graduated from high school.

The family is now residing in San Pedro and come from Milwaukee where the naval officer was professor of naval science at Marquette University. He recently took over the command of the USS Cavalier which is based here.

Dinner guests and visitors of Mrs. and Mr. Albert Kauch and son Mike are Rosemarie Dimbro, Katherine German, Monica Daws and Vera Gange from Rochester, N. Y.

Former nurse "pals" of Helen Kauch, they drove way across country to get a peek at the Kauch's first born, cuddly young Mike, age four months.

Back from the cool breezes of Mare Island is Mrs. J. C. Woelfel, who enjoyed a wonderful visit with Mrs. Leon May at Mrs. May's mother's. Mrs. Kingsbury of Vallejo. Mrs. May will return home later in the summer.

Days of trout fishing were part of the exciting vacation enjoyed by Mrs. G. W. Davis, who with her sisters Virlee Donaldson and Mrs. George Leslie of Oxnard, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Dean of Denver, Colo. They visited another sister, Mrs. Dutton Stephenson, of that city.

A farewell party was given recently by the officers of the USS Cavalier for CWO and Mrs. Leroy "Dusty" Laine and Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Thomas H. Joyce. Jr. Lt. Joyce is returning to civilian life and the two will leave shortly to visit parents in Vermont. CWO Laine will go to Officer Candidate School in Rhode Island and from there he and his wife will go to Glenview, Ill.

Lt. and Mrs. C. W. Gilcrease have as their house guests, the Navy officer's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gilcrease and their uncle, Garret Campbell of Bishop.

Jumpers Top Fall Styles for School

First on your list of fall clothes for the girls should be a jumper. There's a bumper crop of jumpers predicted for the season ahead. They are worn with blouses, or still more popular is the turtle neck sweater which permits a splash of color above the scoop of V neck dress.

Outstanding novelty is the wonder jumper, a suede cloth jumper made to be worn four ways—turnabout and turned inside out. It's really a double jumper with one side styled mainly in black and white and the other in a bright contrasting color, such as red. One neckline is scooped, the other side V. Front bodice is bright colored, while the other contrasts color with check to effect a brief bolero line.

Denim frequently takes on a tweedy look. In fact, sometimes it is difficult to distinguish from the host of tweed cotton novelties so popular this season. One of these lovely denim fashions is a most attractive princess dress with middie highlights. Styled for 3 to 6' clear up to subteen ages, it has a billowing skirt, slim waist and midriff. Nautical note is the large square middie collar. Added authentic touch is the white pique dickey embroidered with a giant, red satin-stitched anchor.

Reception Compliments Pair Following Nevada Wedding

A reception, to which 180 guests were bidden, took place recently in the Bellflower home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Allen Jr., to honor newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Ripa whose wedding took place in the Little Chapel Around the Corner in Las Vegas, Nev.

BETROTHED

Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Hill of 206 E. 65th St. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Robert E. Hurlburt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hurlburt, Venice.

The bride-elect is a student at Jordan High School and is a member of Alpha Sigma Rho Sorority. Her fiancé attends UCLA. No date has been set for the wedding.

The new Mrs. Ripa is the former Miss Sally Joan Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe G. Hammond of Palmdale, formerly of Long Beach. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Ripa, 6151 Walnut Ave.

Hosts at the reception were the brother-in-law and sister of the bride. Assisting were Mrs. Beverly Slater, Mrs. Joe G. Hammond Jr., and Miss Lillian Messerschmidt. Little Terry Allen, daughter of the hosts, was in charge of the guest book.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the Allen home. Guests were served wedges from a three-tier wedding cake.

Given in marriage by her father at the Nevada ceremony, the bride was attired for her wedding in a white embroidered ballerina length gown and a finger-tip length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and carnations.

After a honeymoon trip to Balboa, the newlyweds are now at home in Long Beach.

Both were graduated from Long Beach City College in June where she belonged to Entre Nous and he to Junior Exchange. They plan to attend Long Beach State College in the fall.

Barbara Vance Becomes Bride of Glen L. Nichols

Storybook romance of Barbara Irene Vance and Glen Lee Nichols, childhood sweethearts, culminated in recent nuptials at First Christian Church, Wilmington. The double ring rite was performed by Rev. Harlan D. Morris.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Vance, 1262 Roman Ave., Wilmington, and the bridegroom is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ireland, 1532 Lagoon Ave., Wilmington.

The bride was a picture of loveliness in a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace over slipper satin. In the center front of the bouffant skirt, scallops of lace met an accordion pleated nylon tulle panel. A pearl crown of orange blossoms design held her fingertip-length, illusion veil. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of four white orchids with white satin streamers tied in sweetheart knots.

Maid of honor was Miss Doris Irene Tenney, cousin of the bride, from Santa Barbara, and bridesmaids were Miss Violet Farrell and Mrs. Greta Hastings Vance.

Melvin Vance, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Gene Wood and James Skow.

A reception at the church social hall was attended by 200 guests.

Following the reception, 75 family members and intimate friends were invited to a patio buffet supper at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, who is a Banning High School graduate, is a former member of Job's Daughters, Wilmington Bethel 57. Her bridegroom, a U. S. Marine sergeant stationed at Twentynine Palms, has been in the service for the past three years. When he attended the local high school, he was a leading tennis star. He is also a former member of Wilmington Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

The couple is receiving friends at their residence, 922 W. "M" St., following a honeymoon in Palm Springs.

Being a 'Welcome Guest' Is an Acquired Talent

By ANGELO PATRI

Summer is the time when young people go visiting. Being a good guest is an art well worth acquiring. Maybe a few hints gained of experience with youthful visitors may be helpful.

First, set a definite time for arriving and leaving. This makes things easier for both host and guest. Be prompt about both. Be on the ship, the plane or the train you said you would be on, and be sure that you take the train, or whatever mode of travel you use, promptly at the end of the set time. Even if you are invited to stay over—go when you said you would go. Many a guest has closed the door behind him by staying over his allotted time.

Fit yourself into the life of the family. Watch to see what the family routine is about bathrooms, meals, daily household chores and do your full share toward keeping the household running smoothly. Always remember to say, "May I?" before using a chair, a radio, a television set and never lay hands on a car unless you are requested to do so. This is ironclad etiquette. Any breach of it will make a young guest about as welcome as a mosquito.

When asked about a trip, a picnic or a party, listen with your mind as well as with your ears. Go along happily with whatever entertainment is offered you, but be truthful about any lack of skill in a sport of your suffer that lack. Don't be like the girl who was asked along in a sailboat with the idea that she could help sail the boat. She had never been in a sailboat in her life, but hated to say so, and the result can be imagined. Don't belittle any skill you may have, but don't pretend to have what you have not, unless you want to be in a very embarrassing place.

Keep your belongings in the room you occupy and keep them in the closet, the chest or your suitcase; anywhere but scattered about the house. Neatness in this will create a warm spot for you in the heart of the hostess.

Try to be pleased with everything and never, never say, "Ours is so different. Much larger, and you can do lots more with it." A sophisticated air and a "I really don't care. Whatever you say"—that's poison. You are to be pleased, delighted, with whatever is offered.

Be particularly careful to pay courteous attention to any elderly person in the family.

In saying goodbye, thank everybody for their kindness and once at home: write your thank-you note.

Sometimes lying is caused by fear and the first step in overcoming lying is to find the cause, then strive to remove

GLAMOUR'S TOPPING FOR FALL
Japan is the inspiration of Sally Victor this year, who designed the graceful hat of silvery panne at left. The soft tucks are taken from the folds of a Japanese kimono. Romance of the ballet permeates the next hat called Jete by Emme. Designed in fur beaver, the large undulating brim is centered with a shallow round crown. A black

Shetland veil with a wide band of chiffon borders the hat—third hat by Emme. This little derby is of holly-berry red soleil. Fujiyama is the name given by Sally Victor to the chapeaux at right. Neither snow covered nor steep, this green velvet chapeaux is gently sloping and very becoming.

NOTHING IS MORE CHIC for fall than this rib-knit ensemble by Zolot of California. The two-piece rib-knit dress, tied at the waist, is complemented by a matching slim coat lined in silk crepe. The coat is belted in back and has the popular push-up sleeves. In colors hunter-green, faun and charcoal, it is priced around $90.

Rings Achieve Slender Look

The slender-as-a-willow look work, lighten the shoulders of has reached the bridal market the rings still further. Baguettes, and betrothal clear back through the betrothal period. Engagement rings and wedding bands give them slender grace. A round brilliant-cut with tapered baguettes on either side is the most fashionable engagement ring of the season.
BRIGHT WHITE IN METALS
For ring mountings, white gold is back in the white heat of popularity, especially in city areas. Somewhat less expensive than platinum and considerably harder, the new alloys of 14-karat white gold takes a dazzling polish.
Wedding bands have taken off weight, too, but there is no lack of a mere twist of wire. Actually the new rings are stamped out of coin-shaped disks as thick as a 25-cent piece. On the finger, this makes the ring high and deep but not wide.

The Worry Clinic
Surgery Fear More Harmful Than the Actual Operation

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case P-306: Clara L., aged 47, was hysterical with fear as she telephoned me long distance for advice.
"Oh, Dr. Crane, my doctor says I have a tumor of the bowel," she began, and was crying as she talked. He recommends an immediate operation, but I am so afraid. Do you think I will die on the operating table? I have two children in high school and I don't want to leave them yet."
Usually I refrain from dealing in this column with purely medical problems, but there are exceptions.
Fear causes more pain and disturbance of your normal physiology than cancer or any other ailment. For fear can produce insomnia, peptic ulcer, high blood pressure, spastic colitis, and a host of other actual organic ailments.
So face the facts and you'll be more calm. To do that, of course, you must have frank scientific data, which is why your editor runs this clinical column.
You don't need worry about dying on the operating table. That is such a rarity that you can dismiss it as a very remote possibility. Furthermore, you lose very little blood during any operation. You have five or six quarts, and may lose only a few tablespoonsful at most.
For doctors clamp off any bleeding vessel at once and tie it.
If you have an obstruction of the bowel caused by a tumor, that section of your bowel may be cut out, just as you might cut out a 6-inch piece of leaking garden hose to repair it. The two good ends of the bowel are then sewed together very neatly.
Sometimes it is wise to detour the contents of the bowel for a few weeks, so a hole is cut in the abdominal wall and

Why Grow Old?

Beware of Summer Hazards

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Summer has its hazards as well as pleasures. I have already written several times about suntanning. Today I want to bring you some information and suggestions about some of the physical discomforts to which outdoor life exposes you.
Part of the fatigue you feel in very hot weather comes from loss of salt and water in the tissues through perspiration. Most doctors feel that you should force fluids for this reason. In other words, drink water at regular intervals whether or not you are thirsty. Also, use more salt than usual on your food. Take salt tablets only on your doctor's advice. This is not usually necessary unless you are doing heavy physical exercise in hot weather.
Athletes Foot is more likely to add to its list of victims in hot weather than in cold. The reason for this is the fact that damp, perspiring feet provide a perfect atmosphere for the growth of the fungus which causes this trouble. Also, we spend more time near swimming pools, in bath houses and shower rooms.
In order to avoid Athletes Foot wear wooden clogs when you walk about locker rooms and showers and the edge of the pool. Also, take especially good care of your feet. Dry them carefully. Change your stockings or socks often and use a dusting powder between the toes.
Rocky Mountain Spotted

Fever is another summer hazard. It is not so horrifying as it once was but it certainly is something to avoid. The antibiotics have reduced the death rate terrifically.
This disease may occur any place and is transmitted to man by ticks. In order to be safe use tweezers to remove ticks from dogs or other pets which are allowed to run in fields or woods. Do not use your hands. Even better, remove the ticks by using one of the insecticide powders or liquid dips.
When camping in spots known to be infected with Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, you would be wise to wear high boots. You should also inspect your entire body once a day and your bedding at night. If you find that there is a tick on you hold a lighted cigarette or match close to it. When it lets go, remove it with tweezers and disinfect the spot with carbolic acid.
One should always take a First Aid Kit on vacation. This is what the American Red Cross recommends: Six one-inch adhesive bandages, individually wrapped, two 3-inch bandage compresses, one square yard of sterile gauze, a triangular bandage (which can be used as a tourniquet) and a tube of burn ointment. For trips to far away places you should also have one roll of one or two inch bandage, a roll of 1/4 inch adhesive tape, a pair of scissors, forceps for removing splinters, spirits of ammonia, sterile mineral or castor oil for use as eyedrops and wire or thin boards for splints.

If you would like to have our leaflet No. 69 "Tricks in Camping," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of the Press-Telegram.
This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Arizona Trip
En route to Arizona for a month's stay are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smitheran of 5601 Daggett St. with their sons David and Jack. They will visit Mrs. Smitheran's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ridgway, in Safford and take numerous side-trips to spots of interest in the Southwest.
Smitheran will interrupt his vacation to spend a short time in Flagstaff, Ariz., where he will attend Flagstaff State College summer session.

Campus Topping

Accesso-keyed to the "casual look" of back-to-college are scarf fashions that give flair and versatility to the simplest campus costume. T-shirts come in exciting new colors, new silhouettes and new designs, often marked by the high funnel neckline. Long-lined jenkins in corduroy and plaid, cashmere-blend jackets for the town-and-country look, and wool chinchilla jackets to dress up the casual costume all star for early fall. Clan plaids ranging from the popular Black Watch to the brilliantly colored Dress Stewart appear in everything from cardigans, jenkins and torso tops to handsome reversible stoles.

BULLSEYE!

By Dave Emery

BACK in the Dark Ages, when death sizzled across the battlefield on a feather-tipped shaft, archery was a deadly skill that belonged to the professional warrior and huntsman.

But today all that is changed. The twang of the taut bowstring has found a sympathetic echo in the hearts of thousands of Americans who tramp off to grass lot archery ranges every week to practice their ancient art.

Archery — obsolete on the battlefield — has become a family sport.

TYPICAL of the hundreds of Southern Californians who belong to this stout-hearted clan of modern Robin Hoods are Ernie Van Tassel, a 29-year-old Long Beach Navy veteran, and his wife, Shirley, 25.

The Van Tassels and their 4-year-old son, Larry, trek from their home at 2411 St. Joseph Ave. to the archery range at Heartwell Park in Lakewood every few days.

Heartwell Park, scattered with hay bales, is the joint stomping ground of two clubs that represent opposite schools of thought in modern archery.

Oldest of the two clubs is the Long Beach Archers. They number about 75 members, the first of whom banded together in 1936.

THE LONG BEACH Archers are target shooters, and like about half of the 40 Southland archery clubs, they are interested primarily in marksmanship at tournaments for medals and trophies.

The second group — the one to which Ernie and Shirley Van Tassel belong — is the Long Beach Bowhunters.

The Bowhunters stalk wild game like the Indians did. They only shoot at paper targets when they can't go after bobcats, deer or jackrabbits.

Long Beach Bowhunters were organized by nine archers in 1952. Club President Art Taylor, purchasing department clerk for the City of Long Beach, estimates the bowhunters' membership today at 58.

DYED-IN-THE-WOOL target archers look down their noses at the bowhunter breed — and some of the veteran bowhunters shake their heads sadly at the mention of target tribe.

But according to Dr. Raymond Kelso of Long Beach, president of the California Archery Assn., there are hundreds of bow-and-arrow fans across the country who take pride in belonging to hunting and target clubs both.

"Joe Freis of Pasadena won the State Target Archery championship in May," Dr. Kelso pointed out, "and just last month he entered the State Field Archery match and won that, too."

"He's a good example of the men who think archery is a swell sport any way you look at it."

PRESIDENT of the local target archers is Gene McKelvie of Long Beach. His club will be host to an estimated 200 members of the California Archery Assn. when they meet at Heartwell Park for a statewide tournament next summer.

Top archer in this area is Jean Richards of Laguna Beach, former world's champion woman target archer. She competed in an international tournament held last month in Helsinki, Finland.

Compared with the polish and precision of the target archer, the bowhunter is a rugged breed.

"We're called 'instinctive' or 'bare-bow' shooters," bowman Ernie Van Tassel explained this week during one of his practice sessions at the Heartwell Park range.

"WE DON'T use sights on our bows. We aim and shoot like a cowboy firing from the hip."

"The practice targets we use have pictures of animals on them, and our real business is going after live game."

Local bowhunters hunt chiefly in the steep hills near Malibu and Santa Barbara. Other hunting grounds are near Big Pine and in the Greenhorn Mountains near Bakersfield.

"An archer has to see his game before he shoots," the dark-haired bowman said, "and that's why a lot of us took to archery in the first place."

"We like to hunt, but hunting with a rifle is too dangerous. With a bow and arrow you may not bag as much game, but you get a bigger thrill out of the hunt because you have to stalk your kill."

"You can't just take a pot shot at the target from a quarter of a mile away."

Bowhunters in the United States have bagged deer, elk, wild boar, bear, mountain lion, bobcat, rabbit, moose, coyote, waterfowl and even fish. The fish are shot with the aid of a reel that attaches to the hunter's bow.

IN STYLE, modern bows are little changed from the longbows that felt the grip of the archers of old England.

But new materials have made modern bows and arrows better, and even the champion arrow-slinger of the days of yore would have a tough time competing with today's target archer.

The target archer could shoot farther, truer and faster.

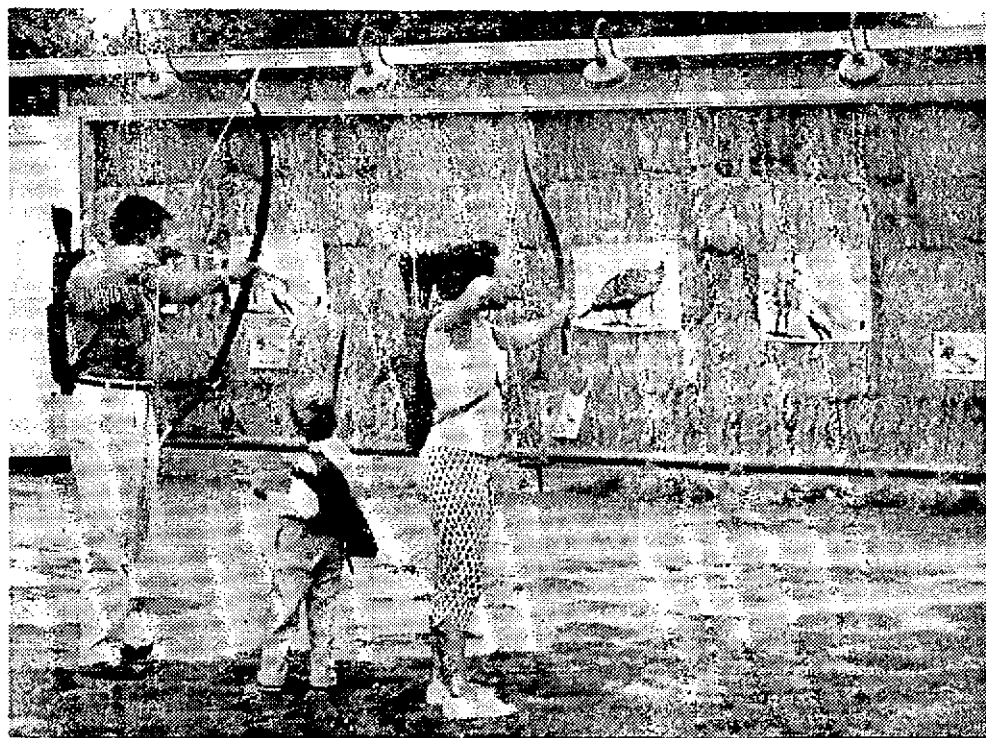

Robin Hood may have had a good eye and a steady hand, but he didn't have a Dacron bowstring.

OUR COVER

It's little things like Carol Beck that make archery so attractive. At least, Dave Emery thought so when he discovered her relaxing on a target at Long Beach City College. Naturally, he snapped the color picture. This led to some mild inquiries on archery, and he discovered the sport to be not only attractive but fascinating—so fascinating that he wanted to write about it, too. And, oh, yes: Carol is 18, and lives at 11 Palermo Walk, Naples.

Archery is a family affair in the Van Tassel household. Here Larry, only 4, gets lesson from his dad, Ernie, while his mother keeps eye on target.

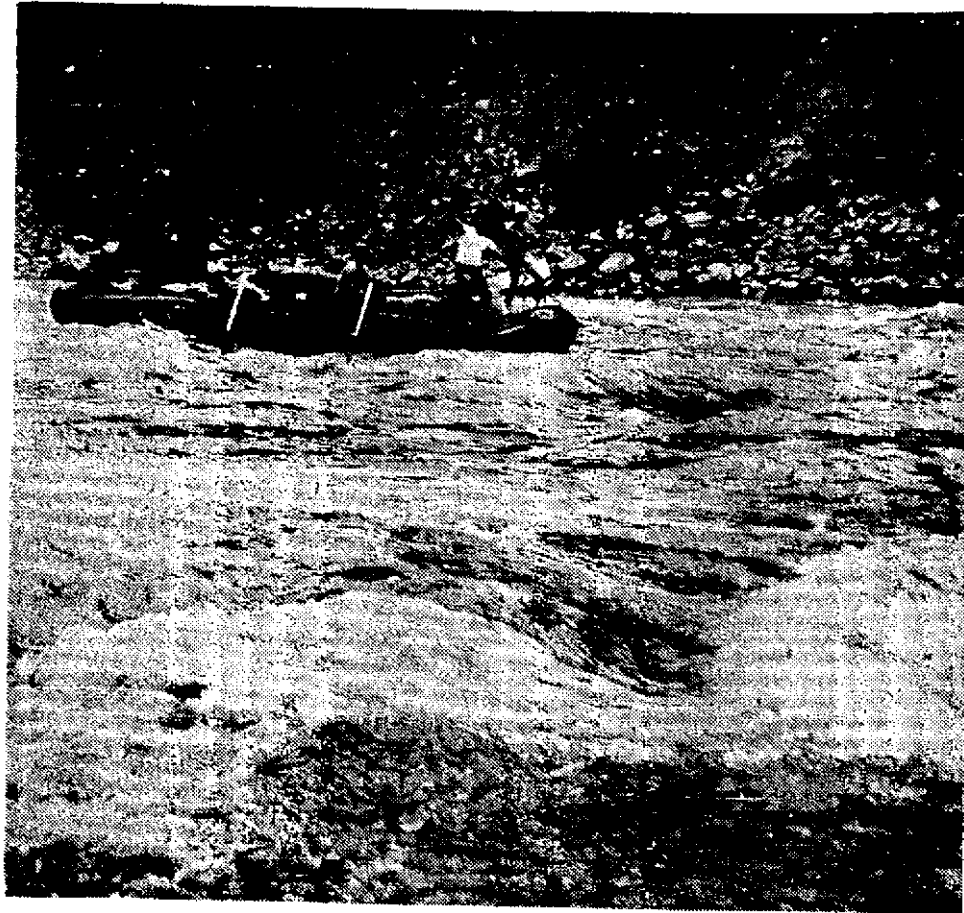

Members of the Long Beach Bowhunters, the Van Tassel family lines up for target practice. The club is devoted to hunting game with bow, arrow.

Mrs. Van Tassell, holder of medal for marksmanship, zeroes in a target which is about 40 yards away.

Down the turbulent Yampa and Green Rivers went this party in rubber raft. Four Long Beach men were aboard and claim trip unexcelled for excitement.

By Blaine Nels Simons

THE TURBULENT Yampa and Green Rivers flowing through Dinosaur National Monument in northern Colorado and Utah recently suggested a new idea for combined rest and excitement for Long Beach residents Dr. William Scott, Bob Wenke, C. Roy Erickson and the author. The idea — joining a Hatch River Expedition on a five-day run down these rivers.

The Hatch Expeditions headquarters in Vernal, Utah, and yearly take hundreds of river-running enthusiasts down the wild canyons of the Yampa and Green. Run by ageless Bus Hatch, a weather-worn veteran of 30 years experience on these ivers, the expeditions offer almost everything the traveler will need except personal good luck; even Bus Hatch cannot assure the latter on these runs.

Our trip began on the Yampa, a few miles above the Dinosaur Monument. Into a four-foot-wide, 26-foot long rubber raft, a Navy wartime pontoon, we piled huge boxes of food, mountainous bundles of camping equipment and, finally, ourselves; our two guides sat amidships manning sets of oars. A novelty on this trip was a 16-foot plywood outboard motorboat, piloted by three Denver men, which was to follow us downstream. No boat this size had ever made this run before and from the start the guides felt their attempt would be doomed.

The first day's run moved down calm and placid waters, belying the true temperament of the Yampa. Early on the second day the Yampa started moving, picking up momentum as it wound into ever steepening canyons. Small, unnamed rapids began confronting us every mile or so, while in between these runs ever stronger currents continually pulled us toward or into the cliffs. Giant boulders now abounded on the river banks or sat as obstacles in the river. The outboard churned along behind without incident as excitement mounted.

ON THE SECOND afternoon the first of the mighty named rapids was met: Big Teepee. Here swirling waters roared and pounded down a narrow chasm, splashing huge waves that reminded us of our own seashore breakers. A procedure was now commenced which would be hereafter followed on major rapids. Boat and raft were moored above the heavy water. Guides and passengers then moved downshore to inspect the rapids, noting particularly hidden-rock dangers and possible channels. The raft then proceeded first. This — our first "big run" — will never be forgotten. The serpentine raft in which a few moments before lay a certain degree of safety, now became an uncontrollable sliver of rubber, bending furiously at the oars. Water poured in from all sides and cameras, out to record the first run, were soon forgotten.

"This river bottom is littered with cameras," said a guide.

We ended the run after a quarter of a mile and moored so as to be able to run back to observe the fate of the outboard. The tiny craft fooled all of us by zipping through with less trouble than we had. The guides assured us that future rapids would not be this "easy." They weren't.

Next came "Big Joe" where again the outboard roared through without trouble. Only mishap in these white waters was a tumble overboard by Dr. Scott, swim-suited for the occasion. Thanks to brilliant swimming and a helping hand from Bob Wenke, he was in the water less than a minute.

OTHER RAPIDS were thereafter rapidly met and conquered with the growing confidence that we had "whipped the river." This self-assurance was shaken on the noon of the last day, however, when our unsmiling guides made lifejackets mandatory wearing apparel for the last afternoon. Now in the Green River, some miles past the proposed Echo Park damsite, we were told that our four most dangerous runs lay ahead—the smashing Moonshine, Sob, Schoolboy and Old Ingleby rapids. Each did make the preceding days' runs seem like so much child's play. So fast and close together were these rapids that we had no chance to moor after running them. The outboard was "on its own." On Moonshine, we observed the trailing outboard tossed up by a mammoth wave to show its keel and underside for a moment and then disappear in a giant caldron of water. In another moment it bobbed up again and pulled to safety. So confident did this make the boat's crew that they roared by us and, in a final fling of good luck and skillful boat handling, ran the rest of the rapids ahead of us. Old Ingleby, our last rapid-encounter, hardly touched the outboard but in seeming anger completely spun our raft about, planking it down between two huge waves and within a wet duffle bag's width of turning us bottoms-up before freeing us for the trip's end a mile away.

Next year we plan another trip from further up the Green where, we are promised, lie splashier rapids and whiter water. For all of us there is now nothing like running the rapids for that complete "getting away from it all" feeling.

The author restores order to his gear after wild trip through the rapids. An outboard party also made trip.

Watching operation of rafting down river is Dr. William Scott (standing), of Long Beach. He was only "casualty"; fell into river but got only dunking.

Here's a study in contrasts. Consider the matter of amusement. My tallish pet, Bob Kopp, really puts on the man, pretending to get a lot of fun out of fiddling with complicated gadgets, such as ham radio outfits. Now I'm much more intelligent about my amusement. All I need is a spot of shade, an old shoe to cram my nose into and, as far as I'm concerned, life is just wonderful.

A Shaggy Dog's Story

Picture Story by Nancy Vogel

People are always begging Brinksie Kopp to "sit up" and "speak," so he decided to do exactly that. There's something they should know, anyway.

Brinksie is a somewhat-Airedale who lives at 5808 E. Dashwood, Lakewood, with his pets, Lt. and Mrs. Bob Kopp, and this is what he has to say:

"Everybody puts on the man too much. Why, take my largest pet, Bob, for exmple. When I send him to bed, does he just flop sensibly down in the grass? Oh, no; he has to have blankets, sheets, a mattress, pillows, pillow slips, pajamas, an alarm clock, maybe even a heating pad or some sleeping pills." Things are going utterly and completely to the men, according to Brinksie. He has arranged to present these pictures to prove his point, and to show how dogs have demonstrated their mental superiority by clinging to the simple life.

Here's another contrast in intelligence. When he eats, does Bob do a neat, simple job of it? No, indeed. He makes an awkward struggle with tray, cup, saucer, fork, etc. I slurp my food off the ground, real easy-like.

And clothes — look at the array. Shorts, shirt, trousers, socks, tie, shoes, cuff links, etc. There's such a conglomeration he needs his wife to help lay everything out.

Frankly now, isn't it absurd to wear clothes? Isn't it a lot better to go around like this, unrestricted by seams, belts and tight collars?

This is the most ridiculous part yet. Bob goes to endless bother shaving off the beard nature intended for him. I do it the easy way. I merely let mine sprout. Isn't my goatee just the handsomest thing?

By James Bacon
AP Newsfeatures Writer

IT LOOKS as if Mitzi Gaynor, whom 20th Century-Fox dropped and now wishes it hadn't, may make movie history as Darryl Zanuck's third great boner.

The studio boss, often labeled genius by the Fox publicity department, also fired Clark Gable and Rita Hayworth early in their careers. The Gaynor blunder is even harder to understand.

Both Gable and Hayworth were virtual unknowns when Zanuck let them go. In the case of Mitzi, everybody in town but the people she worked for knew she was star talent.

She hardly had time to dry the tears that fell on her pink slip before Paramount signed her to costar with Bing Crosby, Donald O'Connor and ballerina Jean-Maire in "Anything Goes."

Mitzi will receive $100,000 for her top role in this musical, Paramount's biggest and most expensive of the year. Reported budget — nearly $4 million.

And from that musical, Paramount signed her to be the love interest in George Gobel's movie debut, a remake of the Preston Sturges' hit of 15 years ago, "The Lady Eve." Mitzi will not sing or dance in this one but will get a chance at good comedy and dramatics.

BARBARA STANWYCK played the role in the original version. The movie, as yet untitled, has Gobel playing a frankfurter king who is a vegetarian and Mitzi and David Niven as a couple of card sharks out to fleece him.

She winds up falling in love with Gobel.

Now even Fox wants her back to star with Van Johnson, Frank Sinatra and Dan Dailey in a big musical about the songwriting trio of DeSylva, Brown and Henderson.

Mitzi got her dismissal notice soon after she started "There's No Business Like Show Business." It would have been a good spot for an actress to really show some spite. The sacking affected the 23-year-old Mitzi differently.

"Of course I was hurt," she says. "It always hurts to know that you are not wanted any more, but my husband and friends had been urging me for months to get out of my contract anyhow, so I just looked on the notice as a blessing in disguise. I worked my head off in the picture.

"I figured if I was leaving, I'd leave them with an 11 o'clock finish."

So what happened?

THE PICTURE came out and Mitzi, in a thankless part, stole the show.

Mitzi clobbered Marilyn both in sex appeal and talent. Marilyn, an honest woman, publicly admitted so and cited "Show Business" as one of the main reasons why she bolted the studio.

How does the studio explain what happened to Mitzi?

The official notice of dismissal meant only one thing — that the studio thought Mitzi was not star caliber. However, one studio bigwig, obviously anonymous, explains:

Fired by Fox, Mitzi Gaynor gets big part opposite Geo. Gobel, Paramount.

"Fox, for some unexplained reason, is a one-woman studio. Mitzi came in the Betty Grable era and left in the Monroe regime. It was just bad timing."

Even Grable, one of the greatest boxoffice stars in history, had to get out when the studio emphasis started shifting to Monroe.

Clock fancier since his early youth, Charles Snow of Long Beach poses with some of his cherished 500 timepieces, called West Coast's top collection.

He's Having the Time of His Life

By Ellen Saunders

TO MANY PEOPLE it may come as a surprise that one of the finest and most varied collections of rare and antique clocks in the United States can be found in Long Beach. Furthermore, the owner, Charles Snow, of 1639 Anaheim St., says that his 35-year-old collection of 500 clocks and watches is unusual in another respect. Every timepiece is in perfect running condition.

Since boyhood, when Charlie Snow learned the art of clock-making from his versatile Austrian-born father—whose linguistic ability had gained for him a position as interpreter to the late Emperor Franz Joseph—he has been completely absorbed in the subject of time. When he is not restoring beauty to clocks covered with century-old grime and dust he is making unusual timepieces or lecturing on the development of clock making in Europe.

The majority of Snow's clocks are of European origin. The oldest and one of the most valuable in his entire collection is the first Italian pendulum clock, a product of the 17th century. According to Snow, mass production of clocks was unknown in Europe prior to the 20th century. Instead, each clock was an individual production created to fulfill the specific demands of its purchaser.

SNOW'S COLLECTION ranges from clocks of brass and native pine made for the peasant family to pastel shaded, ornately decorated creations of marble, onyx or Dresden porcelain designed by famous clockmakers for European nobility.

Other well-to-do families preferred clocks to be cast in the likenesses of historical, mythological or religious figures. Snow has several of these including the Spanish explorer, Ponce de Leon; Socrates, the Greek philosopher; Aphrodite, Greek Goddess of Love, and an original design of Jesus and Mary at the well.

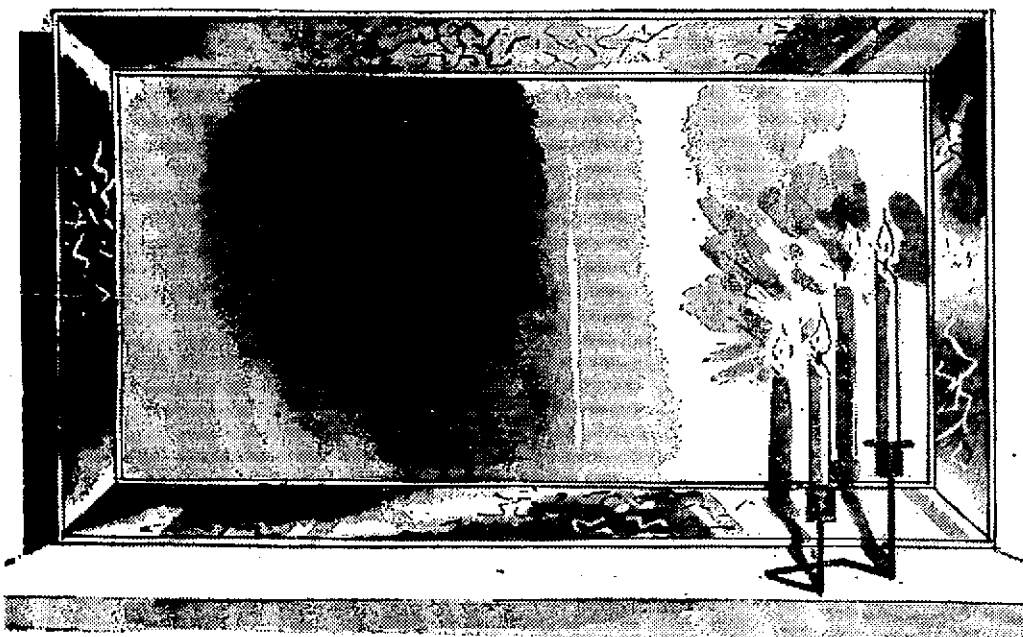

However, Snow says the clock which catches the public's fancy is an Oriental masterpiece in brass covered with carved dragons heads and elephants' tusks. Snow himself prefers a Miss Libertee, a highly polished young lady in brass who sits atop a brown onyx base. That the public frequently calls to Snow's attention the striking resemblance

These Babies Want Homes

This lovely child is one of many available for adoption by persons meeting certain requirements.

CURLY-HEADED BABIES, blonds and brunettes, Negro and Japanese babies, crying or cooing. Blind babies and beautiful babies, all without a mother and father to love them.

At the Children's Home Society in Los Angeles, where these babies are brought for a medical check-up each month by the foster parents who care for them until their adoption, case workers observe each child closely. Does this child have the coloring or similar features for a certain couple waiting to adopt a baby? Will an older child be better for another couple?

This statewide adoption service recently became an agency of the United Neighbors Community Chest of Dominguez, Signal Hill, Lakewood and Long Beach. It had applications from 990 couples last year, 94 of them from this area, all seeking adoptions.

Because there never are enough babies and because it.

Passport to the GI's Future

By
Goldie M. Harper

E DUCATION is the passport to a better future, according to a time-honored axiom.

Out at Long Beach State College, 839 veterans, age 20 to 55, are going to school under the GI Bill of Rights. Benefits of the bill consist of allowances for tuition and other necessary expenses of instruction, and "living expenses."

Many college presidents, professional budgeteers and homemakers refer to the term "living expense" as a misnomer. For instance, there's a young bachelor who was sure he could manage on the $95 or so a month allowed for a single person.

HE PAID $85 for board and room, walked everywhere, took absolutely no recreation, and bought his clothing from an Army, Navy, Marine surplus goods store. He stood this rigorous life three months, then was forced to draw from his savings. But without the "living expense" clause, he would not be going to college.

About $120 is allowed for a veteran with two dependents. Four of last year's students now enrolled in summer school agreed that it requires a minimum of $200 a month for a couple (with no children) to live, provided there are no time payments to be made.

Thomas Mills, born in Long

Beach, lives with his wife in a small apartment at 2371 Pacific Ave. He was in the Air Force 33 months, served the second stretch in Korea.

HIS WIFE teaches school. "We are so thrilled that we have saved enough money to enable us to go to Europe later this summer to study," she says enthusiastically. "Tom plans to attend the University of Paris for eight or nine months. We will study the people and their language during our free hours."

Mills carried six units of college work, last year did "practice teaching." He put in three hours of study every school day, plus the weekends, and in addition had a part-time job, working four hours a day at the college laboratory. He wants to teach in Southern California.

Jimmie Mangan, 3521 Charmagne Ave., Lakewood, is a retired Navy chief who spent 20 1/2 years in the service. For income there is $145 retainer pay and the $120 subsistence allowance. In addition, he has a small interest in a farm in South Dakota, but not much cash came from that this year.

MANGAN has a wife and six youngsters, ranging in age from 15 years to five months. The Mangans are buying their home on monthly payments, and figure that a family the size of theirs needs a minimum of $400 a month.

Jimmie really "gets around" in the odd job category. He worked last Christmas holidays in the Long Beach post office. He gets a bit of clerical work at the college once in a while.

He averages 30 hours per week, although in May and June he worked 45 hours each week. He carried 17 units of college work and, by putting in an average of 54 hours of study every week, he stayed close to a straight A average, besides winning (Continued on Page 20)

Four-Legged Squares

Buttons and Bows, mounted square dancers, cut some fancy capers at Frank Vessels Ranch, east of Long Beach. Horses love to do complicated steps.

By Neoma Weed

FIRST COUPLE out, to the couple on the right . . . "

The craze for square dancing has spread to horses, and do they love it! A group of horses and riders at Garden Grove called "Buttons and Bows" dance for rodeos, horse shows, charities, movies. The horses can go through their routine without rein or guidance. In fact, one horse is used to train new riders.

The "Buttons and Bows" are not a mounted drill team, and have no drill movements, but are strictly a dance group. All the horses are quarter horses and move at a fast canter. The club consists of four couples and four color guards.

The horses are matched in pairs and are owned by the riders. A professional caller is part of the ensemble. The music is furnished by long-playing records of square dance rhythms.

THEIR trainer and "spark plug" is Lloyd Linton, who lives in Garden Grove. When not training horses, he runs a garage at Anaheim St. and St. Louis Ave., Long Beach. When asked how he started this work, he said, "My father trained circus horses and I have always loved them. My wife is an expert horsewoman and when our three daughters outgrew a city lot in Long Beach, we moved to Garden Grove and turned to horses as a hobby."

The horseback club they formed has given many young people a healthy, happy hobby. Some of the better riders wanted to do more than just ride, so the square dance team and club were organized. Only the best riders and horses from the riding club are used.

"We never train more than one new rider or horse at a time," Linton says. "The horse always learns first." In seven years the group has had no accident worse than skinned knees.

OTHER SQUARE dance groups have started and fallen by the wayside until now this is the only group of its kind, so far as is known. The members have a roomful of trophies and have never been defeated in competition.

The club performs at the annual Sheriff's Rodeo in Los Angeles, the Camp Pendleton Service Rodeo, and many other events in the Long Beach area.

They have taken part in several movies.

Working with these horses is adventure, but perhaps the club members' biggest thrill will come when they square dance for a full-length Walt Disney movie some time this summer.

"Promenade all, you know where, and I don't care . . ."

"CHARACTER Before Career" has long been the motto of the Southern California Military Academy. While entirely non-sectarian, this academy, as each of the other John Brown schools, is pledged to develop wholesome Christian Americanism.

Weekly chapel services and sympathetic counseling of the individual cadet make a valuable contribution in each boy's training. On Sunday mornings resident cadets are taken to the churches of their faith. The academy's educational program covers pre-school through the ninth grade. Resident cadets' homelike needs are complete in every way. Transportation and lunch are furnished for day students.

Southern California Military Academy is located at 2065 Cherry Ave. and is affiliated with Brown School for Girls in Glendora and Brown Military Academy in San Diego.

COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL will begin its sixth year when it opens to 80 Long Beach boys and girls Sept. 6. Strictly a country school for city children, full advantage is taken of the great interest the pupils show in this unusual setting, where donkeys and chickens are included in the study plans and arithmetic lessons can involve the yield of strictly fresh eggs to 100 pounds of feed.

Though the school's pupils may find a consuming interest in their country friends, they are kept busily working on the old-fashioned three R's to the point where a failure in spelling could mean the loss of their turn at watering the donkeys or feeding the ducks. It didn't work that way in father's time but it seems just fine today, say school officials.

THE NAMES of foremost instructors of musical instruments will be found on the roster of Whittaker Music Co., 242 E. 3rd St. Students may rent or purchase musical instruments while learning to play. Terms favorable to the student may be arranged, according to Robert Whittaker.

HOBBY HORSE DAY SCHOOL, 1710 Redondo Ave., is a private kindergarten and nursery for children aged 2 to 6. It features a modern building built especially for nursery and school and is air-conditioned and fire-proof. The playground is spacious and well equipped. Kindergarten classes are given several interesting field trips each year, according to Ina Cunningham, director. Arts and handicrafts are taught. Modern equipment includes a wet sand table.

PROGRESS SCHOOL will begin its 22nd year this September, offering a complete course for the primary grades through high school. Emphasis is placed on teaching the fundamentals and development of good study habits. In addition, a special reading program is maintained. Tests are given. The individual's needs are analyzed so that special instruction can be offered to build foundations in the basic skills. Classes in typing start in the sixth grade and a basic commercial course is available in the high school. The curriculum also includes a general high school course and an extensive college preparatory program. Beginning with the primary grades, a speech program is offered for all ages. Special speech correction work is given where needed.

PALOS VERDES COLLEGE, widely known for the unique travel-study program in which its lower division students participate each year, has now successfully completed the trial period of its new upper division program in human relations and will expand the program this September.

In its lower division, the college offers liberal arts courses leading to the Associate in Arts or Associate in Fine Arts degree, in two years.

He's Having the Time of His Life

between Miss Liberte's profile and that of a certain Miss Marilyn Monroe has, he insists nothing to do with his preference.

Many antique clocks performed other functions than telling time. Some served as perpetual calendars while others contained astronomical works. Snow's 18th century French clock has a third hand which indicates the date up to 30 days. An ornate German table clock of the 16th century contains 10 dials, astronomical works showing the sunrise and sunset position, and the moon and planet locations at different times of the year.

JUST AS INTRIGUING are the clocks Snow has designed himself. There's the tickless clock; the backward clock with everything in reverse even the numerals are on the wrong side of the dial—and there's the castor oil clock, so called because it is actually castor oil that makes it work.

Snow's unusual 19th century watches include a two-dial number which prior to the adoption of standard time in 1883 enabled the traveler to tell at a glance both the time in his home town and at his place of destination. Another is the watch which was worn on the cuff of a nurse's uniform prior to the advent of the wrist watch. A timepiece which Snow has never seen duplicated is a six-dialed watch made at the beginning of Queen Victoria's reign. Watches of this type enabled sea captains who were sailing from Bombay, Shanghai, Calcutta, Hong Kong or Sydney to calculate the exact hour of the young sovereign's coronation according to London time.

THE VICTORIAN ERA also produced watches one-half inch in diameter which often adorned every buttonhole on many a Beau Brummel's waistcoat. It is doubtful however if any Beau Brummel could have worn more watches than Snow adorns himself with on occasion. For he can be found wearing a ring watch he designed himself, a belt buckle which took him hours to make, and watches in his lapel, on his tie clasp, his cuff links and even his cigarette lighter.

Snow was wearing all his paraphernalia recently when he and Mrs. Snow were presented to Vice President Nixon. The National Watch and Clock Collectors Assn. of which Charlie is a member was meeting in Washington, D. C., and they gave Mr. Nixon an alarm clock similar to the one Snow uses. They gifted Snow, too, with national recognition when they declared his museum to be the most outstanding on the west coast.

However, Snow has a competitor these days. One whose interest in clocks matches his own. But it's the kind of competition he welcomes. His 16-year-old son Stanley is already an expert in his Dad's business. To a man who loves time with the intensity of Charles Snow, nothing could be more rewarding.

esthetics, writing non-fiction, commercial aspects of creative writing, development of drama and the theater. Requirements for the degree include English, humanities, government, and a choice of language, science, psychology or sociology. The college welcomes inquiries or campus visitors, but suggests an advance appointment.

CLASSES for vocational nurse training will start Sept. 12 at Vocational Nurses School, 810 American Ave. Tuition is free, states Mrs. Carolyn Garland, school director. Affiliated with St. Mary's and Garland Medical Recovery Center for training, the school offers a one-year course which qualifies the student for the state license examination as vocational nurse.

Mrs. Garland, herself a registered nurse, states that the present demand for vocational nurses offers unlimited opportunity in this field.

RELAXATION as an aid to greater speed and accuracy in shorthand and typewriting is emphasized at Crain's Secretarial School, 532 Pine Ave. Stress is also placed on the development of personality, poise and business charm. Miss Crain's typewriting course includes instruction on the electric typewriter. Enrollments for fall are now being received.

A SPACIOUS new playground which permits many forms of outdoor activity has been added to Playmate Day School, 2650 Pacific Ave. Enrollments for the new fall term are now being received, according to Elbe Harris, director, who urges early enrollment. Kindergarten, first and second grades are taught. Kindergarten classes are held both morning and afternoon, with or without extended day care.

HUNTINGTON SCHOOL for Boys and Girls, 1416 E. Ocean Blvd., boasts one of the best small child playgrounds in Long Beach. A variety of devices are set in solid turf, adding to the enjoyment of the playground area. Parents may enroll their children for half-day care if desired.

The school enrolls children in kindergarten and first grade and strictly limits the enrollment to assure individual instruction for each of its 40 pupils. Mrs. Alice Watkins, for 26 years owner-operator of the city's largest private school, ended her retirement a year ago to assume direction of Huntington.

MORRIS MANOR SCHOOL was established about 20 years ago at 1130 Locust Ave., the same convenient location in use today. Parents have found the combination of good care, fine schooling under excellent teachers, a hot lunch daily, trained supervision until called for or delivered to their homes, is a service essential to the welfare of children ranging from kindergarten age through seventh grade. Ethel Morris, the founder, invites inspection of the school and says a brochure will be mailed on request.

THE MASTERS DEGREE course, instituted for the first time a year ago in the California College of Commerce, will open a new term in the evening school program Sept. 12. Two of the subjects in popular demand will be offered this term, one in statistical analysis and the other in advanced accounting principles and CPA coaching.

Three new instructors have also been added to the full-time staff, H. W. Smith and J. W. Flanders have taken posts in the accounting department, and Mrs. Lucille Hogue in the secretarial division. Registrations in the Masters degree course are rigidly screened and limited, with some seats still available. Early registration is urged.

Salads for Summer

By Mildred K. Flanary

Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CHANGING TIMES have seen a swing in favoritism toward salads among American males. Time was when salads were on the sissy side in the male view; now men are not only asking more and more for salads, but are doing a bit of salad tossing on their own.

This change holds cheer for home makers for it makes it much easier to plan attractive meals which please the whole family.

And salads are doubly attractive these warm, summery days.

When planning for more salads, though, be sure to choose the right salad for the right meal. If it's to be served as a vegetable, then a light salad will win approval. But when served as the feature dish of the meal, be sure the salad includes protein food. Diced cheese, sliced ham, cold beef, tuna, shrimp, crab, diced canned meat and salmon are the answers to your salad protein problem.

On the subject of salads, Dr. Dorothy (Mrs. Charles C.) Prince of 3721 Cerritos Ave., being an authority on salads, has sent along some easy-to-remember salad tips:

Combine or arrange salads just before serving for a fresh, crisp appearance.

Always chill canned fruits and drain them thoroughly before combining for salads. Drain on paper towels or in a sieve.

Arrange any salad on a chilled plate in an uncluttered manner, keeping it as simple as possible.

Watch for color texture, and flavor variety when combining salad ingredients.

Be sure to top a salad with the proper dressing.

For fruit salads, thin mayonnaise to any desired consistency with canned fruit syrup, or with sugar and half-and-half.

Mix cream cheese, blue cheese and salad dressing for a nippy topping.

Pineapple chunks right out of the can and still wet with syrup rolled in chopped nuts is an ideal topping. Roll balls of cream cheese in chopped nuts or coconut, too, for a topping.

Salad tips are offered today by Dr. Dorothy Prince, with special emphasis on a tasty fruit combination.

Dr. Prince's Manhattan Fruit Salad:

- 1/4 cup bottled lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 3 large oranges, peeled and cut into sections
- 2 bananas, peeled and sliced
- 1 avocado, peeled and cut into wedges
- 16 black grapes
- Salad greens
- Walnut halves

In a bowl, combine lemon juice and sugar. Add fruit; toss lightly and chill. Arrange chilled fruit on crisp salad greens. Sprinkle with walnut halves and serve with your favorite fruit salad dressing. Makes four servings.

Top fruit plates with a scoop of colorful sherbet.

Sprinkle paprika on cheese toppings; use pimiento strips with meats and vegetables; add sprigs of mint to fruit arrangements.

Garnish meat and vegetable salads with tomato wedges, radish roses, carrot curls and pickle fans.

A favorite salad with the Prince family is Manhattan fruit salad topped with celery seed fruit dressing. The salad recipe is featured today elsewhere on this page. The dressing recipe follows:

Celery Seed Fruit Dressing
Mix 1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon grated onion and 2 tablespoons vinegar. Add 1 cup salad oil slowly, beating constantly. Add 3 more tablespoons vinegar and 1 tablespoon celery seed. Continue beating until dressing is thick. Makes approximately 1 1/2 cups. A clove of garlic may be cut into small pieces and added if desired.

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"Is it cheapest to live in Mexico? Or is there a country in Europe that would cost less for a year or two?"

I THINK IF YOU got up country in Portugal or Spain or Austria, you could ease along on an average of $5 a day. I am not so sure you could do that in Mexico. More likely $10, but I am guessing this pretty wildly.

One advantage to a place like Austria is that you can eat in the least expensive places without keeling over with a strange bug. You'd have to eat in better places in Mexico. I wouldn't be too sure up country in Spain either. Portugal looks a little healthier.

The best way to handle these countries is to park yourself first in the large central town. Then let the tourist bureau work you out into the country from there.

I saw some charming Portuguese towns I could live in. More choice in Austria and least choice in Spain. But there are some good small towns in Mexico that are quite reasonable. You might take a look at Oaxaca, a day's drive south of Mexico City. I like this place.

"I hear one can retire in Tahiti in the South Seas for practically nothing..."

I JUST GOT the word on this from a man who lived there for some time. He says it's more expensive than the States. With prices based on 500 per cent duty on tobacco plus the shipping charges. So I guess we were both wrong. Because I thought so, too.

"I cannot find the article you wrote about a reasonably priced hotel in Hawaii..."

THE PRINCESS KAIULANI has just opened, a really beautiful hotel with just about everything you'd want. The rates start at $6 single and $7.50 double, European plan.

"About a trip abroad: How do you make boat reservations? How do you deal with the luggage?"

Do the whole thing through a travel agent and relax. They get their cut from the shipping line or the hotel or whatever service they book for you. This is so free that it would be a shame not to use it.

"Can you suggest anything for a two weeks vacation in Guatemala?"

SURE, YOU FLY this Pan American. A travel agent gets your ticket and spots you into a hotel, the Pan American is a good one. When you get to Guatemala City call up Arnold Hayter of the Hayter Travel Service. He'll book you safely out to Antigua and Chichicastenango and such. Antigua is worth a few days' stay.

Southland Magazine's roving correspondent will answer your questions on travel from his own experiences in making reservations, changing money, locating restaurants and battling foreign languages. Make the question specific. Write, don't phone. And don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. Massive Chimney Rock, feature of Utah's Escalante Land, rears 90-foot pinnacle skyward, dwarfing two onlookers.

In Utah's Escalante Land

IN THE 179 YEARS since the Declaration of Independence, one American frontier after another has tumbled before progress, but Utah's Escalante Land has remained virtually unchanged since its initial exploration in 1776.

While George Washington's Continental Army was fighting the British in New York state, Father Francisco Silvestre Veléz de Escalante of Spain was making the first exploration of Kane County, Utah. In the near two centuries that followed few retraced his steps other than a handful of hardy Mormon pioneers and a smattering of adventurers.

The most extensive exploration since Father Escalante's trip came in 1949, when Jack Breed headed a jeep-equipped party sponsored by the National Geographic Society and the Explorers Club of New York.

A paradoxical feature of Escalante Land is that its beginnings are clearly visible from Inspiration Point in Bryce Canyon National Park, a recreation area outstanding for its system of paved roads and well manicured trails.

Less than 25 miles from Bryce Lodge unfolds the first wild beauty of Escalante Land, a maze of deep red rock fins, towers and pinnacles framed against 1,000-foot white sandstone cliffs.

ORIGINALLY CALLED Thorley's Pasture by local residents, the color-conscious Breed expedition renamed the area Kodachrome Flat. On the first red rocks of the area are carved dates and the names of pioneers of the past century.

A few miles south of Kodachrome Flat, towering 90 feet above the floor of Dry Valley is massive Chimney Rock, left standing when an inland sea drained and carried away less resistant material. Farther on is an unique double arch of creamy rock.

Named Grosvenor Arch in honor of Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, it is 152 feet in height and has a span of 99 feet.

In this rugged and starkly beautiful land, unmarked by civilization with the exception of an occasional trail and a few disintegrating cabins, it is easy to understand why the Escalante expedition of 1776 proved nothing, conquered nothing, and left no lasting trace.

The Pool's a 'Built-In'

it seems as much a part of the plan as the living room!

Naturally, much thought went into the planning of the pool and the house. No "after-thought," the swimming pool was envisioned right from the start as a vital part of the dwelling itself.

There is no lawn whatsoever at the back of the house. Large potted plants as well as hanging-basket greenery add sufficient color and foliage to satisfy even the most enthusiastic horticulturist.

THE LIVING ROOM, rumpus room, guest room and den overlook the covered lanai and pool. The shimmering blue-green of the water seems magnified and reflected by the blue-green glow cast over the lanai, which is completely covered in colored corrugated plastic.

The effect from the living room — through gigantic plate glass doors — of heavy-blossomed plants growing in greenish shade is completely breath-taking.

Living room walls invite the cool turquoise into the house. Adding warmth and contrast in value are draperies and valance boxes of rich toast faille flecked with gold. Similarly warm in color is the rose-beige carpeting, nicely backgrounding the sofa and companion chair in deep green.

PALE YELLOW and light green predominate in the provincial kitchen. Natural birch cabinets have yellow plastic counters of the same sunny butter color used on the ceiling. Side-walls are enameled soft green.

Breakfasting is pleasant in the dinette, papered in a bright red, yellow and deep green farm scene. Double-hung cotton curtains in rich avocado green cotton pull across the window overlooking the front lawn. Natural birch valance boxes top the windows with interesting scalloped detail.

One of the features of Mrs. Davidson's kitchen — and a part of which she is most fond — is the very complete and functional pantry that is actually a room in itself. Set completely apart from the preparation area of the kitchen by a door, the pantry is like an oversized closet with everything within fingertip's reach.

A WORK counter in here is a wonderfully handy place for Mrs. Davidson to prepare and arrange salads and desserts for company dinners. Out of the way and out of sight, the tucked-away service counter is a real hostess-saver when a big menu and a big guest list is in the offing.

Adjoining the kitchen through the handsome and complete service area is the rumpus room, an area 18x24 feet dedicated to leisure and fun.

Redwood beams and ceiling, a scuff-proof plastic floor and birch wainscoting set the casual scene. A complete bar circled with tall and deeply upholstered stools and a flagstone barbecue unit make planned as well as impromptu party giving a pleasure.

Above the wainscoting, walls are papered in a foliage motif. A window wall of glass is centered with doors that open to the patio and to the pool. The entire expanse may be drawn with deep red pleated draperies.

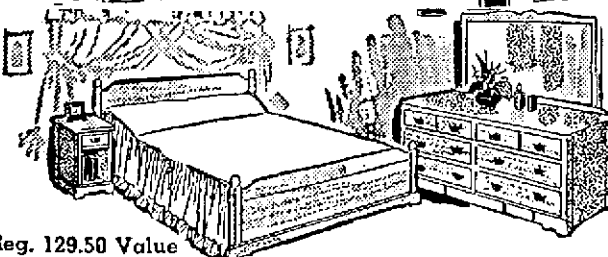

LOCATED OFF the rumpus room and thereby set quite apart from the main wing of the house is the guest bedroom and bath that open directly to the poolside. The guest accommodations were thus located so that both the Davidson

ANTIZYME... A TOOTH PASTE THAT ACTUALLY STRENGTHENS TEETH!

Only Antizyme Tooth Paste Brings You
TWO-WAY PROTECTION AGAINST TOOTH DECAY
SAFE FLUORIDE-LIKE ACTION Plus ANTI-ENZYME
(STRENGTHENS TEETH) (STOPS MAJOR CAUSE OF DECAY)

Fluoride-like action and anti-enzyme work hand-in-glove to fight tooth decay 12 to 24 hours

Never before has any tooth paste offered you this two-way protection against tooth decay 12 to 24 hours after each brushing—
1. Safe fluoride-like action to strengthen teeth against decay. 2. Anti-enzyme action to stop the major cause of tooth decay.

This has been proved in 9 out of every 10 cases tested.

Pure white Antizyme's fluoride-like ingredient absolutely safe

The fluoride-like ingredient in Antizyme is found in many common foods. It is safe for children of all ages and in areas where drinking water is already fluoridated.

Mrs. Wilma J. Bord
2128 Farragut, Chicago

"Not a single cavity in over 2 years"

Clinical Proof—Antizyme Stopped Tooth Decay

Large scale clinical tests in a leading university dental school showed significant reduction of tooth decay at the end of one year! ... People from all over the country report no new cavities at the end of one year, eighteen months, many for two years ... Here is one family—

"My children and I have been using Antizyme for more than two years. I haven't needed a single filling in all that time, and our dentist says that the children's teeth are now in excellent condition for the first time."

The GI program is estimated to have cost about $15 billions but statisticians have figured that by 1970 the men who took the training will have paid off the bill themselves. Already they are paying an extra billion dollars a year in income taxes, due to the higher level of their income!

Car Spotlight

Designated as a novel and handy approach to the problem of combining an easily installed spotlight and conveniently stored trouble lamp, Tel-A-Lite is a recent accessory development for motorists. The light is an exact duplicate of a telephone handset, made from the same molds, with 300-foot sealed beam light and reflector in the receiver end and a switch in the mouthpiece section. Heavy plastic is used, a retracting cord which stretches from retracted length of 18 inches to 10 feet on either side of the car gives mobility and a chrome bracket attaching to dashboard, instrument panel or radio grill offers handy stowage when not in use. Light may be used inside car, outside at either end of auto or as a spotlight to read house numbers, signs and for other night visual needs. Installation is simple.

The Rabbit Brothers

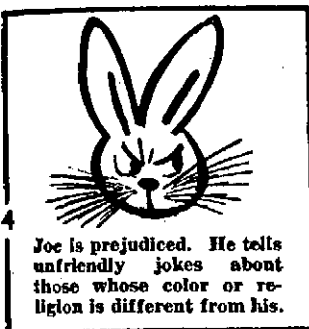

Joe and George are twin white rabbits in Rabbitville, U.S.A.

2 They read the same newspapers, the same magazines. They watch the same TV shows.

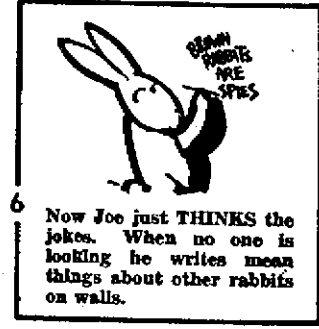

3 They are almost identical twins. But in some ways they are very different.

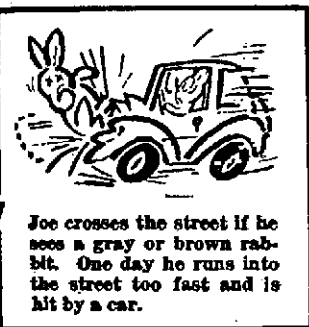

4 Joe is prejudiced. He tells unfriendly jokes about those whose color or religion is different from his.

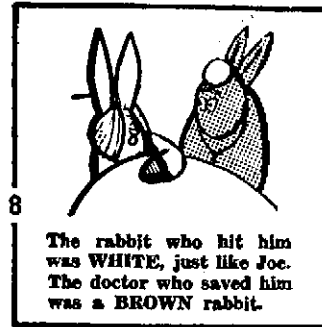

5 One day a nice rabbit hears Joe tell one of those stories. He punches Joe in the nose.

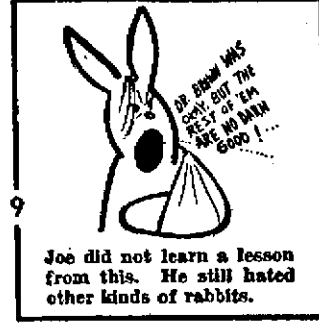

6 Now Joe just THINKS the jokes. When no one is looking he writes mean things about other rabbits on walls.

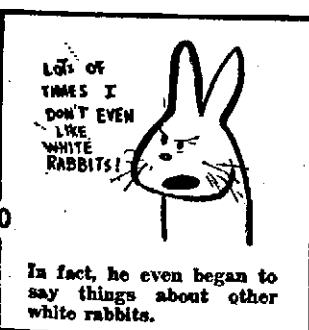

7 Joe crosses the street if he sees a gray or brown rabbit. One day he runs into the street too fast and is hit by a car.

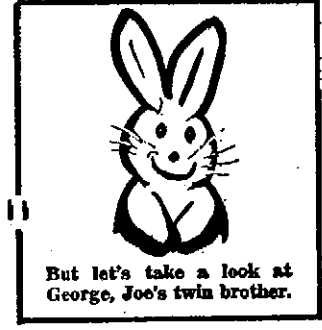

8 The rabbit who hit him was WHITE, just like Joe. The doctor who saved him was a BROWN rabbit.

9 Joe did not learn a lesson from this. He still hated other kinds of rabbits.

10 In fact, he even began to say things about other white rabbits.

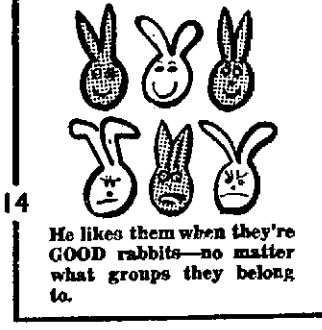

11 But let's take a look at George, Joe's twin brother.

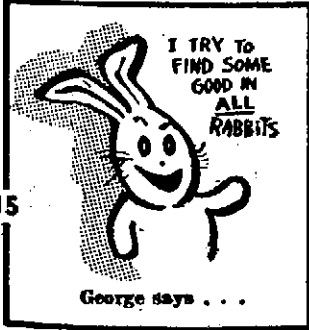

12 When George was growing up he had all kinds of rabbit friends.

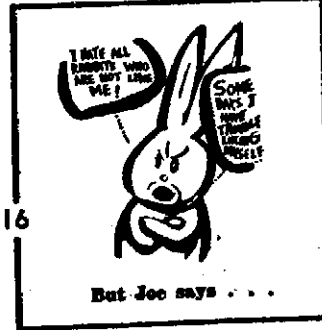

13 Friendly George tries to see some good in all rabbits. He learns a great deal, finds life interesting.

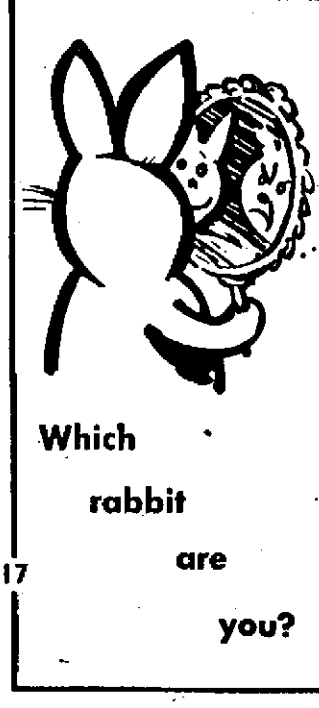

14 He likes them when they're GOOD rabbits—no matter what groups they belong to.

BOOK REVIEWS

Merchant in Bad Luck

By Fred Taylor Kraft
 Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

A SHADY LADY with a code of ethics, of whom her prosecutors say "morituri te salutamus" ("we who are about to die salute you"), is the heroine of "79 Park Avenue," a thoroughly fascinating new novel by Harold Robbins (Knopf, $3.50).

Contrary to the rule, most readers will find themselves sympathizing with this prostitute. For Maryann Flood, a good girl at heart — yearning for respectability and loyal to friends — is a merchant in bad luck. She's fully developed in her mid-teens, dividing her time between school and odd jobs. After her mother dies, she is raped by her stepfather, and is sent to a correctional home for attempting to kill him with a butcher knife.

Maryann's "career" begins when she gets her freedom, largely because of contacts she made in the home. She loses a chance to become the wife of a rich young man and, instead, is forced to become the mistress of a small-time gangster. Finally, she is blackmailed into becoming the "front" for a modeling agency that isn't.

The opening chapter finds her on trial with a boyhood sweetheart (who still loves her) as the DA's prosecutor. Succeeding chapters revert back to Maryann's life until they catch up with the next trial scene, and so on. The closing chapter, dynamically dramatic, reveals what finally happens to her. For there is anxiety on this point, even though she has long since convinced herself that she was born to be what she is, and has told the reader as much.

Robbins' "Never Love a Stranger" and "A Stone for Danny Fisher" were good, but this one is better.

SHORTER WORK HOURS: It is no longer a luxury for workers who have developed their creative talents to restrict their hours of work. In fact, it's a practical necessity if they are to do their best work. That's the theme of "How to Make Your Living in Four Hours a Day" (Harper, $2.50). Author William J. Reilly, Ph.D., of the National Institute of Straight Thinking, helps readers to better understand the operations of their own minds and he shows them how they can become sufficiently creative to drastically reduce work hours to advantage of both themselves and their boss.

SINNERS' FUN: "Laugh You Sinners" by Freddie Benham (Fell, $2.95) contains 217 pages of rollicking jokes with illustrations by Herb Hartig. The jokes are favorites of the "Circus Saints and Sinners," an organization which provides for old circus performers. The Saints are the retired performers, the Sinners anyone who has ever felt the urge to join a circus troupe. There are gags by such personalities as Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason, Jack Dempsey and California's Sen. William F. Knowland. —F.T.H.

LIN YUTANG is a noted philosopher and a novel of the future "Looking Beyond" (Prentice Hall, $4.95) is an experience for his old readers. The year is 2004 A.D. The characters are splendidly drawn. Eurydice, the heroine, is a most provocative young woman whose life on the imaginary island of Trainos is most enjoyable. Not that everything is easy—there are conflicts of social mannerisms—but if the theme of the book could be noted, it would be that of complete relaxation. This is a sparkling novel, one that is not easy to review. Read it for something wonderful.—G. L.

takes careful case work to place the right child in the right home, only 251 couples were able to adopt children through the agency during the past year.

ONE OUT of each four of the Home Society's children are members of a minority race or has a medical handicap that makes placement more difficult. Although over 85 per cent of the babies were born to unwed mothers, some have been given up by their own parents for economic or health reasons, or by order of the courts.

An important segment of the society's activity is the confidential service given the unwed mother, who may keep her baby or turn it over to the society as she wishes with the assurance that her baby's future home will be selected after months of exhaustive investigation.

Usual procedure for a couple wishing to adopt a child is to attend a group meeting where proceedings and requirements are explained.

AMONG THEIR requirements are a doctor's certificate that the parents are unable to have children of their own, although this does not mean that they must already be childless.

IT IS EMPHASIZED, always that not all applications can be accepted. For example, in the Protestant group there will be only one child available for every 20 applying and a wait of 11 to 13 months is usual.

Negro and Mexican couples or those willing to take a handicapped child find that they can have a baby within three or six months. Couples not accepted at the first may re-apply after six months.

Although most of the youngsters are under a year old, the society does place children for adoption until they are 12.

Licensed by the state to care and place children, the society boards the youngsters with selected foster parents who usually have children of their own at a cost of $50 to $60 a month and supplies their clothing from layettes made by volunteer women's sewing groups.

CASE WORKERS see the homes of prospective parents, have several consultations with both the man and his wife prior to the placement of the child and then assist them in the intervening months prior to the legal adoption proceedings in court.

The case worker assigned this area has been spending one or two days a week here. Under her supervision have been 18 youngsters in boarding homes. She has studied 23 couples prior to placement of children with them. She has provided services for 13 others awaiting legal adoption proceedings during the past year.

Funds from next fall's United Neighbors Community Chest campaign will be allocated this agency, as well as support given by the Sandlarks, local auxiliary devoted to augmenting the agency's funds.

Pool

vidsons and their visitors might enjoy complete privacy.

The patio and pool are visually invited into the heart of the house, integrated as they are into the U formed by the rumpus room and bedroom wings.

A pale pink cinderblock wall adds a warm element of color that contrasts with the abundant turquoise element instigated by the water, the plastic patio roofing and by the blue-green of the house's stucco walls.

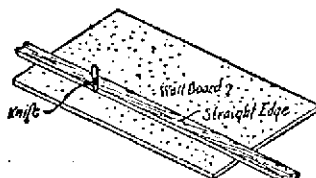

Giant tubs of heavy-blossomed deep pink hydrangeas nod in the background amidst smaller pots of fern and tropical greenery. The cement shoulder around the tear-drop contour pool extends to meet the house on three sides and the cinderblock fence at the back. Aside for the watering required by the potted plants, here is a maintenance-free yard.

THE MASTER bedroom, like the kitchen on the other side of the house, does not open to the pool. Instead, it enjoys a view of lawn and trees to the front.

The second bedroom, which Mr. Davidson utilizes as a den, has been fitted out like a very complete office. Along one wall a desk of natural birch with a wear-resistant plastic top has been installed. A second desk-drafting board, swivel leather-upholstered stools and adjustable overhead lighting make this birch-paneled room a pleasing solution to the problem of where the businessman can take his homework!

And, of course, when fatigue sets in, it is but a step out of doors to the inviting pool.

Tool Tips

Gypsum wallboard, widely used for walls and ceilings because of its economy in installation, can be neatly cut in this manner: Use a straight edge and score the board deeply with a sharp tool. Turn the board over and cut the other side in the same way. This will allow the board to snap apart and leave a clean edge on each side, says the American Builder.

By the Shutterbug

JERRY LEWIS, of the Martin and Lewis comedy team, is really crazy . . . about photography in general and home movies in particular.

Here are some serious thoughts from the zany comedian which he gave when asked what advice he'd pass along to photographers:

"All of us could do a much better job of preserving in motion, in color . . . yes, and in sound . . . the happy memories of today for the future. It is so important for us to make a record now of the people we love in characteristic action — the way they look, the things they say and do.

In less than 15 years, Jerry has come a long way from his first box camera and the 8-mm. movie camera which he bought on time because he didn't have money enough to buy it outright.

Today, 29 years old, he owns about every type of still camera on the market and has a fabulous amount invested in a complete 16-mm. sound-on-film system for his home productions.

In his Pacific Palisades home, Jerry has a photo studio with roll-away backgrounds and a complete darkroom setup for still and movie work. In addition, he has a cutting room, projection room and a library for the millions of feet of movies he has personally shot, edited, titled, scored and carefully catalogued.

A week end at Loch Sheldrake,

N. Y., gave veteran cameramen a pleasurable opportunity to observe at first hand the serious photo side of the madcap Lewis. Here, some 15 years ago when he first became interested in photography, he went to work as a bus boy in Brown's Hotel. Now he had returned as an international celebrity and more than 120 members of the press and film industry had gathered to preview the latest Martin and Lewis laugh-antics for Paramount's "You're Never Too Young." Because of his knowledge of photography, Jerry was co-director of the film.

Jerry proved to be a shutterbug's delight with all the amateur photographers present. He was stopped countless times to pose or hold a youngster and I didn't see anyone turned away. Once when he was caught in an area of deep shade, Jerry asked the fan what film and exposure he was using. It was slow film and just a snapshot camera, so Jerry cut a few capers and moved to a spot with better, more open lighting, then posed.

A PRINT COMPETITION featured the monthly meeting of Long Beach Professional Photographers Association held in Pacific Air Industries building. Prizes in portrait division: Elbert Dole, first; Simon Silverman, second; Edna Kinney, third; commercial division — Rudy Spika, first; H. A. Russell, second, and Lynn Hawkins, third. Judges were Tony Arntzen, Irene Feldt and Joseph Stimson.

PET PARADE

He's a Big Boy from Japan

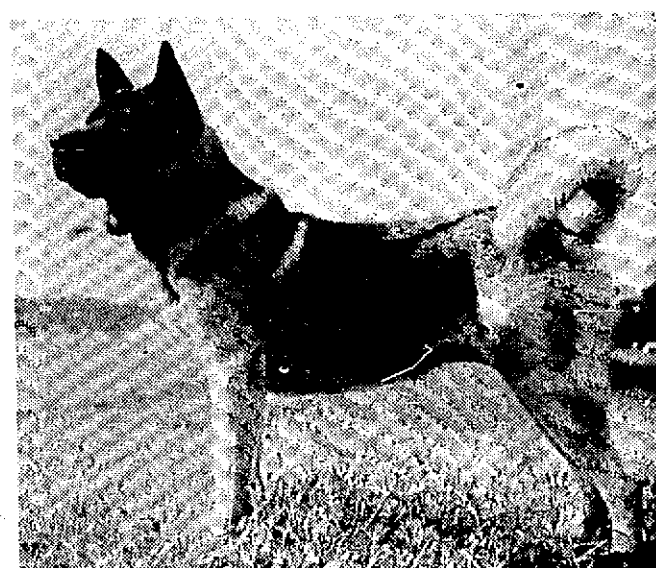

DOWN THROUGH the ages it has been the custom of the Orientals to place a high value on their dogs, often to the point of revering them in the imperial palaces and in the homes. Some dogs were eventually introduced to other countries, but the Japanese for centuries held back all of their big dogs and permitted only the smaller breeds to be released.

In the early 1920s, Japan finally released eight Akita Inu dogs to England, but apparently no special record was kept of them except that the British Kennel Club recognizes the breed under "Any Other Variety" in the official registration book.

The Akita lately has been appearing in the United States and been given an enthusiastic welcome. He is a big, powerful dog, a splendid swimmer with tough webbed feet, therefore able to work in water as well as on difficult terrain. In Japan he is classed as a working breed, but he is also good at some kinds of hunting and retrieving.

THIS DOG takes easily to obedience training. He was developed to hunt large boar and deer because of the lack of efficient firearms in Japan. He was and still is an important part of the Japanese religion, a symbol of good health.

The Akita has a gentle disposition, therefore he is good with children. And he is as beautiful as he is gentle. His waterproof coat is preferably silver-tipped dark gray, but brindle and cream is acceptable. The coat is his protection, for he can sleep buried in the snow, or he can tolerate hot, dry climates.

The Akita is the only large dog ever released for export from Japan. He is gentle, obedient and powerful.

By Eleanor Avery Price

In buying Akitas for export, only young dogs can be obtained and then only after much negotiation with the Japanese Veterinarian Association. The Akita Dog Association of America, 131 Wilton Pl., Los Angeles, has set its sights high, however, and hopes some day to have the breed accepted by the American Kennel Club.

To prevent a mixup of the breed, this association insists that all Akitas be protected with Identicode.

A GARDEN GROVE doctor and his wife have found respite from their duties in raising and showing cocker spaniel dogs and have brought fame to their kennels through their prize-winning dogs.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Erdahl, 10152 Chapman Ave., moved to this area after many years in Long Beach although the doctor still retains his office here.

While living in Lakewood, near Long Beach City College, the couple adopted the name Viking from the student body and all of their dogs now carry a first name of Viking. The couple also both are of Scandinavian descent.

Their most recent winner is Viking Wagaway, who was judged "Best in the Show" of the Maturity Cocker Show at the Mira Mar Hotel in Santa Monica.

Wagaway was born at the kennels and was bred from Ch. Viking Krulla in Ulla, also owned by the Erdahls. His sire is Ch. Elderwood Bangaway of Houston, Tex., holder of many national titles.

Waggy began winning when his handler, Norman Austin of Allison Park, Pa., took him to Kansas City, Mo., when he was less than 11 months old. He was judged "Best Puppy" from a field of 45 entries.

Viking Wagaway, shown by Dr. Henry Erdahl, is latest show dog raised by Dr. and Mrs. Erdahl to win prize.

HOW TO Dress Up Your Fireplace to Make It Room's Natural Center of Interest

YOUR FIREPLACE is a natural center of interest in your living room—so play it up! Give it plenty of eye appeal with striking accessories in a pleasing arrangement. These pointers will help: Choose decorative pieces that are personal, and decorative. Be sure they harmonize with the fireplace, fireplace wall, and the furnishings of the room.

Arrange your mantel accessories for a dramatic, inviting look. Don't be afraid to experiment with unusual accessories and arrangements—they can give your fireplace an individual touch that stamps it as yours.

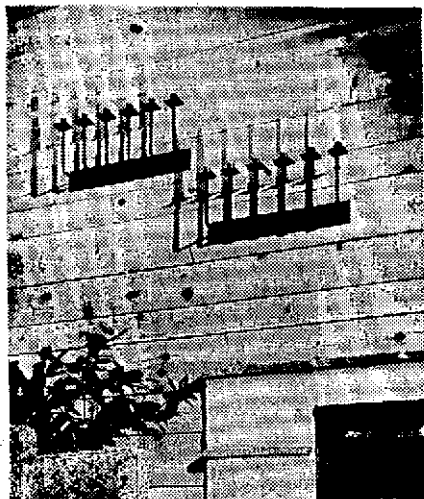

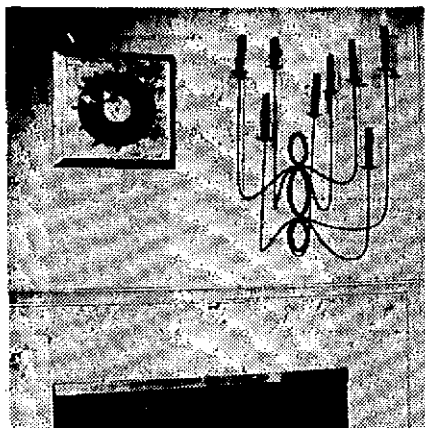

1. TO ACCENT a fireplace with an off-center opening, try an off-center arrangement like this. Ornamental plaques on right follow line of fireplace, balanced by the large pewter clock.

2. YOU'LL DISCOVER a symmetric mantel arrangement gives a quiet, restful feeling to a room. Center something large and interesting for drama. Add a pair of smaller accessories, placing one on either side to complete the arrangement. A large fireplace needs good-size decorations.

3. CHOOSE BOLD, simple-lined accessories to play up a fireplace wall in an informal room like this. Two black-metal sconces with white candles make a striking accent against the knotty-pine background. Staggered arrangement, repetition of rectangular shapes, dramatize the grouping.

4. CHOOSE UNUSUAL pieces to give your fireplace special impact. Two striking accessories, varied in size and shape, combine to make this simple but dramatic arrangement. The square, solid mass of the clock is balanced by the big, open curves of the iron candelabra.

For Those Borders

By Jack L. Mather

LOW GROWING ANNUAL plants are being used more and more prominently to outline walks and as border plants. The height of the background to be bordered in most cases decides the ultimate height of the border plant you choose.

The number of plants of border value today are many, so therefore let us consider at this time only. Alyssum, with heights of from two to eight inches gives a range that can fit into most gardens. Also of great value, although limited to one height, six to eight inches, is Ageratum.

Both of these plants demand sunshine, but not full day sun. If these plants receive from four to six hours of direct sun per day they will thrive.

Ageratum with its dense green foliage and complete head of blue can be used as a border for most of the tall plants such as Asters, Zinnias and Marigolds. To get the most show and a continuous border it is best to space these plants about six inches apart.

ALYSSUM has two dwarf forms, Royal Carpet, to two inches, and Carpet of Snow, to four inches. Alyssum can be used as a border for phlox, verbena, two modern alyssums are compact in growth with a solid mass of color.

The colors of the blue ageratum, and the purple and white of alyssum blend well into any garden arrangement and in most cases offer a color not found to any great degree in strains of the taller plants.

For a change from the usual

Preview of Plants

Six leading Southern California nurseries will hold a preview showing of the new plant material to be offered the public next year, at a meeting Aug. 11 at 8 p. m. of Southern California Horticultural Institute, in Fiesta Hall at Plummer Park, 7377 Santa Monica Blvd., Los Angeles.

Representatives from Armstrong Nurseries, Burkhard & Cole, Coolidge Gardens, Evans & Reeves, Germain's and Paul J. Howard's California Flowerland will display the newest in roses, camellias, annuals, perennials, flowering trees and many choice ornamentals. The public is invited and no admission will be charged.

Garden Tips

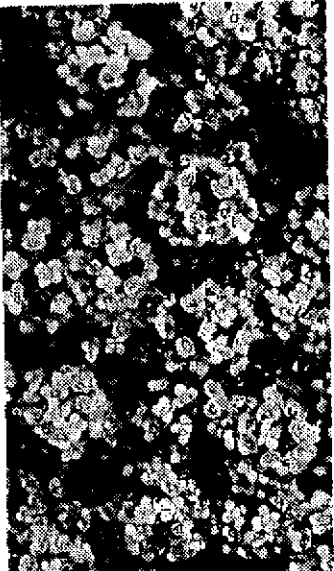

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . This is a good time to get after crab grass. New methods of combatting this pest have now been made available. Selective crab grass sprays kill crab grass but do not harm the lawn.

Fertilizing dahlias now will sustain their growth this summer. Keep the stems tied to stakes; unless properly supported dahlias may blow over during heavy winds.

If water fails to sink into your lawn areas it may be that the earth has become packed. Spiking the soil will allow for adequate moisture penetration. This is of the utmost importance during the summer season.

in a flower bed area try a planting of ageratum enclosed in a border of Carpet of Snow alyssum. The blue of the ageratum in this case will strongly accentuate the extreme white of the alyssum.

Garden shrubs can also be made more colorful during their summer bloom period by a planting of either of these border plants. By this use the usual blank area at the base of shrubs can be hidden and will show the tall plants to their best advantage.

Low-growing and prolific-blooming alyssum is good to border garden areas.

POWER LAWN MOWER

Here's a brand-new kind of power mower, for any kind of grass. Here's the easy answer to a smooth, clean lawn, with all edges and borders perfectly trimmed. Here are more features than you'll find in any other mower:

Safety Tiny concealed blades pivot out of the way when they strike a solid object.

Smooth wide cut This mower leaves no wheel marks. Cut is 20 inches wide.

Cuts any height Cuts tall grass and weeds to height you select, from 1/2 to 2 inches.

Trims over edges Cuts over edges without digging, cuts on either side right up to walls. Won't scalp the lawn.

Picks up or matches Vacuum action throws clippings into catcher. Or catcher can be removed for mulching.

Dwarf Phlox Loves Sun

By Walter Finch

DWARF PHLOX should be included in your planning of any garden area this summer. This low-growing — to eight inches, hardy annual appears to be happy under all garden conditions. Direct sun, however, is a must.

No soil seems to be too poor for this plant. It is true, however, that the richer the soil the brighter the bloom.

If viewed from directly above, phlox seems to be only one bloom. This is due to the blooming habit of the plant. Flowers come in clusters of 10 to 20 per stem with several stems in bloom at one time.

Alyssum, ageratum or lobelia planted in front of phlox makes a solid layer of bloom in a riot of color. The colors range from white through red, apricot, blue and violet. Phlox colors are harmonious in any garden.

A big brother to the dwarf variety, tall phlox, grows to 20 inches. Here we have the same general plant with taller growth habits.

On planning your garden, with these plants in mind, take advantage of the two heights offered. Space the dwarf variety from six inches to eight inches apart and the tall ones from eight to 12 inches.

One other thought to keep in mind is the fact that the blooms go well in flower arrangements. The uses of a flower of this type are many as the monotony of single blooms is eliminated.

This pleasing plant with its contented and inviting growth habits can do much for your yard and home. Some of its output in cheer and good feeling will help bolster morale during the warm summer days to come.

Plant phlox in direct sun and other garden factors seem of little difference.

South" (Doubleday, $3.75). Here is a southerner's description of such states as Mississippi, central Florida, Georgia and Arkansas, and beloved cities like Houston and Dallas and Mobile. Each chapter is loaded with folklore and anecdotes. James Street Jr. wrote the introduction.

FRANK O'ROURKE continues his masterful story-telling in the just-published first edition Dell pocket-book western, "The Big Fifty." It is an action-packed yarn of the last days of the buffalo hunters and their beloved rifles, the big 50s. The characterization of the villain, Jan Schmidt, is most unusual in that he is not all black; on occasion he will steal the sympathy of the reader away from the hero, True Benton. Other Dell first, edition pocket-books just out include John R. Humphreys' "The Dirty Shame" and Ian Gordon's "After Innocence." They sell for 25 cents each.—J. G.

ORIGINAL PAPERBACKS you'll like: "The Life of Davy Crockett," by Davy Crockett, to which is added the account of his death at the Alamo (Signet, $.35); "Hunger Mountain," a novel of violence in a small Oklahoma town, by William R. Scott (Dell, $.25).

News of Stamps

Two new stamps have been issued by North Borneo. The 4-cent purple shows hemp drying. The 15-c blue depicts a sailboat (prahu) at Sandakan. Each stamp bears a vignette portrait of Queen Elizabeth... from Belgium comes word of a new stamp for the 3rd Biennial Exhibition of Sculpture held at Antwerp. The 1.20 franc and 2 franc show "The Foolish Virgin" by Belgian Sculptor Rik Wouters... Argentina's "Aero commercial stamp" has been issued. It shows an aviator giving instructions to a student. In the background is a commercial plane in flight. The value is 1.50 pesos.

"I Stopped Smoking in 5 Days With BANTRON!"

Amazing New Formula Helps Break Smoking Habit in 5 Days Easily and Pleasantly!

"I would like to shout from the rooftops how wonderful Bantron is to help you stop smoking," says Jesse S. Tucker, retired railroad man.

In a series of dramatic tests scientists proved that in 83% (4 out of 5) of the cases, Bantron helped men and women to stop smoking in 5 days. Clinically proved, Bantron is safe, has no unpleasant after-effects and is not habit forming. Does not affect your taste.

Bantron was discovered in the research laboratories of a great American university. It comes in tablet form. You just take 1 tablet with water after each meal.

If Bantron Brand Smoking Deterrent Tablets do not help you stop or cut down smoking within 5 days, send us the empty box and we will refund your money. At all drug stores. 5 day supply $1.00.

ROBERT F. CROW
Let's Be Neat
THE MARKS of a talented restaurateur are those extra little touches that make his guests happy all through the meal.

Robert F. Crow, owner and host at Crow's restaurant, Willow at Magnolia Ave., fits niftily into this category for two splendid touches featured at his dining emporium:

1—Crow knows that even the most fastidious guest spills something occasionally. So he provides his barbecue ribs and chicken-eating guests with magnificent paper bibs which bear this legend: "Eat Neat at Crow's." There's no telling how many natty suits and pretty dresses have escaped stains and spots, thanks to this policy. Of course, local cleaning establishments don't think so much of it—but, then, you can't please everybody.

2—Crow also supplies his guests with slick little finger bowls in which they may rinse off pinkies goosed up with barbecue sauce and other dandy ingredients. In the several years that Crow has proffered these bowls, only a few persons have eaten from them (mistaking them for soup, no doubt)—which goes to prove that the dining out public is growing wiser all the time.

CROW'S features superb Cantonese cuisine, in addition to American dishes. Although our "Meet Your Host" caricaturist Dick Arnold cunningly presents Mr. Crow with slanted eyes and chopsticks, allow me to reveal that he isn't Chinese at all—but is, instead, a Yankee with 16 years in the local restaurant and liquor business.

However, his top chef is Chinese. And this chef is a wizard in the Cantonese food department. Especially popular are his Chinese Family Style Dinners ($1.75 a person), which include succulent spare ribs, chop suey, egg foo yong, Cantonese fried shrimp, rice and tea. Crow's Special Mandarin Dinner ($2.50) includes enough food for half of Formosa. In addition to all the foregoing items, it provides chow mein, sweet and sour ribs and an egg roll. —TEDD THOMEY

We 'follow the news'

A California family finds clues to adventure in its newspaper

by SARELLEN M. WUEST

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

About twice a week Dad (my husband Henry) will look up from his morning Union, a colored pencil poised in one hand, and ask, "How would you all like to see a house built of handmade brick over a century ago? It's just been doomed to make way for the new freeway."

Or, "Biggest cargo of newsprint ever to arrive from Denmark is going to be unloaded at Pier 6 today. Who'd like to watch the job done?" Or, "Rookie firemen are scheduled to make practice jumps at the training tower this afternoon. How about driving out there?"

Whatever the suggestion, our 8-year-old adopted sons, John and George, and Ma (that's me) are likely to be teetering on our chairs in anticipation of taking off on another "exploring-out-town" excursion.

What Dad is doing is carrying out our family plan of digging a hundred little adventures a year out of our daily paper. Having his own insurance business, he's in the fortunate position of being able to accompany us on most of these news-item trips, which have added up to a wonderful backlog of fascinating hours spent together and a fuller appreciation of our community and the people who live in it.

Of course, there are a few principles involved. We don't go where there's apt to be a big crowd. We don't pursue sheer entertainment, obvious promotion deals or exploitations. We don't visit any place that's likely to be dangerous, or where the morbid aspects may be out of proportion to the learning possibilities.

A Way to Stay Young

Why have we bothered to arrange such excursions? Well, about 10 years ago a childless 40-year-old couple (my husband and I) was told by local child-placement agencies that they took a dim view of middle-aged applications for newborn infants. They pointed out all the usual factors to show what a detriment "maturity" could be. When we finally obtained our sons through private adoption, sanctioned by State Welfare, we resolved to try to do as well by them as parents 20 years younger would have done. Taking an active interest in what's going on in the world around us was, we felt, one good way of staying youthful.

Since then we have read about — and then gone to see — such diverse things as a grafted fruit tree which sported three shades of pink (as well as white) blossoms, and a bus fleet of "wetbacks" being loaded up for return to Mexico.

We have watched truckloads of discarded refrigerators smashed on a municipal dump so they wouldn't be a hazard to kids playing hide-and-seek, and a fireboat getting a new coat of red paint while on emergency call in San Diego Bay.

We have gone to the beach at the harbor's entrance to spot for ourselves a reported school of whales. And last spring, while inspecting "unclaimed items" at a city auction sale, we had the unexpected pleasure of spotting — and retrieving — a prized express-wagon, with the boys' names on its sides, which had recently disappeared from in front of our house.

Not long ago, a big excavation project gouged out a side hill within a block of our home. Layers of shells no longer found on our coastline (hundreds of feet below us) were laid bare in decks as high as a six-story building. "Did it tell about this in the news, Mom?" asked John, scrubbing the silt off a fan-shaped scallop shell he'd just picked up. "Why," added George, "don't we put it in the paper about how the beach used to be way up on our hill? People would want to know about that."

To our way of thinking, the boys had a point. Reading a paper with an eye alerted for such news items suggests innumerable exciting things to see and do. All that's needed is curiosity and imagination. It's the best way we know to build wonderful days — and memories.

MOST FAMILIES have a formula for happiness — a special activity, a favorite place, a saying handed down through generations, an unusual philosophy of life. What is yours? PARADE will pay $100 for each story of a family used in Parade Families. They must be true accounts from your own experience, submitted in typewritten form along with a photograph of the family. Length: 300 to 750 words. Manuscripts and photographs cannot be acknowledged or returned. Send to Parade Families, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

MONEY MAN

• Today PARADE takes up something close to everyone's heart — money. Highly qualified to discuss it is New Yorker Sidney Margolius (r.), financial expert, author and lecturer. Drawing on intensive research and personal interviews, he has written six books and many articles on consumer problems, budgeting, taxes and such. His latest book, Your Guide to Financial Security, offers every family practical advice on managing and stretching its dollars. For more on this basic subject, see page 6.

Look your best in Linit-starched dresses.

LINIT works wonders with your washables

*That LINIT starch finish is different—never stiff, never streaky
... keeps all cottons in perfect shape*

Washing cottons gets them clean but you need Linit Starch to add the "finishing touch". Nothing else "deep starches" like Linit. It makes a starching solution that gets into (not onto) fabrics. This deep penetration makes Linit starched cottons easier to iron... with a finish that's just right, smooth and smart. Your cottons look as nice as the day you bought them! Try Linit and see.

It's easy to make Linit Starch... no cooking... no fuss. Simple directions are on the package.

For uniformly fine results there's just nothing like Linit Starch for all pretty and practical cottons.

MORSE CODE practice (on home-made senders) intrigues Eugene Baddaty (l.) and Phil Levine.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Sunny summer Sunday afternoons, neighbors of the big Jewish (non-sectarian) Chronic Disease Hospital here see a strangely moving sight. Troop 257 (14 members) and Cub Pack 257 (5 members) — two of the 450 troops and packs for handicapped youngsters belonging to the Boy Scouts of America — "march" from the hospital in wheelchairs or hobbling on braces.

At Camp Sakumow (two tents pitched on the hospital lawn) they salute the flag. Thereafter they roast marshmallows, practice knots and bone up for merit badges like normal Scouts from coast to coast. Toward sundown they "march" back inside the hospital, their heads full of woodland lore they can only hope someday to use.

ROLL CALL by Phil Levine's mother finds only two boys able to stand — and often some absent.

It's that DIAL feeling – you never worry about odor!

More than a feeling, it's a fact: with Dial Soap you never worry about perspiration odor. You see, normal perspiration has no odor until skin bacteria go to work on it. And ordinary soaps just can't get rid of bacteria effectively. But Dial Soap does. It removes up to 95% of these odor-causers, because Dial is the one leading soap with AT-7 (Hexachlorophene). There's nothing else as good for keeping odor away. Dial's AT-7 clings to your skin, so it protects you all day – and several days if need be. That's why folks who use Dial every day say they just don't feel as clean with any other soap. Dial stops odor before it starts.

Aren't you glad you use Dial Soap? (don't you wish everybody did!)

HOW TO MANAGE —AND STRETCH— YOUR DOLLARS

by SIDNEY MARGOLIUS

An expert shows you nine ways to bolster your income and build family security

IN TODAY'S UNCERTAIN world, people are strongly conscious of the need to try to build some kind of personal security. But much of this drive for personal security is unknowing, unplanned and chaotic. Anxious families buy thousands of polio insurance policies which insure them against a single dramatic illness while leaving them unprotected against a host of others. Millions invest their savings at 2 or 3 per cent, while borrowing money for mortgages, cars and others needs at 5, 12 and even 24 per cent.

To speak frankly, many people of moderate means simply do not have the necessary information to cope with the financial and legal problems they encounter in their search for security. Disabling illness and unemployment due to economic recessions are still the two most stubborn threats to personal security that are difficult for an individual or family to control by itself.

But a financially sophisticated family that develops all its resources is better able to protect itself against such external forces. In fact a family that spends and invests productively, and participates in community facilities which can increase its own security, helps keep factories running and men working, and contributes to the well-being of the whole community.

Recently I interviewed a man selected by his union as a "typical" wage earner because he earned exactly the U. S. average wage of about $70 a week, and had a typical family of two children.

Frances, his wife, told me that every Friday — pay day — John deposits $10 in the credit union at the factory. And on the following Wednesday, just as regularly, he has to draw it out to help pay the bills for the rest of the week. That $10 won't stick to his account more than a few days.

For one thing, he got into debt with a series of medical bills. Frances was pretty sick a while back, and only repeated doses of antibiotics pulled her through. The medicine cost $7 for each little box. A "typical" family's finances simply aren't built to stand that kind of assault.

Once in debt, John and Frances continue to pay a toll of interest which drains their funds so they can't get on a cash basis. They are paying for their furniture and refrigerator on the installment plan. They pay for their insurance that way, too: 25 or 50 cents a week or month on a lot of little policies.

To get out of the financial trap many people like Frances and John are in, even when they are steadily employed, you need both principles and practical information on how to handle your money and make it work for you. Based on the experience I have related, as well as many others, here is a set of nine tested principles which can help most families increase their security.

1 KNOW WHERE YOUR MONEY GOES.

The first and basic step in controlling your income so you can build financial security is to know where it is going. That means keeping a record of your spending. It is the first step in effective budgeting.

2 MAKE IT GO WHERE YOU WANT.

Your two tools for making your money achieve the things you want most out of life are a budget and a system of money control. Budgeting really consists of two parts: Budget or Spending Plan (conservative estimate of your income, a realistic estimate of how much you need for fixed expenses and necessities, allocation of the remainder to achieve your goals); Spending Record (proves whether the estimated budget is realistic, reveals whether you have been unwittingly spending more than you want to, and becomes almost an automatic control over money).

No standard budget can fit most families. The age of the children or the kind of work a man does makes a difference in food bills. It costs about 20 per cent more to buy food for a man who does hard physical work than for a white-collar worker. Also, standard budget percentages are sometimes made obsolete by shifts in prices. Food prices have gone up more than many other items in the past decade, and on an average command between 30-35 per cent of many family budgets. Other influencing factors: rent or the cost of your home.

Here is how you can plan your actual budget:

a) Know your expenses. Collect your household bills for the past year and try to figure out your average weekly expenses during that period for different categories — food, housing, utilities, clothing, household operation, medical expenses and so on. For items for which you have no bills, estimate your expenses as closely as you can or keep a preliminary record for a month.

b) Examine these expenses. Compare your weekly costs in each category.

c) Draw up your own tentative budget. On the basis of a conservative estimate of your monthly income, including both wages and interest earnings, you should be able to draw up a working budget. List your fixed expenses first — such as rent, utilities, carfare, cleaning supplies. Besides the usual items, your budget should provide for special family goals, such as vacation or children's education, reserves for replacement of household equipment and car, medical costs.

As to the Spending Record: this should be more detailed than the budget. Items should include personal care, recreation and advancement; personal allowance, transportation, car, savings. Use one simple notebook, with a page for each month for recording expenditures. Keep the record book in a specific, convenient place. Select a regular time for making entries, as after dinner when the family may be together.

3 GET ON A CASH BASIS.

Pay off all debts as soon as possible. A moderate-income family that habitually borrows and buys on time will rarely achieve financial security for these reasons: a) constant seepage of income — paying out anywhere from $50 to $250 a year in credit fees; b) the tendency to pay higher prices at stores that feature time payments; c) the tendency to overbuy.

Always use your own money first. But when you do need outside financing, here are policies for doing it at the least cost:

a) First make sure the item is necessary. If so, get information and comparative prices from other dealers, manufacturers and trade authorities before you sign an installment contract.

b) Compare the credit charge. You may be able to borrow cash or get installment credit from another store or bank for a smaller fee.

c) Borrow the least you need and pay it back as quickly as you can.

d) Avoid contracts with clauses that may make real trouble for you.

Many borrowers don't realize how much true interest they pay. It can save you money all your life to be aware that when the interest rate is figured on the full amount of your debt, but you repay monthly, the true interest rate is approximately twice the stated rate. That's because the lender calculates your interest cost on the original full amount, but when you repay monthly you owe on the average only half the original sum.

Here are various places you can borrow money or get a cash loan, listed in ascending order of cost: your life-insurance policy (true rate approx. 5%); a mortgage on your house (true rate approx. 4-6%); FHA Title I home-improvement loans (true rate 10%); credit unions (true rate 6-12%); regular banks (true rate 7-12%); industrial banks (true rate approx. 8-14%); stores (true rate approx. 6-24%); finance companies (true rate approx. 12-30%); small loan companies (true rate approx. 18-42%).

4 ACCUMULATE A CAPITAL FOR LIVING.

Once you budget your way out of debt, you can begin to accumulate savings. A capital for living can make money for a family just as a businessman's capital makes money for him.

The point is: make that capital an early and a major goal. Even $1,000 of capital for living accumulated early enough can provide the foundation.

5 INVEST IN YOURSELF FIRST.

For most families, the most profitable way to invest capital for living is in their own needs first. Many families have from $1,000 to $5,000 of capital. But it lies half idle, earning 2 or 3 per cent while the family pays 12 to 36 per cent to finance cars and household goods, 4 to 9 per cent to finance housing and repairs, and so on.

People seem afraid to use their own savings, even when profit is guaranteed and there is no risk, as in self-financing. Be your own banker and you'll make your money earn more.

Left in bonds or savings accounts, $1,000 of "living" capital would amount to only $1,300 in 10 years. But working full time, here are some of the things it can do:

It can save you $125-$150 a year if used as a revolving fund to finance purchases of your own cars and household goods. You have additional opportunities for saving 8 to 25 per cent by prepaying insurance bills, anticipating your needs for clothing and household goods at sales, and buying fuel ahead of the season. Reinvesting those savings by prepaying your mortgage, or in other comparatively secure investment, your growing capital can again earn 4 to 6 per cent. You too can invest in real estate as many investors do — in your own house.

In many cases, in 10 years $1,000 of capital for living can thus grow to $3,000-$4,000 — a good backlog against unemployment and illness. And even though in your later years there are not as many opportunities for large earnings through self-investment, there are enough so that for many people the $3,000 can more than double.

A representative modest budget for a typical retired couple living in a medium-sized city — which would maintain decency and basic care if not many extra comforts — would cost, at early 1955 prices, about $200. In planning your retirement fund, the earlier you start the less you need to save. A man aged 45 starts buying a $37.50 Government bond a month. At 65 he will have a retirement fund of $12,000. Another man waits until 55 but buys a $75 bond a month. At 65 he will have $10,000. Both will have invested the same $9,000 but the early starter accumulates 20 per cent more money.

6 MAKE YOUR MONEY MAKE MORE MONEY.

By investing knowingly and early, even conservative investments will double your money in about 15 years. The foundation of your investment program is savings accounts and savings bonds.

Most thoughtful investment advisors feel that in addition to its budget reserves for health care and depreciation, a family ought to have at least six months' to a year's living expenses in readily available savings, such as banks and par-value savings bonds, before it considers other types of investment.

Here are brief evaluations of different savings accounts and institutions:

Mutual savings banks. Interest averages 2.6 per cent.

Commercial banks. Average interest: about 1.15 per cent.

Credit unions. Many pay 3 per cent on deposits.

Savings and loan associations. Interest rate of 3 per cent is fairly common and some pay 3½ and even 4.

Postal savings. You get 2 per cent interest (in Mississippi, 1 per cent).

Government savings bonds. Series E bonds return 3 per cent if you hold them the full 10 years.

7 PLAN YOUR INSURANCE TO REALLY PROTECT YOU.

Your life insurance needs to be integrated with your investments, for your investments are also part of your family protection. Your insurance program also needs to be based on an estimate of your family's needs for additional income to supplement its potential social security benefits and your own future need for retirement income.

8 USE COMMUNITY FACILITIES THAT CAN HELP PROTECT YOU.

There are scores of government and community rights and services that can help protect a family in time of crisis — from nursing care for infants to retirement payments for elderly people. Among typical services are:

Community Chest or United Fund.

Catholic Charities, Jewish Family Service, Salvation Army Family Service.

National Homemaker Service of the Division of Social Services, Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington 25, D.C.

Social Security Retirement Benefits (Consult your local Social Security office).

U. S. Children's Bureau, Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington 25, D.C.

9 BUILD YOUR EARNING POWER.

Since potential unemployment is the hardest threat to safeguard against, you need to build your resources there too, just as you build savings. Here your safeguards are increased working skills.

Among the best sources of information on employment prospects are the booklets published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Labor Dept., Washington 25, D.C. Also consult the Occupational Handbook and Job Guide for Young Workers.

Keep in mind that work competence is only one phase of job security. Along with developing skill it is a fundamental part of any job to be aware of the importance of getting along with others, and thus create mutual respect and cooperation.

By following these nine tested principles, you can make your dollars go farther — and build a secure future for yourself and your family. ■

DOLLAR DO'S AND DON'TS

DO pay off your debts as soon as possible.

DO beware of "Christmas" accounts, which pay no interest, sometimes even charge "fines."

DO base your budget on net income — what you actually take home after withholdings for taxes and social security.

DO shop for low-cost food alternatives (canned vegetables, margarine, skim milk powder, etc.).

DO save money by collecting supermarket ads near the end of the week, then planning a week's menus in advance on the specials.

DO invest "sweat equity" — your own labor — by maintaining and improving your own property.

DON'T fall into the costly trap of having somebody else budget for you.

DON'T let your money lie idle. Be your own banker and make secure investments.

DON'T obligate yourself for luxuries before necessities are paid for.

Safety 'Test Tube'

Evansville, Indiana is showing how a city can make its streets safe

by SID ROSS

EVANSVILLE, IND.

When a parade of 300 white-belted schoolboys wound through the streets here recently, the occasion was almost a civic celebration. For the second straight year, the city had been cited by the National Safety Council for having the nation's best school traffic safety education program among cities of 100,000 to 200,000 population. To Evansville, this was a real victory in a seven-year, community-wide campaign to make its streets safe.

Recognition of its safety, patrol also indicated that the city might be winning the war as well as the battle. In 1948, a group of 12 safety organizations wanted a spot to try out the recommendations of the President's Highway Safety Conference. They settled on Evansville, which has a reputation as the typical American city (advertising men often use it to test new campaigns, politicians to send up trial balloons), as a "test tube."

That summer the safety campaign began with a bang. The city adopted a 10-point program calling for a whole new approach to traffic and traffic safety—a study of traffic flow and parking needs, rewriting of traffic laws, improving the records system, cracking down on violations and shaking up the traffic court, protecting pedestrians and, above all, making everyone in Evansville safety-conscious.

For a while things went swimmingly. Traffic deaths, at a high of 24 in 1947, fell steadily, even though more and more cars jammed the streets. In 1948 and 1949, Evansville was first in Indiana in traffic safety; in 1950, it was second in the state, sixth in its population group in the nation.

Then the good work began to slip. In 1951, traffic deaths climbed to 16; in 1952, to 18; in 1953, to 20. The National Safety Council stung the city with its annual report, which declared that Evansville had shown "very little improvement" and rated it 25th in its group for 1953.

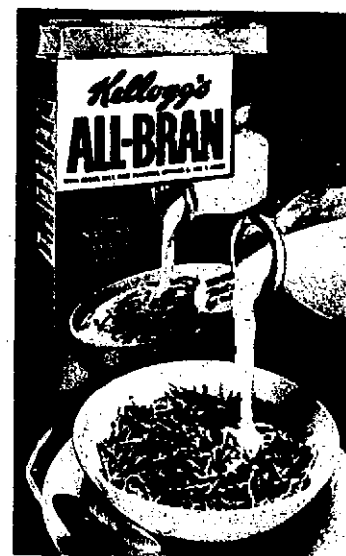

But when the Council's report for 1954 is issued this fall, Evansville expects to be near the top again. The poor showing in 1953 inspired a redoubled effort in 1954; and the crackdown paid off: deaths fell from 20 to 11, accidents from 3,394 to 2,331. (The 1955 dividends are even bigger: only three were killed in this year's first five months, compared to five in a similar period of 1954.)

The 1954 program outdid all the previous six years of work. City Traffic Engineer Paul W. Rice (the man who originated the increasingly popular "Yield Right of Way" sign) blueprinted a series

PATROL PARADE includes motorcycle and mounted escort, antique autos, city officials. After parade, school patrolmen get merit scrolls, then a free outing at local amusement park.

SAFETY CHECK starts with license inspection (above). Other patrolmen will check brakes, lights, wipers, tires.

TRAFFIC ENGINEER Paul Rice inspects new expressway which will reduce congestion, cut accidents in Evansville.

School kids show their elders how to run a safety program of overpasses to eliminate traffic bottlenecks. The city began installation of new, radio-controlled traffic lights. The Retail Merchants Association started a survey of downtown traffic and parking conditions.

City police, sharply criticized in the 1953 report, got tough. They arrested twice as many violators as in 1953, got twice as many convictions. They drafted a new ordinance allowing School Safety Patrolmen to testify in court, like policemen. They instituted radar speed checks. ("It's getting tough to find speeders in Evansville," Lt. John Reutter, head of the Traffic Division, says.) Cars equipped with loudspeakers were stationed at strategic corners to warn pedestrians against jaywalking and crossing against the lights.

The backbone of the police crackdown, however, has been the "courtesy inspection" or "safety check lane" program. Not a new idea, it has proved itself a remarkable accident preventive in Evansville. Last year, police ran checks for a full three months, found 4,198 violations in 9,397 cars checked. The inspections cost the driver nothing, but violations must be corrected within five days.

A "check lane" is set up simply by driving to a previously arranged spot (drivers get no advance warning), marking the lane with yellow cones and flagging down every passing car. The first member of the checking team passes on registrations and license plates. Then the driver is told to "drive up to that next policeman," who suddenly flashes a card reading "STOP." (Sometimes this test is too effective. One woman carrying a vase of flowers in the back seat of her auto jumped the brakes so suddenly that she was doused with water and strewn with blossoms.) After this brake test, inspectors check lights, windshield wipers, exhaust, glass, steering and tires.

Far from evading the check lanes, Lieutenant Reutter finds, many drivers go out of their way to look for them. There has been some protest about the times and places chosen. Once, on "Dollar Day," police flagged down a flock of shopping-bent housewives, who wailed that they were missing out on the bargains. Again, an early-morning check flushed a number of wives who had been driving their husbands to work and were, as Reutter puts it, "wearing just any old thing" — and often not too much of that.

All 1954's concentration of effort was aimed at bringing safety work with adults up to the level of work with — and for — children. The Junior Chamber of Commerce felt that youngsters were protecting themselves pretty well, but still were being endangered by negligent adults. Accordingly, the Jaycees launched a "Watch Out for Kids" campaign, and gave it the full treatment. The Jaycees sell "Watch Out for Kids" rubber stamps for $1 each. Their "safety wagon" tours the city and broadcasts safety talks. Last month, a "Watch Out for Kids" radio-TV show carried the message into thousands of homes; an upcoming contest will award prizes for the most "Watch Out for Kids" clippings collected from the local newspaper.

Evansville remains proudest of the way its children have set the pace in the safety campaign. Known as the birthplace of the schoolboy patrol (in 1921), Evansville gives its school patrolmen a solid grounding in traffic regulations, first aid, civic responsibility. The police safety instructor, Lt. C. B. (Chuck) Hoover, persuaded local businessmen to contribute uniforms — overseas cap, shoulder patch, raincoat and boots for rainy weather, parka for winter. Each of the 38 schools has two platoons of patrolmen. Senior Patrolmen (eighth-graders) stand guard four times a day, four days a week; Juniors take over on the fifth day.

Safety, "Dragnet" Style

Hoover also aims to reach the rest of the student body with the gospel of safety. One gimmick has been a monthly slogan contest for fifth-graders and up, with cash prizes and public acclaim as the reward. (Sample winner: "Looking for a permanent rest? Signal east, then turn west!") And recently the safety patrolmen of Daniel Wertz grade school put on a television show a la Dragnet, written by one of the boys and underplayed by junior Joe Fridays. To a dum-da-dum-dum accompaniment, the hero and his partner tracked down a particularly bad case of "careless jaywalking." The show was such a hit that it later went "on the road" to various school auditoriums.

With the youngsters showing the way, Evansville now feels that it's licking the overall problem of traffic safety. "We sort of slipped the last few years," says Harry Thompson, executive secretary of the Mayor's Traffic Safety Commission. "But now we're clicking again. We've lived up to six points of the model package program. We'll keep working until we're okay on all 10."

HIS "ROYAL HIGHNESS" PAINTS A DISH

parade of progress

by PETER DRYDEN

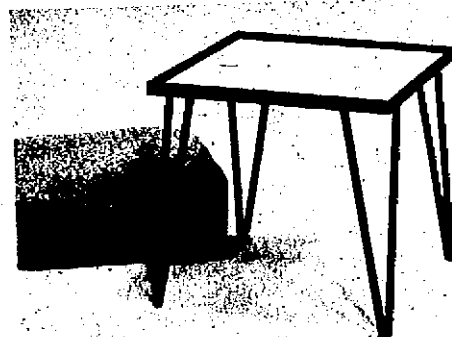

Want to make daily living easier, more pleasant?
Try these new ideas suggested by U. S. industry

PERSONALIZE IT: If you'd like to monogram your car, bicycle, purse, wallet or luggage, you can get your initials in black enamel on 1/8"-high brass with a gold finish. Just press in place with finger tip and the letters adhere instantly. Set of 2 or 3: $1. LEECRAFT, Dept. PDN, 300 Albany Ave., Brooklyn 13, N. Y.

NO SLAP, NO BITE: A new tablet, just becoming available, is still in time for mosquito-ridden days ahead. Developed by a doctor, it's said to make you unattractive to mosquitoes. Dissolve one in your mouth and for 12 to 36 hours mosquitoes may light on you -- but they don't bite. Tablet is odorless, tasteless, said to be harmless even to children. 80 for 98c. KENTROL CORP., 10 E. Coulter, Philadelphia 44, Pa.

MODERNIZE YOUR SINK: Here's an inexpensive way to modernize an apron-front sink and get new storage space, too. It's an adjustable wood under-sink enclosure with sliding doors; easy to assemble and install yourself, it turns an old sink into a modern cabinet. Comes sanded, ready for varnish or enamel to match your kitchen. Adjusts in height and depth as well as width. To fit 36" and 42" sinks: $21.95. Larger sizes, slightly more. ACCURATE KITCHEN CABINETS, 156 17th St., Brooklyn 15, N. Y.

TWO-WAY HASSECK: Remove the cushion and it's a snack table with stainproof, plastic-coated masonite top. Sturdily constructed of wrought iron, it stands 19" high; its washable black-and-white plastic cushion has a "nubby" upholstery-fabric texture. $7.98. AROTEX, 124 W. 30th St., New York 1, N. Y.

Teen-age Questions

Q. If you and a boy like each other very much and another boy asks you out on a date, should you accept or will you hurt your boy friend's feelings? — A. H., Linden, N. J.

A. I cannot approve of steady dating at an early age. If a girl is seen steadily in the company of one boy, others might not attempt to ask her for a date. Thus she would not allow herself the time and experience necessary to form her taste.

Q. I am 16 and have a boy friend whom I see quite often. My parents feel that I should limit my dates to skating, tennis, swimming or the ice-cream parlor. I agree but an occasional movie date would be nice. What do you think? — B. S., Augusta, Ga.

A. Your parents have probably seen teen-aged couples snuggled together in the back of the theater, oblivious to what is happening on the screen. Perhaps you could discuss this matter with them frankly and say that you would not be party to that kind of public behavior. You might suggest that another couple of whom your parents approve go along with you, on the theory that there is "safety in numbers."

Q. I would like to know if it's proper to have a boy in while I am baby-sitting. — P. J., Mercer, Pa.

A. When you are baby-sitting you are on a serious job. You should not be permitted to have a boy visit you at such a time. His presence might divert your attention from your job — and the situation would not be safe for you from the standpoint of possible gossip.

FRANCES

the feathered panhandler

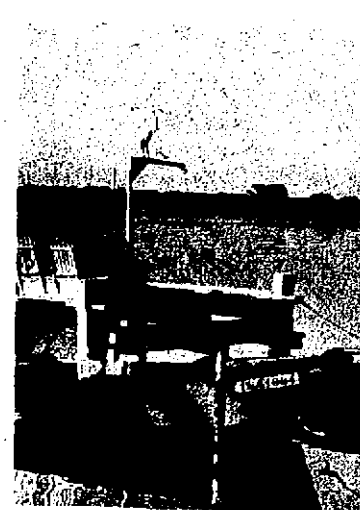

Rare egret makes rounds of Florida homes

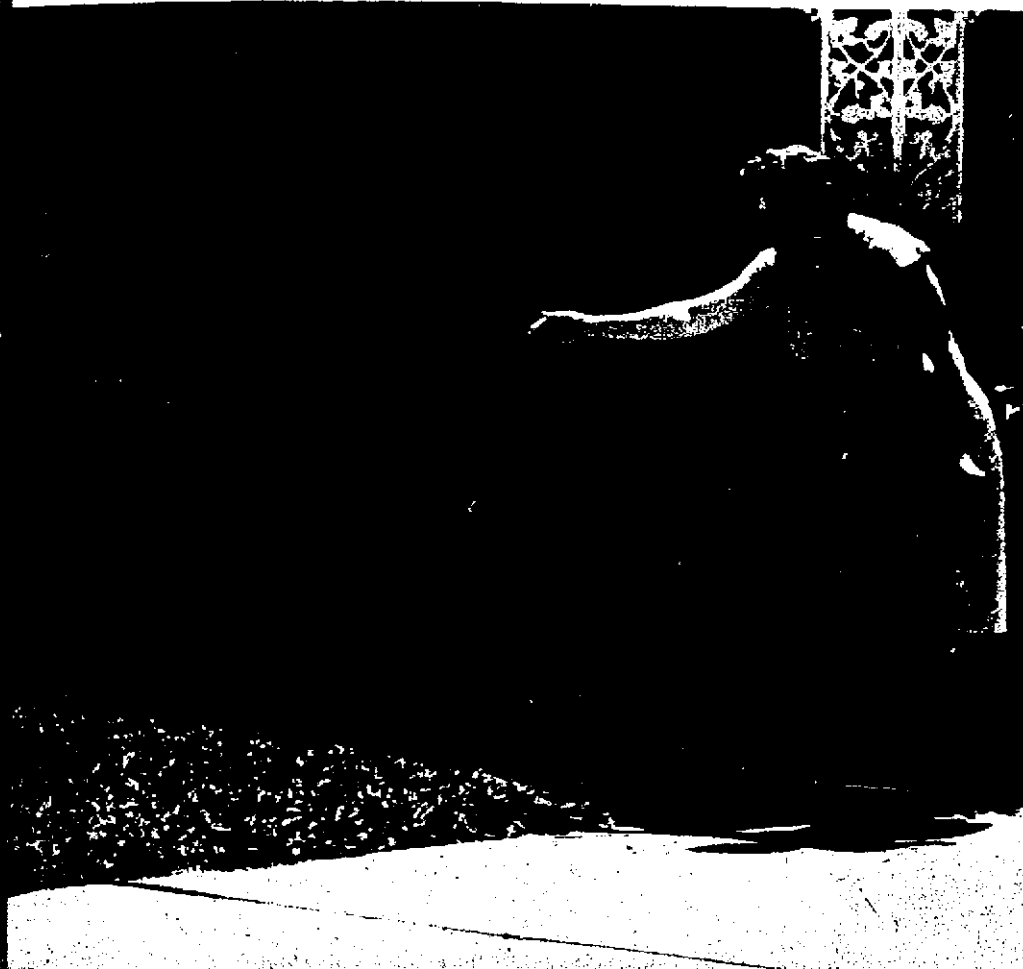

Head up and beak "on target," Frances the egret approaches Mrs. George CALLING: When Frances appears on one of her regular visits, Mrs. Amsden "entertains" her in the television room.

VIGIL: Frances also frequents the dock, hunting a meal of small fish.

Amsden of Lewis Island for a handout. The snowy bird is partial to roast beef, shrimps.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

The No. 1 citizen of tiny Lewis Island, in Big Bayou here, is a magnificent snow-white egret named Frances.

This rare bird is the special pet of summer dwellers along Sunset Drive, whom Frances visits regularly, morning and evening. Like a dignified matron, she stalks imperiously up to the door, waits to be admitted and then cadges a handout.

Frances and her spouse, Bill, were flushed out of their retreat on the previously untouched part of the island about six months ago by bulldozers. Apparently deprived of their food supply, the birds began panhandling along Sunset Drive.

Photographer Sam Shere, who took these pictures, swears Frances is camera-conscious. One evening she landed on the roof of his cottage and Mrs. Shere coaxed her down with raw hamburger. Next morning Frances showed up for breakfast.

Although Frances is a regular visitor, Bill rarely shows up. The Sunset Drive people figure he prefers to let his wife make the family's social contacts. ■ home. Going from house to house, Frances will call at kitchen door if there is no answer at front.

Never Really Sick...
Never Really Well...

THE GRAY SICKNESS*

Never sick enough to stay in bed yet never really well. The GRAY SICKNESS keeps millions pale, tired and weak... never able to enjoy life to the full!

*IRON deficiency anemia has been aptly called the GRAY SICKNESS. Not only because its victims have lost their once healthy color, but also because life itself has become gray and drab for them. For you simply can't enjoy work or play when you have to drag through day after weary day feeling tired, weak and listless. And sleep doesn't seem to refresh you for you wake up tired.

The GRAY SICKNESS means your blood isn't getting enough iron. It becomes weak, thin, washed-out... just can't supply your body with the full supply of oxygen it needs for buoyant health and radiant color. Signs of the GRAY SICKNESS may be due to other causes so you should see your doctor regularly.

REBUILD STRENGTH FAST

Fortunately the GRAY SICKNESS responds quickly to proper treatment... and normal healthy color, strength and vigor return. In cases like this doctors usually prescribe an iron tonic containing many times your daily iron requirement. Each therapeutic dose, 6 tablets daily, of IRONIZED YEAST, contains 10 times your daily iron need... and this iron is fortified with vitamin B. Now this iron goes right to work... within 24 hours... to start building rich red blood... the kind of blood that soon brings back your normal strength and energy... fills you with your old-time pep... brings healthy color back to your cheeks again.

FEEL STRONGER IN 7 DAYS

Actually in just one week you'll start to feel your old self. You'll begin to enjoy doing a normal day's work again. So get IRONIZED YEAST tablets today. They are very economical to use even when taken in maximum dosage of 6 tablets daily. Just be sure you get genuine IRONIZED YEAST.

Everybody's favorite fried chicken—crisp on the outside, juicy and flavorful inside—when prepared by this new Mazola® method.

“No solid shortening can match Mazola Oil
for frying...here's why I want you to try it.”

says ARTHUR GODFREY

Foods taste better because you fry right...at the correct high temperature with no smoking...
and “KEEP CALORIES DOWN”.

A RTHUR GODFREY's right! With Mazola you fry food at a higher temperature than ordinary fats allow. And with no smoking or burning!

Food can't get fat-soaked. The quick-crusting action of Mazola oil gives food a golden brown crust fast—seals flavor and juices in, keeps “extra” calories in the pan.

All your Mazola fried foods taste better...look better, and are truly digestible, too.

This low-calorie Mazola method works for chicken, fish, French fried potatoes—all your favorite fried foods. So take Arthur's advice: Get Mazola Oil today!

For pan-frying and deep-frying always pre-heat Mazola to 375°F. before food is added. To test temperature, use a frying thermometer...or 1-inch square of day-old bread which turns golden brown in 15 seconds when pan-frying, in 30-40 seconds when deep-frying.

Arthur says: “No store-bought dressing can possibly have the fresh flavor, downright goodness of your own homemade dressing...so easy with golden Mazola Oil!”

Have you tried the new, easy Mazola No-Roll Pie Crust? Make, shape, bake right in the pie pan. No rolling. Recipe on label. Makes a wonderfully rich, tender pie crust.

TROPICAL CREAM MOLD

Here's a warm-weather dessert with delightful new flavor

by Beth Merriman, FOOD EDITOR

Have you discovered the flavor-appeal of dairy-made chocolate-flavored milk? Not just as a beverage, but as a recipe ingredient, too? If there is someone in your family who is not fond of milk "as is," you may find that a bottle or carton of chocolate-flavored milk in the refrigerator will prove tempting as a between-meals or bedtime snack. We used it in this delicious dessert, where its flavor blends beautifully with the mellow flavor of bananas. For the main course, how about grilled chopped steak, corn-on-the-cob, green beans and a tossed tomato salad?

TROPICAL CREAM MOLD

2 tablespoons	1/4 cup sugar
unflavored gelatin	1/2 cup mashed ripe bananas
2 1/2 cups chocolate milk	1 cup whipping cream
3 eggs, separated

Soften gelatin in 1/4 cup chocolate milk. Beat egg yolks; combine with remaining chocolate milk; beat well. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Add gelatin; stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Meanwhile, beat egg whites stiff; gradually add sugar, beating constantly, until very stiff. Fold egg whites and bananas into gelatin mixture. Whip cream; fold in. Turn into 6-cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold; garnish with fresh mint and banana slices, if desired. Makes eight servings.

KITCHEN HINT:

"Chocolate milk" indicates a beverage made with whole milk; "chocolate drink," one made with milk of lower fat content.

BARBARA STANWYCK:

SHE'S INDESTRUCTIBLE

HOLLYWOOD. A few weeks ago screen star Barbara Stanwyck tripped on a clothes hanger and fell down two flights of service stairs in her Holmby Hills mansion. Shortly her physician announced she might have suffered a possible fracture of the spine or hip. But most members of the film colony refused to accept that.

"It's impossible!" cracked one RKO press agent. "Stanny is scheduled to start Love's Lovely Counterfeit here in three weeks. Don't worry. She'll see to it that she's okay."

As it turned out, the actress suffered only painful bruises in the sacroiliac region and was able to make a fairly rapid recovery. In doing so she continued to perpetuate Hollywood's long-standing legend concerning Barbara Stanwyck: she is indestructible and her beauty is eternal.

At 48, after 25 hectic Hollywood years and 77 motion pictures, Barbara occupies a special niche in the hearts of the movie-makers. They love her for her courage, her Irish flame, her earthy frankness, her good heart, her businesslike promptness and her total lack of female venom.

Says Douglas Sirk, who recently directed her in There's Always Tomorrow: "The kind of cooperation Stanny gives a director is incredible. She's the first one on the set. She's never been late. She knows everyone's lines. It's just hard to believe that after all these years a big star like her can generate such fresh and overwhelming enthusiasm."

Adds director Bill Wellman: "Stanwyck is one in a million. Where else are you going to find an actress who refuses to dye her gray hair? What other actress do you know, young or old, who insists on doing her own stunts?"

Practically all movie queens lie about their age, but not Barbara. "I've never been afraid," she says, "to tell anyone that I was born on July 16, 1907. And I'm not afraid now."

"I've never quite understood why most women want to be young forever. Youth is such a fleeting thing. Instead of trying to hold back the years, it's far better in my book to live each day as it comes, to give as little thought as possible to how old you are, to concentrate on making yourself a better person."

"I feel genuinely sorry for women who try so desperately to hold on to their 20s or 30s. Frankly, I'm glad to be out of mine."

PERFECTION INDUSTRIES, INC.
CLEVELAND 4, OHIO

"One of the most important aids for anyone who wants to stay really young is to keep busy. A busy woman just doesn't have time enough to wrap up her entire life in what she sees in a mirror. This mirror business can be murder. You become so determined to look young that you tense up, you start to worry. And worrying about age only adds more wrinkles."

"I love to work. When I'm not working I'm miserable. I've had people tell me I was crazy making more than one or two pictures a year. 'That's no way to enjoy stardom,' they say. But they don't realize that idleness helps make the calendar an enemy. I love picture-making. I love being on the go."

"And somehow I can't seem to get worked up about age or clothes or how I look. Maybe that's the real secret of youth. Serenity. I think serenity does more for a woman than anything else."

Just how serene Barbara Stanwyck is at this point in her eventful life, no one really knows. She has never been one to unburden her soul. An intimate of hers says, "She is serene in that she is calm, tranquil and reconciled to the status quo. But you must not equate serenity with happiness. After all, Missy has no husband and to be husbandless in Hollywood is almost a major tragedy."

Barbara Stanwyck has not always been husbandless. In her adulthood she has known two. Unfortunately both were actors: Frank Fay, a militant drinker out of vaudeville, and Robert Taylor, a too-handsome thespian out of Nebraska.

She was 20 when she first met Frank Fay. And she had had it rough. Born in Brooklyn and christened Ruby Stevens, she was orphaned at 2 when her mother died and, shortly, her father deserted his five children. Ruby was "boarded out" to various families, eventually went to live with an elder sister who worked as a chorus girl.

"In the environment in which I grew up," she recalls, "kids existed on the brink of domestic or financial disaster. We were alert, precocious and savage. I endured this world by developing a bitter hatred of it. I tried to escape by retreating to a dream world of my own."

When Ruby was 12, she quit school and went to work for the telephone company.

A few weeks later she was fired for arguing with an irate subscriber. She next landed a job in a publisher's pattern department, only to be let out for giving faulty instructions to a customer. From that point on she decided on a career in show business.

Borrowing her sister's dress and high-heeled shoes, rouging her face and painting her lips, Ruby Stevens at 14 began to make the rounds of the casting offices. For the next few years she shuffled from one chorus line to another, paying the high tuition necessary for admission to Broadway's University of Experience. With two other chorines, Mae Clarke and Wanda Mansfield, she lived in a dreary, cold-water, walk-up room. When money was short, the girls ate on credit at Billy La Hiff's Tavern on 48th Street.

One night producer Willard Mack came into the Tavern for dinner. La Hiff quickly walked up with Ruby Stevens, made introductions. Upshot: Mack gave Ruby an acting part in his play, The Noose.

A Name Is Born

When the play opened in New York, he also gave her a new name. "Ruby Stevens," he told her, "is no name for a star." His eye fell on a wall poster that read "Jane Stanwyck in Barbara Fritchie." That did it.

The Noose ran for eleven months on Broadway, and Barbara Stanwyck became a star. She then was signed by Arthur Hopkins for the role of Bonny Johnson in Burlesque. This play has been repeated on screen and television half a dozen times. It's the story of a drinking vaudevillian whose wife, a chorus girl, stays at his side through every bitter, disillusioning experience.

For Barbara Stanwyck, the play was a preview of her marriage to Frank Fay.

Barbara gave this marriage everything she had. She abandoned Broadway and came to Hollywood with Fay because he had a studio contract. While Fay, one of the wittiest men alive, sparkled at Hollywood parties, Barbara sat on the sidelines, the dutiful wife.

Then, with her husband's blessing, Barbara entered the movie game. Her second picture, Ladies of Leisure, made her a Hollywood name for keeps.

Meanwhile Fay's star began to wane. Frustrated, he became difficult to live with. Barbara suggested a stage show. Fay was billed as the lead. Barbara was also in the show. It was quite bad, but Barbara kept it going by paying the cast out of her $3,000-a-week movie salary.

Nothing helped — not even Dion Anthony, the son the Fays had adopted in 1932. Fay continued to drink and Barbara continued to become more famous. In 1935 she filed for divorce.

For her second husband Barbara chose an actor four years younger than she. This marriage endured for more than a decade. Then Taylor, on location in Rome for Quo

RELAXING on the set of her latest film, There's Always Tomorrow, Barbara treads a few measures with co-star Fred MacMurray.

Vadis, happened to make the acquaintance of an Italian starlet named Lia de Leo. To the casual observer, this appeared to create a triangle with Taylor and de Leo on one side.

Actually, their friendship had little to do with the 1952 divorce of Bob and Barbara. Friends attribute this breakup to basic differences. Stanwyck is an indoors girl who reads at least one book every two days; Taylor is an outdoors man who loves fishing and hunting. He has his own plane, was a Naval flight instructor during the war; Stanwyck hates to fly. Taylor has never coveted work, is still embarrassed at being a screen star. Unless she is working, Barbara is unhappy.

Work, constant, challenging work is probably the greatest love in Barbara Stanwyck's life. It is the source of her strength, the balm for her marital mishaps, the fountainhead of her beauty. When asked, for example, when she intends to retire, she comes up with one stock answer: "They'll have to carry me off feet first."

Until they do, Hollywood will continue to rank Barbara Stanwyck as its kindest, frankest, most lovable, most durable movie queen. At 48 she is convinced that the best and most fruitful years of her career lie ahead.

SOME SIDELIGHTS ON STANWYCK

• Because her trim (5' 5", 115 lbs.) figure measures 33-25-33, Barbara often is asked her diet secret. She has never dieted in her life. She is, however, a raw-meat eater and never touches carbohydrates. Her idea of a good meal: raw beef and champagne.

• Barbara's films include such hits as Stella Dallas, Double Indemnity and Sorry, Wrong Number; currently she gets $150,000 per picture; she has been nominated four times for an Academy Award—but has never won an Oscar. Her reaction: "They may have to wheel me up, but sooner or later I'll get one!"

• Although she refuses flatly to discuss her charities, Barbara is one of the most open-handed actresses in Hollywood history. Example: Each Christmas she reserves a dozen tables for indigent actors at the famous Brown Derby restaurant, picks up the check for all the food and drinks they can stow away.

• Barbara is a lifelong Republican. On a wall of her home, alongside paintings by Maurice Utrillo and Paul Clemens, hangs an autographed photograph of President Eisenhower.

LAST CALL FOR LUGGAGE, TWINS! IN TEN MINUTES THIS CAR LEAVES FOR LONE PINE RANCH AND IN FIVE MINUTES THIS TRUNK CLOSSES FOR GOOD!

CLOSES?? YOU'LL BE LUCKY IF YA CAN BRING THE LID DOWN A FOOT AFTER YA LOAD THE TWINS' JUNK!

WE ELIMINATED AS MUCH AS WE COULD LIKE YOU SAID, DADDY!

YOU LOOK LIKE YOU'VE PACKED FOR THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST!

NEXT DAY

NOW AREN'T YOU ALL GLAD YOU PAINTED THE HOUSE TO SAVE MONEY FOR THIS TRIP?

YUP, BUT GEE, DAD, YOU COULDA DONE IT YOURSELF IN THE TIME IT TOOK YA TO CLEAN UP THE MESS THE TWINS MADE!

JAN GOT SO MUCH PAINT ON THE WINDOWS EVEN THE WINDOW CLEANER REFUSED TO TOUCH THEM!

WE'LL HAVE THE ONLY WHITE EVER-GREENS IN TOWN FOR YEARS TO COME!

LOOK, JIM! THAT LOOKS LIKE THE RANCH AHEAD!

GEENY, THIS DOESN'T LOOK LIKE A RANCH AT ALL, DAD!

GREAT SCOTT! IT MUST HAVE CHANGED HANDS SINCE TOM WAS HERE FOUR YEARS AGO!

WELCOME TO LONE PINE RANCH, SIR?

PSST! JIM, WHAT'S WRONG? AREN'T WE GOING IN?

DADDY, DON'T JUST SIT THERE LOOKING IN YOUR WALLET!

I'M SO EMBARRASSED! PEOPLE ARE STARING!

I HAVEN'T GOT THE KIND OF MONEY FOR... HMM...

WELL, WE'VE GOT TO DECIDE TO DO SOMETHING, JIM!

THAT'S EASY! WE'VE GOT TO GO IN NOW, MOM!

THE BELLHOPS ALREADY HAVE OUR BAGS!

ULP! WELL, HERE WE GO... UNTIL OUR MONEY RUNS OUT!

PHOOEY! I'M NOT GOING OUT IN THIS STORM JUST BECAUSE BO DECIDES TO STAY ON SOME STRANGER'S PORCH! THE RAIN WON'T HURT HIM!

IT WAS AWFULLY NICE OF THEM TO CALL US. WHAT'LL THEY THINK IF WE DON'T COME AFTER HIM?

I'LL GO, MOM!

THE MUTT'S GONE NOW! CALL UP HIS OWNERS AND TELL 'EM NOT TO COME-- I DON'T WANT TO BE BOTHERED WITH 'EM!

THEY JUST PHONED-- BO HAS LEFT THEIR HOUSE-- IF YOU RUN, YOU CAN CATCH JUNIOR BEFORE HE GETS THERE.

!!! ALL THIS TROUBLE FOR THE SAKE OF MAKING A NICE IMPRESSION ON STRANGERS!

YES, THIS IS MRS. GREEN-- OH-- OUR DOG IS BACK ON YOUR PORCH AGAIN-- WE'LL BE RIGHT OVER. I'M SO SORRY YOU'VE BEEN BOTHERED!

GO BACK-- THE PEOPLE JUST PHONED THAT BO RETURNED TO THEIR HOUSE-- I'LL GO WITH YOU.

NO! YOUR MUTT HAS LEFT AGAIN-- AND THE SOONER YOU DO LIKewise AND STOP PESTERING US, THE BETTER I'LL LIKE IT!!

SUCH NICE PEOPLE-- WHAT WILL THEY THINK OF US-- WELL NOW WE KNOW!!

THE time is now! Lance is washing up . . . two soldiers are berry-picking, another grazes the animals, Sergeant Blaze and his corporal are off swimming . . .

Only one man stands watch over the Indian girl. Billy Goodblood moves swiftly.

When the sentry rouses, they are gone. He staggers to the river. "Lieutenant!" he gasps. "Goodblood...the girl...took her!"

A mile from camp, the guide permits Lance to take off his gun. Then he takes off the gun and leaves it behind.

Goodblood has not made his first trip out to follow.
